

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Eightieth Annual Report

The American Baptist Home Mission Society

Convened in Des Moines, Ia.
May 22, 24, 25, 1912

Published by The American Baptist Home Mission Society
23 East Twenty-sixth Street, New York City

GENERAL FACTS ABOUT THE SOCIETY

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST HOME MISSION SOCIETY was organized in New York City, April 27, 1832, by a large and representative body of Baptists. The Society's general offices have been in New York City continuously. The present address is 23 East 25th Street.

¶ The object of the Society is, "To promote the preaching of the Gospel in North America." Its work is prosecuted in nearly every State and Territory of the United States, also in the Western Provinces of Canada, in Mexico, Cuba and Porto Rico.

¶ In 1832 a small beginning was made in Church Edifice work and April 1876 a loan fund was secured to help mission churches secure houses of worship. In 1881 the Church Edifice Gift Fund was established and more than 2,000 churches have been aided thereby. Contributions for this purpose are greatly needed.

¶ In 1862 the Society took the initial steps in its missionary and educational work for the Freedmen. The proportions to which this has grown are indicated in the Annual Report. Its supreme aim is the development of Christian character and the raising up of competent consecrated leaders, as ministers, teachers and home makers for the ten million Negroes in our land.

¶ The work in Mexico was begun in 1870; in Porto Rico and Cuba in 1899.

THE EIGHTIETH ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
BOARD OF MANAGERS
OF THE
American Baptist Home Mission Society

THE Eightieth annual report of the Board of Managers of The American Baptist Home Mission Society, herewith submitted, briefly gives the facts about the operations of the year and general conditions under which its work has been prosecuted. Many informing details are given in the appended reports of its field workers. The careful perusal of these must leave a profound impression of the magnitude and many-sidedness of our uncompleted home mission tasks. New questions, new problems, new combinations of forces, new adjustments are continually claiming attention of the Board and the other administrative officers of the Society. In addition to the regular meetings, numerous conferences between its representatives and those of other organizations have been held, of which not even any mention can be made in this report. Most of these conferences have been in the interest of increased unity and efficiency in the work of the Kingdom.

The Society's Early Work in Iowa

At this first meeting of the Society in Iowa, it seems fitting to refer to its early missionary operations in the State. The first appointments were as follows: Rev. Alexander Evans to Des Moines County in 1837, and to Burlington in 1838; Rev. Calvin Greenleaf to Davenport in 1839; Rev. Hezekiah Johnson as general missionary in 1840 until about four years later, when he went as a missionary on his long overland journey to Oregon. By 1850 an aggregate of 114 appointments had been made to Iowa. Among the principal points occupied in that period were Bloomington, Burlington, Davenport, Des Moines, Dubuque, Farmington, Iowa City, Keokuk, Marion, Muscatine, Oskaloosa.

The rural population received attention from missionaries who had out-stations and in some instances whose fields embraced from one to three counties. They traveled in the most primitive way, inasmuch as during this period and indeed until after 1850 there was no railway in the State. They endured privations as good soldiers of the Lord Jesus Christ. Johnson, with a wife and six children, wrote that he would need $300 salary and a little more if he had to rent a house. In Burlington, he had difficulty in finding a house in which to hold services. He wrote: "When I came to this country I did not wish to build upon another's man's foundation. I preached plainly on the support of the ministry: it produced some uneasiness among the brethren but no open hostility." Among many anti-mission people he advocated missions. Evans wrote: "We have all the withering heresies peculiar to the West, but the cause of benevolence is onward and these heresies are losing ground. Should the Society withdraw its aid from us it would at once prostrate our hopes and dash from our lips the cup of blessings in this new country."

In the first fifty years of the Society's work in Iowa, about two hundred and fifty distinct fields were occupied, besides scores of minor points as mission out-stations.

The Iowa Baptist State Convention, which was organized in 1842, attempted no independent work until 1845, and for many years thereafter did but little because of inadequate resources. In 1879 the Convention entered into co-operation with the Home Mission Society, this relationship continuing most pleasantly until 1901, when the Convention assumed self-support. For much of the time since then, however, the Society has aided in the support of some missionaries among the foreign populations and in recent years also of a State Evangelist. The Baptists of Iowa, appreciative of the generous aid of the Society, have taken an honorable position along with those of the older States in their offerings for home missions. From one of the mission fields in the State came Rev. John E. Clough, D.D., renowned for his remarkable work as a foreign missionary.

Home Mission Week

As a result of the organization of the Home Missions Council, representing twenty-six organizations, and the Council of Women for Home Missions, it has been decided to engage in a joint campaign in the interests of home missions from September 1 to December 1, 1912, culminating in the general observance of Home Mission Week, November 17-24, when "all over the country, in every church of every denomination, home missions should have the absolute right of way, with a view to arousing our entire Christian population to the national enterprise, old in its main outlines, new and difficult in its modern problems." It is earnestly hoped that all our Baptist churches will heartily respond to this appeal for special consideration of matters of vital importance to our own country and through its instrumentalities, to the whole world.

Transfers by the Free Baptist Conference

The General Conference Board of Free Baptists, at a meeting in Ocean Park, Maine, July 15, 1911, formally notified the appropriate officers of the Northern Baptist Convention and the three general co-operating societies of "the readiness of its Executive Committee to confer with them and make transfers and conveyances of the assets and work of the General Conference, as authorized by the General Conference and the Conference Board"; and suggesting a meeting between representatives of all these bodies in Boston, August 22, 1911, for the consideration of questions pertaining thereto. Accordingly, on that date the meeting was held, and after lengthy and most fraternal discussion of the many questions involved, conclusions were reached satisfactory to all concerned. The following statements were unanimously adopted:

"1. That the Home and Foreign Mission work of the Free Baptists, when taken over by the American Baptist Home Mission Society and the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, shall be put upon an equal footing with their other work, to be continued and developed as integral parts thereof in accordance with the general principles governing these organizations in their administrative affairs.

"2. That specific trusts shall be scrupulously regarded and administered according to the conditions thereof; and that the societies which are the recipients of the funds transferred shall assume, in such manner as may hereafter be determined, certain minor obligations of the General Conference of Free Baptists, such as payments to annuitants, incidental expenses of the General Conference until the termination of its corporate existence.

The Home and the Foreign Mission Society have formally engaged to hold and administer the funds they shall receive for the purposes indicated.

"3. In the transfer of properties it appeared that the major portion thereof goes to the American Baptist Home Mission Society and to the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society; that inasmuch as the General Conference of Free Baptists have never undertaken work corresponding to the missionary work of the American Baptist Publication Society, nor have any permanent funds for these purposes, the latter Society does not participate in these transfers; and that the Northern Baptist Convention itself has only a possible contingent interest in certain specific funds for education and ministerial relief; the General Conference deeming it advisable for the present to retain these small sums until a decision shall be reached concerning their ultimate disposition.

"4. It is understood that under the terms of this merger of missionary funds and work, the Free Baptist churches shall recognize the claims upon their beneficence of the missionary work of the American Baptist Publication Society, the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society and the American Baptist Home Mission Society, becoming a part of one constituency for all these organizations and accepting annual budget apportionments for their work; while on the other hand these societies shall seek to promote the missionary interest in Free Baptist churches and to cultivate the spirit of Christian fellowship as one body in Christ."

Formal transfer of assets was effected at Boston, October 5, 1911, at a gathering of representatives of Baptists and Free Baptists from several States, accompanied by appropriate addresses from representatives of the several organizations. It was properly regarded as an historic occasion.

The American Baptist Home Mission Society has received from the General Conference of Free Baptists the following sums: For Permanent Trust Fund, $46,913.31; Annuity Funds, $2,500; Church Edifice Loan Fund, $14,291.74; Designated Funds, $419.53; for general purposes, $945.44, making a total of $65,070.02. About $15,000 more are temporarily retained by the Conference Board for satisfactory reasons.

At a further conference in New York City, September 21, 1911, between representatives of the several bodies, the appointment of Rev. A. W. Anthony, D.D., as "Special Joint Secretary" of the three societies was recommended for the purpose of relating the Free Baptist churches more definitely to the societies and to serve in such other capacities as may appear necessary during the period of readjustment. This recommendation was adopted by the boards and Dr. Anthony entered upon his duties.

It is gratifying to report that already Free Baptist churches are making their offerings to the Society, over $2,000 having been received from them in the four months since the consummation of the union. It is expected that these churches will soon welcome their share of the general apportionment of the Society.

Joint Secretaryships

This Society and the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society have now six District Secretaries as their joint representatives. The sixth secretary, Rev. J. Y. Aitchison, D.D., of Chicago, began work in this capacity September 1, 1911. It is expected that other districts will be included in this arrangement ere long.

Joint State Agencies

The Nebraska plan for a single collecting agency for the three general societies, for the State Convention and for Grand Island College has worked well during the year, though the net financial results to this Society have been about the same as in previous years. Overtures have been made by the Wisconsin State Convention for a somewhat similar arrangement in that State, but it has been deemed advisable to defer further action in this direction until the Nebraska plan has been more fully tested. It is doubtful whether much expense would be saved thereby as compared with the expense of joint secretaryships. Even were the single collecting agencies for States to become general, there would still be needed special representatives of the societies as reinforcements for missionary conferences and other public occasions.

Laymen's Missionary Movement.

The Society appreciates highly the splendid work which has been conducted by Secretary Stackhouse. Many thousands of men have been reached in groups in various parts of the country, and the campaign has extended from New England to California. In some of the States the work was so organized that every church was directly or indirectly reached. The clearness with which the Secretary presents the cause, and his direct appeal, immediately win the confidence of all his hearers. The effort is to stimulate an every-member canvass in all churches for the entire missionary budget of the denomination, and in many localities this has been carried forward with striking results.

It is believed that in the last year, which was one of such intense political unrest and financial hesitation, the receipts of the Society would have fallen measurably had not the missionary interest been stimulated by our efficient layman-secretary.

Concerning Committee on Nominations

At the meeting of the Board, April 8, 1912, it was "VOTED, That the Board of Managers of The American Baptist Home Mission Society recommend to the Society at its session in Des Moines, in May, 1912, the following action, viz.:

"That the Society direct the chair at this annual meeting, and hereafter, unless otherwise ordered, to appoint as the Nominating Committee of the American Baptist Home Mission Society the persons chosen by the Northern Baptist Convention to serve as its Committee on Nominations."

This action was taken in accordance with a communication from the Executive Committee of the Northern Baptist Convention soliciting the assent of the co-operating organizations "to the plan of a joint Committee on Nominations in accordance with the suggestion of the Law Committee, adopted by the Convention at its last meeting"; and in harmony also with Article VII of the By-Laws of the Society, which permits the Convention to "present nominations of officers for the Board of Managers and for the General Committee." In case the proposed arrangement shall prove unsatisfactory in any respect, the Society may easily return to its customary usage in these matters.

Financial Relations with the Northern Baptist Convention

Pursuant to the action of the Northern Baptist Convention at Philadelphia, the Board appointed a special committee to confer with committees of the Convention and of the other co-operating societies concerning ways and means of financing the Convention. A conference on the subject was held at the rooms of the Society in New York, December 13, 1911, which was inconclusive as to the method to be adopted, and the matter was referred to the Executive Committee of the Convention in conference with the representatives of the societies at a meeting in Chicago in March, with the understanding that the committee should report to the Convention and leave the matter for its determination. Without arguing the case in this report, it seems proper to state the general attitude of the representatives of co-operating societies as formulated and presented to the conference in New York, as follows:

"VOTED, That it is the sense of this Conference that in view of the fact that the expenses of the Northern Baptist Convention, its committees, commissions and boards, include items not related to the work of the co-operating missionary societies, these societies should not be expected to appropriate from their funds the total amount required to meet these expenses.

"That, in the opinion of this Conference, it would be better if the expenses of the Convention, including the expenses of its committees, commissions and boards, should be paid from a separate fund, which should be secured from the churches on the basis of an apportionment made in the same manner as the apportionment of the budget of the several co-operating organizations."

Apportionment Committee.

The numerous meetings of the Apportionment Committee have been held in our rooms, and the secretaries have given much attention to the details of the work. It is believed that the churches are adjusting themselves to the new methods, and that greatly increased gifts may be expected. The labor involved in the apportionment adds somewhat to the burdens of the District Secretaries, but the enthusiasm with which they are adopting the recommendations of the Apportionment Committee gives promise of permanent fruitfulness.

Budget Comments.

The budget of 1911-1912 called for $353,792.36 from churches, Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies. The experience of the year ending March 31, 1911, however, caused the Board of Managers voluntarily to reduce the amounts already approved by the Northern Baptist Convention to the extent of $79,792. Numerous restorations were later found necessary, but the indebtedness of the Society on April 1, 1912, would have been vastly greater had not its Board of Managers shown a very conservative spirit.

The reported missionary needs of the year beginning April 1, 1912, amount to $807,804. But the total expenditures for the year, which have been approved by the Finance Committee of the Northern Baptist Convention, call for contributions from the churches, Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies of $285,372.33. Savings in supervision, however, and economies that will be introduced, it is expected will lessen the expenditures of the year, so that with a slight increase in contributions over the receipts of last year we hope to end the coming year without any indebtedness.

The Finance Committee of the Northern Baptist Convention has approved of certain "Specials," which will not be apportioned to the churches, amounting to $64,419.67. These amounts will not be expended, however, until raised from special appeals and in excess of the amount apportioned to the churches. These specials include a hospital in the City of Mexico, $10,000; a Mexican church in Arizona, $3,500; assistance in building a church to serve in the college community at Berkeley, Cal., $15,000, and a church at Spokane, Wash., $2,500; four chapels averaging $500 each in Cuba; church edifice extension work in Mexico, $3,500, and four chapels in Porto Rico averaging $500 each. In addition, $5,000 is needed for enlarging the chapel in Shaw University; $3,500 in transforming the old chapel in Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., so that the space may be used for dormitory purposes, and $17,419.67 for the erection of a school building to serve both as a school house and a guild house in Rio Piedras, Porto Rico, where the students will take their literary courses at the Insular University free of expense and their Christian courses under the instruction of a teacher of our mission. In this way in Rio Piedras we are planning, if this amount can be raised to establish an institution for the training of missionaries in the most economical manner known in the experience of Christian educators.

The Year's Receipts from the Denomination

of all transactions which are presented in the Treasurer's report and which aggregate $895,000. Amounts derived from sale of properties heretofore acquired by the Society, and from payments by churches of loans from the Church Edifice Fund, and certain designated funds received from other sources, and transfers of released annuity funds to the general fund are excluded, in order to get a clear-cut statement of the denomination's contributions and legacies with the income from Invested funds for the year. The large amount from individuals includes not only contributions for general purposes, but also, as shown in the second table, for designated objects and for permanent and annuity funds.

Disbursements for the Year

The disbursements of the general operating fund under the budget of 1911-12 were $599,874.96, including $5,092.66 reserved for outstanding obligations payable on demand. The deficit on the year's operations was $48,357.47, which, however, was reduced by the net balance from the reserve fund of the previous year to $47,207.47.

The total expense allowance of the budget was $679,084.36. It became evident, however, that the appropriation of this amount would not be warranted, hence the actual expenditures were $79,209.40 less than the budget allowance.

New Mexico and Related Matters

The committees of conference of the Northern and Southern Baptist Conventions, "concerning the organized activities of the Baptists represented in the two conventions," met at Old Point Comfort, Va., September 27 and 28, 1911. Upon the supposition that their report will be made in full to the Northern Baptist Convention, we refer here only to that portion which has been presented to this Board for its consideration.

Acting upon instructions from the Conference, a sub-committee thereof visited New Mexico to obtain information on the situation and report to an adjourned meeting of the Conference at Hot Springs, Ark., January 25, 1912. At this meeting recommendations were adopted in regard to plans for the unification of our Baptist forces in that State, and to their co-operative relationships in the future. These were in substance that the existing conventions should terminate their work upon the organization of a new convention, with a new constitution, and that after the formation of the new convention it co-operate with the Home Mission agencies of the Northern and the Southern Baptists on a sliding scale of reduction of appropriations for three years, after which the New Mexico Convention should become affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention.

On February 14, 1912, members of the sub-committee of the Conference presented these conclusions to the Board of Managers of this Society. After due consideration the following action was taken by the Board:

I. VOTED, That we hereby express our appreciation of their painstaking labors and of their courtesy in conferring with us as to the report which they have agreed to make.

"2. VOTED, That we are disposed cordially to coincide in the recommendation of the joint committee, that the work in New Mexico be transferred to the care of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, in case the Baptists of New Mexico so desire.

"3. VOTED, That we express our strong desire that the period of transition be made shorter than the three years proposed; in fact, as short as it can be made with due respect to the interests of the Kingdom of God in New Mexico. We think it best that the transfer be made immediately on the formation of the proposed new State Convention."

It will be noted that the Board approved of the proposed transfer, "in case the Baptists of New Mexico so desire." How their wishes on the subject should be expressed was for them to decide. At all times the Society has respected the wishes of the Baptists of New Mexico in these matters, as expressed through their own constituted convention. That Convention in the fall of 1909 voted by a decisive majority to continue co-operation with the Home Mission Society; in the summer of 1910 the Board of the Convention emphatically expressed itself to the same effect; and in the fall of 1911, the Convention again voted in favor of continuance with the Society. If, now, in the judgment of New Mexico Baptists and of the joint committees of conference on this subject, it is deemed best, all things considered, that the Society relinquish a field which it has cultivated about sixty years at an outlay of nearly two hundred thousand dollars, it will retire, trusting that on the costly foundations which it has laid others may build a strong, harmonious structure.

Home Mission Day in Sunday Schools.

There has been a gratifying increase in the numbers of Sunday Schools which have called for the special exercise on "The City," for use on Home Mission Day. It was deemed best to change the day from March to Easter Sunday, in April, hence it is impracticable to state the amount of their offerings. For this reason, also, the contributions as reported this year from Sunday Schools are less than last year; though it is expected that later returns will show an increase from this source.

The Country Church Problem

The recommendation of the Committee on Co-operating Societies adopted by the Convention at Philadelphia suggests that the Society make a study of the country church problem with the thoroughness of the university spirit.

Accordingly, we have entered upon such a study. The Society is directly engaged with the co-operating State Conventions in rural work throughout more than one-half of the country. It is the half where development and settlement have been swifter than all the Christian forces at work have been able to overtake.

There are about forty thousand school districts in this region. In hundreds of them the rising generation is without regular church or Sunday-school work of any kind. The only possible way either to ascertain all the facts in such an immense field or to meet all the needs when the facts are ascertained is by co-operation with other evangelical bodies.

The Home Missions Council, composed of twenty-four National Boards, has organized Survey Committees in the Western States and provided them with carefully prepared schedules and instructions for ascertaining the actual conditions in every school district. Educational and other forces are cordially co-operating. The year 1912 will see such a survey of rural conditions in the matter of religion as will provide an inductive basis for intelligent, comprehensive action. Our Society has furnished initiative and effective work in this undertaking, which marks the beginning of a new era in the Christianization of rural America.

The West

The Society's co-operative relations with eighteen western State Conventions has continued most harmoniously, as hitherto. The direct management of affairs is in the hands of the conventions, which, however, recognize the propriety and the benefit of consulting with representatives of the Society in important matters relating to the common work. The three general superintendents of western mission work (two of whom, however, act also as district secretaries) are cordially welcomed at the meetings of conventions and of their boards, and are justly esteemed for their ability and efficiency in many difficult questions of administrations that constantly arise. Some sections of the West have suffered seriously in the loss of crops and other financial reverses, whereby the progress of churches toward self-support has been retarded and some conventions are experiencing difficulty in raising their pro rata amount for the joint work. The depletion in church membership, in some sections, has been considerable in consequence of the migration from the United States to the Canadian northwest, which in 1910 is stated to have been about 125,000 souls. Many new fields are claiming attention in regions where railway and irrigation projects are attracting settlers. Appropriations by the Society have been increased somewhat to several states during the year. The whole number of appointees in these Western fields during the year has been 945.

Our Foreign Populations

Our work for the foreign populations in the United States is among 21 nationalities, as follows: Germans, Swedes, Norwegians, Danes, French, Italians, Portuguese, Finns, Russians, Bohemians, Hungarians, Poles, Slovaks, Slovenians, Letts, Japanese, Greeks, Roumanians, Ruthenians, Chinese, Mexicans.

Rev. J. M. Bruce, D.D., for about seven years Superintendent of Missions among the foreign populations, chiefly the Italians and French Canadians, resigned to take effect May 1, 1912, having arranged for an extended trip abroad. His facility in the use of several languages has enabled him to be of special service in many ways, including the editorship of an Italian Baptist paper, while his tactfulness and kindness in dealing with many perplexing problems have greatly endeared him to all associated with him in this work.

The lack of competent workers for some of these nationalities has prevented much enlargement of our work among them. The Italian training school in Brooklyn, for whose maintenance Colgate University wisely makes provision, will soon meet the demand for Italian missionaries. The German Department of Rochester Theological Seminary has been and is of incalculable value in providing able preachers for the numerous German Baptist churches in the United States. For many years the Scandinavian Department of the Divinity School of the University of Chicago has rendered similar service for the Scandinavian Baptist churches. It will be most unfortunate if it is crippled in its work by the withdrawal of support on which it has hitherto depended. At Newton Theological Institution some attention is given to the training of French Canadian students for the ministry; Rev. Mr. Delagneau, a missionary of the Society and of the Massachusetts Baptist State Convention, devoting part of his time to their instruction. At Scranton, Pa., a school has been started by Rev. Mr. Zboray, a missionary of the Society, for the Hungarians. Toward its support the Society, in co-operation with the Pennsylvania Baptist Education Society, makes a small appropriation.

In all this remarkable missionary field which, in the Providence of God, is laid at our very doors, our vision should not be limited to the mature material with its peculiarities begotten of types of civilization and religion very different from our own; but should take in the millions of their descendants, who are to become important factors in the future character of our civilization and our American Christianity. In this work the Society co-operates, generally on an equal basis, with all the State Conventions of New England, also those of New York, New Jersey and to some extent in Pennsylvania; while the most of its appropriations for co-operative city mission work is for the foreign populations.

Work Among Spanish-Speaking People in the United States

The principal work the past year among the Spanish-speaking people of the United States has been in Southern California under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Troyer, formerly in Porto Rico. Within about a year from their appointment to this field they have succeeded in establishing six mission stations and the organization of one church, and in securing the co-operation of American churches in the appointment of helpers and in providing places of worship for the Spanish-speaking congregations. Indeed, it is the general policy "to establish work only where the church in that community is interested in the Spanish-speaking people. American co-operation is essential to securing the best results." Two native helpers have been employed and more are needed. The work is included in the co-operative plan of the Society with the Southern California Convention. Other missions are at Tucson, Arizona, and Ortiz, Colorado.

The Indians.

The same missionaries among the Indians have all continued in their efficient service during the past year. A new school has been opened for the Crows at Wyola, about ten miles from Lodge Grass, Mont., and a suitable school building has been erected which serves also as a home for the two women teachers provided by the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society. Missionary Petzoldt frequently visits the field, and regular services are conducted by our Indian Evangelist, Theodore Whitemouth. A Baptist church for the white settlers, who are increasing in the Lodge Grass district, has been organized, and a revival that yielded special fruit rejoiced the hearts of the workers during the winter.

The school at Lodge Grass has had a large attendance, and the teachers furnished by the women's society have been very faithful in their work. We must not forget, also, the valuable service rendered by the continued devotion of Mrs. Petzoldt.

At Keams Canon, Ariz., Rev. Lee I. Thayer and wife, and the teachers supplied by the women's society, have been doing heroic work under conditions that have been very difficult.

About 1200 Hopi Indians, or one half the tribe, constitute the Hopi field of the Baptists. They live in two groups of villages, three at First Mesa, and three at Second Mesa, eight miles apart, thus requiring two stations to minister to their needs. At Keams Canon is the government boarding school for the Hopi pupils, and a few Navaho children are also included. At these points we have mission stations. At each of the three day schools and the boarding school, opportunity is given for a daily Bible lesson by the Missionary.

The Navaho field comprises a territory fifty miles square, and a thousand Indians live in scattered camps. They are reached by itinerary work from the Keams Canon station.

The two churches now contain 43 members. In every case where both husband and wife have become Christians, the family has left the Mesa, building near the mission, thus forming a Christian village. When others want to move into the new village, they are told that they must first become Christians and give up their bad ways.

The persecution, which began with the five baptisms five years ago, continues with unabated bitterness. Each of the churches has met its entire apportionment for the year. As they have heard the gospel through the beneficence of others, they, in turn, wish to share largely in helping others, and average nearly four dollars per member for missions.

The work among the Blanket Indians has been pushed with enthusiasm by our faithful missionaries. Secretary White and Superintendent Kinney visited the annual Association in the latter part of July, when several hundred Indians, representing the five Blanket tribes, assembled for religious services. It was a time of confession and conversion, and many of the old Indians who had hitherto withstood the truth, accepted Christ, and with the children and those in middle life, were baptized to the number of forty-three in the Kingfisher Creek. The large tent was pitched under a great cotton-wood tree, where Missionary Hamilton first called the Cheyenne together. Conspicuous among the old chiefs present were Lone Wolf and Buffalo Meat. Several of the younger Indians are giving evidence of rapid development, among whom may be mentioned Harry Starr and Jesse Bent. Words of appreciation were spoken in memory of Mrs. E. C. Deyo, who died at her post, having poured out her life in the service of the Comanche, and Left Hand, the war chief of the Arapahoe, his son, Chief Grant Left Hand, is a deacon in the Arapahoe church, and the successor of his father as chief to the tribe. The industry of the Blanket Indians is increasing with the years, and the churches are taking on what is believed to be permanent strength.

The missionary offerings of the Blanket and Hopi churches show, too, that these new converts are being trained by their faithful missionaries. For the associational year 1910-1911 they are as follows:

Home Missions	$ 609.29
Foreign Missions	243.71
State Missions	106.31
Women's Missionary Societies	160.71
Christian Education	65.00
Murrow Orphanage	62.75
Sunday School	36.20

making a total of.....$1,283.97

Other offerings were as follows:

Building and repairs	$ 942.26
Interpreter's salary	167.00
Incidental expenses	788.83
Ministers' Fund	2.00
Associational work and camp meeting.	508.50
Other objects	385.31
making a grand total of	$4,077.87

A new work is to be opened among the Sac and Fox Indians, and Rev. G. Lee Phelps, for many years the faithful missionary to the Arapahoe and Cheyenne in Darlington, has been appointed to this difficult field, in which the Society has not been represented for several years.

The work among the civilized Indians has been continued as formerly in coöperation with the State Convention of Oklahoma.

Mexico

The revolutionary spirit which has been rife in Mexico, the past year, has seriously interfered with missionary operations at several points. So serious is the situation that most of the American missionaries of our own and of other organizations have deemed it prudent to return to the States. Indeed, there has been a general exodus of Americans from Mexico. Nearly all of our missions, however, are in charge of native workers, so that services have been maintained with but slight interruption. The death of Rev. Teofilo Barocio, pastor of the church in the City of Mexico, is a great loss. He was a man of refinement and ability. His loss is lamented not only in Mexico but in Cuba, also, where he labored for several years at Santiago and vicinity as an assistant to Dr. Moseley. Partly because of the political disturbances, but more because of lack of resources, the Society has been unable to put into effect the recommendations of the Deputation to Mexico, as presented in the report of the Board one year ago. Expecting that normal conditions will soon be restored to the Republic, the Board has included in the list of "specials" in its budget $10,000 for a Baptist Hospital and $15,000 for a boarding-school for girls in the City of Mexico. It is hoped that generous donors will consider the claims of these important auxiliaries for our mission work in Mexico.

Cuba

As the report of Dr. Moseley shows, we have in Eastern Cuba 54 churches and 73 out-stations; 2,701 members, 2,511 enrolled in Sunday-schools, 38 church edifices and 8 parsonages.

The annual pastors' conference for two or three weeks is a unifying and uplifting factor in the work. The churches are being trained to give for their own expenses and for missionary purposes. They have accepted a budget of $2,000 the coming year for self-support and missions. The number of baptisms for the year was 236. On every side the outlook is bright. "I feel more encouraged than I have ever felt before about our work in Cuba," writes Dr. Moseley.

Porto Rico

The report of Dr. Rudd is full of encouragement concerning the progress of our work in Porto Rico, where we now have 47 churches, with 72 out-stations, 2,137 members, 2,887 enrolled in Sunday-schools, 28 church edifices and 6 parsonages. Baptisms during the year 229. The force of workers has been strengthened by the appointment of Rev. F. P. Freeman, a recent graduate of Colgate University, and Rev. P. D. Woods, of Rochester. Special attention has been given to some of the densely populated rural districts which have been most responsive to the Gospel message.

The general summary of results in both Cuba and Porto Rico for thirteen years since the beginning of our work there is as follows: Churches, 91; out-stations, 145; members, 4,838; 66 church edifices; 5,388 in Sunday-schools; church and school properties valued at $273,450.

El Salvador

This latest mission field of the Society, first occupied about one year ago, is full of promise. Two English-speaking missionaries and three native helpers have been in the service, Rev. William Keech, of San Salvador, being general missionary. His report shows the organization of 2 churches and 7 out-stations, with 143 members; 140 in Sunday-schools; and 5 chapels, the principal building being at Santa Ana, where Rev. P. T. Chapman is stationed. For a time some exceptional difficulties were encountered, but recent reports of attendance and baptisms are most encouraging. Urgent appeal is made for more laborers in this field white unto the harvest.

CHURCH EDIFICE DEPARTMENT

The First Baptist Church of San Francisco, toward the erection of which the Society made a generous contribution in addition to the amount granted from the Relief Fund, dedicated its new house of worship on December 10, 1911. The Hamilton Square Baptist Church, toward which the Society, upon the approval of the Northern Baptist Convention, made a grant of $20,000, most of which has been paid, will soon complete its well-arranged house of worship. These mark a great advance in our denominational equipment in that great city. The most important and urgent thing in that community is to put the Mission Church (formerly the Immanuel) on a better basis.

At Berkeley, Cal., the seat of the State University, the need of a new house for our Baptist church is imperative. For this purpose at least $15,000 from other sources is required. This could not be included in the regular budget for the ensuing year, but is added as a special item in the hope that the case may appeal strongly to thoughtful minds who recognize the value of a good church edifice in proximity to a great institution which enrolls over 4,000 students, many of whom come from Baptist homes.

The extensive building enterprise of the Immanuel Church, Salt Lake City, has been carried forward as fast as funds were obtainable for the purpose. The Society has given $10,000 from its gift fund and made a loan of $5,000 to the church for this undertaking. It is hoped that within a year the work may be finished. The members of the church have given generously of their substance.

Church building in Cuba, Porto Rico and Mexico has been very meager as compared with the needs of these fields, and it is hoped that the special appeals which may be made this year for advance in church edifice work, outside of the budget which has been apportioned to the churches, may find individual contributors interested in making possible the following work: $3,500 for the erection of a Mexican Chapel at Tucson, Arizona, $15,000 for a church in the college community of Berkeley, California; $2,500 to assist in the erection of a church on Canon Hill, Spokane; $2,000 for chapels in Cuba; $3,500 for chapels in Mexico, and $2,000 for chapels in Porto Rico. It is understood that these sums will not be spent unless provided by special gifts, and raised in excess of the budget, as apportioned.

The church edifice gift fund for the new year has an apportionment of $5,000 to the First Baptist church of Gary, Indiana. The State Convention will give a like amount, in addition to that which the church raises and the large sum which the Convention has already generously spent in the foundations and first story of the structure. The church is located in the very heart of the city, and a structure in harmony with the extensive buildings which surround it is imperatively needed. It is believed that early in the year the church will be worshiping in its new home, and that the prosperity which is wrapped up in the life of the growing city will prove the means for calling together a large congregation.

The amount approved in the present budget for church edifice work for the year 1912-13 is very meager compared with the needs of the growing work.

The number of churches aided during the year is 97; by gifts only, 63; by loans only, 11; by gift and loan, 23.

Total number of gifts from the gift fund, 86; total number of loans from the loan fund, 34; the location and number of churches aided in various States, Territories and Republics are as follows:

By gifts: Arizona, 2; California, 5; Colorado, 5; Connecticut, 1; Cuba, 8; District of Columbia, 1; Idaho, 3; Kansas, 4; Mexico, 3; Michigan, 1; Minnesota, 4; Nebraska, 2; Nevada, 1; New Mexico, 1; North Dakota, 2; Oklahoma, 12; Oregon, 2; Pennsylvania, 1; Porto Rico, 5; South Dakota, 5; Utah, 1; Vermont, 1; Washington, 7; West Virginia, 1; Wyoming, 1.

By loans: Arizona, 2; California, 1; Colorado, 4; El Salvador, 1; Idaho, 2; Illinois, 1; Kansas, 3; Nebraska, 1; New Mexico, 1; New York, 1; Oklahoma, 3; South Dakota, 3; Utah, 2; Washington, 7; Wyoming, 3.

Nationalities aided by gift: American, 59; Italian, 3; Spanish, 16; Polish, 1; Swedish, 3; German, 1; Indian, 1; Hungarian, 1; Japanese, 1.

Nationalities aided by loan: American, 33; Spanish, 1.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

Fifty Years' Work for the Negroes

On January 30, 1862, about nine months after the outbreak of the war, the Board of the American Baptist Home Mission Society appointed Dr. Howard Osgood to visit Fortress Monroe and vicinity to investigate the condition of the Negro refugees, who had come in large numbers into the lines of the Union forces. His report was received on February 27th, and after due consideration the Board decided to await instructions from the Society at its meeting in Providence, May 29, 1862. The Society in adopting the report of a special committee had a clear vision of the situation, saying that they saw "the Divine Hand most distinctly and most imperatively beckoning us on to the occupancy of a field broader, more important, more promising than has ever yet invited our toils." On June 25th the Board appointed its first two workers to this new field.

It is fitting that at the end of fifty years a survey should be made of what has been accomplished through the Society's instrumentality, in a special address by the Associate Corresponding Secretary. The limits of this report of the Board will not admit of even a summary of the principal factors and events in the prosecution of this work. The heroic consecration of many of the pioneers in this peculiar field should be recalled. Some of the best blood and brain of the North were laid unstintedly upon the altar of service for the emancipated race in their pitiable condition at the close of the great conflict. Such were Rev. Charles H. Corey, D.D., from 1865 for thirty-four years in this service, mostly at Richmond, Va.; Rev. G. M. P. King, D.D., a surviving veteran, formerly at Washington, now at Richmond, rounding out about forty-seven years of labor; Rev. Henry Martyn Tupper, D.D., from 1865 until his death, for twenty-eight years the President of Shaw University, Raleigh, N. C.; Rev. D. W. Phillips, D.D., from 1864 for twenty-six years, until his death, at Nashville, Tenn.; Rev. L. B. Tefft, D.D., thirty-eight years in service, first at Nashville, then in his present position as President of Hartshorn Memorial College at Richmond, Va.; and an associate teacher, Miss Carrie V. Dyer, who has been in continuous service since 1870; and those noble women, Miss S. B. Packard and Miss H. E. Giles, founders of Spelman Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., who after many years of unstinted labors fell at their posts, rejoicing in what they had been permitted to achieve. These are but conspicuous instances of the many Christ-like men and women who frequently turned away from larger remuneration elsewhere in order to give themselves to this service for an unfortunate race. Their lot was often a lonely one, with but little sympathy or cheer from the white people where they toiled.

Most of those named above were from New England, which has made the largest contribution of cultured, consecrated character to the uplift of the American Negro. Large as have been the gifts of money, these bear no just comparison with the offerings of those who dedicated their lives to this object. The investment both of life and money has been productive of some of the best results in the whole history of modern missions. Discerning and distinguished Southern men themselves recognize this. Of such was Dr. J. L. M. Curry, eminent among Southern Baptists and at one time representative of the General Government at the Spanish Court, whose statement made shortly before his death is worthy of reproduction here, and is as true now as it was then:

"As general manager of the Peabody and the Slater Educational Funds for nearly twenty years I have had ample and frequent opportunities for examining the educational work of the American Baptist Home Mission Society among the Negroes of the South. It has been a religious and civilizing agency of great, I may say incalculable, usefulness. I do not see how any patriot or Christian can fail to desire earnestly a continuance and enlargement of such work. What is imperatively needed at the South is a better class of teachers and preachers."

At most of the schools the fiftieth anniversary of the beginnings of the Society's work for the Negroes was celebrated, with special addresses and music and by offerings from teacher and pupils, which aggregated nearly $700.

Changes

The Society has sustained a great loss in its educational work in the death, on January 22, 1912, of Rev. George Sale, D.D., who had been its Superintendent of Education since June 1, 1906. His previous service as President of Atlanta Baptist College, from 1890-1906, had been so satisfactory that he was chosen for this larger work, in which he won the regard of all with whom he was associated, of both races and in both sections of our country. Eminent Southern brethren of Atlanta, at his funeral, gave eloquent and tender utterances of their appreciation of his Christian spirit and sagacious methods; while our Negro brethren have been deeply affected by his loss. The Board adopted a suitable minute to be spread upon its records, and which appears elsewhere in the obituaries.

No successor has been appointed; indeed, it is under consideration whether the executives at the rooms may not visit institutions to consider the most important matters that from time to time require attention. This will be in the interests of economy; though efficiency must not be sacrificed to economy.

Rev. B. G. Valentine was appointed President of Benedict College, Columbia, S. C., as successor to Dr. Osborn, with whom he had been associated in the work of the school. Professor Z. T. Hubert was appointed President of Jackson College, Jackson, Miss., to succeed Rev. L. G. Barrett. This is a recognition by the Society of the qualifications of able representatives of the Negroes for such positions. In addition to the two Negro presidents of the higher institutions at Atlanta and Jackson, the Society has aided fourteen schools owned and managed by the Negro Baptists, with Negro principals and faculties. The whole number of Negro teachers appointed during the year was 143.

The name "Atlanta Baptist College" disappears from the Society's reports: the Trustees of the College and the Board of Managers of this Society having decided that it should henceforth be known as "Morehouse College," in honor of the Corresponding Secretary of the Society and for his interest in its work for the Negroes.

New Buildings and Improvements

At Morehouse College, the new building known as "Sale Hall" was completed and dedicated last May. The new hospital building for the Leonard Medical School of Shaw University is considered as one of the best arranged and equipped buildings of this class in the South. It contains accommodations for about fifty patients. This needed provision for the medical department puts the school on a good footing, bringing with it, however, some increased expense for maintenance. It also involved an addition to the large central heating plant.

Toward these improvements at Atlanta and Raleigh the Negroes contributed in each instance $5,000 to meet the conditions of the pledges of like sums by the General Education Board. Initial steps have been taken for the erection of two residences for teachers and a large dormitory building at Virginia Union University from contributions secured chiefly by President Hovey for these purposes.

In accordance with the plan of union between Baptists and Free Baptists, this Society has adopted Storer College, at Harpers Ferry, W. Va., and Manning Bible School, at Cairo, Ill. Storer College was established in 1867; has a fine campus of fifteen acres, on which are ten principal buildings, the total valuation being $107,000. It has endowment funds amounting to $42,386. The enrollment of pupils last year was 120. Manning Bible School is for the training of Negro preachers. It has small holdings and a small number of pupils, and it may be deemed wise to consolidate it with one of the adjacent schools aided by the Society.

Endowments Needed

It cannot be expected that these higher institutions for the Negroes shall be dependent for their effective maintenance indefinitely upon the limited amount that the Society can apply for this purpose. Larger compensation than formerly must be paid teachers in these institutions. Better equipment for scientific and industrial instruction is necessary. The up-keep of extensive grounds and buildings, together with insurance charges, is expensive. New buildings and other improvements must be provided. Revenues from the schools in the way of charges for board and tuition, are small and can be increased but slightly. The average charges per month for these in the principal institutions is about $9, or from $75 to $100 per year. The usual charge in our colleges at the North for tuition alone is about $60 annually, and even with this revenue all of our higher institutions are clamoring for larger endowments.

The amount now held for this purpose is as follows: For Morehouse College, $20,087.87; for Benedict College, $127,439.27; for Bishop College, $12,000; for Jackson College, $476.75; for Roger Williams University, $30,272.74; for Shaw University, $35,176.92; for Spelman Seminary, $1,151.43; for Virginia Union University, $64,418.56; for other schools, $19,605.77 (see p. 107, An. Rpt., Academic Depts.). The total amount is $312,444.93, the annual income of which is about $14,000. If the endowment could be increased by one million dollars, thereby carrying the annual income from these sources to about $60,000, it would afford needed relief to the Society in its extended operations and would impart stability and strength to these institutions.

Schools for the Indians

Indian University, or as it is commonly called, "Bacone College," near Muskogee, Oklahoma, under the administration of President Randall, has had probably the best year in its history and the largest attendance of Indian pupils. Besides these there have been about forty children in the Murrow Indian Orphans' Home. Some perplexing questions have arisen concerning certain lands given for the home. The effort made to deprive the Society and the College of a part of the valuable campus failed in the appeal to the higher court, though the contestants announce their purpose to make a further attempt before the highest tribunal.

At Wyola, an out-station of the mission at Lodge Grass, Montana, the Society has erected a modest school building, with accommodations also for two teachers appointed by the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society. Some missionary work is done at both places for the white residents of the vicinity. The school at Lodge Grass has been maintained, and the threatened loss of some of the older pupils has been averted. The intrigues of representatives of the Roman Catholic Church have been quite disturbing.

Sectarianism in Government Schools for the Indians

Several schools that had been established by the Roman Catholic Church for the Indians have recently been adopted by the authorities at Washington as Government schools, with the retention of the Catholic instructors wearing their distinctive religious garb, and without passing the Civil Service examination. This was in effect the maintenance of these schools wholly under sectarian influence at the expense of the Government. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs issued an order prohibitive of all distinctive dress and insignia. This instantly aroused the opposition of Catholic prelates at Washington, who appealed to the President to revoke the order. Meantime, representatives of the Home Missions Council, including officials of this Society, took action in support of the order of the Commissioner of Indian affairs, and appealed to the President for a hearing on the subject before determining what to do. He, however, proceeded summarily to suspend the order. Following this the facts in the case were given to the public, and on April 8th the Secretary of the Interior heard representatives of both sides on the questions involved, able legal talent being present. His decision has not been rendered at the time of the preparation of this report. In any event, it seems desirable that the Society or the Northern Baptist Convention should make a deliverance on this matter in accord with our historic attitude of separation of Church and State.

Cuban Schools

Our excellent institution at El Cristo is already becoming a very valuable auxiliary to our missionary enterprise in providing capable native preachers and teachers for our Cuban churches. Although it is known to be thoroughly evangelical, it attracts many students from Catholic homes, numbers of whom have been converted. The Foreign Mission Board of the Friends, which is engaged in missionary work in Eastern Cuba, desire to co-operate with us in the maintenance and enlargement of this institution, while leaving the general control in the hands of the Home Mission Society. In the event that this will be done, as seems probable, it is expected that they will provide about $15,000 for another building.

There are eight day schools in connection with our missions. The teachers in these are appointed and paid by the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society. These not only supply a local need in creating a more intelligent and capable church membership, but they also furnish better prepared students for the school at El Cristo, from which some will go forth to larger service in the world.

Porto Rican Schools

The hope expressed a year ago that funds might be secured for a school building at Rio Piedras has not been realized. In the budget for this year an item of $17,000 for this purpose has been included as a "special," apart from the usual offerings from churches and individuals. It is conceded by all who know the situation that we have an exceptional opportunity for the establishment of a school on an economical basis in connection with the Insular University. Indeed, the beginning of such a relationship has been already established. Rev. P. D. Woods, of Rochester, N. Y., was appointed as principal of the school and entered upon his duties last fall. A dormitory for boys should be built at once.

Schools in Mexico

The school at Monterey for the training of young men for the ministry has been maintained, notwithstanding the political disturbances in the Republic. The students are engaged in mission work while pursuing their studies and during their vacations. One of these is a Zapotecan Indian of exceptional ability, from Oaxaca, of the race that produced those eminent characters, Benito Juarez and Porfirio Diaz. He is preparing himself to preach the Gospel among seven hundred thousand of his people.

The day schools maintained by the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society in conjunction with our mission work at Monterey, City of Mexico and Puebla are doing an excellent work. Special consideration is being given to the establishment of a boarding school for girls in the City of Mexico, for which about $15,000 more than is available for this purpose are required.

By order and on behalf of the Board of Managers,

H. L. MOREHOUSE,
Corresponding Secretary.

D. G. GARABRANT,
Chairman.

FIELD WORK

Field Secretary's Report

L. C. BARNES, D.D., NEW YORK CITY

Missions Combined

AFTER two years' experience it seemed to your Field Secretary that it would be an advantage to the Denomination to have the work of visiting State Conventions in the interest of missions at large systematized. Accordingly the executives of the three general societies agreed to allot the Conventions so that at least one, and as a rule but one, general officer should visit each Convention at its annual meeting. Economy, thoroughness and unity are promoted by this arrangement. District and other local representatives of all the societies should be present every year. That is one of their most economical opportunities for personal fellowship and service. In special instances a second executive from denominational headquarters may have reason to attend. But one is the appointed representative of the three societies. He stands for the united missions of the Denomination. In the rotation adopted it was the privilege of your Field Secretary to attend Eastern Conventions for the most part this year. Charts were carefully compiled showing all the missionary work of the Northern Baptist Convention, including that of the women's societies, all tabulated together for the first time. Machinery was dropped out of sight. Combined products were exhibited. It was a great joy to bring the manifold, world-wide missions all together, not only in sentiment, but also in practical detail.

Neglected Fields Survey

A primary need is a comprehensive knowledge of the field, including all essential details. Multiplicity of facts, however important and significant, unless they cover the whole field, must fail to provide an adequate basis for the prosecution of the work. Some indispensable information is provided by neither denominational nor governmental reports. The government statistics give the number of communicants by counties. Effective religious work is done in parishes or neighborhoods. Many a county in the West is larger than the State of Rhode Island. Denominational statistics provide no data as to the work of other denominations and of social agencies outside the Church. What is needed is a reliable conspectus of all the important factors bearing on the religious life of each neighborhood. Since in Christianizing America the rising generation is a pivotal factor, and since the public school is organized on the basis of the number of children within reach of a given point, the school district is the natural unit of study.

Our General Superintendent of Missions in the States farthest west, after much experience, determined upon the school district as the best unit for study and decided to ask our State Conventions in his division to undertake the task. If we were to do this in all the States with which the Society is in formal co-operation it would be an enormous burden upon our resources both of time and money. Besides these difficulties we should have to meet in many quarters the indifference of factors which are necessary to success in such a study. By doing the work in co-operation with other denominations, therefore, we gain great advantages. (a) The expense is shared with a considerable number of others. (b) The burden of labor is divided. (c) When the work is done in the name of all the great Protestant denominations, the public officers and others are far more likely to respond to the requests for information.

The Home Missions Council organized a few years ago by Dr. Morehouse and others now includes fifteen denominations and twenty-four national boards doing Home Mission work. It was my privilege to lay before that council a somewhat detailed plan for co-operative study of the field. The plan was adopted with unanimity and eagerness. The leading boards, Methodist, Presbyterian, Disciple and Congregational, as well as our own, provided each an officer from headquarters to go as a joint Deputation to certain States west of the Mississippi River to inaugurate a Neglected Fields Survey.

A Consultation was held in each of the fifteen States west of Wisconsin, Missouri, Oklahoma and New Mexico. All members of State mission boards and administrative committees, together with other executive officers of all the evangelical denominations, were invited to attend this Consultation. Topics such as the following were assigned in advance: Unmet Needs (a) in Rural Districts; (b) among Foreigners; (c) in Small Towns; (d) in Suburban Districts; (e) in Congested Urban Districts; (f) in Lumber Camps; (g) in Mining Camps; (h) among Indians; (i) in Social Ministry; (j) among Orientals.

The men invited came in representative numbers and discussed carefully, freely, earnestly the topics assigned and others which arose, such as the question of "over-churching." In all the States the Consultations appointed committees representing all the active denominations to make the Survey. The work was undertaken with far more heartiness than we had expected. In fact, the action was unanimous in every Consultation.

The Survey Committees are now in the midst of their work. Indications already at hand make it certain that enough will be accomplished to get such a knowledge of the situation as Home Mission boards have never had hitherto. There are in the fifteen States about 40,000 organized school districts. The laws of most States require the residence of ten or more young people of school age before a district can be organized. When the returns are in we shall have some idea of the number of hundreds of neighborhoods in which there is no provision for the religious welfare of the community, and we shall know what kind of ministration is most needed in all the neighborhoods surveyed. The schedule of inquiries covers the leading occupations of the people, languages used and the factors of social uplift in addition to church and Sunday-school. One result of co-operative study of the facts is likely to be a better co-ordination of all the evangelical forces in meeting the needs. That is a matter which the workers in each State will decide for themselves. Two years ago the Board of the American Baptist Home Mission Society recommended to them careful co-operation with all other evangelical forces. The administrators at the front on whom the final responsibility must rest are now putting themselves in possession of the facts necessary to intelligent co-operation.

Universal Mission Study

It has fallen to the lot of your Field Secretary to take a laboring oar in behalf of our Society in making plans for "Home Mission Week," which is to be observed next November throughout the entire country and by all denominations. This is on a plan entirely different from that of the various "movements" which have been in operation during recent years. It does not depend at all upon banquets and conventions or union meetings. The local churches of all denominations, in the country as well as in the city, are the points of contact. The Home Missions Council will provide a programme, condensed information, lists of books for careful study and other manifold suggestions rendering it possible for all the churches of our country to study for three months the great problems in the Christianization of America. The course of thought is to culminate in eight days of intensive attention to the subject.

This undertaking is differentiated from all the others in the fact that it includes not only the general boards, but also the women's boards—the Council of Women for Home Missions having united with the Home Missions Council in the undertaking. It is unique also in providing the same opportunities for rural churches as for town churches.

The slogan of Home Mission Week is "Our Country God's Country."

Missions Among the Foreign Populations

REV. JAMES M. BRUCE, SUPERINTENDENT

THE reports of our missionaries among the foreign populations give many encouraging facts. In this work there are of course special difficulties, and progress cannot be otherwise than slow. In many places, however, real progress has been made. We may feel at least that we are learning better how to reach the "incoming millions" of strangers whom God's providence is sending to us. In these latest and greatest of all migrations American Christianity must see and meet opportunity and responsibility. The sense of what the situation means and demands is certainly deepening on the part of our churches. It needs to grow still stronger in order that means may be supplied proportionate to the service required.

Chapels Needed

Nothing is more necessary than suitable meeting places in which our foreign fellow-citizens may be gathered for religious guidance and for social uplift and civic enlightenment. We are not under pressure to compete with the elaborate ecclesiastical structures of the State churches of European countries. But we cannot forget that the foreign peoples have been accustomed to such religious edifices and naturally are not attracted where seemly surroundings for worship do not invite them. Good is often done by meetings in ugly mission rooms and in the basements of American churches, but these should always be regarded as beginnings only and should expand as soon as possible into conditions having more promise of permanence.

It is therefore gratifying to note the successful efforts made during the year to secure chapels for Italian congregations at Springfield, Mass., and at Utica, N. Y.; for the French at Salem, Mass.; and for the Hungarians at Scanton, Pa. In all of these enterprises it has been the privilege of the Home Mission Society to give substantial aid. And in each of them the foreign people themselves, in proportion to their means, have generously contributed. Much has been done at different times by individual churches, as at Orange, N. J., a few years ago; and by city mission societies, as at New Haven, Conn., and Cleveland, Ohio. But much remains to be done, especially in our larger cities, where of course the difficulty is increased by the greater expense involved. The most liberal policy is in the end the best economy in the housing of our New York and Boston and Philadelphia and Chicago missions among the foreign populations. If it is worth our while to undertake these missions at all, we must give them the appliances which are an essential part of their equipment. Everywhere in this work we must aim at the provision of suitable chapels.

Missionary Training Schools

Another imperative need of the missions for foreigners is that of well-trained pastors. There are few such to be obtained from foreign countries, and it has often been unavoidable that men of comparatively meager education should be employed. We recognize with gratitude the value of the service these men have given, but they themselves have been the first to ask for better preparation, and have in some notable instances worked very hard to secure it. Schools for the training of foreigners in mission service now exist at the Chicago University for Scandinavians; at the Rochester Theological Seminary for the Germans; and in Brooklyn, under the auspices of Colgate Seminary, for the Italians. In the past year a school for Hungarians and Slavs has been opened at Scranton, Pa., with the co-operation of the Pennsylvania Education Society and the Home Mission Society. It has grown out of the intrepid zeal of Rev. L. L. Zboray, for many years our missionary among the Hungarian and Slav populations of Eastern Pennsylvania. The teaching is for the present in the hands of Rev. C. Bila, a graduate of Crozer Seminary, who is exceptionally qualified for the work. A future of manifold usefulness opens before this young and struggling but very energetic institution.

The superintendent is now bringing his seven years' service to a close, in anticipation of a long absence from the country. In doing so he desires to express his satisfaction in having been able to help in bringing the missions among the foreign populations into much closer relation than previously with the State Conventions, city missions and other local societies with which they are naturally associated. The financial co-operation of these bodies has been secured in much increased measure. What is more important, the supervision of missions has been assumed by them. Details of management are now, as they should be, in their hands, and a more specific and helpful oversight of the work is assured than could possibly be given by a general national society. It is believed that the ministry to foreigners will gain in many directions from this more compact local organization.

REPORTS OF GENERAL SUPERINTENDENTS

The Pacific Division: Alaska, Arizona, California, Hawaii, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington

REV C. A. WOODY, D.D., PORTLAND, ORE., SUPERINTENDENT

General Campaigns

THE Pacific Division during the year has been visited by several general movements which have considerably influenced our work. Gypsy Smith held great evangelistic campaigns in five of our cities with very decided blessing and uplift to the cities immediately concerned, and the general spirit of evangelism through the division as a whole. Drs. Stackhouse and Padelford, representing the Baptist Laymen's Missionary Movement, visited the division in January and conducted campaigns in thirteen different centers, reaching some thousands of our laymen and giving great stimulus to systematic and enlarged giving. The Men and Religion Forward Movement conducted campaigns in eight of our large centers, with registrations of from five hundred to thirteen hundred men for the daily institutes conducted by the various workers of these teams. These meetings with their subsidiary conferences also have given new emphasis to practical religious service by laymen. In addition to these special forms of activity, a deputation from the Home Mission Council conducted survey meetings in the interest of unmet missionary needs in each of the States of the division, and efficient committees were appointed to complete a study of each of these States on the basis of local school districts. This will insure to us accurate and adequate knowledge of the religious activities and destitution in this whole division when the reports shall have been finally gathered and analyzed by competent experts.

The general result of all these meetings will undoubtedly be for the uplift and more efficient organization and administration of religious work carried on by all denominations, and I hope that Baptists will receive a large share of the general good. These movements attract to themselves a great deal of attention and demand much time, and divide the attention of workers between their ordinary work and these special and attractive, because somewhat unusual, new methods. They also demand a large amount of extra work from missionary workers already seriously overtaxed. Work has not lagged, however, along our usual lines, as a careful reading of the reports from general missionaries of this division clearly shows.

Some Changes

Attention is specially called to the report from Nevada which appears for the first time as an independent Convention. This new convention is well organized, has arranged for its fiscal year to correspond with that of the Home Mission Society, and shows a hopeful and aggressive spirit. The Pacific Division has been reduced in size by transferring the work of Montana to the care of Dr. Proper, but the organization of the Nevada Convention keeps the number of organized conventions as heretofore at nine. The general missionary force has continued almost as last year. Rev. L. W. Terry in Western Washington closed ten years of most fruitful and highly creditable service as general missionary on October, 1911, and has been succeeded by Rev. Joseph H. Beaven, who begins his work under very encouraging surroundings. Rev. George L. White, who has served the Society for several years in caring for Utah and Wyoming, closed his work September 1st to enter upon service with the American Baptist Publication Society as district secretary and superintendent of its work for the Pacific Division. He was succeeded by Rev. George R. Varney, who cares for the Conventions of Utah and Nevada. Mr. Varney had service in this position of a gratifying and fruitful sort some ten years ago in Oregon. He now does a double service of general missionary and State evangelist, and has already conducted meetings with several churches in each of his convention fields.

Continued Growth

A careful reading of the reports of these general missionaries will show that the work is growing in the whole division in a steady and strong way. No summary has been attempted in the reports of the general missionaries which covers the same class of facts. The total number of missionaries under appointment in all forms of service in this division during the year has been about 325, and the number of churches and out-stations reached has been beyond 400. More than 30 church edifices have been built or enlarged, and about 50 new fields have been opened, in the majority of which new churches have been organized. More churches would have been organized and more fields could have been opened had it been possible for the various Conventions to secure money to support the necessary missionary force.

The Stranger within the Gates

Our work in this division has been reaching fifteen or sixteen nationalities, including the Indians, and of them, five different tribes are being helped. The steady enlargement of our work among foreign nationalities gives warning that the Coast Conventions in particular will have a very heavy burden if all the opportunities for such work are taken up by them. Fully sixty nationalities are represented in our various cities, quite half of them by considerable-sized communities, and so far as I can learn there are only eighteen nationalities which are receiving any missionary attention. It is a significant feature of our present situation that our civic forces are already considering the matter of foreign immigration in view of the approaching completion of the Panama Canal. Two large meetings of this sort have been held in recent weeks, one in Los Angeles and the second one in Tacoma. To these meetings representatives of commercial organizations have been invited, and in the last one representatives of churches and the Y. M. C. A. were present upon invitation. It seems to be a growing conviction in all parts of the coast that we are to have a large immigration by way of the canal directly from European countries, and efforts are being made to discover the character of this immigration with a view to distributing it as far as possible throughout the rural parts of the States. How far this movement will go it is difficult to foresee. The main fact, however, stands out clearly that we must prepare for work among a greatly increased number of foreigners. It is equally true that the ability of our present forces is being taxed to care for our present work. The Society should plan for greatly increased investment in this type of work in the West.

A New Type of Work

It seems quite evident that if the reasonable expectations of the Home Mission Council shall materialize, our type of missionary work in the West will have to be modified in some respects. If any form of comity is agreed upon which shall assign to various denominations certain uncared-for fields which will enlarge the demands upon local Conventions on the one hand and very clearly define the probable limits of their task on the other, we shall have to develop plans for a more intensive work as well as for an extensive campaign. This would seem to indicate that we shall have to add to our present Convention forces one or two more men in each Convention field specially gifted in developing the financial and evangelistic side of church life and activity, who shall in connection with the general missionary carry on a type of church institutes with local churches. These would have for their chief object the developing of church efficiency of the kind and measure suggested by the Northern Baptist Convention. One of my Conventions is attempting this year to reach every one of its churches by an institute of this character. These meetings are carried on by the general missionary and three or four other workers representing evangelism, Sunday-school work, Young People's work, missions, and church finance. It is too early to determine the full practical outcome, but I look for large and fruitful as well as permanent results, and think that similar lines of work must be developed in all of our Convention fields, the end in view being an all-round efficient local church. While the great campaigns to which I have referred above have value in certain lines, they also have somewhat of a tendency to magnify great campaigns and minify the services and strategic value of a local church. Our real struggle for final efficiency and victory lies in the local church, and I am persuaded that we can well afford to omit large campaigns for some years and give our entire attention to the cultivation and development of local churches.

Perplexities and Needs

One of the perplexities our State general workers confront is the fact that in field workers we are relatively very much weaker than several other denominations. One of our general missionaries, for example, reports to me that his general field force consists of himself and one Convention pastor. The total expenditure of missionary funds by his Convention for its last fiscal year was $16,000. In his Convention field other denominations are represented by general workers as follows: Methodists, 6; Congregationalists, 5; Presbyterians, 4. The perplexity which this single fact creates will readily be understood by any one at all acquainted with Western missionary work. To further illustrate this source of our perplexity I submit the following facts: In the three States of Oregon, Washington and Idaho we are maintaining six general or field workers, including the State missionaries, who also do the executive work of the Conventions. In the same field the Methodists have seventeen district superintendents or presiding elders, who receive, according to the Methodist Year Book for 1911, salaries aggregating $32,800. The total appropriation of the Home Mission Society for these three great States, which include four organized State Conventions, for the year just ending is $30,500, which is about $2,300 less than the Methodists are spending for salaries to general workers alone, not including their evangelists and bishops. When figures like these for two or three other denominations are also considered, some of the perplexities of our Western mission work are made clear.

The needs of the Pacific Division are manifold, but in a way they might all be summed up in one word—money. I made as full and as strong an appeal as I could frame for considerably increased funds, in view of conditions fully stated accompanying my appeal. The total result in the way of response for carrying on the work for the incoming year in nine great and growing Conventions was an increase of $1,100 in the missionary fund and a decrease in the edifice fund of $5,100. There are three classes of needs in this division as a whole: first, an increase in the missionary funds for our regular work; second, some special grants to take care of unusual and non-recurring needs; third, much larger regular appropriations for edifice work. While it is true that we could carry on the missionary department of our work with fairly satisfactory enlargement with an increase of about $7,500 to the division as a whole, we could undertake some other neglected and weak interests if we had a still larger increase. The second need could be met for the present year with an increase of about $10,000 above the amount set apart by the Society for such cases. The third need mentioned, an increase in the regular funds for edifice building, is seen to be a much greater one than usual as our Convention year is developing. What we shall do during the next twelve months with the present outlook is a question which causes me great anxiety. It now looks as if we shall have to stand by and see opportunity after opportunity lost to us for lack of money. I am fully aware that the officers and Board of the Society are as helpless in this matter as I am, and that they share with me in the profound disappointment which such a situation occasions. We can only state the case and beseech the God of all grace to awaken the minds and quicken the beneficence of the denomination in the interests of these Western fields.

Southwestern Division: Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and New Mexico

REV. BRUCE KINNEY, D.D., TOPEKA, KAN., SUPERINTENDENT

FEW people realize the great variety of problems in this division. Eastern Kansas is as settled as Indiana and almost as conservative. We have here in aggravated form the problem of the rural church. Oklahoma, while largely agricultural, was opened to white settlement only twenty-three years ago, and is still throbbing with youthful impulses, and has hardly found herself. This State also has the largest Indian population and the bulk of the Indian work of this Society. Colorado, famed for fruits, potatoes, alfalfa and all kinds of mineral resources, has a variety of problems. New Mexico, just coming into Statehood, has problems all its own. There is a large Indian population, and the largest percentage of Mexicans (if indeed it has not the largest aggregate number) of any of the States. In all of these States the foreign problem is getting acute in the mining and manufacturing centers.

During the past year there has been no change in the staff of general workers, for which we are devoutly grateful. Efficient leadership cannot be had without experience, and that cannot be gained in a year or so. In spite of poor crops for the last two years or more in many large sections of this division, our work has been forging ahead. It would seem almost as if some of our evangelistic successes had been because of these things. The people have had more time for and greater need of the consolations of the Gospel.

In spite of the conditions in New Mexico, our work has prospered. Our (old) Convention had more baptisms than were ever reported by all the Baptists of New Mexico before the division came. Our people there surely abounded out of their poverty in good work. Farmers in the "Dry Farming" belt have raised no crops for two years at least. Many have placed one or two mortgages on their places or stock in order to have money to live. They pay not less than 12 per cent. per annum for this money, and yet out of that money they have raised their apportionment for State Missions in many cases.

Before this report is in print it is expected that the recommendations of the Joint Commission will be made public. It is also hoped that they will be able to settle the differences which have hindered the work in New Mexico for the last four years. One of the saddest features of this entirely unnecessary affair is not the misunderstanding between the Boards concerned, but the hostilities aroused in the local churches, which, no matter how the Boards may adjust their differences, cannot be healed for many years.

City Missions

It may surprise some to be told that Kansas City, Kan., is the largest city in the State. It now has over 82,000 people. While far down the scale as to size, it is seventh in the value of its manufactured products, having packing industries second only to Chicago. There are many difficulties in our work there. The town grew not from one common center, but from several separated by deep ravines, rivers and railroad yards. Most of the wealth created here is spent on the Missouri side, and is not, therefore, available for work in Kansas. In one section is a congested foreign population speaking twenty-five or more different languages, mostly from southern Europe. We now have an efficient City Mission Society, with Rev. Ray E. York in charge, that is courageously attacking the problem.

Denver is now a city of 213,000 people. It is the greatest city between the Missouri River and the Pacific Coast States. For nearly twenty years not a new church was organized, but recently new life has been manifested, which has resulted in a City Mission Society and several new churches.

Indian Work

Here again there have been no changes in the personnel of the workers under our commission. The Comanches Mission, however, sustained an irreparable loss in the death of Mrs. Deyo, who had labored so fruitfully for eighteen years by the side of her husband for that people.

Fortunate indeed are we in the noble men in this work. They have been willing to devote not a few romantic years to the red man, but their entire lives and gifts have been consecrated to this God-given task.

We had hoped to have opened before this our mission among the Sac and Fox, which was discontinued some years ago. Conditions now seem more favorable, and it is confidently expected that we shall soon again enter that field upon which nothing is now being done in a religious way.

Neglected Fields Survey

This Commission met at two points in this division. Naturally differences of opinion arose on some points. It must have been conceded by all that there was much more overlooking than overlapping. It was also apparent to everybody that all of the Boards were more or less influenced to undertake work in communities which promised the largest returns in dividends upon the money invested. At the same time there are thousands of groups of a few score or a few hundred each which will always remain as large as they are, but which are neglected by all concerned because there is no likelihood that large, self-supporting churches can soon be realized on these fields. It may be the commercial spirit to invest money only where large returns are promised, but I doubt if it is the missionary spirit. These groups may be found in the mining districts, lumber camps, cattle country or rural communities. These fields in the aggregate contain many hundreds of thousands of individuals, who constitute some of the most vital factors in our national life. Shall they be utterly neglected because they happen not to live in large cities? We must all address ourselves in some co-operative and adequate way to the task of providing the Gospel for these many small but entirely neglected fields. Our Commission says, "Unto Every Creature."

Central Division: Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Wyoming and Montana

REV. D. D. PROPER, D.D., OMAHA, NEB., SUPERINTENDENT

CENTRAL DIVISION combines the old and the new, the well-settled and the frontier parts of our country. In the older sections the population is largely at a standstill or decreasing, while the newly settling parts are increasing. Each geographical section has serious difficulties confronting the Kingdom workers.

In the latter part of 1911 a deputation of six Home Mission secretaries, representing as many denominations, held State consultations preliminary to a more systematic investigation of religious conditions. There was enough developed in a one day meeting for each State to show that a more thorough canvass of conditions should be made.

In this study of religious work it was found that there was not much over-churching in cities or in country districts. While there was some overlapping found, it was in small towns, and not as much as was expected when the work began. It developed that a considerable part of this apparent over-churching was due to so many foreign-speaking peoples, each demanding its own church. It was found also in these conferences that there is quite a large amount of unoccupied territory in the rural parts of the newer States.

It is a safe deduction from information gathered that the frontier Home Mission work is by no means completed in the mountain States.

1. In the older settled portions of Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and North Dakota there is a steady migration of the people westward, and the great problem is to sustain the services of these churches, which are sending out little colonies almost each year to the places of cheaper lands. Some of them in a single year lose about one-third of the active membership, and of financial help in proportion. It is only by the hardest efforts and the greatest sacrifices on the part of remaining members that the churches are open for services. In a number of instances they have given up the struggle and abandoned the work.

2. There is another very serious problem in adequately occupying the new places, and thus gathering up these emigrating members into Baptist churches. These problems are like the cross-cut saw, they cut going and coming. We find a number of places where our "moving members" going to places where there are no Baptist churches have become pillars in churches of other denominations, while but very few of the other denominations come to us.

Foreigners

3. These people of other languages are buying out the Americans and establishing churches of their own faith and tongue, and English-speaking churches are going out of business. I have in mind an American Baptist church in Nebraska, where the people of a foreign nationality are crowding out the Baptists, even though they do have a fine house of worship and a good parsonage. Baptists even of their own tongue could never accept of their form of religion.

In a town of South Dakota, where we have a good house of worship, the people of another tongue are crowding in upon the Baptists, so that it is very difficult to sustain services, and eventually we will have to give up entirely. The only way to survive is to get hold of the children and young people and grow a constituency, but this appears impossible with constant removal of members.

In Saline County, Nebraska, there are about 10,000 Bohemians, and the most of them are infidels. They are increasing all the time, and the Americans simply have to give back before such a mass of aliens.

In Rock Springs, Wyoming, the Baptist Church is making a heroic effort to establish itself in the midst of a mass of foreigners, just where the Gospel is sorely needed, but where the obstacles are almost insurmountable.

4. The lack of sufficient means and men to meet these needs, both in the old and the new parts of the field, is the great problem, which is always with us. We could get the men if we had the means. In some of these States we are trying to carry on our work with about one-half the allowance given by some other denominations. Of course we are losing in some of these States, not for lack of heroic consecration on the part of the workers there, but for lack of more of them.

Unquestionably there has been some sectarian rivalry, but in these newer States the field is so large that it need not be difficult to keep out of each other's way and work in needy places.

Denominational Census

In Wyoming a carefully prepared denominational census revealed that only 7 per cent. of the population belonged to Protestant churches, while 8 per cent. was Catholic. This left 85 per cent. outside of church membership lists. Probably Montana would make about the same percentages, with a larger area of religious destitution. This shows conclusively that our pioneer mission work is not yet done.

The reports of the General Missionaries will show that the Home Mission work in these States west of the Missouri River has been quite prosperous. It is doubtful if some of the sacrifices of the missionary pastors on some of these fields has been surpassed in recent years. The severe drouth in great portions of the division caused reduction of salaries, but most of the workers remained at their posts of duty. A few churches have become self-supporting, although not many could be reasonably expected to do so under present conditions.

The Crow Indian Mission

At Lodge Grass, Montana, we have what is said to be the best equipped Indian mission plant of the denomination. On a quarter section of land there is a home for the missionary, with a large council room for the Indians, a chapel, and a good school-house. There is a Crow Baptist Church of about thirty members and an enrollment of some fifty children in the day school. There has been much opposition on the part of the Catholic priests the past two years, but some of the withdrawn pupils have been returned and the outlook in this matter is more hopeful.

Rev. W. A. Petzoldt and his wife have been in charge of this mission from the beginning, some eight years ago. No words of praise could do these faithful workers justice for the self-sacrificing service they have rendered to the living, the sick, the dying and the dead.

Last fall a new mission school was opened at Wyola, about fourteen miles south of Lodge Grass. A good building has been erected on a fine campus, and two young women, supported by the Women's Home Mission Society, conduct a school for the children. These sisters, in common with the two in the school at Lodge Grass, are admirably adapted for this work, and very faithful and efficient. They have great sacrifices, to which many of their sisters are strangers, but they are happy in the conscious approval of the Master.

During the year Rev. George L. White, after several years of faithful work, retired from the position of General Missionary for Wyoming. Rev. Hal P. Fudge, a man well qualified for the work, has been appointed as his successor. He is already getting a strong hold on a difficult situation. There has not been any change in the other State missionaries from that of last year. They are all doing good, faithful work.

In Iowa, Rev. J. A. Pettit has succeeded Rev. Fred Berry as State Evangelist and is doing excellent work, holding special meetings in the churches.

During the year Montana has been added to this division. Rev. Thomas Stephenson is the State missionary, and has the work well in hand, although for various causes there are many obstacles to progress.

The superintendent of the division gives nearly one-half time to the work of District Secretary for "Central District," and the rest to this mission work.

The Germans

REV. G. A. SCHULTE, D.D., NEWARK, N. J.

NOTHING out of the ordinary has occurred during the past year in the history of the German work, but it has been prosecuted with more than ordinary energy and with fairly good results.

The Present Status

The present membership of the German churches is 30,746. There were added by baptism during the past year 1,116; by letter and experience, 1,262; dismissed by letter, 1,234; lost by death, 281; by exclusion, 305; and dropped, 313.

Seventeen new meeting-houses were dedicated during the year and eleven new churches were organized. Five of our mission churches became self-supporting, but we were compelled to restore for the time being two hitherto self-supporting churches to the list of mission churches, on account of the failure of crops in their districts for two succeeding years.

The total amount raised in the German churches for all purposes during the past year is $420,365.94. Of this amount, $92,751 was for missionary and benevolent objects, and $327,614.94 for local objects, including current expenses, chapel building, etc. Thus the German churches have contributed at an average of $13.70 per member.

The Extent of the Work

The Home Mission Society has kindly appropriated for the past year $7,000 for the prosecution of the German work in this country, on condition that the same amount should be contributed by the German churches, which was done. But as this amount could not nearly cover the necessities of the vast mission field from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, the German churches had to make an additional contribution of $14,605.90 for Home Mission work among the Germans in this country. The whole amount expended during the past year was $31,605.41. Thus the German churches contributed a total sum of $21,605.41 for Home Mission work among the Germans in this country during the past thirteen months, as our fiscal year was changed from March 1st to April 1st in order to correspond with the closing of the year of the Home Mission Society.

The Crop Failure

The failure of crop has affected several States in which we are prosecuting the German work. It has decreased the contributions from the churches for missionary objects and has made it difficult to raise the amount needed for the support of the churches. This was especially the case in North Dakota. We were obliged to abandon for the time being the work in two districts where we had a good beginning. But most of the people moved away and the remaining members were unable to do anything for the cause. The members of one of our churches west of the Missouri, just organized during the past summer, became so impoverished that they actually had no bread to eat. Your Superintendent personally went over the field, and after finding a state of real distress and conditions very serious, made efforts to provide for the bare necessities of the people. The matter was presented to the churches and they responded very liberally. A carload of flour was purchased at Minneapolis and sent by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad free of charge to the destination for free distribution to the needy families. Our good sisters of our German churches also supplied them with necessary clothing. The whole affair reminded us of the experience of the Apostles in the first Christian churches regarding the poor saints in Judea.

A Significant Fact

It is a significant fact that of the members dismissed by letter during the past year, 287 have found a home in English-speaking churches. This number is large enough to constitute a good-sized, vigorous and liberal church, as it is usually the case that the most intelligent and prosperous of our young members leave our German churches for more congenial environments in English-speaking churches. This must be considered a contribution of the German churches in living men and women of active workers to the common cause.

We have also dismissed from our ranks two groups of members, one of 54 from the First Church at Cleveland, Ohio, and the other of 44 members from the Third Church at Chicago. The first group to organize a church among the Slavs in that city and the other to organize a Hungarian church. Most of these members understood the German language, by means of which they were brought in connection with the Baptists, and after being taught in regard to Baptist principles and usages, are now able to work among their own people for our common Master and His cause in the Baptist denomination. This is another contribution of the German churches, and must certainly be called a valuable one.

Still another contribution for the purpose of laboring among their own countrymen was the dismissal from our list of two Polish churches in Wisconsin, with about 700 members. Both churches were organized under the fostering care of the German Baptists, and after having been trained and somewhat Americanized, are now able to walk and work in unison with their sister churches of the State Convention. These contributions of living members explain the comparatively small increase in membership during the past year.

The amount contributed by the German churches for Foreign Missions during the past year is $20,936.48. Of this sum, 4 missionaries were practically supported in South America, 13 in different parts of Russia, 6 in Germany, 2 in Switzerland, 3 in Roumania, 4 in Austria Hungary and Galicia, and 1 in Bulgaria. These men could not have continued in their work had it not been for the assistance of the German churches in this country. Of the above amount, $432.26 was designated for the mission in Cameroon, West Africa; $6,090.34 was paid into the treasury of the American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, and $831.87 direct to missionaries of the Society who went from the German churches to the foreign field. In order to save the property at Warschau, Russia, the churches have contributed an extra sum not included in the above total of $2,951.29, and $500 for the church debt at Bruenn, Moravia.

The German churches have contributed for the support of seventeen aged and disabled ministers in their ranks last year to the amount of $3,550.76, and they have supplied the missionary at Ellis Island employed by the Women's Baptist Home Missionary Society with funds to be used among needy immigrants according to her discretion. The sum of $300 was thus spent.

REPORTS OF GENERAL MISSIONARIES

Arizona

REV. T. F. MCCOURTNEY, PHOENIX

THE missionary work in Arizona which has been conducted during the last year has followed along the same lines which have been previously reported. Five colored churches have been assisted. The rest of the work is among the white population, which is growing apace in this wonderful State, where irrigation is drawing an excellent class of people, principally from the north, to till the waiting farms, and where the mining centers are bringing a large population. To gather the Christians among newcomers into churches, and soon to make them into independent congregations, infused from the first with a missionary spirit, is a part of our labor. But the difficulties connected with this kind of service are somewhat different from those which we face in trying to carry forward our missionary endeavors in the mining centers, where the population is constantly shifting. Under these conditions our missionaries are preaching to a procession, but those who are under the influence of our workers for a few months frequently become stalwart Christians in the communities in which they later reside.

The future development of Arizona is to be most marked in several agricultural sections, and these will furnish more than any other type of communities permanent home mission buildings and residences.

The "Pastor-at-large" has been discontinued, and the general missionary is endeavoring to do the general work expected of at least two men. We found it necessary to increase assistance to certain churches in order to provide a suitable living for competent men, and this has prevented the undertaking of some new work.

The Indian mission to the Hopis has been conducted by the Rev. Lee I. Thayer, with excellent results, and the work is very promising. Heroism, tactfulness and consecration are exhibited by our Indian missionaries to a very wonderful degree.

A general missionary among the Negro population has been employed during the year in conjunction with the New Mexico Convention.

The great need for next year in our church edifice work is the erection of a suitable chapel at Tucson. There is perhaps no other place outside of old Mexico where the opportunity for effective work among the Mexicans is so promising. The only Spanish worker which we have employed is located there, and the Woman's Home Mission Society has recently appointed a woman to work among the Chinese at Tucson. She will also help in our Mexican work, and a good chapel seems almost imperative.

In Tucson more than half the population speak a foreign language, and the people are very largely Mexicans. The children all speak English rapidly, as they attend our public schools, and the opportunities for Christian service are very great.

Southern California Baptist Convention

REV. J. F. WATSON, LOS ANGELES

THE year 1911 was one of general advance. Enlargement was the key word. Reports show a larger number of missionaries, a larger number of baptisms and members received, a larger number of churches raising their apportionments and larger gifts for all departments of the work.

Besides the ten general workers and missionaries, forty-one missionary pastors served part or full time.

Churches were organized at Los Angeles South Park, Los Angeles Mt. Olive, La Mesa, and for the Mexicans in Los Angeles. Mission stations were opened at McKittrick, Olig, Blythe, Sunnyside and El Segundo; also for the Mexicans at two points in Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Monrovia, Long Beach and Bakersfield, and for the Russians in Los Angeles.

Buildings were erected at Hermosa, El Centro, Holtville, La Mesa and El Segundo. Building enterprises are under headway at Los Angeles South Park and Redondo. Improvements were made on the church buildings at Garden Grove, Santa Paula and Lompoc. A parsonage was purchased at Lompoc and one built at Otay.

The rapidly growing cities and towns offer opportunities and demands for new work that are overwhelming. Los Angeles and San Diego offer not less than six strategic points for new work. Besides these, as many as eight towns with a population from five hundred to three thousand could be occupied to advantage.

The foreign population is presenting a new problem in Southern California. Large numbers of several nationalities are receiving no Christian privileges whatever. Among these are Italians, Slavonians, Greeks and Hindus.

Northern California

REV. C. W. BRINSTAD, BERKELEY, CAL.

THE Convention reached high-water mark in many respects at its last annual meeting in San Francisco. The total enrollment was 431. The results of the missionary work for the year were the most encouraging in the history of the Convention. Eight new churches have been organized. Eleven church buildings have been dedicated, aggregating nearly $100,000.00; all of these but three received help from the Church Edifice Fund.

Fifty-six missionaries were under commission, and they served 153 churches and 19 out-stations. They received into the mission churches a total of 847 persons, or nearly one-half of the total additions to all the churches in the Convention. The mission churches raised for local expenses $33,837.69, and for missions $4,111.46. Six of the mission churches became self-supporting and a number of others have made such good progress that the appropriation from the Convention and Home Mission Society for pastoral support has been materially reduced.

Notable progress has been made among the Indians and foreign-speaking people. At Auberry an Indian church has been organized, which is doing a far-reaching work among the Mono and Yokut Indians. Among foreigners considerable advance has been made among the Russians, Finns and Spanish-speaking people of California. A missionary has also been appointed to the Japanese, among whom there are several thousand young men without homes and absolutely destitute of the Gospel. There are other splendid openings for foreign missionary work in this State, and excellent workers can be secured if we could only get the money to support them. It is said on good authority that there are about fifty nationalities represented in California for whom no religious effort is being made.

California is already feeling the impetus due to the Panama-Pacific Exposition, which is to be held here in 1915. The most gigantic attempts at promotion in the history of the country are being planned. The whole world is being informed systematically of the merits and possibilities of California. Scores of irrigating projects are being worked out for our fertile valleys, and colonization on a large scale has already begun. This means a large number of prosperous towns and cities and increased demands upon our Missionary Society. Our most imperative need at present is a fund with which to secure lots in new towns for future Baptist churches; prices now are very low as compared to what they will be in a few years.

Perhaps the most rapidly developing district on the coast is the San Francisco Bay region. Our metropolis, San Francisco, as well as the cities on the east side of the bay, are witnessing unprecedented growth. The Exposition will bring added thousands to these cities. If Baptists are to do their share in evangelizing these people, we must considerably increase our missionary force. We could use to good advantage more missionaries than are now being employed in our whole Convention field in San Francisco and vicinity. It is to be hoped that the Baptists of the Northern Convention will by their gifts enable the Home Mission Society to come to the assistance of our Convention in such fashion as exigencies demand.

Colorado

REV. WILL C. KING, DENVER

THE Colorado Convention did a vast amount of effective work the past year, and raised a total of $9,784.48, or an average per capita for our membership of seventy-five cents, the largest offering in our history. We have had sixty-two different men under commission, and count ourselves exceedingly fortunate in the high order of service rendered on an average by these consecrated missionaries.

During the year nineteen new churches were constituted, some of these being in places furnishing illustrations of great destitution. During the summer season we prosecuted a most vigorous tent campaign, with remarkable results.

Several building enterprises of importance were brought to a successful conclusion, and others were begun and not yet completed. The Barnum Chapel, Denver, and a fine building at Iliff should be mentioned among the former. Among the latter is the meeting-house at Moffat, where a cement block structure is now nearing completion.

There are two large sections of our State that present outstanding claims upon our attention, and we should enter these this year. I refer to the Montezuma Valley, where oil has been discovered, and the Routt County country, where railway enterprises of vast magnitude are being planned.

Idaho

REV. W. H. BOWLER, BOISE

THE past has witnessed a larger growth and development than any previous year. We gladly and gratefully acknowledge the fact that the financial aid given us by the Home Mission Society during the many past years has been an indispensable factor in the enlargement of our work, and a large share of credit is due the Society for the work outlined in this report.

Four churches have been organized, two of which are in communities where no other Protestant denomination is at work, and all are in communities which are destined to become strategic points. Two new church buildings were erected, one of which ranks among the largest, most attractive and best equipped in the State. The Society assisted in this work to the amount of $1,500. Three parsonages were built; 500 new members were received; 150 were baptized; $1,000 more money was spent in State mission work than in any previous year.

Summary of work: Thirty-four men have been commissioned, some of whom have served only a portion of the year. Among the workers commissioned were one State evangelist, two district missionaries and one general missionary. Eleven new preaching stations were opened, three of which have already grown into churches. One church has become self-supporting. This field is a concrete illustration of the importance of home mission work. The church is located at Twin Falls. This city sprang up in the heart of a new irrigation project and grew like magic, attaining a population of 2,000 within one year's time. The Society assisted us in the support of a pastor and in building a meeting-house, and now, after only five years of dependence upon the Society, it is a strong, self-supporting church, making large contributions to all our denominational missionary interests. The same year the church became self-supporting it gave for all missionary purposes $482.32.

The developments which have taken place in our State during the past few years have opened wonderful opportunities to us for enlarging our work, and in some measure we have been able to lay hold of them, and we have experienced a large growth.

In addition to the gigantic task of caring for the religious needs of these innumerable new communities, we are confronted with the appalling destitution of isolated communities which are away from the railroad among the mountains. A recent study of unmet needs in the rural districts of Idaho reveals the following facts concerning the isolated sections of the State: One county, with 28 school districts, has only one resident preacher, four preaching stations and eight Sunday-schools. Another county with a rural population of 10,000, is without a single regular rural preaching station. In still another county, with a rural population of 18,000, there are only four regular religious services for the entire rural population at the present time.

Kansas

REV. J. T. CRAWFORD, PARSONS

THE year has been one of progress. We report 5,298 additions, with 2,656 of them by baptism. The net gain was 855. Our losses were quite largely through removals and the "drop list." Fourteen new churches were organized, many of them in new and important communities. Six new houses were dedicated and three remodeled and rededicated. Other good buildings were in process of erection.

During the Convention year from October 1, 1910, to October 1, 1911, 92 workers were under appointment. We report the largest force of workers ever sent into the fields. Besides 92 churches and 54 out-stations regularly served, hundreds of fields were visited. The missionary force reported 1,200 conversions and reclamations, 833 baptisms and 775 additions by letter and relation. Six churches came to self-support and eight new fields were entered.

In the church edifice department gifts aggregating $1,100 were made to four churches and loans to others amounting to $2,100. The Society pays two-thirds of the gifts and furnishes all the loans.

The plan of co-operation between the State Convention and the associations in the support of associational missionaries has been continued with profit. Agreement is reached on four items: (1) the worker; (2) the type of work; (3) support; (4) reports.

Special efforts to employ State evangelists have not proved very successful. It has been difficult to keep suitable men in the field.

The co-operative work in Kansas City has been efficient beyond the highest hopes. The Society and Convention bear the full salary of a city missionary secretary, who is general superintendent of the work and

The organization of new churches in the State of Montana cannot be encouraged beyond a certain limit on account of finances. The first church organization this year was in Havre, on the Great Northern Railroad, a railroad town with a population of 4,000 people and the center of a large and growing farming industry. The second organization was brought into existence in Gildford, thirty miles northwest of Havre, where we are alone in the Gospel work. The two organizations will be united under one pastor for the present. For a distance of 400 miles this new interest is the only Baptist work on the Great Northern Railroad, where thousands of settlers are coming into our State to make their homes in what will be one of the greatest winter wheat sections in the United States. A new white church was organized in Lodge Grass, where our Indian mission is being carried on by our consecrated leader, Rev. W. A. Petzold. This is the only Protestant work among the Americans in that section. The organization started March 4th, in Whitefish, and is located in one of the beautiful spots of Montana, a town of 1,200 people. Our youngest church is in the country, forty miles from a railroad, where no work has been done by any denomination. The writer counted 100 houses in sight of the school-house where the organization was formed. This church will be the center of operations in this particular section of the Flathead Reservation, covering a territory of 100 square miles of rich farming lands.

The general missionary has a distance of 4,300 miles to travel in order to reach all the needy fields in the State where we have churches, and a like distance on his return.

A large number of our own Baptists in Montana have taken homesteads varying from one to four hundred miles from the home church. This makes the work more difficult, and some of our good pastors feel the loss, both financially and spiritually.

Nebraska

REV. FRED BERRY, LINCOLN

DURING the year closing with March 31, 1912, there have been employed, 35 different missionaries, who have supplied 37 churches. $7,853.41 has been spent for their salaries and expenses. Number of missionary churches becoming self-supporting, 8; new churches organized, 4; churches rejuvenated, 19; evangelistic meetings held in the State during the year, 91. Of these, 54 were conducted by our pastors and 37 by evangelists. Large numbers have been converted and churches encouraged. Number of churches pastorless where there is a good prospect of carrying on work, 15; number of churches where the people have moved away, leaving the church building and possibly one or two members, 20; number of churches built or rebuilt, 4; number of churches planning to build or rebuild during the coming year, 8; number of churches provided with pastors during the year, 56.

Nebraska Baptists stand face to face with great opportunities. The whole North Platte Valley is open to us with opportunities of organizing new fields and building up our old churches. Irrigation has become a practical and permanent thing in this valley, so that people are pouring in in large numbers. We have great opportunities also in our country fields, long distances from towns and railroads, and the people need the Gospel. We have many old church buildings where the Baptists have moved away that need to be used for Gospel work. We need in Nebraska one strong evangelist to give his whole time to the fields. We also need one good pastor-at-large to look after our seriously crippled fields. Nebraska is very largely a missionary field and must be thus considered.

Nevada-Sierra Baptist Convention

GEORGE R. VARNEY, RENO, NEV.

APRIL 14, 1911, we organized the Convention with nine churches in this vast territory; now there are eleven. Two county seats, Elko and Winnemucca, possess these two promising organizations, both of which have secured lots and taken steps toward erecting houses of worship, the latter having already completed a temporary structure in which to worship. Alturas has built a parsonage, and all have made commendable progress except Tonopah, where nothing has been done for two years.

Eleven different missionaries, including two general missionaries, have supplied the seven mission churches and done faithful work.

Since November, chapel car "Good Will" has been in Nevada, and the faithful labors of the manager, Rev. L. T. Barkman, and his wife and son have borne fruit in the two churches that have been organized. At this writing the car is at Mason, where it will remain for some weeks. We hope to retain it in the Convention for at least a year. The hearty thanks of the Convention are due the Publication Society for giving us this car, and also for its colporter, Rev. George W. Black.

We could use in this Convention conservatively and for the glory of God at least $2,000 more from the Home Mission Society, without whose liberal gift of $4,500 the work of the past year would have been impossible.

Our whole Convention field is big with promise. We are trying to measure up to our opportunities and privileges, but we are poor. Our farmers will be rich, but they are now paying for their land and water and are unable to give large sums, although they stand well toward the head in their per capita gifts. Our people are united as one man in their desire and effort to take this part of Christ's kingdom for Him, but they must have help.

New Mexico

REV. P. W. LONGFELLOW, PH.D., ROSWELL

DURING the past year the work of the New Mexico Baptist Convention has been prosecuted with great earnestness and devotion by her thirty-seven missionaries, certainly as efficient a body of workers as she has ever sent into the field. Fifteen new churches have been organized, our total number now being eighty-five, grouped in five associations, and having a membership of 3,050. During the year there were 503 additions to the churches by baptism and nearly as many more by letter and experience. Never in a single year have we had so many additions by baptism.

Our work has gone forward amid the greatest hindrances arising out of the division of New Mexico Baptists into two Conventions of different affiliation.

The report of the Commission created by the two great Conventions to consider, among other matters, "The New Mexico Situation," has been for months awaited by our people with almost painful interest. That report has but recently come before us.

North Dakota

REV. C. E. HEMANS, GRAND FORKS

DURING the year ending March 31st there have been twenty missionary pastors at work in the State, some of them all the time, but more for a shorter period. At present there are more men at the head of the churches than for years. Most of these men have served two fields and some of them more. About two hundred new members have been added to the churches, mostly by baptism.

Four general workers also have been at work in the State for all or part of the time, the general missionary, district missionary among the Scandinavians and two evangelists. Only the first two are under appointment at present. The State is so large and the work so scattering that these two are kept more than busy caring especially for the weaker fields and general interests of the work.

Three churches have decided for self-support and others are well on the way to independence.

Two new churches have been organized and others would have been organized if there had been money with which to start and carry on the work.

At Lidgerwood a splendid new edifice, with all the appointments for carrying on a most aggressive work, has been built and all the money pledged to make it clear of debt. The meeting-house at Riga has been moved to Sawyer, a distance of twenty-eight miles, ten feet added to it, placed upon a good cement basement and is occupied at present. The Baptists of Stanley have built a fine cement basement, with even a baptistry in it, which will be used until it will be possible to erect a good, serviceable superstructure. At Glenburn the building located about two miles and a half from the place has been moved into the village and will be used temporarily. It is fully intended to excavate for a good building here next summer. The first two have already received aid from the Home Mission Society and the others will expect help in completing their enterprises.

In the eastern part of the State, from which almost entire churches emigrated at one time or another a few years ago, a good, healthy tide of immigration has commenced and bids fair to be permanent in the future.

North Dakota is a State of largely foreign-speaking peoples, the Scandinavians being greatly in the preponderance. Already we have a good foothold among the Norwegians and Swedes. We also have four churches among the Russians and several other preaching places. It is safe to say that there are a thousand Russians who are either already Baptists or sympathize very much with us. There are several Hungarian colonies also which have a good sprinkling of Baptists. We ought to do some work among these people.

Oklahoma

MR. J. C. STALCUP, OKLAHOMA CITY

NOTWITHSTANDING the general financial stringency over this part of the country, caused by an unprecedented drouth, we had the best year's work of our history. More baptisms were reported; more churches organized; more meeting-houses built; more effective Sunday-school work done, such as grading Sunday-schools, organizing teachers' training classes, issuing diplomas for work done; organizing and maintaining mission study classes and general development work. In addition to this, 28 meeting-houses have been built at a cost of from $1,500 to $3,000 each, made possible and greatly encouraged in building by gifts from the Home Mission Society of the N. B. C. and Home Board of the S. B. C. In this connection I beg to report that building adequate meeting-houses is one phase of work which is most greatly needed in this State. There are several hundred churches in both town and country that are greatly handicapped and hindered in their work for want of a suitable place of worship. It is very difficult to build up any permanent work on these fields until houses can be built. With adequate meeting places many of them would at once take on new life and activities and become strong centers of missionary power, both at home and abroad. As I see it, the two things most greatly needed now in our work in this State is more adequate houses of worship and more well-equipped, capable pastors to lead and develop these churches in all the work of the Kingdom. We already have a large number of such men, but need many more.

The Indian work among the five civilized tribes has prospered.

While there are many new fields which should be opened, among them a number of railroad and country towns as well as country districts, which are rapidly crystallizing into centers of commercial importance and to which we must give much thought and attention, that is not pre-eminently our problem in Oklahoma. In my judgment, looking to world-wide conquest, the most important problem confronting us in this new State is the matter of developing and equipping the churches which we now have for more efficient service along all lines of Christian activity.

Under our amended schedule, this year we have only the months of March and April in which to take offerings for Home and Foreign Missions. I am trying to so organize the forces as to concentrate the entire strength of the denomination upon these two important phases of our work during these two months. I have made more liberal and judicious distribution of Home and Foreign Mission literature this year than ever before, and we are now engaged in holding a series of mission conferences at eight or ten prominent places over the State in the interest of this work. While it is impossible to forecast what may be the results from a financial standpoint, I am hoping that we shall reach our apportionment for these two objects at least and go beyond if possible.

Oregon

REV. F. C. W. PARKER, PORTLAND

UNPRECEDENTED railroad construction and railroad advertising are two outstanding facts in connection with Oregon that give full and practical assurance concerning the increased missionary opportunity that insistently demands greatly enlarged activity upon our part.

During 1911 there was spent for railroad construction in Oregon $29,570,000. For this year plans are made for work to the extent of $39,350,000. It is impossible to enumerate all this includes. A railroad has been completed to the coast and progress made on other branches. The most significant railroad development has been the construction of the two railroads up either side of the Deschutes Canyon into Central Oregon. The completion of these as far as Bend was celebrated on October 5th by the driving of a golden spike by President James J. Hill. These railroads will extend south and also east and west, but even the completion to Bend is sufficient to greatly transform the whole map of Central Oregon.

The opening of this great railroadless area—equal to about half the State and about the size of Pennsylvania—has been the chief point of interest in plans for advance missionary work. We preceded the railroad by a district missionary, and when his health failed, we placed in that important, newly developing section our Convention Pastor, Rev. H. B. Foskett, who is there doing an excellent constructive work.

For work in this great section we ought to be using $5,000 and to have available large and generous edifice funds. This is absolutely impossible in view of the vast amount of work for which we are already responsible in the more settled parts of the State. We appreciate the increase in the Home Mission Society's appropriation this past year, but must confess that without still further increase we cannot possibly meet the present opportunity.

Oregon's area has been practically doubled during the past year, although actually it still remains 96,030 square miles. This large increase in the developing area of Oregon confronts us with missionary problems that are staggering.

During the last Convention year a distinct advance was made in the extent of our work. The business of the year amounted to $18,134.48, against $15,789.33 last year, and in addition to that amount there was expended $1,730.47 in edifice work; $224 for aged ministers' fund, and $242.08 for the Russian brethren—a total of $20,331.03.

During this period 46 missionaries were employed, including General Missionary, Convention Pastor, Superintendent of City Missions, Swedish, Italian and Negro missionaries, several district missionaries, etc. In addition to the large amount of work accomplished by the general workers, the missionaries served 52 churches and 19 out-stations. During the year 5 churches assumed self-support. Three churches were organized, Lafayette, Newport and Redmond, the latter in one of the three best towns along the railroad into Central Oregon. Church edifices were erected at Enterprise, Cottage Grove and Myrtle Creek, valued respectively at $8,000, $2,500 and $2,500. Edifices were partially completed at Bandon and Clatskanie. Four other churches, once aided but now self-supporting, enlarged their buildings—Grant's Pass, Montavilla, Arleta and First German Portland; and one church, Ashland, erected a new church of a fine type valued at $15,000.

South Dakota

REV. S. P. SHAW, SIOUX FALLS

THE year has been one of real progress along almost every line of work. Four churches have come to self-support, 7 new churches have been organized and 9 new fields occupied. Church buildings and chapels have been erected as follows: Wakonda, Wagner, Isabel and Timber Lake; Rapid City and Mitchell have buildings under process of construction; Wessington Springs and Trent have purchased church buildings; parsonages have been built at Wagner, Burke and Loyalton. There have been fifty missionaries commissioned during the year. Included in these are Pastor-at-large, Rev. James B. McKeenan; Missionary to the Danish-Norwegians, Rev. W. J. Andreasen; Swedish Missionary, Rev. Carl Hasselblad.

There were 433 received into our churches by baptism and 393 received otherwise, making a total addition to our membership of 826.

There is much new territory to be occupied. In the Belle Fourche district, where the Government has just completed its three million dollar dam, there is a large section of country to be irrigated, and this will be allotted in comparatively small plats, making a thickly settled district. The new line of railroad will be extended much farther during the coming year. In the Rosebud Reservation a large section of country was opened up to settlement last fall and another large strip will be opened this spring. If the first part of this reservation opened for settlement is to be the criterion by which we are to measure the development of this later territory opened, then it is highly important that we shall possess many fields in this new territory during this coming year.

Then, in the older settled part of the State there are many destitute fields that ought to be occupied. There is every indication of prosperity in material things for the coming year and we must make it a prosperous year along spiritual lines.

Utah

GEORGE R. VARNEY, RENO, NEV.

THE missionary work of this convention has been prosecuted faithfully throughout the year by nine missionary pastors and two general missionaries. Seven of the fields report no baptisms, but the other three report 68, 61 of which were at the Rio Grande mission. There have been 18 additions to four of the fields by letter, 11 of which were at the Rio Grande mission. The losses by letter and death have been 37. The total membership reported is 336, of which 45 are non-resident.

Garfield has been abandoned as an out-station because of our inability to secure from the company either lots or a building in which to hold services. We have at least temporarily withdrawn from Murray, the Board of Managers concluding that with our meager resources we were hardly justified in continuing work in this smelter town, whose population is composed largely of foreigners of so varied nationalities that work cannot be carried on in any one language. It is doubtful wisdom to continue work at Eureka, a mining town whose population of 5,000 three years ago has dwindled to 3,000, 1,000 of whom are members of the Mormon Church, and the rest for the most part hostile toward evangelical religion. The Sunday-school here is very promising, but a woman missionary could care for this at less expense than a pastor and his wife.

In Salt Lake City we have three missions in active operation—Rio Grande, Burlington and Lincoln Street. We also own a fine lot and an incomplete building on State Street. This building should be completed and work opened, as the field is most promising. The Rio Grande mission has taken steps toward organizing an independent church, but there are some readjustments to make before the enterprise can be safely launched. The members of these city missions hold their church membership in the Immanuel Church, but the work itself is under the supervision of a special committee on city missions appointed by the Convention Board.

We are planning no new work, but expect to concentrate every effort on the fields we have entered. The Lincoln Street work, Salt Lake City, is the only new undertaking during the past year. It has a most encouraging prospect. A fine building has been completed without debt and a good following secured since the opening of the chapel in November.

West Virginia

REV. JOHN S. STUMP, D.D., PARKERSBURG

THE American Baptist Home Mission Society has had employed in West Virginia for all or part of the time during the past year ten men. They report more than 150 additions to the membership of the churches, large increase in Sunday-school attendance, and a more active spiritual life.

At Williamson the pastor came to the field only nine months ago. There had been no pastor for several years. A good Sunday-school and an active Aid Society and a debt of $2,300 on the house were the chief factors to be considered. Satisfactory progress has been made in all right directions. There have been paid on the debt $200 and about $125 on improvement. The debt will be systematically reduced.

At Parsons the most notable victory in debt paying has been accomplished. A parsonage debt of $1,500 has been paid and about $400 on improvements and other extras. The church is small and none are wealthy.

We still aid in the support of the General Missionary of the Baptist State Convention (colored). Satisfactory progress is being made along all lines of work among the Negroes of the State. They need substantial encouragement in denominational school work.

Foreigners of many Slavic tongues and many Italians are coming in ever-increasing numbers to our coal fields. Nothing whatever is being done for their evangelization. They are of the better class from their several countries and would make valuable helpers in evangelizing their country people if we should win them for Christ. There ought to be at least $1,000 set apart for this work in conjunction with the State Mission Board, which might thus be induced to undertake to meet this great opportunity.

Some three or four important fields seem ripe for the harvest which we cannot enter unless the Society can add a few hundred dollars to appropriations for the State.

The amount set apart for church edifice work was so small that no effort has been made to stimulate church building. $500 as a gift fund could be used in this department of the work during the coming year.

East Washington and North Idaho

REV. F. A. AGAR, SPOKANE, WASH.

OUR last year was one of real progress. The Convention spent by far the largest sum in all its history in the maintenance of its work. In 1909 the receipts from the churches amounted to $3,000; the last report of the treasurer shows that in the year 1911 the churches contributed about $7,000. This increase has been of steady growth during the past two years and is of such a character that there should be little or no falling back.

We employed last year a force of 52 missionaries, who reported as a result of their labors 307 baptisms and 317 other additions, with services held in 100 places. We are systematically planning for the future occupancy of these fields. We have in the past year appointed two more pastors-at-large. These men are thoroughly studying the Yakima Valley and the country north of the Columbia River with a view to the gradual building up of our work in the towns that give promise of ultimate growth. Four new places have been opened up in the Yakima Valley and three in the other district. If money were available the same systematic occupancy of two other sections of our territory should be entered upon. Under the auspices of a City Mission Union some good work has been done in Spokane. Four new churches have been organized in outlying sections of the city.

Last year two of our district missionaries wrote that they could organize from six to ten churches each if the Convention would man them. Not only could this not be done, but it was necessary to withdraw the appointments of the two district missionaries because of lack of funds.

The General Missionary traveled last year 42,411 miles in his district and 9,271 miles in the interests of the Home Mission Society in the New England States.

New railroads projected into outlying districts are opening up wonderful opportunities for pioneer work. We are only able to organize about four new churches each year, because we will not organize churches unless we can develop them after organization. We should organize at least a dozen new churches each year for the next decade, but to do so would mean that the Society would have to double its appropriation for our work. About seven churches were aided by the Edifice Fund of the Society, and we are gradually getting a better class of buildings in our more important centers; also a parsonage or two each year.

As pastor-at-large Rev. A. M. Allyn, who served for many years as a faithful General Missionary, and was obliged to give up his work because of ill health, finds his health greatly improved and has been doing efficient service.

Each year our needs grow larger and the pressure increases. We are simply marking time and holding on when we should be making tremendous advances in the face of present opportunities. We can get men, fields are open, we simply lack money.

Western Washington

REV. JOSEPH H. BEAVEN, SEATTLE

THIS year a change has occurred in the oversight of the missionary work of this Convention. Rev. L. Walton Terry, who so ably superintended it for the past ten years, resigned, to be succeeded by Rev. J. H.

Beaven, who for the past twenty-five years has held pastorates in three near-by cities.

Some fields are largely dependent for their resources on the lumber business and are unable to make sufficient contribution for current incidental expenses even. To keep these fields up to their normal standard would mean that the Convention assume practically the entire support of the pastor. This condition faces us in a period of perhaps the greatest of our possible molding periods, and on a field that all portions of the Pacific Coast may be most affected by foreign immigration.

The past year has seen the completion or entire erection of 11 meeting-houses and 5 new stations opened. The whole number of baptisms reported for our last associational year was 899, making the total number of church members 10,747—an increase of 525 over the past year. The amount spent on missionaries' salaries was $15,393, of which sum the Home Mission Society furnished $8,000.

It is evident from the preparations made in civic, commercial, mercantile and shipping circles that people are expecting many changes and much growth to follow the opening of the Panama Canal. Though the last census showed that Washington had the largest per cent. of increase in population of any State in the Union, it is anticipated that the coming decade will see a much larger growth in all directions. From the preliminary survey made by the Home Mission Council it is evident that there are large areas, rural in character, of religious destitution. We must meet these conditions and make adequate preparation for future enlargement. We cannot be content with the rate of growth of past years.

The peculiar physical condition is the large water front in our territory. The largest destitution is here. In many instances the only way of reaching these places is by water, and boat service is very uncertain. Work might be done by means of a "Chapel Boat." No denomination is attempting this now. If handled wisely by a consecrated worker it is our privilege to pioneer in as blessed a work as that of the Chapel Car.

Wyoming

REV. HAL P. FUDGE, CHEYENNE

THE Baptist cause in Wyoming for the past year shows advancement. During the year twenty-two missionaries have been co-operatively employed by the Home Mission Society and Convention. In addition, five churches have been organized, and two church buildings and two parsonages have been built.

For the year just opening we should employ at least four new missionaries. Because of lack of funds, three churches have been without regular pastoral service during the entire year. In fact, these fields have not had pastoral service since organization, and something should be done in their behalf very soon. The present Home Mission Society appropriation for salaries and buildings is not enough if we hope to increase the missionary force sufficiently to take care of the work already started, and we should enter four or five new fields this year. We need an increase of at least $1,200 on salaries. During the coming year three or four new churches should be built, and they will need at least $2,000 in gifts and $1,200 in loans. It may be necessary also to appropriate money for lots.

The outlook is encouraging. It is estimated that more people will settle in the State during the next two years than have come into the State during the last five, and the increase for the five years has been about 59 per cent. The "Hill system" expects to complete the Puget Sound to the Gulf main line, which runs directly through the center of the State from the southeast to the northwest, and it is confidently believed this will insure very rapid development and growth in population. This will enlarge the field for Christian service and give opportunity for rapid increase in membership and the strengthening of the churches. Besides, it will mean the necessary organization of many new churches and an increase of missionary workers.

Mexico

GEO. H. BREWER, MEXICO CITY, GENERAL MISSIONARY

THE past year has brought but little relief to this war-stricken country.

Upon the election of Mr. Francisco I. Madero to the presidency of the republic, it was generally believed that a great change for the better had been brought about. But scarcely had the banquet season of the new administration ended when war clouds, dark and threatening, began to darken the political sky. This counter revolution is now at its height. A large part of the republic is in open rebellion and a number of the States are actually in the hands of the revolutionists. This has had a detrimental effect upon our work and our plans. Our native pastors have continued faithful in their posts, and we are glad to report actual progress in the majority of our fields.

Twenty-seven missionaries have served the Society during the past year, five American and twenty-two native workers.

There has been a net gain in membership of about 15 per cent, there having been 146 baptisms reported. The total membership of the native churches working under the auspices of our Board is 1,238. There was raised for self support $2,726.37, or about 20 per cent. of the amount actually expended for native workers. In addition to this $850.50 was raised for the various benevolent objects, including the work of the native Convention, which supports two missionaries among the Indians in the State of Michoacan.

The seriousness of the present disturbances has made life and property unsafe in various parts of the republic, and it is not unlikely that all American workers will have to retire from the field for a time at least.

We deeply mourn the loss of our native pastor in Mexico City, Rev. Teófilo Barocio, who served the Society in various capacities for more than twenty years. He was a remarkable man in many ways. He was among the best of our Spanish-speaking workers. He had no enemies, and all who knew him loved him. He had built up our work in Mexico City during the seven years of his pastorate to a high state of efficiency. His loss is a severe blow to us all, and coming as it did when the country is torn with civil war it has been not an easy task to find a suitable successor. However, the Lord has been gracious to us and the interest has kept up continuously and the church has just secured the services of another bright young man who gives promise of being a worthy successor of Mr. Barocio. His name is Sr. Alfredo Cavazos, and he received his training under the direction of Rev. Alejandro Treviño, of Monterey, who has a remarkable gift in leading and training young men who feel the call of God to preach the gospel. Mr. Cavazos began his work at once and is winning the co-operation of our forces in Mexico City.

The Theological School in Monterey is to send out its first graduates this spring. Four young men have completed the prescribed course. If their first names indicate anything we shall have need to watch these young men develop in carrying out this life's plans. Their names are Isaac, Abraham, Isaiah and Moses.

We have opened three new fields during the past year, viz.: Ciudad Victoria, the capital of the State of Tamaulipas, where we have organized a church of 21 members with bright prospects for growth; Ejutla, Oaxaca, an important town in the heart of the agricultural and mining district of that rich State; and Cuernavaca, where the Society secured by purchase a splendid property, and as soon as normal conditions are restored in that region we have every reason to expect a prosperous mission. Even now in the midst of the troubled zone, our work is going steadily forward and all the usual services are being held. Our worker on this field is a young man from the republic of Peru, South America. He reports several converts and has established a Sunday-school recently.

Some one might ask as to the genuineness of our Mexican converts. Let the following incident suffice to answer that question. At Topilejo and Ajusco we have two Indian congregations. A few days ago a band of revolutionists and fanatics captured one of our members as he was working in his garden. They first cut off his hands in an effort to get him to recant, but he refused. He was then tied to a tree with barbed wire until it cut to the bone. Then not satisfied with their awful work of vengeance upon the Protestants, they cut his throat with a machete and made his poor body a target for their rifle practice. This is not the first real martyr we have had in this cruel war. Notwithstanding the great risk the brethren of these two little churches have in holding their services, they have not missed one meeting, and each Sunday a number of them walk eight miles to hold a meeting at an out-station, passing through a region infested with the worst class of bandits.

Permit me to appeal to Christians everywhere and to our own Baptist people in particular to pray for Mexico, that this dreadful state of affairs may not long continue.

Eastern Cuba

REV. H. R. MOSELEY, D.D., EL CRISTO

WE HAVE received from God during this year many manifestations of His willingness to bless earnest and faithful work. Notwithstanding the political crisis in the history of Cuba, threatened revolutions every few weeks, our work has made a notable advance, and the Mission as a whole is in a more prosperous condition than ever before in its history. The ingathering this year has not been so large as in some other years, but other phases of our work have shown a marked advance. The Statistical Report submitted shows that all departments of our work are in a flourishing condition, but there are many features that cannot be tabulated in a Statistical Report. The beneficent influence of our Mission is increasing every year. No report can tabulate the many-sided results of mission work. I shall not attempt in this report to give any lengthy statement, but simply a few outstanding and interesting features of our work during the year.

Evangelization

Rev. Fred. J. Peters, who was formerly employed as principal of the Boys' School, was appointed General Evangelist, and began his work on September 1st. He is peculiarly well fitted for this kind of work, and I feel that we should thank God for giving us such a man to undertake this important work. He is deeply spiritual and consecrated, and insists upon a spiritual membership and complete self-surrender before they become members of our churches. This kind of work is making a deep impression not only upon outsiders, but upon our church members, and wherever he has held meetings, one of the best results of the meeting has been an increase in spirituality among the present membership of the church and a willingness to give personal service to the Master.

Self-support

There has been decided progress in self-support. The churches are growing in the grace of giving, and our pastors are learning more and more that Bible teaching on the subject of giving is one of the best ways to develop their churches. Many of our pastors who were timid at first about insisting upon giving in the churches are now most earnest advocates of plain, frank teaching on this subject. The results are seen in the increased contributions in self-support and mission work. We set as a goal for our churches to raise this year for self-support $1,600. They will raise between $1,400 and $1,500, and while they will not reach the goal set, they have made a notable advance.

Missionary Efforts

We are paying one-half the salary of a missionary who is working among the churches here, and at the same time we are collecting a fund for the support of a foreign missionary, who will work either in Hayti or Santo Domingo. In this foreign mission work we shall have the co-operation of the Porto Rican Baptist churches. We trust that this small beginning will develop into the establishment of a strong and aggressive mission for our neighboring island, which is in such need of the gospel.

Church Edifice Activity

We have built only two chapels this year, have repaired some of our older churches, painted others, and in all of this work of repairs and painting we have insisted that the native churches do their share. In fact, we have pressed them rather hard this year, but they have responded nobly, and to my mind this is one of the most hopeful features of our work.

Education

The colleges at Cristo have had a good year. The theological department of these colleges has had a larger attendance than ever before. We have now in this department seven young men who are preparing themselves for our work. One well-trained young man went out into labor last year, and we expect one or two this summer, and so on through the years we shall expect to receive from Cristo trained laborers to reinforce the weak spots in our Mission. The Lord has given us some choice young men, and with this constant influx of trained students we expect in a few years to elevate the character of our native missionary force, and thus strengthen all departments of our work.

We held our Pastors' Conference as usual, in which we get our native pastors for two or three weeks to study the principal doctrines of the Scriptures, teach them how to study the Bible, something about how to prepare sermons, and something of church government and pastoral duties. In addition to this teaching we try to give them a spiritual uplift so that they will return home not only with more knowledge, but with more zeal and spiritual fervor, encouraged to give themselves more unreservedly to the Master's service.

Primary Schools

We have established this year new primary schools at San Luis, Songo, Tunas, Bayamo and Manzanillo, and we are planning to establish this fall three additional schools. We have also strengthened our schools at Santiago and Guantanamo by addition of a native teacher. The Women's Board of Chicago supply nearly all the American teachers for these schools, but we are furnishing from Cristo assistants to the American teachers, and in three cases the principal teacher is a native, a graduate of our Cristo colleges. We find that not only these schools fill a much-needed want in the communities and thus are practically self-supporting, but they give us a much better class of students for our Cristo colleges, for all of these schools are understood to be feeders. It is so advertised in the prospectus published for these primary schools. The children who come to us from these schools are not only better prepared to enter at Cristo, but they are better disciplined, and more quickly fall into our ways. The Lord and the Cuban politicians have given us an unparalleled opportunity to train the young people of Cuba. The public school system of Cuba is to-day the football of politicians. Teachers are not selected because of merit or previous training, but because of political influence. The result is that in many places the public schools are discredited, and the best element of these cities and towns are crying for the establishment of private schools where their children can be educated. Not only in our Cristo colleges, but in our primary schools, we make manifest the Christian character of these schools, and while some fanatical Catholics object to the religious training which we give, they are willing to send their children and pay for them that they may get the better teaching that they get. I wish that I had the ear of our denomination in the States so that in some effective way I could make them understand the great opportunity that God has given us to establish these primary schools in all of our stations. Wherever one of these schools is established, the Sunday-school and church service show an increase in attendance. The only cost to our American Baptist Home Mission Society for the establishment of these schools is the equipping of them, and it only costs about $200 to equip one of the primary schools. Are there not a dozen men in the States who would gladly equip one of these primary schools, so that we may improve this great opportunity that God has given us?

There have been very few changes in our working force this year, all of our missionaries have done good service, and the work that has been accomplished in Cuba has not been done by the Superintendent, nor does he wish in any way to claim credit for this work. He has had part in organizing and directing, but the hard work has been rendered by the noble men and women, American and native, whom God in a wonderful way has given to this Mission.

Mr. Belda, one of our workers, has had a serious illness, having been operated on for appendicitis, but God was gracious to us in restoring him to his usual good health. There have been no deaths among our workers this year, but we wish to sympathize with our brethren in Mexico in the loss of Brother Teofilo Barocio, who gave five of the best years of his life in the beginning of our work in Santiago and surrounding country.

Porto Rico

REV. A. B. RUDD, D.D., RIO PIEDRAS

THE Baptist mission work of Porto Rico has just turned its thirteenth mile-stone. While it can hardly be said as yet to stand on the "hill of experience," it is slowly and surely climbing this hill and thus constantly enlarging its vision. There have been some changes in our working force during the year. Mrs. Janie P. Duggan, who had been here since 1899, has left and taken up work among the Spanish-speaking population of California. Miss Alice Collyer, who came temporarily as teacher in our Girls' School, retired from the work at the end of the school year. Two of our native brethren who were not very well equipped for the work have left the mission. The report last year called for two new men, one for the school work and the other to take charge of the San Juan district. The Lord has given us these two men. Rev. P. D. Woods, of Ohio, a graduate of Denison and Rochester Seminary, came in August of last year and has already gotten school matters well in hand. A month later came Rev. F. P. Freeman, of Nova Scotia, a last year's graduate of Colgate. These brethren are well equipped, and on their arrival we "thanked God and took courage." One native worker has also been added to our list, an intelligent and enthusiastic young man, who had already distinguished himself as the champion colporter of the island.

Looking back over the year, the following facts are noted:

A Growing Spirit of Liberality

This is very marked. Pastors and churches are awakening. Our contributions are $670.74 in excess of those last year. Our churches have given for all purposes an amount equal to about 11 per cent. of the amount allowed by the Society for direct missionary work during the year.

Growth in Rural Districts

Four of the five churches organized during the year have been in the country. Our problem has long been to reach the country people with the Gospel. Gradually this is being done. From coast to mountain top every effort made to tell the story to the country folk meets with encouraging response. We have taught Rome to look after the religious interests of the country people, and the first rural Catholic chapels ever seen on the island are being built to offset the Protestant work.

Deepened Interest

Of Guánica, where of late years the work has gone slowly, Mr. Detweiler writes: "Our church in Guánica has won a place for itself in the life of the town. The services are well attended and the Sunday-school is growing notably." Trujillo Alto, where for years victories seemed to be on the wrong side, has now fallen in line, and within the next few days we hope to organize a church with some twelve or fifteen charter members. In Loiza, where in years gone by the messengers of the Gospel were stoned, our service hall is now filled with respectful hearers.

Increased Efficiency in Sunday-school Work

Several interdenominational Sunday-school institutes have been held during the year with good results. Better organization, better methods of teaching, better teachers—these are our aims, and the past year marks great progress.

Unexpected Enlargement of Our Field

During the year the Congregationalists have turned over to us a large slice of their territory. The thrifty town of Juncos, with most of its outlying districts, nearly eleven thousand souls, has been turned over to the Baptists. The town and the barrios are all open to Gospel work. There are already many believers. Before this report is printed many of these will probably be baptized and organized into a church.

Growing Interest in Missions

Our island Christians are catching a glimpse of the world-wide vision. At our last associational meeting a mission committee of five was appointed to hold office for three years and to have charge of all mission work, both on the island and abroad. On the home field the churches are supporting in full an associational missionary at $30 per month. The eyes and hearts of the churches are turning toward Santo Domingo, and at its first meeting this mission committee appointed two of its members to visit this republic in the near future at the expense of the native churches, with the view to opening mission work among its inhabitants.

Training School

The plan outlined in the report last year of so relating our school to the university of the island that our students may take the greater part of their academic work in this excellent institution is working most satisfactorily. Sixteen young men have been enrolled during the year, and excellent work is being done. Mr. Woods has taken up with enthusiasm the school burden, and is bringing things to pass. Given the tremendous importance of this school in the future of our work and the bright outlook now before it, it is nothing short of a calamity that the Baptists of the home-land should leave it longer unbefriended, unhoused and unequipped. For the second time the amount necessary for this building has been cut out of the budget. Truly "we are perplexed, but not in despair." The hope is expressed by the Society that friends may come to our rescue and give us during the year the money for the school building. Reader, how much of this $18,000 needed will you give? Put your money in bricks and brains and spiritual brawn and help us develop character which will make itself felt in every pulpit and home of this island.

Houses of Worship

The amount allowed in the budget for this purpose for the year beginning April 1, 1912 ($1,000), falls a trifle short of being one-third of the amount needed for a single chapel in Carolina, the town long ago decided on as having the right-of-way. For the coming year we need $10,000—we get $1,000. Will the Baptists of the United States allow this to stand?

Developing Our Educational Interests

Mention has already been made of the needs of our training school for young men. We should by all means reopen next session in Rio Piedras our girls' school, formerly located in Coamo, and which for sufficient reasons was suspended for the present session. Our girls as well as our boys will have the advantages offered by the University of Porto Rico.

Two Additional Women Workers

The excellent work done by our six lady missionaries but emphasizes the need of two more to take up work in other places, where their presence would be a benediction.

With the result of thirteen years of evangelical work to build on, with forty-seven organized churches, with perhaps the strongest corps of native workers of any evangelical denomination on the island, with a field as inviting as any mission could ask, the outlook for the year is decidedly bright. With hope and courage each worker's face is turned to the future.

REPORTS OF DISTRICT SECRETARIES

New England District

REV. J. E. NORCROSS, BOSTON, MASS., DISTRICT SECRETARY

THE New England District, since the inauguration of the apportionment plan, has raised from churches, Sunday-schools and Young People's societies for the work of the American Baptist Home Mission Society the following sums:

$50,256.81	$41,942.02	$48,142.35	$48,166.18

We doubt if a similar group of receipts from the above-mentioned sources can be paralleled in the entire financial record of the district so far as Home Missions are concerned.

The decrease in gifts from the Sunday-schools during the last fiscal year was due to the fact that our Sunday-school programme was not used until Easter and the receipts did not begin to flow in until after the books were closed. The Sunday-school column should show a substantial increase during 1912-13.

The failure to receive one large personal gift will account for the striking shrinkage in the totals for Connecticut.

Sundry other amounts, not properly included in the above classification, have been received from this District by the Society, aggregating $2,716.31.

Had our Society received the usual donation there would have been a decided increase of individual gifts and the entire district would have held its own in an uncertain financial year. The amount from legacies represents forty estates, thirty of these being in Massachusetts.

We wish to record receipts from the Free Baptist churches for general and designated purposes to the extent of $1,352.06, 70 churches out of 343 being found among the givers.

A campaign in Massachusetts under the leadership of Rev. W. T. Stackhouse was a helpful factor in arousing interest among the laymen, and it is hoped that the new financial year will disclose the fruitage. The courtesy and co-operation of our New England pastors in advancing the cause of Home Missions is a source of great satisfaction, and in them our Society has noble allies.

New York District: New York and Northern New Jersey

REV. F. H. DIVINE, NEW YORK CITY, DISTRICT SECRETARY

THE work during the year in this district has been normal. The Baptist Laymen's Missionary Movement has rendered important service, which promises well for the future. The Free Baptists are coming pleasantly into vital relationships with our work. The union was effected so late in the year that results at this time are limited to an amount approximating $200 in the subjoined statistical report. It seemed wise to make all comparisons on the basis of our fellowship before the union was effected.

Home Mission Day receipts last year were largely in hand before the books were closed, but for the year indicated in this report Home Mission Day receipts are not in hand, owing to Easter coming after the books were closed. This will account for the decrease in offerings from the Bible schools. The decrease in total receipts is largely due to the fact that two gifts last year amounting to $25,000, one for permanent trust funds and the other for a school building, have had no duplication this year.

During the year just closed 58 churches raised more than their apportionment, 165 raised exactly what was suggested, 472 raised the apportionment in part, while 365 churches made no return whatever.

There would have been a commendable increase in the returns from the churches this year but for the following facts: 28 of our stronger churches, which gave $9,278.32 last year, gave only $5,674.56 this year; 117 other churches, which gave $1,387.68 last year, gave nothing during the year just closed. This shows a decrease in gifts by these 145 churches of $4,991.44.

WHILE the number of contributing churches is quite lessened, the giving churches have, in the face of four or five great appeals for extra offerings, maintained and even increased their regular donations. One hundred and thirty-five Ohio churches met or increased their Home Mission apportionment. This is a gain of 40 per cent. over the number which made their apportionment last year and a gain of over 385 per cent. of the number that made apportionments in the year 1909-10.

Central District: Iowa and South Dakota

D. D. PROPER, D.D., OMAHA, NEB., DISTRICT SECRETARY

THE severe drouth in most of South Dakota and parts of Iowa has seriously affected business and made collections more difficult. In a considerable part of South Dakota this has been the second drouth in succession.

One marked hindrance to the work of securing collections has been the lack of prompt and efficient adjustment from the "wheel plan" to the system of weekly giving by "duplex envelope." In some instances it takes too long to make the change; while in other cases the change is made without a thorough "every member canvass" to secure enough pledges to meet the budget. Without this canvass the duplex envelope system will be very disappointing.

Another weakness appears in this adjustment from the old to the new order in that the money for current expenses and missions are placed in the same treasury and in some instances orders are drawn to the detriment of the mission fund. This, however, is gradually being remedied by church officials.

Special thanks are due to the great body of pastors who are faithfully trying to raise the full apportionment budget.

The District Secretary gives one-half or more of his time to the work of Superintendent of Missions for the Central Division.

Southwestern District: Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma and New Mexico

BRUCE KINNEY, D.D., KAN., DISTRICT SECRETARY

THE receipts are somewhat less than last year. The decision of the Joint Commission with reference to our relations to New Mexico is sufficient to account for the falling off there. The drought of last year in the three other States had its serious effect. For a period covering the six last Sundays of the fiscal year there was not a good Sunday, and all but two were conspicuously bad. The people were either snowbound or mudbound. In Oklahoma, our period for Home Missions has usually been February, March and April. This year February was cut off by action of the State Convention, and receipts had only just begun to come in when we were obliged to close the books. It is hoped this lack will be made up in April, but it will be too late for this report. It is noteworthy that in Kansas the total offerings were only about $200 less than last year. This is remarkably good under the conditions. It is also noteworthy that more churches than ever paid their apportionment in full, while more churches than ever sent nothing. In the main the large churches paid their full apportionment while the smaller churches neglected to send anything.

My assistant, Mr. Gould, has been under appointment during the entire year, but it should be known that he has been out of the district about five months attending missionary expositions, while I have been at missionary conferences outside official duties for about two months during the year.

Yellowstone District: Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho and Eastern Washington

C. A. COOK, D.D., SPOKANE, WASH., JOINT SECRETARY

THE District Secretary has visited the majority of the churches in the great Yellowstone District during the year, and in doing so has traveled nearly 24,000 miles. He has delivered 223 addresses, has taken 352 names for "Missions" and has been absent from home 183 days.

As the table shows, there is a steadily increasing number of contributing churches, but those which are coming into line are very small and their offerings do not add largely to the total. A larger number of churches than usual have this year exceeded their apportionments, but there has been a decided falling off in the total offerings. Changing pastorates, financial stringency and the fact that this year six of the stronger churches fell below their offerings for the previous year by $1,436 partly explain the decrease in the total receipts for Home and Foreign missions for the district.

* $21.83 received at Associations and Convention in Idaho.

The Pacific District: California, Nevada, Oregon and West Washington

ALONZO M. PETTY, D.D., WORKMAN, CAL., DISTRICT SECRETARY

THE foregoing exhibit largely explains itself. The "annuities" here given represent not annuities released, and which therefore become a part of the budget, but annuities secured during the past year. They do not of course cut any figure in the budget, and are given simply to show how this feature of our work has grown, both in scope of territory and amount of money during the past year, as compared with the previous one.

The decrease in Sunday-school collections is largely due to the fact that the annual Home Mission concert did not come this year until after the books closed, and the proceeds could not be counted as the proceeds of that concert were last year. Judging from the receipts that are coming in from the Easter concert, the balance would have been quite fully overcome.

The decrease in the giving of young people is largely due to a weakening emphasis on specifics. The increase in the church contributions is quite marked, showing a probable absorption from the Sunday-schools and Young People's societies, because of the failure of treasurers to segregate offerings that were wired in the closing week. While the needs of the Society call for larger and better giving, yet when we consider the difficulties with which the budget has had to contend during the past year, there is much reason for gratitude to God for these results. The depressed condition of the milling interests of the Northwest and the threatened drouth of California, with the misfortune in the citrus fruits, and the general depression that always goes along with the approach of a Presidential election, to which must be added the emergency call from interests that were dear to the hearts of the Baptists, and therefore should receive support and did receive it—all these things, and yet a gain over last year of $729.83 in the total donations and a legacy of $2,131.54, giving a net gain for the Society on the coast of $2,861.37.

The loss of dear Brother Tyson, my assistant, just at the beginning of the closing month of the year, was also a great loss to the receipts, which would have been increased by his faithful and loving service that month.

I want to take this occasion to thank the churches and pastors and my associational secretaries for the splendid aid and the kindly courtesy extended during the year that has just closed. May the richest blessings of the heavenly Father be their reward for this service.

Missouri

H. E. TRUAX, D.D., ST. LOUIS, CORRESPONDING SECRETARY

OUR churches co-operate with both Northern and Southern Conventions. Each church elects where its money shall go, North or South. The general result is that one-third goes to the Home and Foreign societies of the Northern Baptist Convention and two-thirds to the boards of the Southern Baptist Convention. At present there is little confusion among our churches by this arrangement, the plan being well understood.

The fact that Missouri is located in mid-territory, having churches that co-operate with both Conventions, gave rise to the Missouri plan, which, in brief, is that the State shall be regarded as a "special district" to be cultivated by our Board of General Home and Foreign Missions. We believe this the best plan for the present, at least.

Our people are coming to understand better the place and importance of Home Missions, but the number of non-contributors is distressingly large. They need information, enlistment. The majority of our 182,784 members live in the rural districts and are involved in all the "problems of the country church." Many of them are pastorless much of the time. To reach and incorporate these warm-hearted, noble brethren is a task worthy of the denomination's best effort.

OBITUARY

Mr. Charles C. Barry, the Vice-President of our Society, died December 27, 1911. He was born in Melrose, Mass., July 11, 1848, where he lived all his life. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Melrose for forty-five years, for twenty-one years the superintendent of its Sunday-school, and for twenty-six years a deacon. Mr. Barry was prominently connected in business, social and religious circles in New England and various parts of the country. At the time of his death he was the President of the Boston Baptist City Mission Society, Treasurer of the Newton Theological Institution and Corresponding Secretary of the Massachusetts Baptist Sunday-school Association. The following resolutions were placed in the records of the Society:

"The Board of Managers of The American Baptist Home Mission Society sorrowfully records its sense of the loss which the Society and the denomination has sustained in the sudden death of Mr. C. C. Barry, of Melrose, Mass., on December 27, 1911. His noble Christian character and his broad and generous missionary spirit attracted the attention of his brethren as one worthy to fill responsible positions in our denominational enterprises. As Vice-President of the Home Mission Society he took a lively interest in its affairs, and by his visit to its Western mission fields and by his forceful utterances at its annual meetings rendered it very valuable service. His genial presence, his excellent judgment, his hopeful and stimulating spirit, his devotion to the advancement of the Kingdom of Christ, made him conspicuous and beloved among his brethren. The Board and other representatives of the Society at the rooms extend to the bereaved family heartfelt sympathy."

Dr. George Sale, the gifted Superintendent of Education of this Society, after protracted illness in St. Luke's Hospital, New York City, died on January 22, 1912. He was born in Toronto, Ontario, Canada, received his early education at Woodstock College, and was graduated from the University of Toronto in 1884. His divinity course was taken at McMaster University, Toronto. He was ordained to the ministry in 1890, at the Jarvis Street Church, Toronto. He was pastor of the First Church, Toronto, and later, in 1890, accepted the presidency of Atlanta Baptist College. Here he served continuously until June, 1906, when he was appointed Superintendent of Education of the American Baptist Home Mission Society. The records of the Society contain the following resolutions:

"Deeply sensible of our severe loss in the death, on January 22d, of our Superintendent of Education, Dr. George Sale, the Board of Managers of this Society desire to record their deep appreciation of his service and their sorrow at his departure.

"Dr. Sale was a man of large, natural endowments, and by thorough training in higher institutions of learning was prepared, in the providence of God, for his great work among the Negroes of this Continent. His long and efficient administration as President of the Atlanta Baptist College, registered a period of important constructive work in its development. His devotion to this task and the strong friendships gained with many of the influential Southern Baptists made him a natural choice as our Superintendent of Education.

"To this enlarged service he addressed himself with patience and wisdom, and was able to make his ideals attractive to the presidents, principals and teachers of our several schools. He showed initiative and tactfulness, which won and kept for him a growing circle of friends.

"As our Superintendent, his sound judgment, conservatism, and wide acquaintance with the Negro problem gave weight to such recommendations as he felt it right to present to the various Boards' and Foundations which have deeply at heart the welfare of the colored people.

"Indeed, he did his work so well for our Society that his reputation became national. No better proof can be given of the high estimation in which he was held by those who have made an expert study of the Negro problem than his selection by President Taft as one of the Commissioners to Liberia.

"This Christian gentleman of broad, human sympathies, with his heart loyal to Christ, and his mind open for impressions from an ever widening world, honored this Society as its Superintendent of Education."

Rev. T. K. Tyson died suddenly at his home in Whittier, Cal. At the funeral service, held on Sunday, March 3d, Secretaries Woody, Petty, Watson, and Ex-Superintendent Reardon were present, representing the American Baptist Home Mission Society, whose faithful missionary and secretary Mr. Tyson had been for many years. He first served in the Southwest, and was never happier than when laboring among the frontier churches. His addresses in the East made a profound impression. When the district secretaryship became vacant in Michigan, Mr. Tyson was placed temporarily in Detroit in charge of the Home Mission Society's interests, and remained there until a permanent secretary was appointed. His last service was in California, assisting the district secretary in the presentation of the work to which he had devoted his life. He was a man of kindly spirit, indomitable courage and a versatile Christian worker.

Dr. James McKee, Dean of the Leonard Medical School of Shaw University, died January 5, 1912. He was a man of great ability and manifold accomplishments, all of which were at the service of the Negro people, whose physicians he gladly trained. The time and strength which he gave to this work were much appreciated by both races in the city and State which were honored by his birth and residence. He was a pioneer medical teacher of colored men, and greatly impressed the students not only with his knowledge of medicine, but with a profound interest in them individually and with the colored race.

Rev Teofilo Barocio died after a brief illness, on February 1st, in Mexico City, Mex. He was the faithful pastor of the First Baptist Church of Mexico City and one of the most gifted missionaries whom this Society has ever had in the Republic. He also rendered important service in Cuba. His departure is a great loss to the Mission and a personal loss to a large number of Mexicans who were friendly to Protestantism, but who had never yet broken away from the superstitions of the Roman Church. Mrs. Barocio and her family will have the profound sympathy of all friends of our work in Mexico.

Rev. Jesse Boardman Hartwell, D.D., died at Chefoo, Shantung, China, on January 3, 1912. The Southern Baptist Convention in October, 1858, commissioned him for work in China, where he rendered heroic service until 1875, when, on account of the illness of his wife, he was compelled to return to his native land. For four years he was engaged in deputation work, traveling through the South, and then seeing no immediate prospect of returning to China, and feeling strongly the call to work for the Chinese on the Pacific Coast, he entered upon this service at first under the auspices of the Southern Baptist Convention, organizing what was believed to be the first Chinese Baptist Church in America. In 1884, when the Convention was considering the relinquishment of its work either in Mexico or on the Pacific Coast, Dr. Hartwell urged the withdrawal of his work, believing that it properly belonged to the Northern Baptists. For three months he carried on the work himself, after which it was supported by the American Baptist Home Mission Society. In this new relation he continued for nine years, during which time he superintended the Chinese work between the widely separated points of Portland and San Diego. From this point many Christian Chinese have returned to preach the Gospel in their own land. In 1893 Dr. Hartwell returned for another period of service in China.

Rev. Beniah Longley Whitman, D.D., LL.D., a devoted friend of the American Baptist Home Mission Society and a minister of the First Baptist Church of Seattle, Wash., died on November 27, 1911. Dr. Whitman was born in Wilmot, Nova Scotia, in 1863. He was fitted for college at the Worcester Academy, and was graduated from Brown University in 1887 and from the Newton Theological Institution in 1890. He was a gifted preacher and faithful pastor. In 1892, at the age of twenty-nine, he became the president of Colby College, and after three years resigned to accept the presidency of Columbian University, where he remained for five years. He was a man of unusual presence and possessed a strong personality. His sudden death was a distinct loss to the denomination.

^e The plan of co-operation in the States of New York, Michigan and Illinois terminated in 1875, and 73 missionaries in these States were transferred to the care of their respective State conventions. ^f Not including secretaries and agents. ^g The decrease of missionaries among the freedmen after 1875 is largely accounted for by the fact that students are no longer commissioned as teachers and missionaries during their summer vacations. ^h Including about ten teachers of government day schools.

GENERAL FACTS ABOUT THE SOCIETY

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST HOME MISSION SOCIETY was organized in New York City, April 27, 1832, by a large and representative body of Baptists. The Society's general offices have been in New York City continuously. The present address is 23 East 26th Street.

¶ The object of the Society is, "To promote the preaching of the Gospel in North America." Its work is prosecuted in nearly every State and Territory of the United States, also in the Western Provinces of Canada, in Mexico, Cuba and Porto Rico and El Salvador.

¶ In 1852 a small beginning was made in Church Edifice work and about 1870 a loan fund was secured to help mission churches secure houses of worship. In 1881 The Church Edifice Gift Fund was established and more than 2,000 churches have been aided thereby. Contributions for this purpose are greatly needed.

¶ In 1862, the Society took the initial steps in its missionary and educational work for the Freedmen. The proportions to which this has grown are indicated in the Annual Report. Its supreme aim is the development of Christian character and the raising up of competent consecrated leaders, as ministers, teachers and home makers for the ten million Negroes in our land.

¶ The work in Mexico was begun in 1870; in Porto Rico and Cuba in 1899 and El Salvador in 1911.

"Voted at Board Meeting, May 12th, 1913:

Three members of the Board of Managers of The American Baptist Home Mission Society have served continuously in this capacity twenty years or more: Dr. A. S. Hobart for twenty-four years; Dr. W. C. P. Rhoades for twenty-four years; Mr. E. J. Brockett for twenty years. They have been surpassed by none in the regularity of their attendance at the meetings of the board, and in the faithful and conscientious discharge of their duties. Some of these, like others who have been long and intimately connected with the administration of the Society's affairs, have also contributed thousands of dollars to its treasury, thereby expressing their conviction of the importance of its work and their confidence in its management. Each has also served several terms as Chairman of the Board.

To their fellow members it seems eminently fitting that the Society itself should be apprised of these facts and that due recognition should be given this veteran Christian triumvirate for their exceptional service to the denomination. The Chairman of the Board is therefore instructed to present this statement and these brethren to the Society at its approaching meeting in Detroit, thus fulfilling the scriptural injunction of giving honor to whom honor is due."

Professor Alvah S. Hobart and Rev. William C. P. Rhoades were presented to and addressed the Society.

Secretary Henry L. Morehouse spoke of the work of E. J. Brockett as a member of the Board of Managers.

On motion of Rev. Datus D. Proper the following resolution was adopted: "That we send a night letter of sympathy and fellowship with them in their affliction to Rev. C. A. Wooddy, of Portland, Oregon; Rev. Bruce Kinney, Topeka, Kansas; Mr. J. C. Stalcup, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and Rev. Thomas Stephenson, Helena, Montana.

On motion, the Society adjourned until Tuesday, May 27, at 2 P. M.

THE EIGHTY-FIRST ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
BOARD OF MANAGERS
OF THE
American Baptist Home Mission Society

THE Eighty-first annual report of the Board of Managers of The American Baptist Home Mission Society, herewith submitted, impressively suggests how large and influential a factor the Society is among the Christian forces in America seeking to make this more truly a Christian nation for its own and for the world's sake.

General Policy of the Society

In compliance with the action of the Northern Baptist Convention in 1912, your Board issued a statement concerning the general policy of the Society for use in the Three Million Dollar Campaign. It is as follows:

It is the purpose and policy of this Society, in co-operation with other similar organizations, to make Christianity a strong factor in Western civilization; to leaven the mass of unevangelized immigrants from Southern and Eastern Europe with the transforming Gospel of Jesus Christ; to assist in the strengthening of our interests in the great cities and to reinvigorate rural churches; to do our proper share in the evangelization of the American Indians; to provide Christian education for needed leadership among ten million Negroes; to make known to the misguided millions of Cuba, Porto Rico, Mexico and adjacent countries the vital truths of the Gospel and to meet the incoming Orientals with Christian missionaries.

The Society's general policy in its administrative work is the ripened result of eighty years' experience, with modifications and readjustments as changing conditions demand. Economy, efficiency and conservation of effort are dominant in its pioneer and constructive work. Inadequate resources make impossible the full accomplishment of its ideals.

Promotion of Interest and Beneficence

By its own direct instrumentalities and in co-operation with other agencies the Society has sought to promote greater interest and to secure larger offerings for its work. Whatever increase in the offerings from our Churches appears in recent years is due to many activities to this end. The apportionment plan has something to do with it by way of suggesting to churches their share in our great missionary enterprise. But without the most diligent efforts by representatives of this and other Societies in the working out of the plan, it would have availed but little. The Baptist Forward Movement for Missionary Education, representing the three general Societies and three Women's Societies, has been active in this field since its organization in 1906, particularly the past year, when its Executive Secretary was also the Secretary of the Apportionment Committee and of the Three Million Dollar Campaign. The Baptist Laymen's Movement, springing directly from the three general Societies, for about three years has stirred thousands of men and large numbers of Churches to more liberal and systematic giving. Collateral agencies in this work have been the interdenominational Laymen's Missionary Movement; also the interdenominational Missionary Education Movement, which sustains close working relations with all missionary societies. The Men and Religion Movement also emphasized missions at home and abroad. In the distinctive realm of Home Missions, the Home Missions Council of the United States, co-operating with the Council of Women's Home Mission Societies, rendered most efficient service the past year in the special campaign under their auspices, which culminated in the general observance of Home Mission week last November and which has decided to recommend its observance also next November. Our denominational papers have also devoted generous space to informing and stimulating missionary articles, and the joint magazine "Missions," with a large circulation, is an efficient factor. The last and most promising of all these agencies, is the United Missionary Campaign, organized early this year, which brings together men of proved efficiency in Societies and in some other bodies above named. There is a mighty stirring of the marshalled forces of the whole Church militant, which is a prophecy of a brighter day for all our missionary enterprises and for the Kingdom of God in the whole world. The American Baptist Home Mission Society, which has been among the foremost in advocating and bringing about some of these combinations of forces, will make its full contribution of power in this united task.

Much remains to be done to raise the standard of giving in our churches. Their offerings alone are distressingly inadequate to the needs of the hour, and progress in beneficence has been painfully slow, as appears in the subjoined exhibit of receipts from churches only, from 1902 to 1913 inclusive.

Contributions of Churches for General Purposes

Years	Amounts	Increase	Increase per cent.
1902	$104,300.25
1903	113,366.22	$ 9,065.97	.087
1904	114,829.23	1,463.00	.013
1905	121,142.38	6,313.15	.055
1906	134,178.63	13,036.25	.108
1907	145,178.76	11,000.13	.082
1908	157,951.23	12,772.47	.087
1909	232,590.36	74,639.13	.462
1910	228,778.63	less 3,811.73 decrease	.012.
1911	239,200.96	10,422.33	.046
1913	269,049.99	28,070.65	.116

The large increase reported in 1909 was due partly to the interest awakened by the organization of the Northern Baptist Convention the preceding year and partly because of the special effort to reduce the accumulated indebtedness of the Society, brought over from previous years, amounting to $95,893.58. The special effort in the present year accounts largely for the exceptional increase from the churches. It is to be hoped that this base line of beneficence can not merely be maintained, but steadily raised until these church offerings shall be somewhat commensurate with the great needs in our Home Mission work. Indeed, the ideal is that the annual offerings of the churches should sustain the regular work of the Society, leaving exceptional individual offerings and legacies to be applied to particular objects requiring large outlay.

Fresh literature concerning wills and gifts on the annuity plan has been prepared, and it is expected that to some extent the Associate Corresponding Secretary of this Society will represent all the Societies in bringing these matters more fully and forcibly to the attention of our people.

The Year's Receipts from the Denomination

The following statement is intended to show the Society's fresh receipts of the year, from the denomination, and is not an exhibit of all transactions which are presented in the Treasurer's report and which aggregate $1,080,000.00. Amounts derived from sale of properties heretofore acquired by the Society, and from payments by churches of loans from the Church Edifice Fund, and certain designated funds received from other sources, and transfers of released annuity funds to the general fund are excluded, in order to get a clear-cut statement of the denomination's contributions and legacies with the income from invested funds for the year. The large amount from individuals includes not only contributions for general purposes, but also, as shown in the second table, for designated objects and for permanent and annuity funds.

Disbursements for the Year

The disbursements of the general operating fund under the budget of 1912-13 were $613,684.34, including $12,246.81 reserved for outstanding obligations payable on demand, and $42,321.59 received from sale of Wayland Seminary property, Washington, D. C., and paid on special debt for buildings of Virginia Union University. The surplus on the year's operations was $19,658.83, which, however, was increased by the amount released from the reserve fund of the previous year to $21,735.03.

Budget Comments

The total budget for 1912-13, as approved by the Finance Committee of the Northern Baptist Convention was $665,977. This included $64,419.67 for specifics on condition that designated offerings for these purposes be obtained; leaving the amount of the general budget at $601,557.33. The budget was made up on reasonable expectation of receipts.

It was estimated that the receipts applicable to the budget from Churches, Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies would be $288,572.33; actual receipts were $282,480.14; that receipts from individuals would be $127,000.00; actual receipts were $120,068.08; that receipts from legacies would be $70,000.00; actual receipts were $87,332.45; that receipts from all other sources would be $116,785.00; actual receipts were $101,140.91.

The general budget expenditures were reckoned at $601,557.33; actual expenditures were $571,362.75; being $30,194.58 below the amount allowed.

For the specifics of the budget, aggregating $64,419.67, only $7,905 was received from individuals; though a legacy of $25,000 not only provided for one item, but $10,000 additional.

Budget receipts more than expenditures, $19,658.83, which effected a reduction of the indebtedness of previous years, from $72,478.77 to $52,819.94, which amount was further reduced to $50,743.74 by crediting $2,076.20 released from Reserve Fund of Budget of 1911-12, the appropriations covered thereby having lapsed by limitation.

Since the close of the Treasurer's books the Society has received its pro rata of Mr. Rockefeller's gift, $11,500, and $1.29 from other sources applicable to the debt, thereby bringing the net indebtedness down to $39,137.54.

Although the budget amount needed from Churches, Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies was $288,572.33, the amount actually apportioned was $273,192. It appears, however, that the amount actually received from these sources was in excess of the apportionment and nearly equal to the amount in the budget.

Taking everything into consideration, your Board considers it safe to project its work for 1913-14 on the same scale of expenditure as for the year just closed, with reasonable expectation that little or no indebtedness will be incurred.

The Baptist Laymen's Missionary Movement

The joint representative of the three general Societies, Dr. W. T. Stackhouse, has been abundant in labors from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast with very gratifying results, as will appear in his annual report. Emphasis has been put upon the every member canvass for all church and missionary purposes, with an ideal of ten cents per week on an average from every member. Already groups of churches have reached the goal and some have exceeded it.

This united movement of Baptists in the United States in the interests of both Home and Foreign Missions has had a decided influence in bringing about the new inter-denominational movement known as The United Missionary Campaign. With this the Baptist Laymen's Missionary Movement will co-operate to a considerable extent, while its distinctive work for our denominational interests will be demanded all the more.

The Three Million Dollar Campaign

In this special effort under the auspices of a Committee appointed by the general Apportionment Committee, the Field and District Secretaries of the Society as well as other representatives have heartily co-operated. The aims, methods and results will be presented by the Committee. The increase in offerings to all the Societies is sufficient to meet Mr. Rockefeller's pledge of $50,000 provided $125,000 more than last year should be given by the denomination. The large increase of this Society's receipts is due in part to designated offerings, most of which, however, would have been obtained in the usual course of events. The Board desires to express its appreciation of the effective work done in this campaign by Dean Shailer Mathews, Chairman of the Committee, and of Rev. John M. Moore, its Secretary.

The United Missionary Campaign

An event of great significance in the world of missions is the union of home and foreign mission forces in the United States for the promotion of interest in and the development of beneficence for world-wide missions: it is to be known as The United Missionary Campaign. This union was effected on March 19th at a conference held in the Rooms of The American Baptist Home Mission Society, primarily between prominent representatives of the Conference of Foreign Mission Boards of North America and of the Home Missions Council of the United States, and included also representatives of the Laymen's Missionary Movement and the Missionary Education Movement. The whole day was given to the consideration of the subject. Absolute harmony characterized the conference throughout. All recognized the value and the great importance of the strongest combination of home and foreign mission forces that has ever been attempted in the interest of economy, efficiency and of Christian unity. The unanimous opinion of the members of the conference was that this marks a new era in our missionary enterprises at home and abroad.

Home Mission Week

The campaign last fall under the auspices of the Home Missions Council, which culminated in the observance of Home Mission week from November 17-24, attracted wide attention to many grave problems that American Christianity has yet to work out on this continent. It has been decided to recommend to all denominations the observance of Home Mission week again, in November, 1913, though the antecedent campaign will not be on the same scale as last year. Attention will be focused on our immigration problems. A new book on the subject by Mrs. Mary Clark Barnes, with two chapters by her husband, Dr. L. C. Barnes, Field Secretary of this Society, will soon be published by the Woman's Council of Home Missions. An exercise for Sunday-schools will also be provided.

District Secretaries

There are eleven District Secretaries; three for their entire time in this service for the Society; two who also serve as Superintendents of Western missions; five who represent jointly the Foreign Mission Society and the Home Mission Society, and one who represents the three general societies. The latter is Rev. Joseph C. Robbins for the New England District, whose work began April 1, 1913. Rev. J. E. Norcross, former District Secretary for New England, returns to the pastorate, having made a fine record for efficiency as the Society's representative. All have been indefatigable, not only in attention to the customary duties of their position but in connection with special campaigns of the Baptist Laymen's Movement as represented by Dr. Stackhouse and in the Three Million Dollar Campaign. They are entitled to much credit for the increase of contributions from their several districts.

Rev. C. E. Stanton was appointed joint District Secretary for Ohio, in July, 1912, in place of Rev. T. G. Field, and upon the death of Rev. Schuyler C. Fulmer, Indiana was added to his district. At the same time Southern Illinois was included in the district of Dr. Aitchison, of Chicago.

Single State Agencies

The plan of one State collecting agent for all objects is in its third year in Nebraska. While no marked gain in net results appears, the plan seems to give general satisfaction as an expression of the essential unity of all our denominational enterprises and, as hoped, in the interest of economy. A similar plan, though different in several respects, has been adopted by the Wisconsin Baptist State Convention and approved by the Boards of the general societies, though there has been delay in securing a joint representative for the service required. The Michigan Baptist State Convention last fall also committed itself to a similar plan which goes into active operation April 1, 1913, with Rev. E. M. Lake as Missionary Secretary for all interests. This action has been accepted with the understanding that in all important matters affecting the Society its representatives should be consulted. It has seemed undesirable to encourage the adoption of this method in other States until it has had a longer test in those above named.

Afflicted Churches.

The unprecedented floods in Ohio and Indiana and the terrible tornado in Omaha entailed upon the stricken communities great personal suffering and property losses of many millions. Presuming that some of our Baptist churches suffered serious damage to their buildings, measures were adopted by your Board to ascertain the facts in the case in order, that if necessary, aid might be rendered such churches, as was done immediately after the California disaster of 1906. All our churches in Omaha escaped except one, whose old house of worship was to be replaced by another as soon as practicable. The damage to church properties in Ohio and Indiana was estimated at $50,000; but most of the churches will require no outside aid. Others are greatly in need of it, in view of the severe losses sustained by their members. Accordingly your Board authorized a statement and an appeal to be made to the denomination, stating that the Society will gladly receive and apply contributions for this purpose and suggesting April 20th as a date for making such offerings.

Changes in the Board

Three changes in the membership of the Board of Managers have taken place during the year, viz: the resignation of Dr.

W. M. Lawrence, because of his removal to a Western city; of Mr. W. A. Conner, because of inability to attend meetings, and of Dr. Curtis Lee Laws, because of heavy demands upon his time and strength in other directions. At the November meeting of the Board, Rev. Cornelius Woelfkin, D.D., of New York City, and Mr. J. D. Case, of Plainfield, N. J., were appointed in place of the two first named.

The Western Field

Large demands continue to be made upon the Society's resources for the proper cultivation of our Western Mission fields. In the preparation of our annual budget, conservative estimates of the needs for the coming year were obtained from our General and State Superintendents, calling for many thousand dollars increase. Only in a few instances, and then but partially, could requests be granted. The budget had to be kept down to about the limit of the past year. The limit on the part of co-operating Conventions, generally, seems to have been nearly reached. Some are struggling with debts incurred in the endeavor to meet the necessities in their fields. At the same time the Baptists of the Pacific Coast are responding generously to the larger claims of the work, both in the Home and in the Foreign fields, some large individual gifts having been made for these purposes. More and more in coming years will appear rich returns from investments in these western home mission fields.

How pressing and constant is the demand for advance work appears from the fact that in the Pacific Coast Division of seven States, 156 Baptist churches have been organized in the last five years; while in the six New England States 26 were organized in the same period and there are only ten more Baptist churches than were reported fifteen years ago. In that western group of States there are 70,156 Baptists in a total population of 5,182,338; while in the Eastern group there are 159,148 in a population of 6,558,745. Moreover, in the Eastern group the Baptist State Conventions have the income of more than a million dollars of permanent funds, while the western group has almost nothing of this character.

The whole Pacific Coast is also throbbing with expectation of a large European immigration consequent upon the opening of the Panama Canal. While this report is being prepared, the Pacific Coast Immigration Congress, to which the Governors of all the Coast States and other eminent men have been invited, is in session at San Francisco, to consider what means shall be adopted for stimulating immigration to the Coast. The climate and the products of large portions of the Coast will have their allurements for the peoples of Southern Europe. Even now we have nearly seventy missionaries among seven European nationalities there, and others among the Orientals.

The Nevada Convention, organized in April, 1911, is addressing itself earnestly to the tasks before it, as the State is entering upon a new era of development.

The work in Utah is difficult and at times quite perplexing. The tenacity of Mormonism is remarkable. Even those denominations which have expended large sums for the maintenance of Christian schools, and much more than we for missionary purposes, are generally but little in advance of us in the number of communicants. The reports of the General Superintendent and of the General Missionary for Utah disclose some of the problems of the situation. Dr. Bruce Kinney's book, entitled "Mormonism, the Islam of America," has been received with great favor and shows conclusively its un-Christian and un-American character.

The General Missionaries of the seven Coast States report 184 fields that should be occupied within three years. Seventy pastors serve more than one church and 145 mission outstations are reported. For the whole western field these figures would be much larger. The accompanying reports from our representatives in seventeen western States are very informing and stimulating. Of special value and interest is Dr. C. A. Woody's booklet published by the Missionary Education Movement, entitled "The New Frontier."

New Mexico

The adoption by the Northern Baptist Convention in 1912 of the recommendations of the Committees of Conference of the Northern and the Southern Baptist Conventions resulted in the retirement of this Society from New Mexico, as was foreshadowed in the report of your Board last year. The joint Committees' recommendations concerning a three-year period of graduated transition was changed in accordance with the desire of your Board and of Baptists of New Mexico to have a definite readjustment at once. The following is the action of this Board June 10, 1912:

"WHEREAS, The Board of Managers of The American Baptist Home Mission Society on February 24, 1912, voted that we are disposed cordially to coincide in the recommendation of the Joint Committee of the Northern and of the Southern Baptist Conventions, that the work in New Mexico be transferred to the care of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, in case the Baptists of New Mexico so desire; and

“WHEREAS, The Northern Baptist Convention at its recent meeting in Des Moines, adopted the report of the Committee in favor of such a transfer immediately upon the organization of a new Convention by the Baptists of New Mexico, therefore, “VOTED, That in accordance with this arrangement the New Mexico Convention, now in co-operation with this Society, be informed that the Society’s work in that State and all its obligations therefor will terminate upon the organization of the new Convention.

“VOTED, That we express our high appreciation of the love and loyalty to the Society of the many noble men among the Baptists of New Mexico.”

The organization of the New Convention was effected in June, and the Society’s relations to the missionary work in New Mexico terminated July 1, 1912.

Rural and Pastorless Churches.

In our western mission fields, as stated in the accompanying reports of General and State Superintendents, special attention has been given to weak and pastorless churches and to destitute localities in the rural districts. Many missionaries in towns and cities have stated services at out-stations: and pastors-at-large, under the direction of co-operating State Boards, devote particular attention to such fields. Efficiency institutes, with weak and undeveloped churches, have become a feature of the work in several States, and have been attended with excellent results.

In this connection, attention is called to a section in the report of the Field Secretary, entitled “Pastorless churches and the ministry of Laymen,” and to the recent action by your Board on the subject, as follows:

WHEREAS, there are many more Baptist churches than ministers, and twenty-two per cent. of the churches in the Northern Baptist Convention were pastorless when the last State Convention annuals were compiled, and

WHEREAS, the unmet opportunities for distinctively missionary service are still more numerous, and the holy ministry of the unordained is a fundamental Baptist principle,

RESOLVED, that a Committee be appointed by the Society on Pastorless Churches and the Ministry of Laymen.

The Gospel in the Industrial World

The ministry of Rev. D. L. Schultz, Labor Evangelist, has been so richly blessed and so highly commended that arrangements have been made to enlarge the field of his activities, so that while he will devote four months to the continuance of his work in Western Pennsylvania under the special direction of the Pittsburgh Association, he will give four months also to Illinois under the direction of the Board of the State Convention, and four months in service elsewhere for the Society. The Baptist Ministers' Conference, of Chicago, after hearing him, expressed its hearty commendation of the Society in his appointment, and the Baptist Review, the organ of the Baptist Executive Council, said: "The service our Home Mission Society is rendering through this representative cannot be overestimated. Mr. Schultz is giving the message, thus stirring the churches on the one side and bringing organized labor into a fine, sympathetic relationship with our churches on the other."

The Orientals

The principal work among the Chinese is in San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, and Fresno, California, and in Seattle, Washington, and is conducted in co-operation with the State Conventions embracing those fields. A mission to the Chinese of New York City is maintained by the Society, though under the immediate supervision of the Baptist City Mission Society.

Among the Japanese there have been two native appointees, one in Seattle, Washington, where there is a vigorous body of Japanese Christians; the other as an evangelist for a part of the year, among the Japanese in several localities in California.

Indian Missions.

Our Indian missions are among the five civilized tribes of Eastern Oklahoma (conducted in co-operation with the Oklahoma Baptist State Convention), also among seven tribes or groups of the backward Indians in Western Oklahoma; and among the Navahoes of Arizona, the Crows of Montana, and the Indians at Aubrey, California. Another mission to the Navahoes is contemplated. At Keams Cañon, Arizona, where there is a Government school for Indians, a residence and chapel have been completed. Rev. Lee I. Thayer devotes attention also to the adjacent missions to the Hopis, among whom the Woman's American Baptist Mission Society has two capable workers.

The long strain of several years in service among the Crows of Montana has proved too great for the health of the wife of Rev. W. A. Petzoldt, and both have been compelled to leave their work awhile for her benefit. Her early recovery is confidently expected. The new building at Wyola, containing accommodations for a small congregation, a school, and rooms for two women missionaries, was completed and occupied early last fall.

Spanish-Speaking People in the United States.

The work among the Mexican-American population in Southern California, under the immediate supervision of Rev. L. E. Troyer and Mrs. Troyer, has been vigorously and successfully prosecuted. They report a fine house of worship costing over $3,000 dedicated in August, 1912, for the Church in Los Angeles, which "gives the Baptists the finest plant for Spanish work of any denomination in California"; also, the erection of a temporary building for a mission in another quarter of the City. There are eight mission stations. There are three Spanish-speaking assistants, besides two others who are appointees of the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society. An encouraging feature is the practical interest shown by several American churches in financial assistance to the work in their respective localities.

At Tucson, Arizona, the mission is also in a hopeful condition. Much more should be done for these needy and neglected people.

Eastern Cuba

There is steady enlargement and strengthening of our work in Cuba, notwithstanding the revolutionary disturbances in the early part of the year. The facts presented in Dr. Moseley's fourteenth annual report are encouraging. The churches are coming to a consciousness of their obligation to do what they can for the maintenance of religious services and repairs and improvements of church property, and propose to engage with the Porto Rican churches in missionary work in Santo Domingo. The 53 churches report 2,939 members.

Porto Rico

The review of the year as presented in the report of Superintendent Rudd shows that solid constructive work is being done. The organization of four churches during the year carries the whole number now to 50, with 2,236 members. The work in the country districts is particularly encouraging.

The summary of results in the fourteen years since our work began in Cuba and Porto Rico, is in general as follows: Churches, 104; members, 5,175; 68 church edifices; 2 higher educational institutions and in Cuba 13 related day schools; church and school property valued at $277,000. So the denomination is becoming established and influential in these islands.

El Salvador

Substantial progress has been made in our missionary enterprise in this new and interesting field. The working force has consisted of two English-speaking missionaries, Rev. William Keech and Rev. Percy T. Chapman, with four assistants. Mr. Chapman, after several years' residence in the tropics, has been granted a furlough for several months. The need of suitable chapels at several places is great. Difficulty is experienced in securing satisfactory rented quarters for public services. There is urgent appeal for more workers also.

Mexico

In Mexico, the year has been one of great anxiety and apprehension on the part of our missionaries, because of numerous sanguinary conflicts between the forces of the Government and those of the revolutionists. Rev. George H. Brewer, Superintendent of Missions, and other workers were in the City of Mexico during the nine days and nights of the horrible carnage which resulted in the overthrow of the Madero Government. The one missionary who lost his life was the young native pastor at Ajusco, who had recently completed his course of study in the school at Monterey. For particulars the reader is referred to Superintendent Brewer's report.

The conspicuous feature of the year's work is the provision for putting on a better basis our Medical mission in the City of Mexico, in charge of Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Conwell. A former member of the Board of Managers of the Society, Mr. W. A. Grippin of Connecticut, left a memorandum expressive of his wish that the Society should receive $25,000 from his estate. His heirs scrupulously regarded his wish and expressed their approval of the application of this amount to the acquisition of a site and the erection of a hospital building. It is proposed to expend approximately $5,000 for a site, $15,000 for the building and to put $5,000 into a maintenance fund, the income of which shall be used for incidental expenses. This is the only Protestant hospital and medical mission in a city of about five hundred thousand people. Its Christian ministry to the souls as well as to the bodies of the afflicted has been blessed in bringing many to a saving knowledge of Christ.

The Society's Work Among Our Foreign Populations

At this time, when the continuance of the enormous immigration from Continental Europe to our shores presents to us a great foreign mission field, urgently demanding cultivation, it seems appropriate that a general survey should be made of what the Society has done, is doing, and should do in the prosecution of its work among these peoples.

The historical data concerning the beginning of this work are as follows: To the Welsh, 1836; to the Germans, 1846; to the Scandinavians, 1848; to the French Canadians, 1849; to the Chinese, 1870; to the Poles and Bohemians, 1888; to the Portuguese, 1889; to the Finns, 1890; to the Italians, 1895; to the Jews, 1896; to the Japanese, 1898; to the Lettish and to the Hollanders, 1898; to the Syrians, 1899; to the Hungarians, 1900; to the Russians and the Slavs, 1903; to the Slovaks, 1905; to the Greeks, 1909; to the Slovenians and Roumanians, 1911; to the Ruthenians, 1912.

The Society's Policy in Work Among Foreign Populations

The Society's policy thus far developed in its work among our foreign populations includes several particulars, as follows:

(1) Initiative. Baptist beginnings among our foreign-speaking peoples have usually been of individual initiative. Men, emancipated from the thralldom of error, superstition and religious formalism, began zealously to tell the good tidings to others. Thus groups of believers arose, attracted attention, and became constituted into churches, which in their weakness needed assistance to maintain religious services. Sometimes a church of one nationality having in it members of another nationality, encouraged them to become a distinct body for more effective work among their own people, and so a new star was added to the constellation. Frequently, however, and quite extensively, the Society ~~has~~ taken the initiative in the extension of this work by the appointment of general missionaries as explorers and pioneers. It is difficult in some cases to obtain men adapted to such service.

(2) Instrumentalities. Unquestionably the most effective instrumentalities in this work are converted men who can preach the Gospel to their people, in their own vernacular. Moreover, the inability of multitudes to comprehend religious discourses in English, and their disinclination to attend American churches, makes this method the more necessary.

Concerning the organization of separate foreign-speaking Baptist churches, the statement by the Society in 1850 is of interest as the index of its policy to the present.

"However much it may be the desire and policy of the Board to blend all suitable foreign materials with our native churches, and use our influence in rendering the population of the country as homogeneous in religious character and action as possible, it is evidently the dictate of true benevolence to afford aid for a time to such distinctive organizations. Thousands of them will never become familiar with our language, but if addressed in their mother tongue, they will hear the blessed truths of divine inspiration, and may believe and be benefited by them temporally and spiritually."

(3) Their organized activities. Of course it is not in the province or power of the Society or any other Baptist organization to dictate to these diverse Baptist groups what they shall or shall not do in the matter of organization and collective effort. At the same time, in some cases, especially where the expenditure of missionary offerings are involved, the Society may properly give its counsel or even withhold its approval of proposed measures. Naturally and spontaneously groups of Baptists according to nationality and speech are drawn together for fellowship, for encouragement and for consideration of matters of common interest. Hence, their associations, conventions, conferences and other organizations, like those of their American brethren. With such organizations we have to reckon in the adoption of any policy. In illustration of this it may be noted that the German Baptists have a General Triennial Conference, and nine District Conferences, meeting annually; a Publication Society, which publishes an excellent German Baptist paper, Sunday-school supplies and much other literature. They maintain several Christian philanthropic institutions. They regard with great satisfaction their school of the prophets, the German Department of the Rochester Theological Seminary. The German Baptists numbering over 30,000 constitute a very compact, intelligent, effective contingent in the force of American Baptists.

Swedish Baptists, numbering about 28,000, are organized into a General Conference, with which are affiliated eighteen District Conferences in the United States and two in Canada. They also have various minor organizations. The annual reports of these general and local bodies, both German and Swedes, contain full and valuable information concerning the character and scope of their collective activities.

The Norwegian Baptists have a general conference and five State organizations.

The Danish Baptists also have a general conference, and eight State organizations.

There is the nucleus of a Finnish Baptist Conference, also an Italian Baptist Association and a Hungarian Baptist Association.

(4) Relationships between organizations. It has been the policy of the Society to avail itself of the zeal, the knowledge and the ability of the stronger organizations by entering into definite co-operation with some of them in the prosecution of its work among their own people. Long before the adoption of the present co-operative plan with Baptist State Conventions, the Society began co-operation with the German Baptist Conference, which, with some modifications, has continued to this day. Generally, missionary appointments are made upon the recommendation of the Board or Executive Committee of the General Conference and on a pro rata financial basis. No other group of foreign-speaking Baptists sustains a similar relation to the Society, partly because none has attained to so high a degree of collective efficiency, and partly because it has been deemed best that they should become as closely related as possible to American Baptist State Conventions and City Mission Societies, which were encouraged by the Home Mission Society to regard them not as outsiders or spiritual wards of the Home Mission Society, but integral parts of their own missionary field and fellow-members of those bodies with which the Society co-operates. Repeatedly the Society has declined requests for separate and altogether independent co-operation with some of these groups, believing that their segregation from their American brethren in their respective localities would be unwise for both. Indeed, the Society holds that the primary responsibility for the spiritual welfare of these peoples rests upon those Baptist organizations which are nearest to them. In many instances this policy has brought about close co-operative relations between State Conventions and Conferences of our foreign-speaking brethren and unity of all our forces in a State.

(5) Supervision. Originally, as the Home Mission Society was the pioneer agency in this field and for many years was almost the sole supporter of the work, it necessarily had the direct supervision of it. For about twenty-five years the Society had its own superintendent of French missions in New England. To a limited extent this method has been employed among other nationalities.

The superintendent of the German work is the joint appointee of the Society and the German Conference. The general policy now is to have the necessary supervision exercised by Boards of co-operating State Conventions and City Mission Societies and particularly by the Superintendents thereof: thereby distributing and localizing such responsibility. In co-operation with ten of the older Eastern State Conventions and eight City Mission Societies in work almost wholly among the foreign populations, we find this method of supervision most satisfactory. Of course, the administrative force at the Rooms is in receipt of regular reports and much correspondence from foreign-speaking missionaries and is frequently in consultation with representatives of other organizations concerning men and measures and conditions in the mission fields. For several years the Board appointed a Superintendent of this work, chiefly for New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, but since his retirement about a year ago, no other has been appointed. It is expected that the Field Secretary of the Society will devote special attention to the subject the coming year.

(6) Expenditures. In this field of its operations, as elsewhere, the Society's financial limitations are seriously felt. It is impossible to do all that ought to be done. In the making of the annual budget it is difficult to weigh exactly the relative claims of scores of mission fields. Most insistent appeals for enlargement in many quarters are pressed upon the Board to which a disappointing response must often be given because of inadequate resources. The pressure for more is strong in Eastern States and cities where the foreign populations in recent years have come in enormous numbers. Occasionally the Society is criticised because of its limited appropriations to some localities. But it cannot abandon promising work elsewhere to undertake new enterprises here. Moreover, it is returning to most of these localities a generous proportion of the amount contributed to it by the churches therein. The challenge of the hour is for larger offerings to all our agencies for larger work in this direction. In some of the older Eastern States, where an American church is seldom organized, this foreign field presents the principal opportunity for new work.

(7) An educated ministry. Some of the men called to this work have been highly educated and influential. The majority, however, have had but very limited educational advantages, although many are of much native ability and very efficient in the ministry. The German Department of the Rochester Theological Seminary has rendered most valuable service in preparing men for the ministry not only among the Germans, but also among some other nationalities. The Scandinavian Department of the Divinity School of the University of Chicago, until its recent discontinuance, rendered similar service for others. For a number of these nationalities, however, there has been no suitable educational provision. The Society has been asked to assume financial and other responsibility for their education, as well as for the education of Christian leaders for the Negroes, and the Indians. That work, however, was undertaken and has been maintained for backward and dependent peoples, for whom no neighboring education societies or other organizations could or would care; so that the cases are not at all parallel. Nevertheless, indirectly and incidentally the Society has rendered assistance in the training of French students at the Newton Theological Institution; as also in the establishment of the Italian School in Brooklyn, under the auspices of the Divinity School of Colgate University. No appropriations have ever been made for the maintenance of the institutions above named at Rochester and Chicago, though prior to the discontinuance of the Scandinavian Department at Chicago it was argued by some that it should be supported by the Society. Your Board, however, has commended the effort of our Norwegian brethren to raise an endowment fund of $60,000 for theological work in Chicago. The Society is rendering slight assistance in the initial work being done for the training of Hungarian students for the ministry at Scranton, Pa.; and, through its representatives in connection with those of other bodies, is engaged in negotiations with the authorities of Mt. Pleasant Institute in Western Pennsylvania, concerning the utilization of its property for this purpose. These constitute minor exceptions to the general policy of the Society in regard to the preparation of men for missionary service among our foreign populations.

(8) Comity and co-operation with other denominational organizations engaged in this work. There is a general understanding among our home missionary societies that there shall be no encroachment by one upon the established work of another. The kind and the extent of co-operation is the subject of consideration by some of these bodies. The Home Missions Council at its last meeting created a standing committee on work among foreign speaking people.

(9) Promotion of interest. To awaken interest in the evangelization of these peoples the Society has published a vast quantity of literature, has presented the subject forcibly to the churches and to the denomination, at the Anniversaries, by men of many nationalities; has co-operated with other agencies in promoting the circulation of study-books on various aspects of the problem, and is at present committed with other Home Mission organizations represented in the Home Missions Council and the Council of Women for Home Missions in making this the distinctive feature of a united Home Mission campaign in the fall of 1913, culminating in Home Mission week in November.

(10) In general. In view of what has been accomplished and of the overwhelming masses of these newcomers, without a saving knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ, it is the policy and purpose of the Society to press the work of their evangelization to the extent of its ability consistent with other claims that cannot be disregarded. A special committee has been appointed by the Board to make a fresh study of this unique mission field and recommend what measures should be adopted for its more effective and extensive cultivation. The presence of about 70,000 members in non-English speaking churches, and many thousands of their kindred in American churches, is cause for thanksgiving and encouragement.

CHURCH EDIFICE DEPARTMENT

The inadequacy of our resources for Church Edifice work is one of the most painful things in the administration of the Society's affairs. Congregations meeting in rented buildings erected for secular purposes ordinarily make slow progress and are handicapped by the restrictions under which their work is conducted. In many Western fields and especially in Cuba and Porto Rico is this true. The Church Edifice organizations of some other denominations are expending two or three times as much as we can appropriate, with the result that in many important points our Baptist interests are placed at great disadvantage. Particular attention has been given the past year to the needs of Baptist churches in cities where State institutions for higher education are located, and interesting facts on the subject are presented in the report of Dr. Woody, Superintendent of Missions for the Pacific Coast. But of what avail is this knowledge unless the needs can be supplied by larger offerings for this purpose? It is lamentable that we can report only about $25,000 expended during the year in gifts to churches for the erection of houses of worship in our mission fields when we could wisely use more than twice this sum.

The number of churches aided during the year is 75; by gifts only, 38; by loans only, 20; by gift and loan, 17.

By gifts: Arizona, 2; California, 11; Colorado, 4; Cuba, 1; Idaho, 2; Indiana, 1; Kansas, 2; Massachusetts, 1; Mexico, 1; Minnesota, 4; Nebraska, 2; Nevada, 1; New York, 3; Oklahoma, 4; Oregon, 3; Porto Rico, 3; South Dakota, 1; Washington, 6; Wyoming, 1.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

Nation-wide Bearings of Our Southern Work

The popular impression that this work of Christian education is simply for the benefit of the Negroes of the South and of the South in general, is most incorrect. Within the last twenty-five years multitudes of Negroes have migrated from Southern to Northern and Western States. There are nearly 1,000 Negro Baptist churches with almost 100,000 members in the bounds of the Northern Baptist Convention. The kind of ministers for these flocks is a matter of much moment to them and to all interested in their spiritual welfare. It is a most interesting fact that scores of the prominent pastors of these churches and many of their members received their training in our Home Mission Schools in the South. And more of them will be needed in the days to come. The North therefore is reaping benefits to-day of its sowing yesterday in the Southland. In the sweep of its influence this work therefore is nation-wide; it is more, it is almost world-wide.

At the February meeting of the Board a Committee was appointed to consider what modifications, if any, should be made in this department of our work for the Negroes, with a view also to the reduction of our expenditure for its maintenance in order that larger appropriations may be made to other fields.

In recent years increased revenue from these schools has been derived from higher charges than formerly for tuition and board, and it is the policy of the Board to make further advances of these rates as circumstances will allow. Furthermore, the income from endowment funds is considerably more than formerly and will undoubtedly increase in the future. An endowment fund of a million dollars for this educational work should speedily be provided.

Secondary Schools

For many years aid has been extended to several secondary schools founded and controlled by the Negro Baptists themselves. This was made possible for a long period by reason of designated offerings for this purpose. The aim has been to bring better educational advantages closer to the masses of the people and to do better preparatory work for pupils desiring to pursue advanced studies in the higher institutions. It has also been a recognition of ability on the part of those charged with the duties of administration. This annual appropriation of a few thousand dollars to such schools imparts to them steadiness and affords them encouragement in their hard struggle to maintain themselves.

There seems to be, however, an undue multiplication of secondary schools by Negro Baptists. From the data obtained, there are about eighty of these in the Southern States, Georgia leading with nineteen and North Carolina with eighteen. Yet, in many States, where the rural school session is only about four months in the year, these secondary schools become almost a necessity.

Furthermore, their management and maintenance are part of the valuable disciplinary process in the development of a race. At the same time they make such heavy demands upon their constituency as to preclude the possibility of obtaining much from the same sources for the maintenance of our higher institutions.

New Buildings and Improvements

The most noteworthy advance this year is the completion of a large dormitory building and two teachers' residences at Virginia Union University, Richmond, Va., at a cost of about $48,000. To President George Rice Hovey belongs the credit of securing most of this large sum, which includes a gift by the General Education Board of $11,500 and one individual gift of $15,000. The dormitory building is of Virginia granite, corresponding to the material of the other principal buildings, and will be known as Huntley Hall, in honor of the generous donor and her deceased brother, who through the late Dr. MacVicar became much interested in the institution. The two residences are modest frame buildings apart from, though near the main campus.

Grateful Mention

The General Education Board, which has a reputation for wise discrimination in the bestowment of its gifts, has made generous contributions to the Society for the benefit of many of these Negro schools. Since its first grant in 1907, its appropriations to four of the higher institutions and eight of the Secondary schools, chiefly for the erection of buildings, have aggregated $75,500. These grants were made on condition that other specific amounts be secured within a definite time; in most instances to be contributed by the Negro Baptists. Only two of these conditional grants have not yet been earned. The actual amount paid by the Board is therefore $62,500. To this, however, should be added its special grants since 1902 to Spelman Seminary amounting to $166,912.88. Without this timely aid most of these institutions would have been unable to attain to the success which they have achieved.

Special mention is made also of grants by the Trustees of the John F. Slater Fund for many years, principally for industrial education and Normal Training work. The total last year to seven institutions was $10,600. Such appropriations also are expressive of the approbation of the work done in these institutions.

Changes at Hartshorn

The resignation of Rev. L. B. Tefft, D.D., as President of Hartshorn Memorial College, Richmond, Va., calls for special notice because of his long and conspicuous services from September, 1874, for about nine years at Roger Williams University, Nashville, Tenn., and then for twenty-nine years as the first President of Hartshorn Memorial College. Under his wise administration the institution has become strong and well equipped, with a property valued at $125,000.

In accepting his resignation the Trustees of the College placed on record their great appreciation of his long and successful service in behalf of the education of the Negro people of the South, and the devotion and self-sacrificing interest both of Dr. Tefft and his daughter, who for many years has been associated with him in this work.

The new President of Hartshorn College is Rev. George W. Rigler, D.D., formerly of Rhode Island, who brings to the work his experience as an educator in New England institutions.

Indian Schools.

The principal school for the Indians is at Bacone, near Muskogee, Oklahoma, known as Indian University; or, more commonly, as Bacone College. It has never been on so satisfactory a basis as now. The religious interest among the students has been unusual; several have confessed Christ and united with the Church. President Randall is importuning the Society for a suitable building for class-room and other purposes to meet the present needs and for the larger and better work of the future. About $20,000 is required for the erection and equipment of such a building. But the Society cannot command the resources for it. A gift of $10,000 for this purpose, it is believed, would prove a leverage for securing the remainder.

Affiliated with it is the Murrow Indian Orphan's Home, which in all respects is in better condition than ever before. There are about 40 children in the Home.

The institution, properly maintained, has a great field of usefulness, particularly among the full-blood Indians and those with but a slight infusion of white blood, who number altogether about 30,000 in the total of 101,000 on the tribal rolls of the five civilized tribes. In Government reports they are termed "restricted" Indians—the backward, undeveloped element still in the lower stages of civilization. They live remote from the towns and cities and railroads. The report of the Board of Indian Commissioners for 1912 says:

"A matter that urgently needs attention is that of schools for the children of these full-blood Indians. At present a comparatively small number attend school, partly because the infrequent public schools are out of reach and partly because, where such schools are available, the Indian children are often unwelcome and their attendance is made uncomfortable or impossible."

One of the Commissioners who made a tour of inspection among these Indians says:

"I can see no hopeful outlook for the future of these people, save only in the creation among them of an efficient school system. How this is to be done raises serious problems. It is natural for Congress to say that Oklahoma should now look after the educational situation in large measure, but Oklahoma is not doing so as respects these Indians. . . . That there should be a strong element of substantial citizens of Oklahoma who are opposed to the proper treatment of these Indians and their protection seems hard to understand."

All this has important bearings upon the missionary and educational work and policy of the American Baptist Home Mission Society for these unfortunate people in their transition from the old order to the new with the surging environment of a sordid civilization. Is there not here a powerful appeal to Christian compassion and the helping hand? Our Christian task is to train leaders for these neglected and needy ones, among whom are about 3,000 members of Baptist churches.

Our missionaries among the less advanced tribes of Western Oklahoma, where we have about 1,000 members of Baptist churches, are clamorous for some day schools and a boarding school, to meet a vital need and to save our young people, who are being enticed to Roman Catholic schools.

At Lodge Grass and Wyola, Montana, day schools have been maintained in connection with our missions to the Crow Indians.

Porto Rico

For the erection of a school and dormitory building at Rio Piedras $17,500 has been secured in cash and good pledges. The first principal gift of $10,000 was from two families in Los Angeles, Cal., on condition that the remaining $7,500 be secured by April 1, 1913. This condition has been met, and of the whole sum $7,805 has already been paid. The building is to be completed by April 1, 1914. It will be adjacent to the campus of the Insular University, in which our students will pursue their literary studies, thus relieving us of the usual expense for maintaining a corps of instructors for such work. This marks a great advance in our work on the island. The training of a native ministry is indispensable.

Cuban Schools

The schools at El Cristo, Cuba, are in a flourishing condition. In the quality of their work they rank second to none in Eastern Cuba. Some students are preparing for the work of the ministry. Some former students are now in our list of missionaries doing excellent work.

The day schools at thirteen principal mission stations are of great value. Most of the teachers therein are appointees of the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society, though a considerable part of the expense for maintenance is met by tuition fees. The inferior educational system of Cuba presents to us an opportunity to provide acceptable schools of this character in which the pupils shall be brought under positive evangelical influence. They also become tributary to the higher schools at El Cristo.

By order and on behalf of the Board.

FIELD WORK

L. C. BARNES, D.D., FIELD SECRETARY, NEW YORK CITY

THREE trips west of the Rocky Mountains have been made this year. The closer study of some important sections has deepened the conviction that the far West has a significance for the future of this country and the Kingdom of God out of all proportion to its present relative population. Every month in the western half of the United States marks a new era in the establishment of civilization somewhere. Whether it shall be Christian or not rests in part with the churches in the eastern half of the country. The Pacific Slope is aquiver with expectation and athrob with energy in view of the early opening of the Panama Canal.

The chairmanship of the Home Mission Committee of the Federal Council closed with the report which secured gratifying consideration and encouraging action at the quadrennial meeting of the Council. The chairmanship of the Home Missions Council Committee for the Survey of Neglected Fields has required less time this year than last. The Survey has been steadily prosecuted and the first bulletin issued. A conference was held by the committee in Albuquerque, New Mexico, with workers among Spanish-speaking people in all the Southwestern States. A "Permanent Interdenominational Council on Evangelical Work among Spanish-speaking People of the Southwest" was organized.

More than a year ago the Field Secretary suggested to the Foreign Missions Conference that home mission societies should be taken into conference with them on Latin-American work because so much of it is being done by Home Mission organizations. Such a joint conference has now been held under the leadership of Dr. Robert Speer, with marked interest and promise.

It was a great joy to be associated with Dr. Stackhouse and others in the every-member canvass campaign in Cleveland and with Pacific Coast State and general secretaries in the Three Million Dollar Campaign team work in Washington, Oregon and California.

The Field Secretary's "Elemental Forces in Home Missions," issued within the year by the Revell Company, has been accorded appreciative reception.

Foreign-speaking Work

All students of the great problems of Home Missions know that none is greater than that of the Christian assimilation of the multitudes from foreign lands who are now taking possession of our country. For a long time it has been the desire of the Field Secretary to enter upon a careful study of this problem. The undertaking is vast and immensely complicated. A fair start has been made by getting together for the first time a comprehensive and somewhat detailed view of all that the denomination is now doing among foreign-speaking peoples. Tables submitted herewith (p. 49) show only a small part of the findings made with the aid of State and city mission administrators, officers of the general foreign-speaking Baptist bodies and the Commission of the Northern Baptist Convention on Foreign-speaking Bodies. We now have in hand for use at Ellis Island and elsewhere a list of all the foreign-speaking Baptist churches and missions in the country, giving the street location and the name and address of the missionary, if there be one. The magnitude of the work is impressive and cheering. There are in the Northern and Western States more than one thousand regular preaching points in foreign tongues. The cost of the work is now something like one million dollars a year. It has been developed largely through the fostering care of the Home Mission Society. State and city mission societies have come into close and efficient co-operation. More than one-half of the annual expense is now met by the foreign-speaking churches themselves. Many German and Swedish churches have long been self-supporting. As a rule they far excel the English-speaking churches in working and giving for missions in addition to self-support. The entire work is small compared with what we may expect it to become, but it is a splendid beginning. The portion of the work which the Home Mission Society is doing ought to be augmented by twenty-five per cent. each year for the next five years in order to adequately stimulate and supervise the growing work. That would not be an idealistic increase, but thoroughly conservative.

At the urgent solicitation of the Council of Women for Home Missions, Mrs. Barnes has prepared their current mission-study text-book on "The New America: A Study in Immigration." It is in no way confined to women's work, but is a general historical view of the subject. I have contributed two chapters, one on the work among Asiatics in this country, the other giving a conspectus of all the work by the Government, by philanthropic organizations and by the churches. In gathering data for this, tables have been prepared showing the work of all home mission societies and boards and the entire work of some of the larger denominations in detail. The boards have over three thousand foreign-speaking missionaries and annually expend nearly one and one-half million dollars in foreign-speaking work. Congregationalists, Methodists (North), Northern Baptists and Presbyterians (North) have some two hundred and twenty thousand members in their foreign-speaking churches. The Baptists have the largest percentage of members in foreign-speaking churches.

Pastorless Churches and the Ministry of Laymen

Year after year the Baptist Year Book shows fourteen thousand more churches than ordained ministers in the United States. The discrepancy is much larger than that because of the very considerable number who are superannuated and otherwise disabled, and those who are engaged in teaching and in administrative work. A recent examination of State Convention tables by Deacon Rebbeck, of Pittsburgh, an expert accountant, shows that in twenty-four States of the Northern Baptist Convention, with 7,037 churches, 1,588, or 22½ per cent., are without pastors. Many of them are only temporarily so and are having regular pulpit supplies. But there are many hundreds constantly without ministration.

Alongside of this is the fundamental Baptist principle that the unordained, both men and women, are as sacredly called to ministry as the ordained. One of our foreign missionary women fittingly put it, "Not ordained, but foreordained." Dr. A. J. Gordon declared that the next great advance of the Kingdom of Heaven was to be in the increased ministry of laymen. That forecast is already coming to pass in respect to the support of missions. Its next great fulfilment is to be in the exercise of ministry. In the Pittsburgh Association there are twenty laymen pledged to conduct services as needed. There no church is ever without ministry unless its need is undiscovered. Most of our thousand or so churches without ministration have men or women in them who could render excellent service. They are equal also to much aggressive missionary work.

At the last meeting of the Michigan Baptist Convention, Pastor Smith of Kalamazoo suggested that definite plans be made for stimulating and helping this kind of ministry. The Field Secretary of the Home Mission Society has entered into correspondence with State and general administrators on the subject. There is a wide and keen conviction that something along this line is greatly needed.

Inasmuch as a majority of the pastorless churches are country churches, development of the ministry of laymen along this line would have a decisive bearing on an important side of the country church problem.

*This being the first time such a comprehensive table has been compiled it is incomplete in spite of all the pains taken. Additions and corrections are solicited. It should be especially remembered that the church members given are only those in the foreign-speaking churches. There are large numbers, perhaps as many more, in English-speaking churches. It should also be remembered that other large sums are expended in conducting the six ministerial training school departments and by local church enterprises. Not far from one million dollars a year is going into this work, more than half of it being given by the foreign-speaking people themselves. Still another large item is the amount contributed by them for benevolence, the Germans and Swedes reporting $166,566.76.

REPORTS OF GENERAL SUPERINTENDENTS

Pacific Division : Alaska, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, California, Oregon, Hawaii

C. A. WOODY, D.D., PORTLAND, ORE., SUPERINTENDENT

CONDITIONS in the Pacific Division have continued without much change from previous years. All the General Missionaries in service April 1, 1912, have continued throughout the year, with the exception of Rev. F. A. Agar, in Eastern Washington, who closed his work December 31st to become Associate Pastor in the First Baptist Church of Portland, Oregon. He closed a very fruitful service in the East Washington Convention field to the deep regret of its Board of Managers and the supporters of its work. He was succeeded quite promptly by Rev. W. C. King, of Colorado. Mr. King became acquainted with the State while serving as Pastor in Western Washington. Successful terms as General Missionary in South Dakota and Colorado have given him exceptional training for the new position to which he has been warmly welcomed.

Brethren Beaven, Bowler, Varney, McCourtney, Watson, Brinstad and Wright have been incessant in labor and have been encouraged and helped by the unanimous co-operation of their respective Convention Boards. Several of these men, in addition to executive and office work, have added occasional service as Evangelists. The general duties incident to their position, however, will not allow much time to be given by them to this important department of work.

Efficiency Development

In my last annual report I made reference to a type of work which seemed to demand special attention. It has to do with specific training of a local church to secure all around efficiency so that it may take its full share of the denominational task. Naturally we should expect the pastor to be the leader in such a course of training. Experience has shown us, however, that much more rapid progress may be made if his efforts in this direction may be supplemented and reinforced by a group of well-trained outside workers.

In Southern Idaho the plan of last year, by which a small deputation under the leadership of the General Missionary held Efficiency Institutes with each church, has been continued during this year. The value of this work may be seen in some items of progress just reported to me by Mr. Bowler. He calls attention to the fact that in the five years ending with 1912 the State has increased in population 101 per cent. Growth in church membership has been 91 per cent, while the growth in contributions for all missions was 216 per cent. The item for State Missions, however, is most remarkable, showing a net increase in five years of 382 per cent. He informs me that a considerable number of the churches have already reached the standard set for weekly giving by the Laymen's Missionary Movement.

A similar line of training has been carried on in Southern California, and plans have been projected in two other Conventions for similar work. In Washington plans have been wrought out for Pastoral Institutes in which other lines of training have been offered to missionary pastors. The feature of this efficiency training worthy of mention is that it seeks to develop the churches in the interest of all missions, rather than in the interest of State Missions alone.

Evangelism

A somewhat careful study of the growth of the denomination in this division has convinced me anew of the primary importance of Evangelism. Comparatively small expenditures have been made by the coast Conventions during the last year for the support of Evangelists. There is, of course, a considerable number of meetings held each year by pastors exchanging with each other. There have been no large general campaigns during the year. It has generally been supposed that western churches secure their large growth through additions by letter. However, such is not true. In ten recent years there were added to the churches of eight Western States in net gain 30,159, while the number of baptisms was 31,838. These figures show that the net growth for these ten years is 1,679 less than the number of baptisms. I do not know of a fact which, in a more startling way, emphasized the primary importance of a persistent Evangelistic campaign.

Another Outstanding Need

In other years I have referred to the importance of housing and equipping our churches in our educational centers. This matter grows more imperative from year to year, especially in the cities where State schools are maintained. The greatest school from almost every point of view in this division is that at Berkeley, California. Its growth during the past year has continued unabated. Our church in Berkeley has not yet received the assistance which for two years I have urged with all my might. In six other such centers in this division we are inadequately equipped. In one of the smaller university towns there exists this condition: There are 500 students enrolled, 85 members are maintained in the faculty, and the total maintenance cost for the institution is $270,000, and the State has just voted to expend $200,000 more for new buildings, in addition to the five ones already in use. The Baptist Church in this community still worships in its first-built house. It is thirty years since it was by the help of the Society. It was a good house for the village people for whom it was erected. But it is little less than repellent college students of to-day. The only adequate house in this place or by any denomination cost $30,000 and was built largely by outside aid.

In another college town, where more than 1,500 regular students more than 1,000 additional short term students are enrolled this year and where there is a faculty of 150 professors and instructors with an annual expenditure above the half million mark, we are represented by a house costing about $1,000. If this report could carry photographs would set out our condition in a way that would emphasize, as words cannot, the importance of early attention by the Society to these educational centers.

My last annual estimate to the Society carried a recommendation for special aid this year to two of these centers in addition to the one for Berkeley, to which reference has already been made.

The Pacific Coast Baptist Conference

A third meeting of this Conference is to be held April 22d to 24th in Sacramento, California. It will consider our educational interests and our program for Evangelism on the Pacific Coast, and our growth and status as revealed by the past five years. Much good should come from discussions and recommendations of this body. It has no function but of an advisory and inspirational character. Strong men from all parts of the coast have accepted invitations to speak.

Immigration and Growth

It is impossible to state accurately the growth and population of the United States year by year in these States. If the estimates of the Governors and published in the statistical almanacs may be believed, our growth is maintaining the pace of the last ten years, in which it exceeded that of the country as a whole some four or five times. A very marked increase in foreign immigration from European sources is expected on the completion of the Panama Canal, and Christian bodies represented here are giving considerable attention to large plans for giving them proper education and religious care after location.

The religious situation as a whole is inspiring and hopeful. There is to be a spirit of growing fellowship and co-operation between the various denominations, and when the full results of the canvass initiated by the Home Missions' Council are made public I confidently expect a zealous and concerted effort to care for existing destitution. If the Home Mission Society can continue and somewhat enlarge its co-operative relations with our Conventions, I hope we may be able to take our share of the task.

D. D. PROPER, D.D., OMAHA, NEB., SUPERINTENDENT

CENTRAL DIVISION, in its geographical boundaries, staff of general workers, remains unchanged from last year.

The work has been about normal, without any special or extraordinary features. Good faithful service has been rendered by the General Missionaries and pastors. Several new churches have been organized, and a few meeting houses built. About the usual number of churches have been aided in the support of pastors. Reports from General Missionaries show that good progress is being made.

Foreign Speaking Peoples

Those speaking other tongues than ours are increasing, and it can be truthfully said they are crowding out the Americans in this Division. Several American churches are giving up the work, by reason of the coming in of the foreigners. In Nebraska it is reported that there are more Lutherans, than all other Protestants put together. In North Dakota, the four German, Norwegian, Swedish and Russian Baptist Conferences number 45 churches, with 3,570 members, as compared with three American Baptist Associations, with 30 churches and 1,924 members. In North Dakota, we have more Norwegian Baptists than in any other State. In Iowa, several churches are giving up the struggle before this influx of foreigners. In Montana, large agricultural sections are being settled largely by foreigners. The work of providing preachers and meeting houses for these people furnishes a large field of Home Mission activity, but if we would hold our position among them as a Denomination, we must push the work vigorously.

Several thousand Russians have settled in North Dakota. Baptists have three churches at Fayette, Kief, and Max, with 164 members. Several years ago this Russian work was directly connected with the Home Mission Society, and it steadily declined. During the last three years they have been returning to the Baptist fold under the leadership of Rev. A. H. Nickalaus. Two missionaries, Revs. Ephraim Sitch and Ephraim Slaboda have been ordained and placed under appointment. Brother Slaboda suffered much persecution in Russia for this faith and was imprisoned several times. This is a very needy and hopeful field for missionary investment, and will surely bring good returns later.

Evangelism

The one supreme need in this Division, so far as human instrumentalities are concerned, is more effective Evangelistic work. We cannot make large churches outside of a few cities, strong churches cannot be built up mainly by accessions by letters from other churches. Owing to careful revision of membership lists, lack of converts, and few church letters, a number of churches are decreasing numerically. We must have more conversions from the ranks of the world, if we are to make any considerable growth in membership.

This kind of work calls for more Evangelistic workers who will give all their time to this service. More State Evangelists of the right kind are needed, and their work should be supplemented by Pastoral Evangelism. Not long ago State Secretary Shaw in S. Dakota reported seven series of evangelistic meetings in simultaneous progress. In Nebraska, State Secretary Berry reports 108 special meetings during the year, in fifteen of which he personally assisted. It is reported in statistical tables that the Baptists of the North have in the last 22 years declined from sixth to eighth place in number of communicants. The remedy is, aggressive Evangelism. In Iowa, Rev. J. A. Pettit, State Evangelist, is supported jointly by the Society and the State Convention. Good faithful work has been done with encouraging success.

Crow Indian Mission

At Lodge Grass and out-stations the work has been remarkably prosperous. Missionary Petzoldt last fall at Pryor District Station baptized twenty converted Indians, and several more await the ordinance.

The new Wyola Mission is making good progress along all lines. The work is carried on for white people as well as Indians, by Miss Edna Oden and Miss Blanch Sims of the Woman's Society under the oversight of Rev. W. A. Petzoldt. There are about 75 Indians in this District, and seven married couples are of the educated class.

Theodore Whitemouth, our native worker, preaches at Big Horn and Pryor. Rev. W. A. Petzoldt and wife began work on this field a little over nine years ago, when there was not a converted Indian there, and the Society did not have any building or campus. Now we have 160 acres campus, four good Mission and School buildings, seven Missionary workers in five different places, two day schools, and fifty Indian members of the church.

Last winter, soon after Christmas, Mrs. Petzoldt had a nervous breakdown, and was taken to the hospital, and afterward to the sanitarium at Battle Creek, Mich. It is expected that she will soon be able to return to her much loved work. Brother Petzoldt has had to be absent with her for quite a time, but the work goes right on under the care of Miss Alice Steere, and Miss Maud Edwards, of the Woman's Society, without any interruption. They conduct the services, and there have been several hopeful conversions during this time. Easter Sunday was a stormy day, but over 100 Indians were out to service.

City Missions

We have only a few cities where there is a call for this kind of work. The Hillsdale Baptist Mission in South Omaha Packing House District, where a new meeting house was recently dedicated, is very prosperous. There is a fine Sunday School, many of the children coming from homes of the foreigners, and there are frequent conversions.

Negotiations are in progress regarding a new Mission in West Omaha. A building and lots have been secured for the Mission in East Lincoln, Neb., and the work is very hopeful. It is probable that more of this work should be done in the near future. State Secretary Stephenson has organized a few new churches in Montana. State Secretary Hemans of North Dakota in February had a very severe attack of appendicitis, and for a time it was feared he could not recover. At this writing reports are more encouraging.

The Superintendent gives one-half his time to District Secretary work.

BRUCE KINNEY, D.D., TOPEKA, KAN., SUPERINTENDENT

I RETAIN New Mexico at the head of this report for the reason that we still have outstanding there about $10,000 in loans on church property, which still requires more or less attention.

The only change in our staff of general workers is occasioned by the resignation of Rev. W. C. King, of Colorado, who accepted a similar position in Eastern Washington. He rendered efficient service for about two years, especially noteworthy for the number of new fields opened and the amount of money raised for State work.

He was succeeded by Dr. F. B. Palmer, for about six years pastor at Boulder. Though having no previous experience in general work, Brother Palmer has a wide acquaintance with Colorado conditions and has a vision of enlargement which is imperatively needed in Colorado.

There have been no special features of the work in Kansas. In Oklahoma the work is upon the same basis as formerly, though some are agitating for radical changes.

City Missions

City Missions in Denver and Kansas City, Kan., are being vigorously and efficiently prosecuted. New districts are being occupied, equipped and manned. The lethargy and lost opportunities of the past years are being in a measure redeemed.

In Kansas City there is a united city-wide Baptist Church Edifice Campaign, which looks toward the erection of six Baptist buildings in as many years, each to cost not less than $15,000. Rev. Ray E. York remains Superintendent, declining an attractive and more remunerative service elsewhere. Evangelistic work has been made prominent, and the number of baptisms reported for this year will probably be larger than ever. Though the struggles of the First Church are not over, they have at last gotten into an uncompleted portion of their new building and have at least a permanent, comfortable and usable church home.

Indian Work

All of our workers among the Indians still abide with us, for which we are grateful. The hope expressed in the report of last year has been realized in the opening of the work among the Sac and Fox. Already a church has been organized in the north settlement with nineteen members. Plans have not yet clarified, but it would seem also necessary to include in this work the Pottawotamie and Shawnee. This would make an Indian population of near 3,000, for whom no one is doing anything but ourselves.

Rev. G. W. Hicks, after an absence of three years for health reasons, returns to this work, in which he is already distinguished by twenty-five years of efficient service.

The fact that the Government has taken over certain Catholic Indian schools, which remain as Catholic as ever, has disturbed our work among the Kiowa. Pupils in such schools, who were members of our Baptist churches, have been confirmed in the Catholic faith without the knowledge or consent of their parents. In order to conserve the work that we have done and are doing and to provide for trained Christian workers among their own people, our missionaries are justified in their request that we establish Baptist schools among these people.

One Great Need

The time is at hand when the Superintendent in this Division ought to give his time wholly to that department of work. There is constant demand for attention to matters of great importance, which cannot be heeded when so much time has to be given to the secretarial work of gathering offerings from the churches. I am persuaded that no little part of the efficiency of the Methodist work is due to the large number of Superintendents. In Colorado they have five District Superintendents and in Kansas sixteen, which cost them in salary and expenses about $2,300 each. In other words, they have in these two States twenty-one men devoting their entire time to work which in our denomination must be carried on by two men and half the time of another. Nor is this expense of nearly $50,000 in these two States chargeable to mission funds, but is regarded as "payment for services rendered." In other words, the Methodists are spending in Kansas almost three times as much upon their District Superintendents as both the Home Mission Society and the Kansas Baptist Convention combined are spending upon all kinds of mission work in Kansas.

Another Need

We ought to devote more time and attention to the Baptist students in State and Government schools in Kansas. In Haskell Indian School, the State University, the Agricultural College and the Normal School at Emporia there are 600 Baptist students, two-thirds of whom are members of Baptist churches. Other denominations are spending large sums to care for their own students, while we are doing nothing. One denomination has recently appropriated $1,000 each for two of these schools.

The situation at Lawrence especially demands our attention. Here is the State University, with over 2,000 students, including 125 Baptists. On the edge of the city there is Haskell Indian School, with over 500 students, 205 of whom are Baptists; 90 of these are actually members of our Baptist churches. These ought to appeal to us especially, as most of them are our own Home Mission children, and the burden of caring for them ought not to be put upon the Kansas Baptists. Pastor O. C. Brown, of Lawrence, has all and more than one man ought to do at his own church and in connection with the students at the University, but in addition to this he has done a splendid work among the Indian students, and baptisms from that body are frequent. We ought to help him in this arduous work.

Report on the German Work

REV. G. A. SCHULTE, NEWARK, N. J.

THIS is the thirtieth year of organized co-operation of the German churches with the Home Mission Society at a pro rata basis, and this is my twentieth year in the service of the Society as Superintendent of the German work. It may not be out of place at this time to briefly review the past and note a few facts in reference to the development of this work during this period of co-operation.

At the beginning of this co-operative relationship we had 138 churches on our list. Some of these were still in their infancy. The reported membership of these churches was 9,922. Forty-five of the original churches are not on our list any more. In the course of time twenty have become English speaking. The other twenty-five have disbanded and the large majority of the members have no doubt united with English speaking churches. Thus the mission work on these fields, begun in the German language, was continued in the English. Living members and substantial families were thus brought into fellowship with the Denomination as the fruit of German mission work.

Notwithstanding the apparent loss during this time of about forty-five of the original 138 churches, yet we have at present 280 churches on our list with an increased membership from 9,922 to 30,745. At the beginning of this period we had only a very few churches west of Minnesota and Kansas. In the territory of Dakota, where we had only one small church and three small mission stations, we now have a continuous chain of churches and missions through the Dakotas and through western Canada to the foot of the Rocky Mountains and beyond the Rockies to the Pacific Coast, in Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California, also south through Oklahoma and Texas. These churches are organized into nine District Conferences covering all sections of this country and Canada, and all are affiliated with the General Conference, which meets triennially, with executive Committees for the different departments of work to attend to the business in the interval.

The greatest advancement during this period was made in North and South Dakota. The three little mission interests in the territory at the time of our organization have increased to forty regular, constituted churches in South and North Dakota, with a large number of mission stations, and a membership of 4,316. In the two States mentioned during the past year the churches have contributed for all purposes $40,954.33. At the time mentioned there had been erected but one little meeting-house; now there are over fifty chapels in those States. Some of the small original chapels have been replaced by edifices of more modern style and equipment. The chapels are valued at $137,104.00. Twenty-four churches have parsonages valued at $23,300. A low valuation of the church property in these two States is $160,404. While the Church Edifice Department has nobly and liberally aided in the building of chapels, yet the amount is rather small in comparison with the amount raised by the Germans themselves. Besides this the German Baptists in these two States have organized, purchased property and maintained a hospital at Aberdeen, South Dakota, called "The German Baptist Hospital of North and South Dakota." At the head of this as Chief Surgeon is one of our own brethren, and the officers are all German Baptists.

The General or Triennial Conference which is expected to meet in August of this year has been invited by the church at Madison, South Dakota. Certainly none of the pioneer workers in Dakota could have anticipated that one of the struggling churches at that time would be able in 1913 to entertain the General Conference, which is expected to be attended by more than 600 delegates and visitors.

A few facts in reference to finances may be of interest. We notice a constant increase in the contributions of the churches, for Missionary and benevolent objects and for current expenses. During the year of organization of the General Missionary Society, $4,030.94 was raised for Home Missions in the German churches, this year the amount is $19,996.78; for Foreign Missions the sum of $2,932.43 was raised the first year, this year $21,198.23. The whole sum for all purposes including current expenses was at that time $87,597, this last year the amount increased to $412,292. The value of church property was given at that time as $272,875, at present it is reported to be, including parsonages, $2,388,667.

These gratifying facts show the development of the German work within the period of organized co-operation with the Home Mission Society. It must be admitted that these results could not have been achieved, if the churches had not been organized and united into a Society for the specific purpose of spreading the Gospel among our own countrymen. The organization was not undertaken in a selfish and narrow minded spirit, but in the consciousness of a specific duty, which the Lord required us to do for the advancement of His Kingdom and for the welfare of our fellow-men in this our adopted country.

It must also be noted that the transition of a large number of our members from our churches into English speaking churches has been constantly going on. There have been dismissed every year a large enough number from the German churches, to organize a good size English speaking church. The number dismissed by letter for that purpose during the past year is 309.

It is impossible to give the number of German Baptists in this country. We do not desire to over estimate, but we believe that the number of them connected with English speaking churches, with their descendants is much larger than the present membership in the German Baptist churches. We have given able men and women to American churches, men who with their gifts and talents will compare in the work of the Kingdom of God with the most capable men in their own ranks, men who occupy important pulpits and chairs of learning in Seminaries and Colleges.

The German work has also been a great blessing to other nationalities. Many of the churches among the foreigners, especially among the Poles, Hungarians and Slavs, had their origin in connection with the German churches.

Thus the influence of the German Mission work reaches much farther than the present results in our language.

Arizona

REV. T. F. MCCOURTNEY, PHOENIX

THE first year of statehood for Arizona has demonstrated the fact that we are to have a more stable population. In our large mining sections, we will always have a large transient population to be cared for; but our agricultural sections are enlarging very rapidly under modern irrigation projects and by dry farming, so that many communities are becoming permanent. Within a few years, a more permanent population should show more lasting results in our mission work. Five years ago, Arizona Baptists numbered 1,469 members. During the five years, we have received by baptism about 800 and otherwise 1,200, but our loss has been such that we number now but 1,800 members. Many of those who have gone from us had been quickened into new life for better service on other fields.

Twenty-six missionaries have been employed during the year. Thirty churches and twelve out-stations have been supplied for all or part time. All of our churches except five or six have services every Sunday. One church has voted to become self-sustaining this year, and two chapels have been built. Eight more ought to be built during the new year. It would require $5,100 in gifts and about $2,000 in loans. The above estimates include a Navajo Indian mission at a cost of $2,000.00 and the $1,500 that has been voted to our Mexican Mission at Tucson. Five new stations have been occupied and they have required only three new men; but eleven places are ready to be occupied which would require eight new men. To enter all of these fields exclusive of the Indian field would require $4,000 extra. We can enter six of the more important fields exclusive of the Indian field at an extra cost of $2,500.

The Rural Problem is one of increasing interest in Arizona. We have more churches in the country than any other denomination and as many as all of them combined. It is difficult to find competent men who are willing to undertake rural work at the salary we have been able to pay; and many men will not undertake the work at any price. But we are trying to develop some young men into effectual rural pastors, and hope to succeed along that line. District Missionaries are taking care of groups of stations, and nearly one whole county is included in one district.

Of the three new churches organized this year, one is Navajo Indian Church. We now have three Indian churches, five colored churches, and a mission among the Mexicans ready to organize and one among the Chinese also. We need another mission for the Mexicans and another for the Chinese. More than $4,000 has been raised this year for work in Arizona, and $2,500 for other benevolences, and about $16,000 as a grand total raised from all sources for all purposes by the Mission churches alone. It has been a good year and real progress has been made.

Northern California

REV. C. W. BRINSTAD, BERKELEY

THE Mission work in the Northern California Convention has been prosecuted with vigor during the past year. Sixty Missionaries have been under appointment to 149 churches and out-stations, for all or part time. They received by baptism, 512; by letter and experience, 718, making a total of 1,230 additions. The net gain to the Mission churches was 802, while the net gain to the entire membership of our Convention was 1,200. The gospel was preached by our Missionaries to 12 nationalities in their native tongues as follows: Americans, Chinese, Danes, Finns, Germans, Indians, Japanese, Letts, Negroes, Norwegians, Russians, and Swedes.

Seven churches have become self-supporting. Four new churches were organized. A number of new out-stations have been opened up where it is hoped that churches may soon be organized if proper assistance can be secured in the way of pastoral support. It is difficult even to estimate the number of new fields waiting for our occupation. A large number of prosperous towns have no gospel privileges while in some instances whole counties are more or less destitute. If the proper missionary force could be provided it is safe to say that during the coming year at least 25 new fields could profitably be entered by us.

The Church Edifice work within our Convention has witnessed encouraging results. The following Church Edifices have been erected: New Monterey, Oakley, Oroville, San Francisco, Hamilton Square, San Jose Swedish, Wheatland, and Woodland Colored representing a total expenditure of $73,100. Most of these have received assistance from the denomination. As to the number of chapels that ought to be built during the coming year, we are again unable to write in definite terms. It would be very unwise to encourage organization in new communities unless we were able to give assistance to the churches thus formed in securing chapels, as settlers generally are financially handicapped in getting started.

In common with other Conventions some attention has been given to the country church problem though, as yet, no satisfactory solution has been found for it. Pastors-at-large are being used to good advantage in getting some definite objectives before our country churches and itinerant missionaries are seeking to correlate the work of contiguous fields. Efforts are being made to enlist the co-operation of the Agricultural Department of our State University to hold institutes for the pastors of rural churches.

We desire to emphasize as in last year's report the importance of securing a fund with which to purchase sites in country and town communities for future churches. We have lost heavily in past years because we have not been foresighted enough to secure property before the price had become exorbitant. Unprecedented developments are imminent in all parts of Northern California, both in our cities and country towns. Our Missionary force is wholly inadequate and our funds should be greatly increased without delay.

Southern California

REV. J. F. WATSON, LOS ANGELES

UNUSUAL prosperity, activity and development characterize the work of the past year in Southern California. Altogether sixty-four workers, including the General Workers, were employed for part or all time. These workers supplied forty-eight mission churches and mission stations. Three new churches were organized and nine new mission stations established and five mission churches assumed self-support. The total number of baptisms on the Convention field during the year was 1,123; total net gain 2,781.

An unprecedented era of church building is on. During 1912 ten church buildings and chapels were erected for the mission churches and mission stations, and besides these, three magnificent buildings were erected by self-supporting churches.

It is difficult to tabulate the new fields that ought to be occupied in the near future. A reasonable estimate gives us nine strategic points that ought to be occupied during the present year. Work has already been started at four of these places. In order to equip and develop these fields eight chapels should be erected during 1913 at an approximate cost of $25,000.

The country fields are not our chief problems. The peculiar conditions obtaining in Southern California group the people in villages, towns and cities, and there is but very little missionary work to be done in the rural districts.

The rapid development of industries and the influx of foreign population combine to introduce a real problem that all the Christian people are endeavoring to faithfully meet and adequately solve.

Colorado

REV. F. B. PALMER, DENVER

WE HAVE suffered a serious loss in the going of Rev. W. C. King, our efficient, capable and much loved General Missionary to take up a similar work in the West. Rev. F. B. Palmer, D.D., for six years pastor at Boulder, Colorado, was the unanimous choice of the Board for Secretary King's successor.

This year, the Convention with the aid of the Home Mission Society has aided forty-eight purely Mission Fields. Eight new churches have been organized, and six new buildings have been built and dedicated. Several buildings have been remodeled, and two new Sunday school buildings have been erected. Five churches have become self-supporting.

The work of State Evangelist, E. M. Steadman, has been the marked feature of this year's work. Many churches have been strengthened, many converts baptized, and a spirit of revival attends all his labors.

More than $14,000 has been expended on the home field, aside from the work maintained by the American Baptist Publication Society, which employs four Colporters and the Chapel Car "Glad Tidings," and a Sunday School Director.

The Denver City Mission Society has accomplished a great work in the opening of new fields, strengthening older ones, and co-operating with the Convention.

More than five hundred new members have been added to our churches, yet there remain more than two thousand Baptists in the State who hold letters and have not identified themselves with the local church work.

Many open doors and urgent appeals call for us to enter new fields, particularly Routt and Moffat counties. We anticipate the building of several new Chapels and Meeting Houses.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of our State Convention will be celebrated in October, at Pueblo, where the Convention was organized a quarter of a century ago. Never was there greater hope, larger sacrifices or more determined effort to take the Rocky Mountain Empire for Jesus Christ than now.

Idaho

REV. W. H. BOWLER, POISE

IN REVIEWING the work of the past year, we find ample justification for saying that it has unquestionably been one of the best in our history. We again gladly record our deep appreciation for the very liberal assistance given us by the Home Mission Society in the employment of missionaries, and in the building of new churches. Without this assistance, there would be no possibility of our being able to meet the demands resulting from the rapid growth of the State. We are very thankful that the officers of the Society are sensitive to the increasing opportunities and obligations in this marvelously developing country, and are increasing the appropriations for Idaho just as fast as the missionary offering from the constituency of the Society will permit.

During the year, two new churches were organized, three new church edifices were built, and two parsonages were erected. A total of 623 members were received. 305 converts were baptized, and the net gain in membership was 353, or 13 per cent. The number of men employed upon the co-operative basis with the Home Mission Society has been equal to an average of 26 men for the entire year. The combined force of missionaries supported by the State Convention for the year have reported sufficient weeks of labor to represent an increase of 33 per cent. in the total amount of work done by the Convention over last year. In the face of a year of general financial depression, our receipts for Convention work have been the largest of any year in our history. The actual increase from the churches was 30 per cent. over last year. Every church within the bounds of the Convention made an offering for State work.

Idaho is still growing, and new irrigation projects continue to open up. New communities are springing into existence and older ones are increasing in population. There are urgent demands to cultivate and develop more vigorously fields which we are now occupying. Constant appeals for help are coming to us from many destitute fields where no religious work is being carried on. At a recent meeting of our Convention field workers, we outlined work which should be undertaken and accomplished during the coming year. The minutes of that meeting contain a list of 15 new fields, which should be entered at once. It will require at least $3,000, in addition to our regular funds, even to begin work in these new places. There is also a list of 20 places in which new church edifices should be erected. We should have at least $10,000 from the church edifice gift fund to assist us in building these meeting houses.

If we are to measure up to the needs and opportunities of the hour, our advances in the year before us must be more marked than they have been during the past year. The one thing which will make these advances possible will be larger appropriations from the Society, for both missionary and church edifice work.

Kansas

REV. J. T. CRAWFORD, PARSONS

WE REPORT progress. Our statistics show that there were 5,251 additions to our churches last year, 2,653 of them by baptism. The net gain in membership was nearly 1,000. We organized 6 new churches, and dedicated 14 new meeting houses.

During the Convention year, ending Oct. 1, 1912, we had 72 missionaries under appointment. In our co-operative arrangement, the Home Mission Society aided in the support of more than one-half of these workers. There were 49 pastors, having care of 73 churches and 43 out-stations. General workers, Associational missionaries, Colporters and visitors cultivated scores of other fields. Owing to crop conditions not many churches came to permanent self-support. Six new fields were entered, one of them being a county-seat town. The mission work in Kansas City has continued to make exceptional progress.

In the Church Edifice Department gifts aggregating $1,000 were made to four churches, and loans amounting to $950 to others. The Society pays two-thirds of the gifts, and furnishes all of the loans.

Our State has its quota of rural church problems. The population is changing, but not materially increasing. Churches that once flourished are enfeebled and conditions make it difficult for them to rally. New fields are not so numerous as they were in former times, nor so easily occupied. We have 95 churches in the open country, varying from those that have but a name to live, to the prosperous, well-housed and efficient. We have not inaugurated special movements to conserve or increase these forces, but we try to cultivate the spirit of group-co-operation in the support of pastors.

Ours is no longer the work of pioneers. It is the steady labor of an established people who need to fight against the sins of prosperity and indifference.

Minnesota

REV. E. R. POPE, MINNEAPOLIS

THE more important statistics for the year ending March 31, 1913, are as follows: Men under appointment: pastors, 53; students, 6; general workers, 11; total, 70. The 59 pastors and students served 66 churches and 56 out-stations; and the general workers gave their services to a large number of other fields. The membership of the mission churches is 2,820 or 11.23 per cent. of the entire Baptist membership of the state; the Sunday schools connected with these churches enrolled 3,821. The congregations averaged 2,320 in attendance and the Sunday Schools 1,954.

Some results are seen in 8 new fields occupied, 18 Sunday Schools started, 504 persons received into the churches, 346 of whom were baptized. These churches raised $35,779.66 for all purposes, and $4,119.63 of this was given for objects of beneficence. Four churches attained self-support and four others receive less aid. Four buildings were dedicated and three are now being erected.

The Free Baptists with 14 churches and 1,069 members have been heartily received into full fellowship; and the Minnesota Yearly Meeting is now an Association of the State Convention. The spirit of harmony prevails and this union will constantly become closer. With this addition the increase of membership is 1,094; without them the increase would have been only 25.

Vigorous work should be undertaken in at least 8 or 10 places; some of which (like the Steel Plant at Duluth) will become important centers.

A passing visit to the Baptist churches of the Twin Cities or Duluth is liable to convey a wrong impression of the strength of our denomination in Minnesota. Even in these cities there are many calls unmet, but outside, especially in the north, the opportunities are bewildering. Future years are liable to find Baptists comparatively strong in a few centers and very weak elsewhere in the state, unless immediate attention is given to the weaker churches and the newer sections. Neglect of these will be fatal to work in the State; and will cripple nation and world-wide work as well.

At the 1912 State Convention a Commission on Rural Life was appointed. The statistics of 1911 show that 97 Baptist churches with 3,800 members are located in the open country and 69 churches with 4,069 members are in small places of less than 2,500 inhabitants. Some attempts have been made to group churches and there are 7 such groups including 15 mission churches; the 9 Pastors-at-Large give much attention also to these needy fields.

Minnesota is glad to have a larger share even than usual in the work beyond its borders; and is grateful that the thought of "Sacrifice Week," which has been productive of spiritual and financial good, originated in the State.

Montana

REV. THOMAS STEHPENHSON, HELENA

DURING the year we have employed 20 American missionaries for all or part of the time; 3 colored missionaries; 6 Scandinavians and 1 German. The Board also employs an excellent woman worker. Two men have been appointed to take charge of a large section of country which is being settled by homesteaders, many of whom are hundreds of miles from the churches which they left, and are without any religious privileges in their new abode. Eight churches and one Association have been organized during the year; 4 of these churches are in the country, and 4 where no other denomination is occupying the field. As a rule they have large congregations, and their prospects are bright. The policy of the Board is not to organize churches unless there is a demand for them, and a prospect of their development with the rapidly coming population. Large sections of farm lands have been opened up to settlers recently, and it is predicted that the State will soon double its population.

The State of Montana needs missionaries of ability, in order to reach the young men, lawyers, doctors, bankers and merchants, many of whom are College graduates. The generous gifts of the American Home Mission Society are indispensable to the successful prosecution of this work; while the American Baptist Publication Society and the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society have also several missionaries in the field, working in perfect harmony with the plans of the Board.

Nebraska

REV. FRED BERRY, LINCOLN

THE past year has been marked by advance along many lines. While we have had a large number of changes in our pastoral leadership, yet we are thankful that good, strong, efficient men have come to take the places made vacant by their predecessors.

We have employed for all or part time thirty-two missionaries who have done excellent work, also, one Pastor at Large and one Danish Missionary.

Five churches have become self-supporting and five new fields where the work is going forward splendidly have been occupied.

Seventeen of our churches in the down and discouraged class have come to life and are full of hope. Some had been closed for months and years.

More than one hundred series of Evangelistic meetings have been held in the State. Large numbers have been converted and many have been restored. These meetings have been conducted by our pastors and such evangelists as we could secure.

The total increase in membership is 1,767; the total decrease, 1,147, making a net gain of 620.

Fifteen meeting-houses have been built, rebuilt, or are under construction, also one parsonage. Larger aid for Church Edifice work is much needed.

Our down, discouraged and closed churches must be helped up or else their church buildings must be sold and the money used in new, needy fields. We have forty-three in this class of churches that must be helped.

We are urging our pastors in small villages and also larger ones to reach the country section and so far as they can hold special meetings and regular preaching services in schoolhouses adjacent to their fields. We are also encouraging the Sunday School work in the rural sections. We have thirty-two country churches. Some of them are the best in the State, with the most aggressive and up-to-date pastors. Much more attention must be given to new work.

Nevada

REV. GEO. R. VARNEY, RENO

THE work on this field has been encouraging, although we have not had as many baptisms as we had hoped for. Four of our churches have suffered severely by changes and interims in pastorates and others by the removal and death of members; but we have at least held our own.

Thirteen missionaries, exclusive of the general missionary, have served 18 churches and out-stations. The eleven mission churches report 330 members, 238 of whom are resident, and $6,838.15 raised for all purposes, of which $933.04 was for beneficences. This means $20.72 per member for all purposes and $2.38 for beneficences, or $28.73 per resident member for all purposes and $3.92 for beneficences. When it is remembered that most of our members are poor and not one of them well off, these figures are striking. Reno's offerings are not included in the above, since it is a self-supporting church, but the per capita amount will be materially increased, when these amounts are added.

need we ought to have from two to four pastors-at-large during the entire summer and fall seasons.

As to the "Country Church Problem" in this State, in the western half, or newer section, the greater part of our energy should be spent in establishing our work in the new towns and centers of population. The farming sections there are settled by people who do not, for the most part, expect to remain permanently. We should occupy the centers and be in readiness to care for the surrounding country districts as they become permanently settled.

However, in the eastern half or older settled section of the State there are boundless opportunities for good, substantial country church work. Last year we organized four country churches. This work is done largely by our pastors-at-large and missionaries to foreign-speaking peoples. Much is also being done by a number of our wide-awake pastors in the towns, reaching these country points as out-stations, either Sunday afternoons or on week-day evenings. We have not in this State adequately realized the possibilities and the responsibilities of the country church problem.

Utah

REV. GEO. R. VARNEY, RENO, NEV.

YOUR General Missionary has divided his time equally between Utah and the Nevada-Sierra convention, traveling 30,159 miles to care for both fields, thus wasting valuable time. The uniting of this field with Southern Idaho will save at least half of this.

Ten other missionaries have been employed a part or whole of the time, at twelve churches and out-stations.

We have in the State ten churches and three missions, only two of which are self-supporting; one in Ogden and one in Salt Lake City. We have a nominal membership of only 1,100, and raised for all purposes last year $15,663.00, $1,986.00 of which were for beneficences, or $12.43 per capita for local expenses and $1.80 per capita for beneficences.

The Mormon problem is the problem of Utah and should be attacked more seriously than it has been if a solution is to be found. At present our work is almost exclusively among the Gentiles and must remain so unless the plan is materially changed. I believe that a conference of all evangelical denominations should be held to consider the whole problem. Beyond that conference I see this: Mormondom considered a mission field whether in Utah or elsewhere; all evangelical denominations uniting to solve the problem; a general superintendent of commanding ability appointed to oversee the work; strict comity to be observed, disbanding all but one church in each small town; two pastors to be supported on each field, one with superior evangelistic gifts, the other a strong social service worker, with the best equipment that wisdom can recommend; the ablest possible evangelist to be kept perpetually working among Mormons, with great singers and able helpers; larger use to be made of up-to-date colportage wagons and autos and laborers; the whole question of literature to be studied and solved.

In Utah 88 per cent. of the church membership is Mormon; in Idaho, 43 per cent; in Wyoming, 21 per cent; in Arizona, 13 per cent; in Nevada, 7 per cent. That is, in 1909 these were the percentages of Mormons as compared with the members of all religious organizations. Politically they dominate Utah and Idaho and hold the balance of power in the other States named. They purpose taking the nation. They may preach it less, but they believe in the temporal power of the Mormon hierarchy as thoroughly as the most bigoted Catholic believes in the temporal power of the Pope.

East Washington and North Idaho

REV. W. C. KING, SPOKANE

ALMOST at the opening of this Convention year, Rev. F. A. Agar, for three years the able General Missionary, retired to become Associate Pastor of the White Temple, Portland, Ore., and the writer assumed the work February 1st. This change in leadership has interrupted the work, but slightly however.

During the past year fifty-five missionaries were employed who preached the Gospel in eighty-five places and reported baptisms to the number of three hundred and fourteen. Nine new churches were organized and six buildings and temporary chapels were added to the permanent equipment.

Four field workers served with much acceptance while three Colporters were under the direction of the General Missionary in accordance with the plan of co-operation with the Publication Society. One personal worker was also employed in co-operation with the Woman's Society.

We look forward to a most successful year's work in spite of the great depression in business incident to the fact that farmers and fruit-growers have not realized enough on the three principal products of their farms, potatoes, hay and apples, to meet the cost of marketing, to say nothing of raising them.

We find the employment of Pastors-at-large a most valuable form of work and propose to make a specialty of it. The following statistics for the past five years will prove interesting. Our gain has been as follows: Churches, 11 or 13.3 per cent; meeting houses, 5 or 7.6 per cent; membership, 1,143 or 20.3 per cent; benevolences, $3,514.17 or 44.5 per cent; current expenses, $29,319.15 or 35.8 per cent; value of property, $132,893 or 30.2 per cent; benevolence per capita, .284 or 20 per cent; current expense per capita $1.875 or 13.3 per cent.

Western Washington

REV. JOSEPH H. BEAVEN, SEATTLE

THE year past has been to this field one of holding its own. This has been due largely to the fact that we have developed the field far beyond the possibility of caring for it with our present income.

We have 122 churches: 94 American, 14 Swedish, 5 Norwegian-Danish, 4 German, 3 Finnish and 2 Negro—with a total resident membership of 8,716. We have, all told, but 86 pastors—45 of whom receive aid from the State Convention and the Home Mission Society. This leaves in the neighborhood of thirty churches that are attempting to keep up services in but a feeble manner, while others of our church buildings, not included in the totals given above, are closed entirely. Thirty-six of our churches are in the self-supporting class. We have built four new meeting houses at a total value of $6,500. The average per capita offering of our resident members for current expenses is about $12.25, and they add to this $2.56 for benevolences; $1.68 of this going to the National Societies of the Northern Baptist Convention.

The immediate duty pressing on us is to take care of the fields already open and on which we have spent money in the past. There is also added obligation placed upon us as a result of the Home Missions Council survey. The religious bodies of the State involved in missionary work have apportioned the destitute districts among themselves to be cared for as the local situation indicates is to the best advantage of the Cause in general. Of course the understanding is that if those to whom a district is apportioned do not undertake the work within a reasonable period others must take it up.

In this survey it is discovered that there are 70,000 people in isolated districts in which there is no religious work of any character attempted—not even a Sunday school nor an occasional preaching service. Of these 10,000 have been assigned to us. Then the numerous vacant places where we have begun a work must be maintained if we expect to hold our comity relations with others who are desirous of entering fields where work is not maintained with efficiency. We have two county seats and twelve other places of equal size and importance where we have good buildings, but nothing doing; as well as many that are in smaller communities in which we have the only building for public worship and which is either used by other denominations or the people go without the preaching of the Word.

To carry on the entire work, maintaining all our old fields and caring for these additional ones with even the same average degree of efficiency as we are now doing, will involve twice what has been spent on this field; we should then be on about an equality with the M. E. denomination. For this coming year we must give attention to the increase of funds in order that we may reach reasonable demands on us. These demands will mean at least three more men who will act as Convention Pastors to be used in opening up new districts, and twenty other men as pastors of a community rather than of a denominational organization, yet at the same time true to the teaching and work as carried on by the people from whom he receives his appointment and partial support. Many of these community districts can be made self-supporting within a few months after the work is well opened.

There is an increasingly general desire among the churches to rise to the opportunities to the utmost of their ability. Whether our work can be carried on effectively without additional help from the outside is problematical at present. But in view of the future material prospects of the field, capital from the east is being invested by the tens of millions for temporal improvements—Seattle alone has voted $22,000,000 to be expended in the next five years on harbor facilities. We must do something additional in spiritual values or the material will conquer and the better nature of the State be more corrupt and the people become sordid.

Wyoming

REV. HAL P. FUDGE, CHEYENNE

WYOMING mission work on the whole shows reasonable progress, the year 1912 comparing very favorably with any in the history of the Convention, standing first in baptisms and one of the three best in the amount of money raised for all purposes. There have been reverses, however, in the Big Horn section of the State, caused very largely by a temporary reaction from the boom of the previous three or four years, removals, pastorless churches, and fewer missionary workers. The increased demands for aid in pastoral support, making missionary funds insufficient, inability to secure pastors without months of waiting, thus depriving important fields of pastoral leadership, has added also to the missionary problems of the State. In order to even begin to sustain and advance the work, more pastors, better paid, one pastor-evangelist and more money for missionary purposes are imperative. Recently, until this year, in addition to the services of the State Secretary and General Missionary, a Pastor-at-large and one Chapel-car Evangelist were doing work in the State. The work is largely foundational, and requires constant attention.

As to religious conditions generally, only 7 per cent. of the population are connected with any evangelical denomination; 8 per cent. Roman Catholic and 10 per cent. Mormons. The isolated districts that must be reached by stage, if reached at all, are numerous. Thousands of people, among them multitudes of boys and girls, young men and young women, are deprived of any regular gospel preaching of any kind. Besides, there are many well-settled communities and even several county-seat towns without Baptist churches, which are not necessarily over-crowded by other denominations. Douglas, population 2,500; Buffalo, 1,500; Kemmerer, 1,000; Wheatland, 1,000; Rawlins, 3,500; Cody, 1,200; and others might be mentioned. The population of the State is largely American and English speaking, and is growing rapidly in most sections. Add to all this the State's abundant resources, mineral, agricultural, oil, coal, the live stock industry, developed and undeveloped, a healthful climate, good schools, irrigation ditches in length 13,231 miles, watering 2,224,298 acres, and thousands of acres more capable of irrigation; also thousands of acres promising reasonable returns under dry farming methods, and one can in a small way understand Wyoming's missionary appeal and opportunity. During the year an honest effort has been put forth by the missionaries of all the Baptist societies represented to meet the situation, understanding the task to be impossible, of course, because of the limited missionary forces and funds.

The following summary will indicate in part the work accomplished during the year: Missionaries co-operatively employed by the Home Mission Society and Convention, 19; baptisms: by missionary pastors, 116, by other pastors and workers, 66; total baptisms, 182; otherwise received: by missionary pastors, 84; by others, 18; grand total, 284; churches organized, 2; church buildings, 2; parsonages, 2; besides many Sunday-schools and several out-stations have been established by the missionaries of the Convention, Home Mission and Publication Societies.

As indicating denominational achievements, ten years ago we had 9 churches, and counting two or three doubtful ones, we now number 36 churches, about 10 out-stations and 46 Sunday-schools, and stand second in the State in numerical strength. It would seem unfortunate, since we have begun a good work, and since God has so richly blessed our efforts, to begin to retrench now. This is especially true when just at this time several other denominations are increasing their efforts and forces. Past successes under God, the State's hopeful future, certain peculiar emergencies affecting some of our churches, important places calling for Baptist churches, and the many by-ways and sparsely settled communities wanting and deserving the gospel, not only justify, but demand, our persistent, patient, faithful, Christ-directed service. It is no time to stand still; it is an opportune time to move, and move forward.

Porto Rico

A. B. RUDD, D.D., RIO PIEDRAS

TO ONE who has lived and labored for fourteen years on this "Isle of Eden," her problems, her interests, her needs, her salvation, have assumed large proportions.

Twice during the year death has visited our ranks. In August, 1912, Francisco Jimenez, pastor of the Barros Church, was taken; and in February of the present year Alfonso Quiñones, pastor of the Gurabo church, followed. These brethren were young and vigorous, not over thirty years of age, married, and both fell victims to typhoid fever. This is a heavy loss for the Mission. Two others have taken up the work laid down by these. Misses Rice and Hill, our energetic workers in San Juan and vicinity, also left the field; the first, because of ill health, and the other to continue her studies in college. Miss Cole, who came to the island as a teacher in the public schools, entered the work in July, and is heroically trying to carry the burden until another helper comes.

General Review

Evangelical work on the Island is undoubtedly growing harder. Conditions are changing from year to year. A general census recently taken shows that the numerical gains during the last two years have been less than during previous two-year periods. In fact, in some denominations there have been slight losses. This is partly due to the fact that during this period the school rolls have been carefully revised, giving thus a smaller though more satisfactory membership.

Rev. C. S. Detweiler, Missionary of the Ponce District, says:

"The Roman Catholic Church is making extra efforts to regain lost ground. The spiritualists are also carrying on an active propaganda and influencing many against the Gospel. . . . We have not made the gains that we would like to have made in order to offset losses by death and discipline and still provide for a steady advance. But our churches have gained in character, and this is in part shown by the Sunday-school work done. In Ponce there has been a notable increase, an average attendance of about a hundred more than last year. Our people are developing spiritually and understanding better what is expected of them as Christians."

Rev. G. A. Riggs, Missionary of the Coamo District, says:

"Considering my field as a whole, I feel that the work is in a healthy condition. An encouraging feature of the work is the increasing interest and activity of lay members. The chief discouraging feature in the town work is the bad influence of many Americans, who are members of churches at home, but come here and live a worldly life, and seldom if ever attend a religious service."

Rev. E. L. Humphrey, Missionary of the Caguas-Cayey District, writes:

"The evangelical situation on this field has not changed to any marked degree. There seems to be, however, more thoughtfulness and seriousness on the part of the public in general. We are constantly face to face with open doors. The difficulties have not to do with scarcity of fertile ground, but rather with the implements and hands with which to do the work."

The conditions in the San Juan District, of which the writer is in charge, are very much as those described above. In the city of San Juan, perhaps the most difficult point on the Island, the outlook is decidedly more favorable than formerly. Our Sunday-school is growing in size and interest, while the attendance at the preaching services has also increased.

Rev. F. P. Freeman, who has been on the field a year and a half, and will soon take charge of the San Juan District, says:

"To me it is wonderful that so much has been accomplished in so brief a period of time, especially in the country districts. In many points most difficult of access, in the mountains far from the nearest carriage road, the people are organized into excellent churches and Sunday-schools, with good chapels, good congregations, and every evidence of the fact that the Gospel has meant more to them, and has done more for them in the way of inspiring them to live better lives morally, as well as to stimulate in them ambitions along the lines of industry and education, than any other force or institution."

Obstacles

The following are some of the obstacles with which we have to contend:

1. The attitude of favoritism on the part of the Insular Government toward the Roman Catholic Church. This has been so marked of late that numbers of protests have been sent in from all parts of the Island.
2. The consequent boldness of the Catholics in taking advantage of this unfortunate situation. Not long ago the Speaker of the House of Representatives recommended in a public address that the Catholic religion be made again the established religion of the Island.
3. The unholy life and example of a large portion of the American residents of the Island. Our native Christians are awake to this most distressing situation and deplore its influence on Gospel work.
4. The lack of workers of sufficient training and experience to cope with the situation and meet the growing demands of the work. Many men of good Christian character, though of meager equipment, who rendered effective service during the early years of the work, can no longer be used to advantage because of the rapidly changing conditions. We must look to our Training School, hitherto very poorly equipped, to supply this need.

Notable Events and Tendencies of the Year

1. An excellent Associational meeting. By many it was thought to be the very best we have ever had.
2. Our Bible Institute, held January 22-29. This, too, reached high-water mark, both in the class of work done as well as the spirit which marked all its sessions.
3. The increased number of churches that are contributing to the support of their pastors. During the year about $1,000 was given for this purpose, and during the next we hope to increase this amount by $400.
4. The gradual elevation of the standard of Christian living. The obstacles above mentioned favor the development of character. Formerly it cost but little to be a Protestant; now it is different. Our gains may be smaller, but they will be of a higher character, both in the pulpit and in the pew.
5. The excellent work done by the lady missionaries, two of whom are in Ponce, two in Caguas and one in San Juan, together with a native Bible woman in each of the two latter points. This part of our force is greatly in need of reinforcement, which we hope to get during the present year.

Normal Training School

Rev. P. D. Woods, Principal, says:

'Every year the educational standards of the Island are being raised. This brings with it a corresponding demand. Our churches, as they are appealing to the young people, call for capable leaders. While the number enrolled in the school is less than last year, the standard of work is higher, and all feel that eleven students doing first-class work will bring better results than a larger number where the standard needs to be lowered. Only those who have completed the work of the eighth grade in the public school will hereafter be received. This will enable us to coordinate our work to that of the Normal school here in a much more satisfactory manner. We are cheered by the prospect of having soon a school home, which will give our school work a permanence which it has lacked in the past.'

Conclusion

In conclusion two things need to be said:

1. The romantic period of mission work in Porto Rico has passed. We are now reached the period of steady, solid growth. Every inch gained from now on will mean tremendous efforts and positive advance.
2. To meet the pressing demands we need better equipment. Our united effort is still for buildings. Shall we have them? An infant class of more than one hundred is quartered in a tent on the Ponce Church lot for lack of room in the church. $20,000 could most profitably be spent this year for chapels. Will the Baptists of the North give half that amount? With proper equipment, with the consecrated effort the missionaries, American and Porto Rican, are pledged to put forth, and with the blessing of God, we will endeavor to make the next year the best yet for the salvation of Porto Rico.

A notable feature of the exhibit is the advance in annuities from $2,250.00, 1911-12 to $14,850.00 in the year just closed; and singularly enough, all of this, $14,850.00, came from California.

The loss of ninety-eight contributing churches from the preceding year is mostly of small churches, widely separated from the centers of our denominational life. On the other hand, the churches that raised exactly and exceeded their apportionment rose from 188 in 1911-12 to 246 in 1912-13. It is most significant that out of the 274 contributing churches in 1912-13, 246 qualified for the Temple bonus by raising, or exceeding their apportionments.

Some of the factors that entered into the large increase of receipts for the year were as follows: the inspirational work of Drs. Stackhouse and Barnes with their teams; the exceptionally splendid service of assistant secretary, Rev. H. E. Marshall, in the Northwest; the telling reinforcements of every character of helpfulness from Boston and New York; also, from Dr. Woody and his splendid corps of interested and sympathetic convention secretaries in the district; the noble band of associational secretaries to the stimulation of the generous gifts of Brethren Conaway and Birch through the Temple Church conditioned on the churches raising their apportionments; to the excellent esprit de corps of the pastors and the churches of the District; and, last, but not least of all, the increasing seriousness with which the West is taking herself, from an ever deepening conviction, of her call to the leadership of the denominational life, of the nation within the next decade or two.

OBITUARY

Rev. Schuyler C. Fulmer was born in Walkerton, Ind., January 6, 1859. He was educated at the Normal School of Terre Haute and taught for a brief period. He then became pastor of the First Baptist Church, Elkhart, Ind., and five years later was called to be the minister of the church at Montpelier. Soon after entering upon his pastorate he accepted the District Secretaryship of the American Baptist Home Mission Society for the Wabash District. For thirteen years he conducted the office and field work with rare executive ability, careful organization and great efficiency. In 1909 he was elected Joint District Secretary of the American Baptist Home Mission Society and the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society. This double work he performed with wisdom and excellent results. After a protracted illness, which at first did not entirely incapacitate him from service, he died July 6, 1912, aged fifty-three years and six months. His charming personality suffused with the Christian spirit made very effective the message of his life and lips.

Rev. Robert G. Seymour, D.D., died at Philadelphia, Pa., September 20, 1912, at the age of seventy years. Born in New York City, February 27, 1841, he was converted in his boyhood and early heard the call to the ministry. He was graduated from Colby University, and in 1863 was made a lieutenant in the army. A year later he entered upon pastoral service with a Baptist church at New Orleans, La., and in 1866 became pastor of the First Baptist Church, Great Falls, N. H. Three years later he began his remarkable work at the Ruggles Street Baptist Church, Boston, Mass. After fifteen years of service with this church he accepted a call to Auburn, N. Y. Here he remained two years, and labored for the same period as District Secretary of the American Baptist Missionary Union. He was then called to the pastorate in Lowell, Mass. Here also he remained two years, and then accepted the Bible Secretaryship of the American Baptist Publication Society. Dr. Seymour everywhere labored with fidelity, and in his wider relations with other societies revealed the fruitage of a consecrated life.

Rev. Alfred Owen, D.D., after only a day's illness, died July 21, 1912, at Nashville, Tenn., at the age of eighty-three years. He was born in China, Me., in 1829, and was graduated from Colby University and The Newton Theological Institute. For twelve years he served as pastor of the First Baptist Church, Lynn, Mass., two years with the Woodward Avenue Church, Detroit, Mich., and the same period with the Union Heights Church, Chicago, Ill. He then accepted the presidency of Dennison University, and remained there seven years. He was later for nine years the president of Roger Williams University, and then retired from active service. Dr. Owen was a minister of clear spiritual vision and an educational leader of unusual ability.

Rev. W. J. White, D.D., Editor of the "Georgia Baptist," died at Augusta, Ga., April 17, 1913. He was intimately associated with the Negro race, and passed a noble life, which greatly influenced the religious and educational development of the colored people. He was a gifted writer, and held many important positions of trust. Dr. White saw the great need for Christian Negro leadership, and invested his time and talents in the training of his people. He long served as a trustee of Spelman Seminary.

Mr. E. M. Thresher, of Dayton, Ohio, who died at his home, April 28th, removes from the denomination one who for many years had been exceptionally active and conspicuous in its missionary and educational activities. For four years, from 1901-1904 inclusive, he served with great acceptance as President of this Society; while at other times he was chosen for special service on important committees, and was always deeply interested in denominational matters. He was in the best sense of the term a Christian gentleman, courteous, genial, dignified, cultured, consecrated, a general favorite in our public gatherings, one who will be greatly missed in our Christian fellowships.

* The plan of co-operation in the States of New York, Michigan and Illinois terminated in 1875, and 73 missionaries in these States were transferred to the care of their respective State conventions. † Not including secretaries and agents. ‡ The decrease of missionaries among the French in 1879 is largely accounted for by the withdrawal of the missionaries of the Paris Foreign Missions Society, and the withdrawal of the missionaries of the Paris Foreign Missions Society. § Including about ten teachers of government day schools in Indian Territory. Not reported. NOTE.—Lithuanians 2, 1892-96; Armenians 2, 1897-89.

THE EIGHTY-SECOND ANNUAL REPORT
HOME MISSION SOCIETY

THE eighty-second Annual Report of the Board of Managers of The American Baptist Home Mission Society, shows steady and substantial advance in its work. Evangelistic and constructive effort go hand in hand. The Missionary, Church Edifice and Educational departments sustain close and vital relations to each other.

Nearly 10,000 baptisms are reported during the year; more than 50,000 in the last five years. In the administration of the Society's affairs, questions concerning efficiency and economy have received much attention. The great concern, however, has been how to do the work that ought to be done with the inadequate resources at the Society's disposal.

Centennial of Baptist Foreign Missions

Responding to the fraternal invitation of the Board of Managers of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, your Board has designated a representative to participate in the celebration of its centennial meeting in June, and has also given formal expression of greeting and congratulation. In the great achievements of that Society we rejoice. Both organizations have substantially a common constituency, are animated by the same spirit and together are almost world-wide in the scope of their work. Relations between their administrative representatives have been close and cordial, finding expression in recent years in united efforts for the promotion of missionary interest and beneficence for our work at home and abroad.

The Board of Managers of the Society

The Board of Managers of the Society consists of twenty-seven persons, in three groups of nine each, for terms of three years. Inadvertently, last year, a vacancy in the group expiring in 1914 was not filled. Of the twenty-six members, as published in the last annual report, fourteen are ministers and twelve are professional and business men. Twelve were from the State of New York, three of these residing in cities remote from New York City; seven from New Jersey; two from Pennsylvania, and one each from Connecticut, Massachusetts, Ohio, Michigan and Minnesota. Mr. James A. DeArmond, of Cincinnati, Ohio, elected a year ago in the class expiring in 1916, resigned because of inability to attend meetings of the Board; Mr. James McIlravy, of Brooklyn, N. Y., in the class expiring in 1914, and Mr. James G. Affleck, of Yonkers, N. Y., in the class of 1915, resigned because they could not devote the necessary time to the business of the Board, and Dr. A. S. Hobart, of Chester, Pa., of the class of 1916, resigned because of needed relief from the cares and responsibilities of the position which he had filled most faithfully and acceptably for about twenty-five years.

The efficiency of the Board of Managers, other things being equal, depends largely upon the regular attendance of its members. The selection of members from a wide area, introduces an element of weakness in the administration of the Society's affairs because of inability of those remote to attend meetings frequently in consequence of the time and expense involved. The argument that various sections of the country should be honored by representation on the Board is of little weight when it is remembered that the metropolis of the nation and its immediate vicinity are constantly attracting men of ability from all sections, and that a goodly number of the present members, were recently residents of the central and farther western states where they were active in denominational affairs and cognizant of conditions there. Twenty-five churches are represented on the Board.

The General Committee

At the last meeting of the Society notice was given of proposed changes in the By-Laws of the Society, to wit: "That article IV be repealed, and that article V be amended by omitting the words "and of the General Committee." In the judgment of this Board this change is advisable. The creation of such a committee four years ago, with the functions prescribed in article IV, was an experiment, which was suggested by the former large Board of Managers of the American Baptist Missionary Union, whose perpetuation under the name of the General Committee was deemed desirable. The desire for uniformity in the By-Laws of the Societies and in their general methods of administration also led to the adoption of this article. It has proved to be an unwieldy and well-nigh unworkable plan. Moreover, there is less need of such a body since the enlargement of the Board of Managers to twenty-seven members. The revision should carry with it, automatically, changes in the enumeration of succeeding articles.

The United Missionary Campaign

By the action of the Northern Baptist Convention in 1913, in the creation of the United Missionary Campaign Committee, this Society, together with several other organizations, has had its representation thereon and has heartily co-operated in making the Campaign effective. For several months the services of Rev. F. H. Divine, District Secretary for New York and Northern New Jersey, were granted by the Society to the interdenominational United Missionary Campaign, with an assistant for Conference work, while a special field agent for wider service was also appointed for about six months. The objective was the every-member-canvass and the weekly offerings both for local expenses of churches and for missionary purposes. Particulars concerning the organization of the Committee, its methods and its plans, will doubtless be presented in its report to the Convention. It may be added, however, that Dr. W. T. Stackhouse, who had been chosen by the Joint Committee in June, 1913, as Executive Secretary of the United Missionary Campaign, for field work, tendered his resignation in July as Secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. This also terminated his relation to the United Missionary Campaign. Subsequently the Committee appointed Dr. John M. Moore, as Executive Secretary.

District Secretaries

Several changes in District Secretaries and their fields have been made during the year. Rev. J. C. Robbins, joint Secretary for New England, who resigned to accept the Candidate Secretaryship of the Student Volunteer Movement, was succeeded by Rev. P. H. J. Lerrigo, who entered upon his duties April 1, 1914. Rev. J. A. Maxwell, of the Southeastern District, who resigned to take the pastorate of a church in Omaha, Neb., was succeeded by Rev. W. G. Russell, who entered upon his duties January 1, 1914. By the creation of a single collecting agency in Michigan, that state was taken out of Dr. Aitchison's district, to which, however, was added Iowa, until April 1, 1914, after which it will be in charge of a single collecting agent. Dr. D. D. Proper's services as District Secretary have likewise terminated as he devotes special attention hereafter to Church Edifice matters. Likewise Dr. Bruce Kinney closes his work as District Secretary to devote his whole time, instead of half time as hitherto, to supervision of mission fields.

There are now six joint District Secretaries, with another soon to be chosen; also three secretaries who represent only this Society.

Single State Agencies

Four States, in the following order in point of time, viz., Nebraska, Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa, have adopted plans for a single collecting agency. Differences in these afford an opportunity for discovery, after proper tests, of an ideal plan. This arrangement is in harmony with the views of a committee composed mainly of State Convention Secretaries in 1912, viz.: "That State Conventions seek to foster the Kingdom of God in its widest extent and that no one department of work be neglected or overlooked."

Precisely how far a State Convention may properly go in the appointment of such an agent, the determination of his salary and expenses, and the character of his work, are matters requiring careful consideration, inasmuch as one organization cannot rightfully assume to act for another organization without its consent, in matters of this character. The appointee to such a position should be the authorized representative by specific action, of all the parties in interest. Your Board has acted in accordance with this principle in such cases.

Department of Missionary Education

This department, representing several societies, and of which Rev. John M. Moore, D.D., is Secretary, now located in the same building with this Society, has been utilized to a considerable extent in the distribution of our literature, especially that pertaining to Home Mission Day in Sunday Schools.

Conferences with State Secretaries and Superintendents

At a meeting of State Secretaries and Superintendents, in Detroit, May 25th, 1913, it was unanimously voted to hold the annual meeting in New York City, instead of Cleveland, as originally planned, December 2-4, provided The American Baptist Home Mission Society would defray the extra expenses of the trip from Cleveland to New York, for men coming from the West. This your Board in July agreed to do, inasmuch as many matters of common interest made a joint conference between representatives of State Conventions and of this Society very desirable. Accordingly the Conference was held in the Home Mission Rooms at the time mentioned. The scope of the Conference was broadened to include in some of the sessions representatives also of the other general Societies. About sixty were registered. The programs embraced such topics as these: Relationship of the General Societies and State Conventions; (a) in the promotion of missionary interest and beneficence; (b) in the matter of budget apportionments; (c) in the appointment and supervision of single collecting agencies; (d) in annual meetings of State Conventions; (e) in the supervision of workers. Many other matters also received attention. The comparison of views, in the spirit of Christian fellowship and comradeship, was deeply interesting and profitable to all. The association formally expressed their appreciation of the Society's "fraternal courtesy and liberal hospitality," and "the great value of the joint conferences with the representatives of the general Societies," with an expression of hope that like conferences may be held in the future. This first conference of this character is significant in its bearings upon denominational unity and efficiency.

Relations with Free Baptists

Rev. Alfred W. Anthony, D.D., has continued his valuable work as Special Joint Secretary of our General Societies, and at the same time as Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer of The General Conference of Free Baptists. His report to the Special Supervising Committee, in October, 1913, entitled "Getting Together," covering a period of two years, shows very gratifying progress in the unification of Baptists and Free Baptists. Primary points of contact in this process are between individual churches in the same locality; then in their associational relationships; then their relationships to State Conventions. Coincidentally, the process of transition of Free Baptists into the supporting constituency of the general societies of Baptists is going on. As Dr. Anthony says: "Free Baptists are not as yet intimately acquainted with and attached to denominational movements. As a whole they are not yet familiar with Baptist people, Baptist organizations, and Baptist enterprises; but they are hopeful, expectant and eager for the fuller fellowship and co-operation upon which they have entered. Through The American Baptist Home Mission Society, Free Baptists, in the union, are invited into a larger form of home mission service, with which previously they have had no relations."

To a considerable extent, Free Baptist Churches accept apportionments under the budget plan of the Society, and are co-operating in the every-member-canvass for weekly and proportionate giving to our principal missionary enterprises, thus constituting a substantial reinforcement of the denomination as a whole.

Budget Comments

The total budget for 1913-14, as approved by the Finance Committee of the Northern Baptist Convention was $668,977. This included $80,042.58 for specifics on condition that designated offerings for these purposes be obtained; leaving the amount of the general budget at $588,934.42. The budget was made up on reasonable expectation of receipts.

It was estimated that the receipts applicable to the budget from churches, Sunday schools and Young People's Societies would be $399,334.42; actual receipts were $258,105.78; that receipts from individuals would be $125,000; actual receipts were $129,249.98; that receipts from legacies would be $65,000; actual receipts were $65,000; that receipts from all other sources would be $88,600; actual receipts were $102,692.15.

The general budget expenditures were reckoned at $588,934.42; actual expenditures were $572,939.79; being $15,994.63 below the amount allowed.

Financial Conditions

Fluctuations, year by year, in contributions from churches and individuals are usually comparatively slight. This year, however, has been exceptional, in that the number of contributing churches as reported by District Secretaries is considerably less than the previous year, while the offerings from the churches are $20,234.17 less. Until March, 1914, there had been a slight increase from this source, of $3,041.27; but for March itself the loss was $23,608.63. Receipts for March from the churches were $114,967.29; for the previous eleven months they were $133,518.34. The unexpected decrease has created a serious condition. Last year's unusual effort in the three million dollar campaign carried receipts above the normal increase, so that the falling off this year is partly accounted for. It however appears that missionary organizations of other denominations have had this year experiences similar to ours in the matter of decrease of offerings.

In the older Eastern States, especially New England, serious business disturbances have unfavorably affected offerings to all missionary organizations.

Concerning conditions in the Central Western States, Dr. Aitchison, of Chicago, writes: "After going into the matter very thoroughly, I am fully persuaded that the reason for the general decrease in the gifts last year must be the financial condition throughout the country. Our most consecrated and best trained pastors have not been able to lead their churches to make as large offerings to our Societies during the past year as during the year previous."

Concerning the West, Dr. Kinney writes: "The financial and industrial conditions in this district have not been good; the coal strikes have affected a large area; the times are the hardest our farmers have known for years. Many churches are pastorless." Unsettled denominational conditions in Oklahoma have diminished the number of contributing churches there. Dr. Petty writes from the Coast: "The West has been struggling with a general financial depression, especially in the orange and lumber industries. Last year there was a special gift of between four and five thousand dollars as an incentive to the churches to increase their offerings, but nothing of the kind this year."

The foregoing statement for 1912-13 varies in the items from individuals and income from invested funds from the figures given in last year's report. There should have been incorporated in that statement $24,923.16 more from individuals, this amount being the increment from the sale of certain securities given to the Society many years ago, but carried on its books simply at their par value. The income from invested funds was $1,714.05 less than the figures therein given.

The total receipts of the Society from all sources, as shown by the Treasurer's report, were $791,760.43.

The West

A perusal of the accompanying annual reports of general Superintendents of missions and of the Corresponding Secretaries or General Missionaries of Co-operating Western Conventions must impress one with the vigor and efficiency with which our western mission work is prosecuted. In his thirty years of service for the Society Dr. Wooddy states that he has witnessed the increase of State Conventions from two to nine; of churches from 250 to 700; of members from 10,300 to 73,200; in the value of church property from $313,770 to $6,375,700; and of total contributions from $79,000 to $1,327,359; and that the increase in beneficence has been four times as much as the increase in church membership. During the last decade, in Oregon, the increase in the number of church members has been over 100 per cent., in contributions for church expenses nearly 200 per cent.; and for all benevolent purposes about 300 per cent. In Idaho the increase in membership in the last decade has been 175 per cent.; for church expenses 325 per cent.; for all benevolent purposes 325 per cent. In Northern California the average given by re members of mission churches for local expenses, is reported at $22.02.

Energetic efforts have been made to meet the growing demands in the occupation and wise cultivation of mission fields. Thus in South Dakota from three to six mission fields are grouped under the care of one man; and 48 missionaries are reported as having served 74 churches and out-stations. In Idaho, under the auspices of the State Convention a series of Pastors' Institutes, of four days each has been held with much profit while most of the churches have been visited by team-workers for conferences on Church Efficiency. District missionaries, Associational missionaries, and pastors-at-large render valuable service among the weaker churches without pastors and in new mission fields.

New fields calling for missionaries outnumber the older churches that became self-supporting. About 60 churches have been organized and many new out-stations supplied during the year.

In Montana, the opening of Peck's Reservation, embracing 1,223,850 acres, and the extensive irrigation projects in connection therewith, make new demands for larger appropriations for missionary and church edifice work among the incoming population.

The rapid increase of the foreign element in the West, and the greater influx expected with the opening of the Panama Canal call for larger expenditures for missionaries among them.

In this Judson Centennial year, it is most gratifying to note that since 1845 the total contributions of Western churches to Foreign Missions have considerably exceeded two million dollars. Thus does our home mission work in the West become a fountain of blessing for the evangelization of the world.

Our Foreign Populations

During the year 306 missionary appointments have been made to foreign-speaking peoples from 25 countries or nationalities. Calls for enlargement in the occupation of new fields are constant and beyond the Society's ability to meet. Close co-operative relations in this work are maintained with many Baptist State Conventions. In October the Board took the following action:

"That co-operating missionary organizations of foreign-speaking Baptist churches be informed that the Board of Managers of The American Baptist Home Mission Society require that in the prosecution of their missionary work, in any state, the general representative of any such organization shall confer with the State Convention Superintendent of Missions in regard to plans of work among the foreign populations, and that before the organization of a foreign-speaking Baptist church which may become an applicant for aid from the Society and the Convention, the approval of the Superintendent of the Convention must be obtained."

New England itself has become a great foreign mission field to which the Society has given special attention. Its first general missionary to the French Canadians was Rev. N. Cyr, in January, 1870. He was succeeded in 1873 by Rev. J. N. Williams, who for forty years has been continuously in the Society's service, though now incapacitated. His beautiful Christian character, and his devotion to the work of evangelizing these peoples, have won for him a large place in the respect and love of his brethren. The extensive historical data which he prepared is in the Society's possession and is of much value.

The Society's work among other nationalities in New England began as follows: To the Germans in 1873; to the Swedes in 1876; to the Portuguese in 1893; to the Finns in 1890; to the Italians in 1896; to the Syrians and the Letts in 1903; to the Poles in 1905; to the Hungarians in 1912:

For about twenty years from 1870 the work was maintained wholly by the Society, except as local aid was sometimes rendered. The number of missionaries increased from 1 in 1870 to 11 in 1880; and to 20 in 1890. In 1890 the Baptist State Conventions of Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island began co-operation, in a limited way, with the Society in this work; followed by Maine and New Hampshire in 1891 and later by Vermont. Appropriations in 1895 were $6,000 by the Society; by the Massachusetts Convention; $400 by the New Hampshire Convention; $400 by the Maine Convention; and $250 by the Connecticut Convention. For the year 1913-14 the appropriations by the Society were $17,414.73 and by the State Conventions

$29,013.54, as follows: Maine, $892.78; New Hampshire, $1,610.53; Vermont, $600; Massachusetts $18,425; Rhode Island $2,493.49; Connecticut, $4,991.74. The city missions of Boston are now a part of the work of the State Convention.

From 20 missionaries in 1890, the number increased to 44 in 1900; to 75 in 1910; and 67 in 1914. They represent Germans, Swedes, French, Portuguese, Italians, Finns, Hungarians and Syrians.

The German Baptist General Conference that held its triennial meeting at Madison, South Dakota, last fall, expressed its interest in the broad home mission enterprise, by voting that ten per cent. of the designated offerings of German Baptist churches for Home Missions should be appropriated annually to the Home Mission Society for its general work. The sum of $1,900 has thus been paid. The occasion was one of special interest because of the celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the German Department of the Rochester Theological Seminary, which has been of incalculable value in providing capable ministers for our German Baptist churches.

It is regrettable that there is no provision now for the training of French missionaries. From 1888 to 1898 the Society co-operated with the Newton Theological Institution in maintaining a French department, from which a number of men went forth better equipped for service.

The Italian school in Brooklyn, N. Y., a department of Colgate University, has an enrollment of twelve this year and gives promise of a larger and better supply of Italian ministers for many fields that should be occupied.

A missionary training school for the Hungarians, at Scranton, Pa., is doing a small but excellent work, under many disadvantages.

Similar schools for other nationalities are called for. The Society cannot embark upon extensive educational work of this character. Partially to meet the need, and as an experiment, a promising young Pole has been appointed as student missionary and as assistant to an experienced Polish Baptist pastor in a large city, who is his instructor according to a prescribed course of reading and study and who also directs and counsels with him in his missionary work in connection with the church. This plan, which seems to be satisfactory to all concerned may be extended to other nationalities among whom no schools for theological instruction can be maintained.

Quite a remarkable work has sprung up among the Roumanians at several points in Ohio, Akron being the centre where a house of worship is to be erected for the Roumanian Baptist Church already numbering about one hundred members.

The necessity for a special superintendent of this entire field among many foreign populations is deeply felt by your Board. Such an appointment would soon be made were it not for the indebtedness upon the Society and the danger of adding thereto.

The Indians

In our distinctive work for the semi-civilized Indians there are 21 Baptist churches with a reported membership of 1,384, as follows: in Oklahoma, 1,178; in Arizona, 48; in Montana, 63; in California, 95. Baptisms reported, 124. Their contributions for all purposes were $3,485.34; of which $1,103.41 was for church expenses; $900.60 for missions, the balance for other objects. The Oklahoma Indian Baptist Association is well organized and conducted; its annual meetings are largely attended, when special evangelistic services are usually held. The mission to the Mono Indians, at Auberry, near Fresno, Cal., has had a year of exceptional spiritual blessing. Two chapels are greatly needed for the congregations at the two principal out-stations.

A remarkable religious interest developed among the 133 Indian pupils in the government school near Darlington, Oklahoma, resulting in 54 conversions, and the baptism of nearly the entire number. Rev. F. L. King was assisted in the meetings by Rev. H. H. Clouse. The account of this work of grace says: "There was nothing superficial about it, but a regular outpouring of the Spirit. Boys and girls came weeping on account of their sins." The Kiowas gave one entire day in prayer for the conversion of these Cheyenne and Arapahoe children. These converts are from the five different Baptist churches throughout the reservation.

The demoralizing effects of the traffic in intoxicating liquor among the Indians have been of great concern to our missionaries and to all who are interested in the evangelization and the higher civilization of the Indian. It is therefore a cause for rejoicing that the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Hon. Cato Sells, has taken vigorous measures for the suppression of this nefarious business. His ringing address to the conference of Field Supervisors on February 20th, 1914, was all that the most ardent friend of the Indian could desire. Extended extracts of this address were published by the Commissioner and sent to all employees in the Indian service, with a special request also "that on April 6, 1914, it be read to the student body of every Indian school including those under Government, mission or private supervision." He says: "It is my great desire that every employee in the Indian service shall realize the tremendous importance of the liquor suppression work, and exert his best efforts in influence for the protection of the Indian from this his worst enemy."

Among the five civilized tribes of Oklahoma there have been ten missionaries the past year, as appointees jointly of the Society, the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention and the Oklahoma Convention.

Spanish-Americans

Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Troyer continue in charge of our work among the Spanish-Americans in Southern California, in co-operation with the Southern California Baptist Convention. They report the outlook as encouraging. There are two missions in Los Angeles, and one each in Santa Barbara, Oxnard, Bakersfield, Corona, San Pedro and Wilmington and San Diego. At the latter place the number of immigrants from Mexico has greatly increased. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Troyer there are three American women missionaries two of whom are appointees of the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society, and one by the Corona Church; also three Mexicans. Night schools and industrial classes for children have been maintained with most excellent results.

The mission at Tucson, Arizona, is prosperous, the church having a membership of 45, with a native pastor and a good house of worship. Two or three other stations should be established among the large Mexican population in Arizona.

Mexico

The revolutionary disturbances in Mexico have seriously interfered with our work here. Superintendent Rev. Geo. H. Brewer has been in great peril repeatedly and could not, with impunity visit some mission fields. After most terrifying experiences in the City of Mexico, he left with other missionaries and American refugees for Vera Cruz and New Orleans where they arrived early in May. His usual annual report has not been received, but from statistics sent by him, the following information is given: Number of churches, 33; of out-stations, 37; members, 1,294; baptisms during the year, 107; enrollment in Sunday schools, 1,460; whole number of meeting houses, 14; native workers employed, 21; other missionaries and teachers, 9; contributed by churches for self-support, $2,348.50 American money; for missionary purposes, $503.50; copies of Scriptures distributed, 218, and of pages of tracts, 98,000.

Our church property at New Laredo was unscathed in the conflagration that destroyed a large portion of the city.

Eastern Cuba

A perusal of the Superintendent's report of conditions in Eastern Cuba will show that Baptist interests are getting on a substantial basis. Four churches have been organized during the year, carrying the total to 51, with 43 out-stations. Baptisms reported, 201. Contributions for all purposes are over $5,000. A general revision of the list of church members brings the number below that given in last year's report. The Convention at Ciego de Avila was of unusual spiritual interest. Rev. A. B. Howell has been appointed as Superintendent of Missions in place of Dr. H. R. Moseley whose resignation was accepted last fall. Dr. C. L. White, Associate Corresponding Secretary, attended the meeting of the Convention and spent about three weeks in visiting the principal mission fields. The Convention formally expressed its appreciation of his visit. Facts about the school work are presented in the Educational section of this report.

Porto Rico

Steady, substantial progress marks our work in Porto Rico. Three churches have been organized the past year, carrying the total number to 51; in addition to which are 52 out-stations. Their membership is 2,330, with 3,051 enrolled in Sunday schools. Their reported contributions for all purposes is $5,432.61. The Sunday school of the Ponce Church has enrolled over 300, and has quite outgrown its accommodations, so that a tent was procured for the overflow. It is expected that an addition to the church building will be erected this year for the school.

At Ponce, Guanica and Rio Piedras services in English are held for Americans. Reference to the new school building at Rio Piedras, will be found in the Educational section of this report.

At the request of the Board, one of its members, Dr. R. E. Farrier, made a visit in March and April to the mission fields in Porto Rico and participated in the dedication of the new school building and of the Carolina chapel. His visit was highly appreciated by our brethren there.

El Salvador

The first general Baptist Conference in the Republic was held in September, 1913, in connection with the second anniversary of the Santa Ana Church, continuing three days after Sunday, September 7th, when there were about 400 present. It was a most successful meeting and gave a fresh impulse to the work. There are three Baptist churches with 295 members; also 14 out-stations. Other facts of interest are contained in the report of the Superintendent, Rev. William Keech.

Rev. Percy T. Chapman, who has been absent most of the year, upon his return from England, in April, was ordained in Chicago, and proceeded at once to his field in which he expects to be more than ever useful because of his medical education acquired while abroad.

The Orientals

There are six principal mission stations among the Chinese, viz.: in San Francisco and Sacramento, Cal.; in Seattle, Washington; in New York City, Boston and Philadelphia. Besides these, there are several missions maintained by churches, generally as departments of their Sunday Schools. The need of a Christian home for Chinese in San Francisco has been keenly felt by our workers there and the erection of an additional story to our Chinese mission building, for this purpose, was contemplated, but was deemed unadvisable inasmuch as it would probably subject the entire property to taxation.

There is one mission to the Japanese, viz., at Seattle, Washington, where vigorous work is being done to secure suitable accommodations for the varied work proposed. The first payment has been made on lots the purchase price of which is $22,500. The plan is to provide an attractive place for Orientals and surround them so far as possible with Christian influences. Financial aid from outside will be necessary to accomplish this task.

Bible and Tract Distribution

The distribution of copies of the Scriptures and of tracts and other religious literature has always been regarded as an important part of the work of missionaries of this Society. Thus in 1852 the Board reported that "All our missionaries, from pastors of churches in the largest western cities to the colporteurs in their respective fields. They are encouraged in the work by their general instructions, and in the performance of it they have accomplished a vast amount of good." Similar statements occur in subsequent reports of the Board, as in 1883: "The Society, through its large missionary force, laboring among the people where the Scriptures are most needed, affords special facilities for the doing of a large portion of the Bible distribution of the denomination in this country, without additional expense for the service, and with positive gain to the general work in which they are engaged."

Last year the Society's missionaries reported 12,418 copies of the Scriptures and 1,532,063 pages of tracts distributed. In the past decade they reported the distribution of 122,166 copies of the Scriptures and 20,688,784 of tracts.

Numerous grants of copies of the Scriptures and of tracts have been made by the American Baptist Publication Society to our missionaries; though for workers in our Spanish-speaking lands and among some European nationalities supplies have been obtained largely from other sources.

Evangelism

Evangelism has been a primary and prominent feature of the Society's work ever since its organization in 1832. Its declared object is "to promote the preaching of the Gospel in North America." Pioneer missionary evangelists labored extensively throughout the west long before the construction of railways, and, thereafter at nearly all the chief centres of population along these lines. Pioneer evangelists have been numerous among our foreign populations, among the Indians and in Mexico, Cuba and Porto Rico.

In 1903 the Society, at its meeting in Buffalo, responded heartily to the sentiment of the denomination for special evangelistic effort on a broad scale, under its leadership, and instructed the Board to formulate a plan "which, so far as practicable, shall bring Baptist State Conventions, District Associations, City Missionary Societies and Educational Institutions into co-operative relations with it and with each other in this work." It also expressed the opinion that for the stability and efficiency of a work so extensive, a guarantee fund of not less than $25,000 per year for five years was needed.

In connection with that meeting the secretaries, superintendents and general missionaries from fourteen State Conventions addressed a fraternal communication to the Society in which they asked for "co-operation and federation in a mighty evangelistic campaign."

The Executive Board quickly adopted most vigorous measures to carry into effect the instructions of the Society. Two largely attended conferences were held, one in New York in July, one in Chicago in September; an admirable plan of campaign was wrought out and communicated to State Conventions meeting in the fall, most of whom appointed co-operating committees on evangelism, and special efforts were put forth to secure pledges for the $25,000 needed to do the work on the scale projected and about $15,000 in pledges were obtained. In 1905 Dr. E. E. Chivers, Field Secretary of the Society, was requested and directed to devote particular attention to the execution of these plans and Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin was appointed as general evangelist. Together, these men wrought most effectively. Many State Evangelists were appointed, fourteen State Conventions in 1907 being in definite co-operation with the Society in this work.

After the close of Dr. Woelfkin's labors in 1907, Rev. James A. Francis, D.D., was appointed in September of that year; also Rev. Samuel McBride, D.D., in January, 1908; and later Rev. H. Wyse Jones for the Pacific Coast. The death of Dr. Chivers in December, 1907, and the return of Dr. Francis to the pastorate seriously affected the movement; and the death of some donors and the financial reverses of others who had pledged liberally for this purpose, made it extremely difficult to maintain the work as planned. Hence, in 1909, it was decided to dispense with a distinct department for this purpose, and "to include the appointment of evangelists as part of the general missionary work; the Society to meet its share of expenses chiefly or wholly from its general funds." This has been done to a considerable extent in co-operation with State Conventions in the East and in the West, also with the German Baptist Conference; also in co-operation with the Pittsburgh Association and the Illinois Convention in the support of Rev. D. L. Schultz as labor evangelist in many large industrial centres where his labors have been highly commended and greatly blessed.

This review indicates that the denomination has looked to The American Baptist Home Mission Society for leadership in organized evangelistic endeavor on a broad scale; and that the Society has been responsive to the bidding of the denomination in these matters. Its extensive and cordial co-operative relations with State Conventions, City Mission Societies, and Conferences of foreign-speaking Baptists; its large force of about 1,200 missionaries (exclusive of teachers), including about 800 in the western states, 300 among the foreign populations and 110 in Mexico, El Salvador, Cuba and Porto Rico, and its flexibility in adjustment to new demands and tasks, constitute an effective equipment for evangelistic effort on as broad a scale as the denomination desires and will support. To do this properly and satisfactorily, however, will require the leadership of one whose whole time and strength shall be given to organization, instruction and inspiration of our forces for aggressive evangelistic endeavor, and at least $25,000 per year for several years for its effective maintenance.

An adequate evangelistic program includes the appointment of one general evangelist; two or three division evangelists; about eighteen in co-operation with State Conventions, singly or in groups; two for the German Baptists; two for the Swedish Baptists; one each for the Norwegians, the Danes, the French, the Finns, the Italians, the Bohemians and the Roumanians; two labor evangelists; and one each for Porto Rico, Cuba, Mexico and El Salvador. Among many of these nationalities evangelists are needed who are free to go from place to place as pioneer preachers of the Gospel to their fellow countrymen, to millions of whom the Bible is almost an unknown book.

In the general budget of the Society for 1914-15 is an item of $5,000 for evangelism, and in the list of specifics is another item of $5,000 to be obtained if possible from individual contributors. It is hoped that at least $10,000 may be available for advance work the coming year as herein indicated.

During the last four or five years the attention of the denomination has been diverted largely to new measures growing out of the organization and development of the Northern Baptist Convention, such as the budget and apportionment plans, the Ministers and Missionaries Benefit Fund, the Laymen's Missionary Movement with its financial objective, not to mention other things, which, while excellent in themselves, have not contributed greatly to the quickening of the evangelistic spirit in our churches. Indications of renewed interest in the supreme mission of our churches are seen in the organization of an evangelistic commission by the Pacific Coast Baptist Conference in the summer of 1913; by the action of the Northern Baptist Convention in the appointment a year ago of a Commission on the subject; by the action of the Board of Managers of this Society in their special communication last fall to Baptist State Conventions; and by the activity of groups of laymen, as in Kansas, in evangelistic work. For the enlargement of its activities in this direction the Society awaits the bidding of the denomination as practically expressed in putting at its disposal adequate resources for this purpose.

CHURCH EDIFICE DEPARTMENT

In the administration of its Church Edifice funds, the Society, as a rule, requires mortgage security for both loans and gifts to churches, gift mortgages of course bearing no interest. It is stipulated in the gift mortgages that in case the corporate existence of the church aided shall cease, or that it fails to keep its house of worship insured against loss by fire: or, if the house of worship or the mortgaged premises be alienated, or be abandoned as a place of public worship by the church, then the amount of the grant with interest shall become due and payable to the Society, which may take the necessary legal steps to sell the property and recover the amount for use elsewhere. The manifest object of this is to safeguard, so far as possible, these funds. The wisdom of this arrangement is shown in the fact that for several years the Society has received on an average about $5,000 yearly from the sale of abandoned church properties.

Among the large number of churches aided by gifts in the last thirty-two years since the establishment of the Church Edifice gift fund, approximately 2,500, there are frequent instances of churches having become extinct or having suspended services and abandoned the use of their houses for religious purposes, and this too, without notification to the Board of Managers of the Society. It has been deemed advisable therefore to appoint Rev. D. D. Proper, D.D., as special agent to look after such cases and also other matters pertaining to loans and gifts as the Board may direct. Since July 1, 1913, in connection with his work as Superintendent of Missions he has given about half of his time to this work, with gratifying results; and his work from April 1, 1914, will be wholly in the interests of these funds. Churches delinquent in payment of their obligations to the loan fund will also receive attention, first in the way of fraternal suggestion and help to raise the required amount. Dr. Proper's adaptation to this service is assured by his ability and his thirty years of varied experience in missionary and church edifice work in service for the Society. The Board will deal with all of these cases in the most considerate spirit, consistent with the Society's fiduciary obligations in the administration of these funds. Accordingly, it has been voted that where a decadent church that has had Church Edifice aid deeds its property to the Society, a reasonable time will be given for the resuscitation of the church before the disposal of the property; and the church may continue to use the property by keeping it insured and making necessary repairs.

During the year a careful revision of the rules governing the administration of the loan and the gift funds has been made.

There is great need for a much larger sum for gifts to churches, particularly for churches in western cities where suitable sites and houses of worship are unusually expensive. It is hoped that at least one church annually, in a city with a large state educational institution, may be aided in securing a good equipment for its work.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

The original purpose of this work of the Society was the training of teachers and preachers for the colored race. This is the paramount purpose now. The Richmond Theological Seminary, a Department of Virginia Union University, has been developed to afford educational facilities approximating those of theological institutions elsewhere. With its commodious buildings, its excellent faculty, its large library, its location in the midst of a large Negro Baptist constituency, it should attract the most advanced and aspiring colored students for the ministry from the South and the North. The strengthening of theological work at Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., and of Bishop College, at Marshall, Texas, is under consideration, while short courses for others are provided in several other schools.

Schools for the Negroes

The Society aids in the maintenance of thirteen higher schools and eleven secondary schools for the Negroes. The enrollment for the year was 7,491. The number of Society's appointees was 197; of these 107 were Negroes. Reports from the schools state that 623 were students for the ministry; 1,746 were preparing to teach. There were 3,568 boarders and 3,096 day pupils.

The amount paid for salaries was $85,228.60; for all other current purposes, as repairs, improvements, insurance, equipment, etc., $14,832.89.

No buildings have been erected during the year and none are projected for the year to come. Necessary alterations in the heating of some buildings at Benedict College, Columbia, S. C., were made at an expense of $5,995.51, chiefly from designated funds.

The amount of endowment funds held by the Society for eight of these institutions is $441,082.26; and for student aid, principally, $63,830.36. There is great necessity for a larger endowment fund.

To effect instant reduction of a large amount in this educational department is difficult. Reduction of salaries to many teachers who receive from $400 to $600 each, cannot be made, when out of this meagre amount they must pay their board and other expenses, including, in many instances, cost of their return to the North, annually. Nor can competent men and women be secured for the higher work and the duties of administration, at lower salaries than are now paid. However, a slight reduction has been decided upon for the ensuing year in appropriation to several of the secondary schools, which by our aid for many years have become well established. By a gradual process of reduction, the Society may be relieved of a few thousand dollars in two or three years.

It is expected that a saving of about five thousand dollars will be effected the coming year in consequence of radical changes in the Leonard Medical School of Shaw University, Raleigh, N. C. This department was established by Dr. Tupper nearly thirty years ago, in the hope that it would find support from philanthropists interested in the training of Negro physicians for their own people. Resources for its maintenance, however, were insufficient. For several years the Society consented to the application of part of the net income of the other departments of the university, for the benefit of the Medical School. As the institution broadened its curriculum and took on a higher character, a larger faculty became necessary. Representative white physicians of Raleigh have been instructors at a moderate compensation, but in the aggregate amounting to about $6,000 annually. In the financial exigencies of the Society and of the school the past year they have generously given their services. In order to maintain the school, the Society for several years has allowed the use of all the net proceeds from other departments to be thus applied, and from time to time has made special appropriations for this purpose. The recent action of the American Medical Association, demanding higher standards of admission, resident members of faculties and prescribed equipment for clinical work and other purposes, as conditions of its recognition as a school of the first class, whose students may be admitted to practice anywhere in the United States, has greatly increased the difficulty and the expense of maintaining this Medical School on a satisfactory basis. To meet these requirements would involve an expenditure of almost $10,000 annually, and about $5,000 for the maintenance of the hospital. Taking everything into consideration, therefore, it has been decided to make a radical reorganization of the Leonard Medical School. A four years' course of study leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science has been adopted, the last two years of this course being the same as the first two years of a standard medical course. Graduates will be admitted to the Junior Class of a standard Medical school without examination, as is the case with B.S. graduates of the white schools, Wake Forest College and the State University. This arrangement will effect a saving of several thousand dollars annually. The Law School also will be discontinued, with a small saving there. It has been a minor feature of the university. With these changes, other departments of the institution will be strengthened. The Leonard Medical School has graduated 396 in medicine, all but 48 of these during President Meserve's administration since 1894. Many graduates have made a most creditable record.

Rates of tuition and board have been and will be raised gradually, in order to reduce the amount required from the Society for the support of these schools. It is encouraging to note that unpaid term bills at the close of the school year are generally a very small per cent. of the total amount received from these sources. Spelman Seminary, with an enrollment of 659, reports no loss whatever for several years.

Indian Schools

Indian University, more commonly known as Bacone College, near Muskogee, Oklahoma, is in a most flourishing condition. The attendance of Indian students has been the largest in its history. Dormitory accommodations were inadequate, and many applicants had to be refused. It was decided, therefore, to add two wings, as originally planned, to the central section of the girls' building. The work was completed in April of this year, the cost, including furnishing and some repairs on the older section, being approximately $9,300, for which there was no draft upon the Society's treasury. The new dormitory rooms afford accommodations for thirty-three girls, or, in case of necessity, with three in a room, about fifty; thus doubling the capacity of the building. There are also six music rooms, two large rooms in the basement for instruction in Domestic Science, one for sewing and one for cooking; also a large assembly room which is used by the Y. M. C. A., and for the girls' literary society, social gatherings, etc. While rejoicing in these better accommodations, President Randall strongly pleads for a new school building with suitable classrooms and an ample chapel, inasmuch as the rooms for these purposes in the old building erected about thirty years ago, are overcrowded. Indeed, he has started a movement among the Indians themselves for contributions for this purpose, with encouraging responses.

The industrial work on the ample grounds of the institution is a prominent feature in its activities. Modern scientific methods in agriculture and horticulture are adopted, the value of which was shown by a yield of sixty bushels of oats per acre, while adjacent farmers, pursuing the old methods got but twenty to thirty bushels per acre.

The deep religious interests among the students has been most cheering. Thirty have been baptized since the opening of the school last September. It is an interesting fact that the pastor of the First Baptist Church of Muskogee, who made the prayer at the dedication of the new baptistry on February 22, when fifteen were baptized, was baptized on the same day of the month, twenty-three years before, while a student there.

Not the least interesting feature of the work at Bacone, is the Murrow Indian Orphans' Home, which, though having its own Board of Trustees, is, by the terms of agreement with the Society, practically a part of the institution and under its direction. There are fifty-six children in the Home; of whom thirty-five, either directly or through their guardians, are able to pay part, and in a few instances, the full amount for their yearly support, while twenty-one are wholly dependent. Many others have been denied the privileges of this excellent Christian home and school, for lack of funds for their support.

At the Red Stone Mission for the Kiowas, near Anadarko, in response to urgent requests from the Indians, a day school has been established in charge of an Indian teacher who was formerly a student in Haskell Institute.

Porto Rico

The outstanding educational event of the year, and indeed, of the history of our work in Porto Rico, has been the erection of the school building for our missionary training school, to be known as The Grace Conaway Institute for Christian workers. It is located at Rio Piedras, near San Juan, the capital of Porto Rico, on a site opposite the campus of the Insular University. The new building which was completed in April, 1914, is of reinforced concrete, 45 x 85 feet, two stories above the basement in height and contains on the first floor classrooms, offices, an assembly room and residence for the principal, while the second floor affords dormitory accommodations for thirty-two students. The architectural features of the building are much admired. The cost of the building and equipment was about $22,500, to which should be added the value of the site (which was acquired several years ago) at least $3,000, making a total valuation of more than $25,000.

The institute is a memorial to a deceased daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Conaway of Los Angeles, Cal., who with Mr. and Mrs. A. Otis Birch of the same city, gave $10,000 to The American Baptist Home Mission Society of New York for this purpose, the remainder having been given mostly by others. The property is owned and the school is maintained by the Society.

It is primarily and pre-eminently a Christian school for the preparation of young men for the work of the ministry and other Christian service. Porto Rican young men of any evangelical denomination may enjoy its advantages, so far as its accommodations permit, while other acceptable students in the University also may reside in the dormitory as there may be room for them. It is desired that the institute should be a community centre for all Christian young men in it and in the university. Students in the institute may pursue their general scholastic studies in the University.

The dedication of the new building brought together a distinguished assemblage. Addresses were delivered by Hon. Arthur Yager, Governor of Porto Rico, who is a Baptist, by the Commissioner of Education, by a Judge of the Supreme Court.

and by the Alcalde of Rio Piedras. Dr. R. E. Farrier, of the Board of Managers of this Society, and several missionaries also participated in the exercises.

Cuban Schools

The Colegios Internacionales at El Cristo have had a prosperous year. The girls' school has been crowded the entire year. There is a slight decrease in attendance of boys. More are paying full tuition fees than ever before. Some former students are doing excellent work as missionary pastors; others are pursuing advanced studies in the states; while several young women have become teachers in our primary schools. The Bible is taught in all grades. More than thirty students professed conversion during the year.

There are eleven primary schools with an enrollment of 565; taught by 8 American and 9 native teachers; several of whom are appointed and paid by the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society. Some of these schools are self-supporting. They are valuable adjuncts to the higher schools, and to our work as a whole in Eastern Cuba.

Mexico: Monterrey School

Revolutionary disturbances interfered with the opening of the theological school at Monterrey in September, 1913. Continuance of these troubles have led to a suspension of work this year. Five of the graduates are preaching and five are pastors' assistants. Others are engaged in secular work.

FIELD WORK

L. C. BARNES, D.D., NEW YORK.

THE responsibility of representing the wide work and relationships of our Society at thirty-four Conventions, conferences, assemblies, institutes and the like, scattered all the way from Waterville, Maine, to Portland, Oregon, was not slight. All but one of these included an area larger than that of an Association. In thirty-three of them the Field Secretary's part was one of active participation, and in a number of chief responsibility.

Our Foreign-speaking Bodies.

Danish, Swedish, Bohemian, Slovak, Italian, French and German Conventions were attended. The originative and growing activity of the Society with these bodies of brethren was emphasized. I wish that every member of the Society could see what noble companies of disciples the Lord is raising up among these New Americans. In one case, that of the Germans, it was their triennial national meeting. For solidity, keen thought, comprehensive practicalness and true culture it would be difficult to match this assembly in any equal number of Baptists ever gathered. Incidentally it was a revelation of the West also. The Bundes-Conferenz, convened in Madison, South Dakota, was entertained in the spacious and admirably adapted grounds and buildings of the State Normal School. The delegates were carried about in seventy-five automobiles. The German Conference decided to take a larger and more definite share in the general work of the Society. The older and stronger bodies like the Germans and Swedes not only far excel the Northern Baptist Convention as a whole in beneficence, but are also peculiarly fitted to take responsibility in caring for groups of Newer Americans.

Baptist Union.

The General Conference of Free Baptists meets only once in three years. Owing to having merged its work so largely with ours, it occupied only half as many days this year as formerly and had but half as many delegates. But it still has very important interests to conserve. There has been seen on earth seldom a process of greater Christian sublimity than that of this body of able men and women with solid possessions, mental, material and spiritual, with perfect consciousness of what they are doing, and yet without any flourish, laying down their distinctive life on the altar of Christ's kingdom.

"He must increase but I must decrease." Some bodies furnish large talk about Christian unity, really meaning the absorption of others by themselves. This splendid body of Baptists, without blare of trumpets, actually perform the deed of unity when it means the merging of themselves with others.

Interdenominational Co-operation.

In the work of studying our western fields together with other evangelical bodies which it was my privilege to inaugurate several years ago, we have pushed considerably further this year. In company with the leading Home Mission secretaries of other communions, six states were visited and "institutes" held, each one twice as long as the earlier "consultations," and most of them carrying the spirit of co-operation decidedly farther than the former. At the same time much greater emphasis was placed on the denominations as the organs of efficiency. We found the leaders at the front less afraid of co-operation and generally ready for the active measures proposed. They are coming to see that denominational strength can be greatly enhanced by the elimination of wasteful competition and the establishment of sane, self-respecting co-operation.

Special Messages.

On the publicity side of his work, the Field Secretary has felt impelled to stress two points: One is to the effect that in the long history of Christianity, the supreme opportunity of Baptists is just appearing, when they can serve the human race as never before and as no one else can do. It is our day, the day of personality and of sociality combined.

The other is that we need to see the condition of humanity, not only think about it but visualize it. We must become seers with vivid vision, not of fancy, but of fact, vision of the ominous perils and at the same time vision of the mighty possibilities of our country and of the world.

In addition to uttering these two messages on all sorts of occasions, they have been concisely printed in "The New Baptist Era," and "Visions of Home-land Realities."

REPORTS OF GENERAL SUPERINTENDENTS

Pacific Division: Alaska, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, California, Oregon, Hawaii

C. A. WOODY, D.D., PORTLAND, ORE., SUPERINTENDENT.

WHEN I began to write this report, I was reminded that the review which it contains presents conditions at the end of thirty years of service which I have been permitted to render within the limits of the Pacific Division. I stopped writing to recall the men who were there in active service when I came back from Rochester Seminary to take up work in my native state. There are about one dozen ministers still living within the limits of these seven states, who were then living within this territory, and, so far as I recall, there are only two of them still in active and full service. There were at that time only two organized Conventions within this area, the one in California, and the other being the North Pacific Coast Convention. Now there are nine well organized Conventions. There were about 250 churches with a little more than 10,300 members, reporting a property valued at $313,770. The total benevolence thirty years ago, including offerings for State Convention, amounted to $7,881, and the total contributions to $79,000.

A hasty review of the present situation shows 700 churches, 73,200 members, property valued at $6,375,700, a total benevolence of $236,500, and total contributions of $1,327,359. This shows that we have multiplied the number of our churches by three, the number of our members by seven, our total contributions by seventeen, the value of our church property by twenty, and the amount of our beneficence by thirty. Our population has been multiplied by 61-5. The gratifying thing in these figures is that we have increased our benevolences about four times as much as we have increased our membership. The annual per capita giving for the entire field is $18.13.

Changes During the Year.

The changes during the year in the official force of the Division have been few. At the end of April, 1913, Rev. Geo. R. Varney closed his work as General Missionary in charge of the Convention of Utah and Sierra Nevada, and the work of Utah Convention was placed under the care of Rev. W. H. Bowler of Idaho. In the Nevada-Sierra Convention, the work was cared for temporarily by Rev. Brewster Adams, pastor of the First Church of Reno, and for a time later by Rev. Geo. N. Gardner, who had served so acceptably as pastor at Alturas. At the Board meeting in January, 1914, Mr. Gardner was elected as General Missionary for the Nevada-Sierra Convention field, and will give his entire time to that work from April 1, 1914. He is already well equipped with a thorough knowledge of the field and a large place in the confidence and love of his brethren. The East Washington and North Idaho Convention field has suffered some lack of attention, through the long continued illness of the General Missionary, W. C. King. This began prior to the meeting of the Convention last October, and after the first of December he became practically incapacitated for work, his death occurring April 5th. He will be greatly missed in this field, having won in a singular degree the love of pastors and churches in all parts of his field.

In Arizona, our Brother T. F. McCourtney, who has served long and efficiently there, has been bereaved through the loss of his wife, in the early part of December, 1913. Her death was not only a great personal loss to her husband and children, but also to the Convention itself, to which she gave much loyal service in the earlier years of her residence in Arizona.

Evangelistic Work.

But two of the Conventions of this Division have had an evangelist under salary during the past year, and one of these has served only since the first of January. A few evangelists have labored most successfully at their own charges, and a few pastors have given time to this form of service outside their own churches.

Without being able at this writing to gather up the figures, my impression is that when our statistics are gathered, it will be found that the work done has been very fruitful.

I have previously called attention to the fact that for the last fifteen years our net growth in membership on the Pacific Slope has hardly reached the number of baptisms. For as long a period as ten years at times, our net growth has been less than our number of baptisms. All of which points clearly to the conclusion that if we are to grow, we must intensify and expand and maintain persistently our evangelistic program.

A look at the strength of our churches will show quite as clearly that if there is to be maintained a steady and strong campaign of evangelism, it will have to be done by funds outside of the contributions of the churches themselves. The average membership of all the churches in the Pacific Division is but a little above 100.

There are 161 churches with a membership of 25 or less.

There are 140 churches with between 25 and 50 members.

There are 85 churches with between 50 and 75 members.

There are 60 churches with between 75 and 100 members.

There are 66 churches with between 100 and 150 members.

There are 42 churches with between 150 and 200 members.

There are 37 churches with between 200 and 300 members.

There are 43 churches that have a membership above 300.

No words are necessary, in view of this fact, to put the matter beyond argument that if we are to strengthen the great majority of our churches and add to our net membership, the Society must provide aid for an adequate and efficient evangelistic campaign.

Church Edifice Work.

The number of church edifices built during this year has been larger than for several years past, and the amount of money set apart for use by the Home Mission Society in this Division has all been used, and requests have been submitted for about 25 per cent. beyond the amount available. Without much doubt, this enlarged activity will continue through the next year. The number of new houses dedicated during the year has been about thirty. At Berkeley, our largest educational center, and one of the two or three largest in America, plans have been adopted for beginning the erection of a house at an early date. While the church will not be able to build quite so commodious a house as is really needed, the prospects are that they will complete a house that will offer them very greatly enlarged opportunity for work in the community and among the students of the University. At Corvallis, in Oregon, we hope to begin a new building this year. At an early date the Society ought to be able to encourage at least two other churches in University centers to build much needed houses.

Our work among the Indians in Central California has been very encouraging, but our success creates embarrassment in providing places of worship for the growing mission. At least three small chapels should be built before next winter.

The Foreign Brother Among Us.

One phase of our work which is receiving increasing attention is that among foreign-speaking peoples. The number of foreign-speaking folk among us is constantly increasing. Our total population, as shown the 13th census, is 5,177,478. Whites of foreign birth number 1,323,501 and the children among us of foreign-born parents aggregated an additional 1,132,665. Making some allowance for those who are not whites in the census classifications, these figures show that now more than 50 per cent. of our population are foreigners or children of foreigners. The percentage of growth in the entire population for the last census period was 71 per cent. for the entire Division, but the percentage of growth of the foreign-born was 75 per cent., showing that at the present time the rate of growth of our foreign population is considerably in excess of that of native white population. When it is remembered that almost the entire amount of this foreign addition has come across the continent, it will not be difficult to believe that with the opening of the canal, the increase of our foreign-speaking brothers may be more rapid than hitherto. Denominationally we are well represented by German, Swedish, Norwegian, and Finnish churches. We probably have as much work among the Russians as all other denominations. In Washington, work is carried on among seven nationalities besides Americans; in Oregon, among six nationalities; in California, among twelve nationalities; in Arizona, among three nationalities; in Utah and Idaho, among three nationalities. In California, in particular the pressure is already serious for the strength of our organized Conventions. The burden of this work falls upon the Conventions and the Home Mission Society exclusively. A slight prosperity attending the work among any of these nationalities calls immediately for an organization of the converts, regular services, and a chapel; and the organizations which I have mentioned have the entire burden of establishing and maintaining such work. We have before us on the Coast an opportunity of large dimensions, and if it is courageously and adequately met, we shall prevent that overwhelming sense of inability which seems to have come upon the churches of some sections of the country.

New Organizations, Methods and Opportunities.

An examination of the reports of the General Missionaries of this Division will show the organization of an unusual number of new churches during the past year—perhaps more than thirty—fully twice as many as the average per year for the last thirty years. Knowing their caution in the matter of organizing new churches, it is evident to me that very many other places are demanding attention. Indeed, if there were at hand funds to support missionaries and provide modest chapels, we could organize promising young churches within the next twelve months, fully twice the number organized during the past year.

In a number of sections in this Division, we must reorganize our method of caring for mission fields, and make more use of the district worker than we have been doing for some time. In some of the fields we shall be able to organize self-supporting districts. But most of them will need some missionary money, but will release more than they use. Plans for one or two fields have already been worked out.

At Roseburg, in Oregon, a somewhat novel plan has been in operation for a year or more, by which this church employs an assistant pastor, and the church assumes the care of three country churches. Through him and some volunteer preaching, each of these places has regular preaching services and maintain vigorous Sunday schools. The large church, which has been for a number of years self-supporting, thus becomes closely identified with the weaker rural church, and both pastor and members give attention to existing needs and contribute both money, personal visitation, and helpful service, and all this is done without charge upon missionary funds.

In one or two other places, plans are already being perfected to provide a pastor with an automobile, who will reach three or four out-stations each month, giving each of them a Sunday afternoon service. Attention is being given to this matter in several states. In Idaho, two vigorous district missionaries divide the state between themselves, and the plan is proving very efficient.

A frontier region in Washington has a district missionary who travels on horseback. He calls himself the Saddle-Bag Missionary. In a recent letter he says: "I don't have much time to write, as I am in the saddle most of the time. I never worked as hard in my life as I have since I came to this field. On my last trip I rode eighty miles. The trip before that was sixty miles. Tomorrow I get into the saddle for a seventy-five mile ride. I am usually loaded with clothing and Sunday school papers to give away. I have now spread out on chairs and sofas two barrels of good clothing, which a church sent to me, to be taken among the people. I have travelled one thousand miles on horseback in the last five months. The other day I had a service where there had been nothing done for years. The school house was packed and the people deeply interested. Would organize a Sunday school, if I had any one to keep it going." And much more in like manner he writes.

The work in some ten of our largest cities is pressing hard for larger investment of money and workers. Especially is this true for the cities of Oakland and San Francisco, California, in view of the great influx of people during 1915. If we make any adequate contribution to the religious welfare of those cities during the year of the 1915 fair, we shall have to put into them about one dozen helpers to the pastors, some of these being women, and others being helpers of various sorts. This is something which will require large and careful attention from the Society, by January 1, 1915. Indeed, plans to this end should be fully perfected during the summer of the present year.

In Conclusion.

As stated at the beginning of this report, I began my work thirty years ago. I became officially connected with Convention Board work almost at once. During these years I have had the pleasure of very intimate association with the Boards of ten Conventions, and I wish to bear testimony here to the devotion and fidelity of the brethren who have composed these Boards. The amount of unpaid and devoted service which they have rendered is little understood by the denomination which they have served. They have been a comfort and an inspiration to me in many a hard situation, and in unyielding perplexity. We have worked and prayed and rejoiced together, and our fellowship has never been marred by any personal differences.

In like manner I want to bear testimony to the fidelity and ability of the men who have served in the place of General Missionary. All in all, nearly forty men have served in this position in the various Conventions which I have served. Some of them have entered into rest and reward. Some of them have retired from work on account of age. Some still labor in the ministry, and a noble group are now serving with me as true yoke-fellows in a great and strategic section of our country. To them all I give greeting and love, and invoke upon them continued blessing and Divine guidance.

D. D. PROPER, D.D., OMAHA, NEB., SUPERINTENDENT.

THE only change to report in general missionaries for Central Division is the resignation of Rev. Hal P. Fudge for Wyoming and the appointment of Rev. J. F. Blodgett. Brother Blodgett's experience as pastor-at-large in South Dakota has been very helpful in taking up this new work, and he is making good progress in getting acquainted with the field and the workers. A few new churches have been organized, several meeting houses built, and about the usual number of churches have been aided in the support of pastors.

Reports from General State Missionaries show that fine progress has been made along several lines, and it has been a good year for our work.

Pioneer Work.

During the year new work on the frontier in western Wyoming was begun in the settling of a pastor and occupation of a new meeting house in the Jackson Hole country. This beautiful valley of the Snake River, from three to ten miles wide and about one hundred miles long, has some fifteen hundred people, which have been very destitute of religious privileges. We have a good little church, small in number but strong in faith, with a most excellent pastor.

Evangelism.

At the State Conventions last year special emphasis was placed on the importance of Evangelism. The General Missionaries have made active, energetic efforts to carry on this work by pastors-at-large, special evangelists, local pastors working together, and other general workers.

Quite a large number of meetings have been held. Rev. E. Anderson, for a few months, and Rev. G. W. Shephard have been under commission in North Dakota as "Evangelists," and results have justified this action by the Board. In South Dakota, under the direction of Rev. S. P. Shaw, one evangelist, Chaplain White, and one pastor-at-large, Rev. J. W. Jeffries, have been doing excellent work in holding special meetings. In Nebraska, Rev. Fred Berry, with his two pastor-at-large workers, Revs. J. C. Bukoutz and Ed Mills, with other helpers have held quite a large number of meetings. Rev. Thos. Stephenson, in Montana, has tried in vain to get a permanent evangelistic helper, which is very much needed. In Wyoming, Rev. J. F. Blodgett has not been able, for lack of means, to have a State Evangelist, but he has done good work along this line himself at Thermopolis, with the help of his pastor, Rev. R. R. Hopton. Rev. J. A. Pettit, State Evangelist for Iowa, closed his work to take the financial agency of Des Moines College.

This kind of work is the great outstanding need in this division.

Crow Indian Mission.

During the year Rev. C. J. Pope, former State General Missionary, has been appointed as University Pastor in Lincoln, Nebraska, in connection with the Educational Board, to help in caring for the Baptist and other students in the State University. It is reported that 7,588 students are taking special work in Lincoln, and there are about 150 Baptists among them. This is a much needed work and the Lord has set His seal of approval upon the work of Rev. Pope.

Great progress has attended the work of our missionaries on this constantly enlarging field. Forty Indians have been baptized on profession of faith in Christ, and decision to henceforth walk in the "Jesus Road." This brings the membership to ninety. During the year a campus of twenty acres at Pryor has been purchased, and arrangements are being made to build a mission house similar to the one at Wyola. Miss Goodspeed is now on the field doing excellent work. By the gifts of friends of the work, enough money was provided to furnish Rev. W. A. Petzoldt with a five-passenger motor car, which will be of great value to him in the prosecution of the work. Mrs. Petzoldt's health is much improved. This has been a very prosperous year for this mission work and the schools.

Southwestern Division: Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado

BRUCE KINNEY, D.D., TOPEKA, KAN., GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT

DURING the past year there has been no change in the personnel of the General Missionaries, for which we are devoutly grateful. Some successful attention has been given to the matter of securing our equity from church houses which have long been disused because churches have become extinct.

City Missions.

In Kansas City, Kansas, the work has gone on apace. Large numbers of baptisms have been recorded in several of our missions. Edgerton Place Church is now worshipping in its newly completed building. While this has long been a self-supporting church it is a notable achievement because it is the only really adequate house among all of our dozen or so churches in that city. The great growth of many of the smaller organizations emphasizes the need of more adequate housing for our churches. If they could receive the help from us that is deserved, the Baptists might soon take first rank among the evangelical forces of that city. We ought also to give immediate help to the congested foreign section of the city where there is a very promising mission among the Croatians.

In Denver several minor points have been opened. In several ways our cause has been notably strengthened. The most striking event was the turning over to our City Mission Society the property of the Tabernacle Church.

This organization has been more or less loosely connected with the congregational body and their initiation of the movement to turn the work over to us was only less astonishing than the fact that it was actually carried out. Although the property is worth in the neighborhood of $50,000 in the very nature of this downtown work, it will always be financially a liability and not an asset. It is the work formerly carried on by the famous Parson Uzzell. It should also be said that none of our general workers had anything to do with the transfer. This remark is necessitated by the fact that in some quarters the transfer is resented. I have examined the matter thoroughly and fail to see where injustice has been done by our people or how this responsibility could have been evaded honorably.

Indian Work.

Last fall Rev. Robert Hamilton resigned his work among the Cheyenne, after sixteen years of faithful service, much to my regret. His resignation was not accepted by our Society until made necessary by the fact that Brother Hamilton felt that he had already obligated himself to other work. We were fortunate in securing for this field Rev. Geo. L. Gibbs, a member of the great Third Church of St. Louis, who felt called to such work and who was ordained by his church last December. He has made a good start and we look for great things in the future.

The new Only Way Church among the Sac and Fox, reported last year, now has twenty-seven members and hopes to dedicate its new house of worship in a few weeks.

Owing to the fact that some of our Kiowa children had no school privileges unless they went to the Catholic school that is supported by the government, we established a small school in the chapel at Red Stone Mission, where it has been successfully conducted at very small expense. The average attendance has been about twenty, and we believe that the school has justified itself.

Two Things That Need Emphasis.

In this Division we are doing almost nothing among the "New Americans." We are working among the Scandinavians and Germans but little among the peoples from Southeastern Europe. There are many thousands of many nationalities in the packinghouse district of Kansas City, Kansas. A native Croatian Baptist minister has, we believe, been providentially sent to us, but the money is not yet forthcoming for his support.

In the mining districts of Colorado there are tens of thousands of these peoples wholly given over to the rapacity of the saloon and worse resorts.

We ought to emphasize evangelism as never before. In many places in this division great meetings have been held this past year. A number of our churches have baptized more than one hundred each and the time seems ripe for further effort. We have contributed to the support of only one man doing this work exclusively. I wish that the Society might see its way clear to give to my enlarged Division for next year one strong evangelist, who with the General Superintendent and volunteer helpers might: Hold some evangelistic meetings. Hold conferences mainly to stimulate pastors to do two things, (1) help each other in evangelistic effort and (2) stimulate them "in order that they might make the saints perfect in doing the work of ministering, in order that the body of Christ might be built up."

Germans

REV. G. A. SCHULTE, SUPERINTENDENT, NEWARK, N. J.

THE mission work among the Germans in this country is still progressing. During the past year the Triannual Conference was held in Madison, South Dakota. It was the event of the year. Never before in the history of the German Baptist work in this country was there such a gathering of the representatives of the churches from all parts of the country. One hundred and thirty-two churches were represented by 262 duly appointed delegates, and 630 visitors were present, a total of 892 delegates and visitors. The four large buildings of the State Normal School, so well adapted for the needs of such a large gathering were placed at our disposal. Thus, the German Baptists enjoyed the hospitality of the State of South Dakota.

The days spent in Madison were full of interest and work for those who took an active part in the deliberations. The reports of the three main branches of our mission work showed gratifying progress during the past three years. It was the sixtieth year of the existence of the German Department of the Rochester Theological Seminary. During this time this institution has been an important factor in the mission work among the Germans in this country. It has sent forth in the past sixty years upwards of 350 students into the ministry, the greater majority of whom are still in active service in this country, Europe, India, Africa, Australia, China and South America, some as pastors of German Baptist churches, others as missionaries in the Foreign Field. The German Department has a faculty of five professors, and a student body of 72 according to the last year's figures. For the support of the students the churches contributed during the past three years $26,517.30. In order to complete the endowment of $100,000 for the support of the Theological professors, $2,846.95 was still lacking, which was raised by the delegates at the Conference. Thus this German Department, which was organized for a temporary need, has developed into, at least for the present, a permanent institution for the education of young men for the ministry.

Never before was the German Baptist Publication Society more able to present such a favorable report as at this Conference. The business department reported a clear profit of $11,547.92. Of this amount $6,000 was donated by the Publication Committee for several benevolent and missionary objects; $1,500 was donated for the support of needy and destitute ministers. The churches contributed for the missionary department for the distribution of Bibles, tracts and colportage work $7,537.69. This branch of our work is under the efficient management of Mr. H. P. Donner, who was formerly manager of a large department store with a high salary, but in order to serve the Lord and the German Baptist churches he resigned his position to work for a much smaller salary.

The missionary report contained a brief review of the thirty years' work since the organization of the Society. The progress made during that time seemed marvellous to that large gathering. A few figures, showing the growth of the work, may be of interest. Thirty years ago there were 138 churches with a total membership of 9,932. There is a constant leakage of German Baptists into English-speaking churches. It frequently occurs that an entire church drops the German language and adopts the English and joins the English-speaking churches. In spite of this leakage the number of churches has increased to 294, with a membership of 30,745. Thirty years ago the churches raised $4,030 for Home Missions; last year nearly $20,000. The contributions for foreign missions rose from $2,932 in 1883 to $21,353 in 1913. For all loyal and outside objects the churches raised $479,683.77.

According to the above-named figures the German Baptists have contributed for local objects $12.54 per member, and for outside objects $3.20 per member, this makes a total of $15.74 per member. The amount contributed by the Sunday schools, Young People's Societies and Women's Missionary Societies is not included in the above-named amounts. The Young People's Societies report to have expended $7,048.30, the Women's Missionaries Societies, $18,566.58, and the Sunday schools, $29,993.66, total for the three societies is $55,608.54.

In a communication of the Conference addressed to the Board of The American Baptist Home Mission Society the Conference gave expression to our sincere appreciation of the sympathetic interest and cordial good-will which The American Baptist Home Mission Society has always manifested toward our German work, and for the noble generosity with which the Society has supported our endeavors, throughout these many years of our co-operation. "We desire to assure the Society of our interest in its effort to solve the new problems which now confront our country and churches. We covet a share in the work of the evangelization of the multitudes of strangers within our gates. We are not unconscious of the fact that God has been providentially leading us into a larger work, and that the German language offers peculiar advantages in the evangelistic approach to many of these people. God has already used us in laying foundations upon which our American brethren are building. In addition to this moral support, we desire to render all the material aid in our power. We have therefore voted to appropriate annually 10 per cent. of the designated Home Mission contributions of the churches for the general work of The American Baptist Home Mission Society. We furthermore gladly welcome the representative of your Society in our churches to interest and inspire our people, to enlist and quicken their interest in this stupendous work, with the understanding that they make no direct appeals for contributions."

A new feature in our mission work was inaugurated during the past year. Rev. J. H. Moehlmann was appointed to do mission work in pastorless mission churches. It is understood that he will visit a church and stay there, four or five weeks, as the case may be, to encourage the members, to labor for the spiritual uplift of the church and to advise in regard to the calling of a pastor adapted for the place. We were very fortunate in securing such an experienced and wise leader for this position, who was himself very successful in the pastorate and who has been for a great many years intimately connected with our German work. Brother Moehlmann has been very successful during the past year and has rendered important services in several of the churches.

Church Edifice: Field Work

D. D. PROPER, D.D., SUPERINTENDENT, OMAHA, NEB.

THIS report is for nine months from July 1, 1913 (when my work as District Secretary ended), to April 1, 1914, during which period about half of my time continued to be given to the supervision of missionary work in the Central Division; and half to special church edifice work, to which attention will be wholly given after April 1st. I have visited twenty-seven churches and places in attention to church edifice matters and attended the dedication of five meeting houses.

My principal work has been to look after abandoned church properties in which the Home Mission Society has an interest by virtue of the security taken for gifts from its Church Edifice funds. This investigation has disclosed the lax methods of many churches in the management and disposition of their properties, when no longer used for religious services. In some instances the members of the churches had forgotten or had not known of the existence of gift mortgages made many years ago. Some church buildings have been moved to other localities; some have been rented to other denominations or for secular purposes, without notification to the Society; and in some cases court proceedings have to be instituted to clear the title and to settle other questions that arise in the disposition of abandoned church properties.

Eleven such church properties have been disposed of and the net proceeds, amounting to $5,066.70 have been sent to the Treasurer of the Society. Great care, of course, is exercised, not to sell any church property, until there is no hope of the resuscitation of the church. It is inevitable that, with the constant removal of church members from the small towns and villages, where foreign speaking peoples are displacing Americans, some of our small churches, which have been efficient in the past, will be unable to maintain services, so that for years to come, special attention will need to be devoted to the recovery of amounts given to these by the Society, and which will become again available for help in other localities.

REPORTS OF GENERAL MISSIONARIES

Arizona

REV. T. F. MC COURTNEY, PHOENIX

THE past year has been a good year. Much has been done, but more has been left undone for lack of funds. Among other things achieved there has come to many of our people an enlarged vision of the great need of evangelization in Arizona, and this is an indication of better things for the future.

Twenty-seven missionaries have been employed under Home Mission Society for part or all the year. (We should have had thirty-seven.) They have reported 1,118 weeks of labor, 2,603 sermons preached, 1,675 prayer meetings held, 5,586 religious visits made, 21,780 pages of tracts distributed, 215 Bibles and Testaments sold, 159 persons baptized, 175 members received otherwise, five churches organized and thirty churches supplied with preaching for all or part time, and twenty out-stations have been supplied partly.

Last year we reported in all 34 churches; we now have 39. Six of them are colored, three are Indian. Total membership last year was 1910; we now have 2,131. We baptized last year 185 and we report this year from all churches 220. This is the largest number of baptisms we have ever reported in one year.

In our White work, we need immediately five or six new men and during the year at least ten men. When our year was half gone, the debt that was accumulating, caused us to readjust our forces and we were compelled to surrender two or three good fields to other denominations and they are now occupied by them. Other fields will have to be surrendered unless we can occupy with a larger force of workers.

There are from 50,000 to 60,000 Mexicans now in Arizona and we have but one mission among them while the Methodists and the Presbyterians have many. We should have two more missions established this year for the Mexicans and it could be done for much less in proportion than it costs to maintain just one.

Among our 40,000 Indians, we have three missions while others have many more than we, especially the Presbyterians. We ought to have another Navajo station this year and our one pastor could care for it while it is being established.

It is now positively announced that Phoenix is to have a through railroad within eighteen months and it is as positively certain that there will be another through line in about the same time or less. Many valleys are being settled with good sturdy people where we should now be planting churches, and it is useless to attempt to do anything permanent in such places unless we are prepared to furnish men to stay with the work. Many permanent mining camps are being established each year and we should have part in that work, too. Our Board will ask many of our older churches to go almost with no help in the interest of new work next year and many of them have already asked for less, voluntary. Yet, not one of them is receiving help where it would seem wise to withhold it. If the Society would give us $1,000 more for Arizona for the new year, it would put us far, on this foundation work. We need many times that, but we ought to have at least the amount named.

Our people have contributed about $4,000 for State missions, $2,500 for other benevolences and about $30,000 for other expenses. We have a deficit of $1,000 and more on our State work this year. We have completed two chapels worth $6,000 and the Society helped with $1,722.23 gift and loaned us $250. We need five new chapels for the new year at a cost of $16,000 and we ought to have $1,500 in gifts and $1,200 or more in loans. One of these chapels is now building.

California, North

REV. C. W. BRINSTAD, BERKELEY

DURING the past year fifty-five missionaries have been supported in co-operation with the American Baptist Home Mission Society. These have labored among the Americans, Chinese, Danes, Finns, Germans, Indians, Lets, Negroes, Norwegians, Russians and Swedes. Among these have been forty-three missionary pastors, five pastors-at-large, two evangelists, four Chinese teachers and one General Missionary. The following statistics may indicate something of the results:

Weeks of labor, 2,195; sermons, 5,300; churches and out-stations served, 120; prayer meetings, 3,240; religious visits, 36,680; received by baptism, 498; by letter and experience, 695; total additions, 1,193.

Local expenses of Mission churches, $40,242.35.

Average per resident member of Mission churches, $22.02; benevolent contributions, $3,702.77; total amount paid jointly by Society and Convention for salary and expenses for missionaries, $18,961.01.

As compared with the thirty-seven State Conventions comprising the Northern Baptist Convention, Northern California stands twenty-first in total membership, sixteenth in total benevolences, fourteenth in current expenses, fourteenth in State Mission offerings, thirteenth in offerings for all missionary purposes, thirteenth in value of church properties, seventh in total number of baptisms on mission fields, fourth in total benevolences by mission churches, third in mission churches and out-stations occupied, and first in nationalities reached by the Gospel through its missionaries. During the past year the following new churches have been recognized: Fresno Memorial, Patterson, Caruthers, Richvale and San Francisco Salem Swedish. Three churches became self-supporting as follows: Arbuckle, Maxwell and Willits. Six church edifices were dedicated as follows: Arbuckle, Arcata, Elmhurst, Fort Bragg, Ordbend, and Richvale.

New York has been undertaken in the so-called netherland region of California, comprising of several hundred thousand acres of redeemed land which is the most fertile in the state. In this section there are now about six hundred miles of diked waterway. There are practically no railroads, and a large number of towns along the river are wholly destitute of the Gospel. There are only six evangelical churches in this part of the state which is destined shortly to be densely populated.

The progress of the work in Northern California since the famous earthquake in 1906 may be indicated in part by the following items. While the population of the state has increased 38 per cent. during this period, Baptist churches in Northern California have increased 36 per cent., pastors, 24 per cent., meeting houses, 49 per cent., parsonages, 63 per cent., total membership, 27 per cent., baptisms, 81 per cent., value of church property, 147 per cent., total local expenses, 77 per cent., contributions for missions, 47 per cent., and average increase of church efficiency, 75 per cent.

California, South

REV. J. F. WATSON, LOS ANGELES

A REVIEW of the development of our Baptist work in Southern California shows steady progress.

During the year 1913, the Southern California Baptist Convention in co-operation with the American Baptist Home Mission Society employed fifty-one general workers, Missionaries and missionary pastors, and in addition to this number, co-operated with the Publication Society and the Woman's Home Mission Society in the support of ten other missionaries and general workers. These workers gave 2,408 weeks of labor, preached 5,194 sermons, made 25,857 religious visits and added 835 to the church membership.

While better stress was put on better organization and church efficiency, the past year was peculiarly one of expansion. The rapid development of several communities forced the Convention to enter fields earlier than it had expected to. During the year eight new churches were organized, eight lots secured and eight buildings erected for Missions and Mission Churches. Three new Mission Stations were opened and four Mission Churches became self-supporting.

The total amount of money spent for mission work in Southern California by the Convention and the co-operating societies in the regular lines of work was larger than ever before. The Home Mission Society appropriated $4,500 for missionary work and $1,000 for edifice work. The Convention raised $14,314 for missionary work and $6,208 for edifice work.

Since the population in Southern California is congregating largely in the cities, City Mission work has become an important factor and during the past five years has made remarkable advances. Separate from the Convention work, but in the closest co-operation with the Convention, the four larger cities expended during the year 1913 more than $20,000 for Mission work in their own borders.

The foreign population is rapidly increasing and calling for special consideration from the Missionary organizations. During the past year the Baptists spent something more than $6,000 in Southern California for Missionary work among the foreign speaking people. The following figures will give a fair idea of the number of foreigners in our midst: It is estimated that there are 40,000 Mexicans, 8,000 French, 7,000 Italians, 5,600 Japanese, 5,000 Scandinavians, 3,000 Chinese, 2,500 Russians, 2,500 Greeks, 1,500 Armenians, with an uncertain number of Hindoos, Koreans and other nationalities. The Baptists have ten missionaries for the Mexicans, two for the Russians, one for the Syrians, one for the Japanese and one for an international station where several nationalities receive some missionary service. The Methodists, Congregationalists and Presbyterians each are rendering about the same service to these foreigners as the Baptists. The United Presbyterians, the Episcopalians, Disciples, Nazarenes and others are doing some work for the foreigners.

A comparison of the statistics of 1904 with 1913 will give a better conception of the growth of Baptist work in Southern California.

In 1904 the seventy Baptist churches, with a membership of 9,000 contributed $4,897 to missionary work, $3,390 to edifice work, and the Home Mission Society appropriated $3,000 to missionary work and $1,000 for edifice work. The missionaries and missionary pastors received into the churches 520 members and all the churches received a total of 1,874.

For the year 1913, there were ninety-six churches with a membership of 18,329. During this year the Convention raised for missionary work $14,314 and for edifice work $6,208. The Home Mission Society appropriated $4,500 for missionary work and $1,000 for edifice work. The Missionaries and Missionary Pastors added to the churches 835 members and all the churches received a total of 3,774 members.

During the ten years thirty-six new churches were organized and eight churches became extinct. The Home Mission Society assisted in the erection of eighteen buildings.

Looking ahead, the present needs and ever-increasing opportunities force us to the conclusion that the task of State Missions is constantly enlarging in Southern California. To keep pace with the rapid growth and to meet our proportion of the responsibilities—and the part accepted is shamefully small—the volume of work and the number of workers must be increased. Particularly is there larger demands for work among the foreigners and in the Edifice Department.

Already five new fields, some of them with a large promise, are requesting assistance in organizing churches and erecting buildings and others will certainly apply before the year 1914 draws to a close.

Colorado

F. B. PALMER, D.D., DENVER.

OUR twenty-fifth anniversary year was characterized by phenomenal prosperity attending all our denominational activities in Colorado. One thousand and forty-nine baptisms were reported during the year, while fully half this number have been reported the first four months of the new Convention year.

Never before has such liberality on the part of our people been known, many of the churches exceeding their apportionment. There has been a wonderful development toward the right kind of pastoral leadership. More and more the pastors are putting emphasis on our great mission undertakings. Evangelism has been the dominant note. It has been a period of deepening conviction that the enterprise in which we are engaged as a Convention is a work worthy of the earnest interest and cordial support of the churches, recognizing that the State Convention is the pivot around which all our denominational interests turn, thereby building up a base of supply from which the entire work is to be evangelized.

Seven new churches were organized and three that had been abandoned were re-constituted. Six churches have assumed self-support and nine receive less aid than formerly. Thirteen new church edifices were erected; some of these are the finest buildings in the community.

The Honor-Roll reveals the fact that the mission churches far excel the self-supporting in the matter of meeting their full apportionment for State Missions. Our expenditures were close to $25,000, including co-operation with the Home Mission Society and Publication Society.

Our work should be more intensive than extensive. Our missionary pastors should be better paid. Fields where we have buildings now abandoned should be revived. More out-stations must be established with the Mission Church as a center. Several fields now receiving full time support should be united with adjacent fields. The Colporters are to be used on small pastorless fields as well as to do itinerary work.

We publish regularly each month in magazine form The Colorado Baptist Bulletin, enjoying a paid circulation of 1,600 subscriptions.

The ever-increasing foreign population is becoming a serious menace and will be one of our chief problems in the near future.

Mid-year Associational Rallies have been held to good purpose, giving more time and a larger place to the discussion of problems within the bounds of the Association.

The work of a Pastor-at-Large has proved very satisfactory, enabling us to care for the pastorless churches until such time as they can be encouraged to settle a pastor.

We are making a special and continuous effort to secure an endowment fund for our Convention work, already we have been able to set aside funds to this end.

The Uzzell Tabernacle, a downtown mission in Denver, has been deeded to our City Mission Society, conveying the property valued at $75,000. We are now the best equipped of any denomination in the Capital City to do first-class City Mission work comprehending evangelism and social service.

A permanent headquarters has been established at 556 Denver Gas and Electric Building. In The Rooms are represented our various denominational interests with a book depository and literature supplies from all the Societies. The Rooms are a popular assembly place for workers not only within the city, but from over the state.

Idaho

REV. W. H. BOWLER, BOISE

COMPARATIVE statistics for almost any term of years will show marked increase in the Baptist work in Idaho. The ten-year period between 1903 and 1913 shows the following increases. Our churches have increased 92 per cent. in number; the increase in Sunday school enrollment has been 125 per cent.; increase in church membership, 175 per cent.; value of church property has increased 243 per cent.; the total raised for local expenses, 325 per cent.; total for missions, 374 per cent.; for State Missions, 590 per cent.

Our growth last year, while not sustaining as high an average as these figures indicate was, nevertheless, marked. Five hundred and twenty-five new members were received; 206 people were baptized; four new churches were organized and four new church edifices were erected.

The American Baptist Home Mission Society has been the most important factor, humanly speaking, in making possible the sustaining of the large volume of work we have been carrying. The Society has given us $6,554.36 to assist in the support of our missionary pastors and field workers and $933.35 as gifts to assist in the erection of church edifices. In addition to this they have made loans to assist in building churches to the amount of $3,450, making a grand total of $10,937.71 which they have spent in Idaho during the year. The workers appointed on the co-operative basis with the Society have reported 1,124 weeks of labor performed. This is equivalent to more than 20 workers giving their full time to the work during the entire year.

Our Convention has been trying in a special way to promote the development of local churches. As a feature of such a policy a Pastors' Institute was promoted and financed by the Convention which lasted four full days and was attended by practically all of our pastors and field workers. Most of our churches have been visited by a team of workers who have conducted a Church Efficiency Conference lasting a day and a half. These Conferences have promoted the idea of each church adopting definite objectives and working to a clearly defined program. Marked developments and improvements are manifest in the experience of several of our churches as a direct result of the Pastors' Institute and Efficiency Conferences.

As we turn our face to the future we are constrained to again make an urgent appeal to the Society to increase its financial help for our Convention. Idaho is increasing in population by leaps and bounds and much more rapidly than the United States as a whole. During the forty years that have elapsed between 1870 and 1910 the population of the United States multiplied 2 1-3 times, while the population of Idaho multiplied nearly 22 times during the same period. During the last census decade the value of farm property increased 353 per cent. The land area of the state is about 54,000,000 acres with only a little over 5,000,000 acres in farms. Enormous developments will undoubtedly take place as the remaining 90 per cent. of land area is brought under farming.

The great problem before us is to see that our religious work keeps pace with the marvellous material growth. For many years to come we must continue to establish Sunday Schools, organize new churches, build meeting houses and constantly increase our force of missionaries. In order to carry on the aggressive work which the material growth of the state demands, and in order to respond to the many urgent demands and opportunities to enter new fields, we must have a decided increase in our financial resources and we see no other significant help in sight other than an increased appropriation from the Home Mission Society.

Kansas

REV. J. T. CRAWFORD, PARSONS

WE have had another year of average general gains in the state. The statistics published in our Annual show that there were 5,325 additions to our churches, of which number 2,799 were by baptism. The net gain in membership was 1,054. Nine new churches were organized, and fifteen new meeting houses dedicated.

In its missionary labors our Convention co-operates with the Associations, the Kansas City Mission Society, the Swedish State Conference, the Negro State Convention, the Publication Society and the Home Mission Society. In these various co-operative labors seventy-eight missionaries were under appointment part or all time. Of this number three were general workers, fifty-eight pastors serving eighty-seven churches and thirty-three out-stations, six associational missionaries, one city missionary superintendent, one special stewardship worker, two chapel car workers, five colporters, and one engaged in evangelistic labors. These rendered 2,780 weeks of service, delivered 8,055 sermons and addresses, made 26,013 religious visits, reported 637 baptisms and 611 additions to the churches by letter and relation. Six of the new churches were organized by these workers, and eight of the new houses were dedicated on mission fields.

The American Baptist Home Mission Society has been a prime factor in fostering Baptist work in Kansas. For nearly two-thirds of a century it has rendered efficient service in its varied forms of helpful co-operation. Out of justice to newer fields and to our own forces its pro rata of aid has been gradually reduced. From April 1, 1913, to April 1, 1914, its appropriation for missionary work in the state was $1,500. With this help, according to our plans of co-operation, the Society shared in the support of about one-half of our missionary workers. In the Church Edifice Department the Society, in the course of years has aided almost one hundred and fifty of our churches by gifts and loans. During the past year the help has been $200 in the form of a gift.

For this long-continued fostering assistance of the Society, its splendid spirit in the plans of co-operation, and the excellent counsel and fellowship of its representatives among us, our Convention and our people repeatedly express sincere appreciation.

Our mission problems in the state deal with a more homogeneous population than is found in many states. We are an agricultural people, with the modern trend to the towns and cities. Apart from our largest city and a small territory in the mining section we have but little increase in foreign-speaking communities. Our problems are to cultivate the spirit of earnest co-operation, rally many weak and discouraged churches, assist them in renewed, aggressive effort in their localities, enter a few new fields, and link up the denomination for loyal and efficient service along many and varied lines. We are not as successful in many of these labors as we would like to be; but we have the encouragement of definite progress in some particulars and of gradual advance in general throughout the state.

REV. E. R. POPE, MINNEAPOLIS.

DURING the year closing March 31, 1914, 71 men have been under appointment; 57 of these were missionary pastors, 5 students, and 9 general workers. The pastors and students served 65 churches and 45 out-stations, and the general workers gave more or less service to 125 other churches, so that at least 73 per cent. of all the churches in the state were helped directly by the Convention's workers. The activity of the general workers may be seen when it is known that their travel covered nearly 100,000 miles. The membership of the mission churches is 2,599 or 10.2 per cent. of the entire Baptist membership of the state; the Sunday schools connected with these churches enroll 3,885 members. The congregations averaged 3,172 in attendance and the Sunday schools 2,743.

Some results may be seen in 6 new fields occupied, in 5 new Sunday schools started, in the reception of 409 new members, 309 of whom were baptized. These churches raised $37,120.21 for all purposes, $4,613.91 being for benevolence. Three churches became self-sustaining during the year, and six new churches were assisted; four buildings were dedicated, and six are now under erection.

In financial lines, the State Convention year was a good one. By special effort an extra $3,000 was secured, caring for nearly all the accumulated deficit; the demands for work are very heavy and the state mission work needs to be enlarged in many directions. Among the immigrants of the year nearly one-third came from southern and eastern Europe; in numbers they were not so very many, but it is an indication of what will probably soon come with the increase in iron mining and the opening of the Steel Plant. We should be prepared to meet the situation when it arises in its fulness.

Some perplexing questions must soon be faced—perhaps a half dozen of the assisted churches and a score or more of unassisted ones must speedily be heavily reinforced or their abandonment is not far distant. The matter of comity is often critical; it appears to be frequently violated, usually to our injury. Connected with this there are problems of church federation, of associated membership, etc., upon which Baptists must speedily take some well-defined and defensible position.

The unity of Baptist work in our state is most gratifying. The relationship sustained by the Scandinavian and English churches is close and intimate, and the progress of all the work has been greatly promoted thereby.

On the whole the past year has been above the average in work and development, and the outlook for the coming year is favorable for advance.

Montana

REV. THOS. STEPHENSON, HELENA

DURING the year four new churches have been organized, one new church edifice erected in Lewistown, a city growing very fast in the famous Judith Basin. The rich and fertile soil covering a large area has given Lewistown a national reputation. We have built a large new addition to our small building in Eureka, making the edifice one of the best equipped for work in the county at a cost of between $4,000 and $5,000. In addition, we aided the First Baptist Church in Butte to pay their interest, with the understanding that the burdensome debt should be reduced this year which has been done, we contributed $500 to Butte, $300 to Eureka and $800 to Lewistown. We also made a loan of $300 to Eureka.

During the year 23 missionaries have been employed for all or part of the year, they have cared for 26 churches or missions and preached regularly at 8 out-stations. We have organized four new churches and 8 Sunday schools where we have preaching when possible. We have one man just entering the Peck's Reservation to meet the incoming settlers and we need another. Peck's Reservation has opened up 1,223,850 acres of land for settlement May 1st, 1914. The Milk River Irrigation Scheme will water from 250,000 to 350,000 acres of rich farming land, which will be sold as soon as the ditches and reservoir are complete, the reservoir will be twenty miles at the base. The needs this year will tax us to the limit of our ability.

We have just engaged a state Evangelist to begin work April 1st, this expense with a district missionary to look after Peck's Reservation, will call for larger giving and more aggressive work in Montana.

The Colporteurs during this peculiar change in Montana renders a valuable service to the State Convention, five consecrated men are at work in different sections of the state, organizing Sunday school and canvassing the new territory.

The new territory opening up in our state has changed our population and many of our churches have suffered on account of both women and men going to other parts of the state to use their rights in taking up homesteads. The homesteader does not receive an income until he has ploughed the land, bought machinery, built houses and barns, this makes it almost impossible for him to send money to the church or give very much to a new interest developed in the new section.

Nebraska

REV. FRED BERRY, LINCOLN

DURING the year just closing our Baptist forces have taken on new courage and seem to have a larger outlook for the work in their own state. We have been able to secure pastors of high standard who are accomplishing splendid things in their fields. In spite of the fact of many obstacles, our people are finding that when they put forth faithful efforts there is a response and almost the impossible has been accomplished in many places. More than one hundred series of evangelistic meetings have been held with the largest response in recent years and a very positive evangelistic spirit seems to prevail in our fields.

The State Convention held in Lincoln last fall was of exceptional interest.

Six excellent new church buildings have been dedicated during the year. We have employed twenty-seven missionaries, two pastors-at-large and one Danish missionary. The reports by these different workers show faithful service and good results. Many churches that were discouraged have been led to hope and accomplish large things in the kingdom. Our pastors-at-large have been engaged in assisting churches that were closed, many of them pastorless and discouraged. Some had been closed for a long time. Eleven of these different fields have been encouraged and the most of them now have pastors. Our total increase by baptism, letter and restoration was 1,735. Our decrease by death, letter and exclusion was 1,191, making a net gain of 544.

We are glad to notice the educational advantages in the Unified Beneficence plan. Many of our churches are getting the habit of looking after the missionary offerings, and considering this a part of their religious duty. The plan is becoming more simplified, since there is one office to which we may send nearly all our benevolence money, and there is less confusion than in former days. We feel keenly the need of much more money for the crying needs of our state. Until last year we have been able to report about five thousand dollars offerings from the churches for State Convention work. We were able to improve on that about six hundred dollars during the last year. Our brethren have felt the necessity of a greater forward movement in order that Nebraska may do her share in the work of evangelizing the world. Nebraska is very largely a mission state. The work in the new settlements and in the older fields must be pushed.

Nevada

REV. GEO. N. GARDNER, RENO

THE Nevada-Sierra Baptist Convention includes all of the State of Nevada, seven whole counties and a portion of three more in California, comprising an area of more than 130,000 square miles. It is almost purely a missionary field and difficult on account of far separated towns and cities. Pioneer life and absence of religious influence has produced a generation of people hard to reach with the Gospel; but we find a hearty response in the growing generation, out of whom, with proper training, we look for an excellent corps of workers. The training is rendered difficult as each pastor has an area larger than the entire State of Massachusetts with a population of more than ten thousand people.

With our limited men and means we are branching out as rapidly as possible and have adopted the policy, so far as possible, of thoroughly establishing one point at a time, as past experience has taught us that it is unwise to start a church and leave it to survive or perish—quite often to perish.

The co-operative expenses with the Home Mission Society have been $5,500 for missionary purposes and $1,850 for edifice work (including Susanville, where a grant of $1,050 has been made and will apply on the year's accounts). Non-co-operative expenses, about $100.

Exclusive of the general missionaries, ten missionaries have served all or a part of the time and report 397 weeks of service, 3,382 calls, 1,022 sermons and 30 baptisms.

During the year there has been a spiritual awakening in the Honey Lake Valley at Susanville and Janesville. This has been considered one of our most difficult sections.

At Susanville, the County seat, a church edifice costing a little less than $5,000 has been erected which will give us a decided advantage, as one former problem has been a place for worship. Ten baptisms are reported by the pastor.

A church at Janesville in the same valley has been re-organized during the year with a membership of about 30 and at a special series of meetings during the winter some 20 more decided to unite—12 by baptism.

The edifice in Elko, begun one year ago, has been completed and was dedicated in December, 1913. The cost was about $7,000, exclusive of lots, which were donated. A gift of $800 from the Society from the previous year's appropriation, and a loan of $500 was made to this church.

Fallon Church has enjoyed a gracious revival which resulted in receiving 14 by baptism and 21 otherwise, nearly doubling the membership of the church. This increase does not add largely to the financial strength of the church as nearly all are from families, a part of which was already in the church.

Both at Wabuska and Imlay the churches have disbanded. The few remaining members at Imlay have moved to Winnemucca and united.

At Tonapah, a city of 6,000, we have a good church edifice, but have held only two services during the year, as we are financially unable to place a man there.

All work at present we believe to be permanent and promising. Conditions prevent our making the rapid strides reported in some western fields; but if we learn to "endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ," and carry out the spirit of the Great Commission, we believe the end will justify the means.

All churches except Tonapah and Winnemucca report apportionments paid or provided for. Some have exceeded their apportionments but all special efforts in finances have been concentrated on building enterprises.

With sincere appreciation to the Home Mission Society for the continuation of such generous support, and above all to our Lord and Master for His loving kindness and tender mercy through the year, this report is humbly submitted.

Oklahoma

J. C. STALCUP, OKLAHOMA CITY

IN making this report, following the custom which I have observed for several years, the statistics which I shall give are taken from the annual report of our fiscal year ending October 31, 1913, instead of the end of the year of the Northern Baptist Convention, for the reason that it is difficult to gather and tabulate statistics from the middle of our Conventional year.

In our work in Oklahoma we are coming to realize more and more the superlative importance of enlisting all of our forces and training and developing them for service, and providing them with suitable and adequate houses of worship. I do not mean by this that the importance of doing evangelistic work is minimized or neglected; we shall continue to emphasize this and to prosecute that kind of work with increased vigor, but while doing this we are recognizing, perhaps as never before, the importance of enlistment, training, and building meeting houses with a view of making our work permanent and stable, at home, and a stronger force in world-wide conquest. In my judgment our two supreme needs, in Oklahoma, are the enlistment and training of our forces, with adequate houses of worship; and capable leaders, who feel keenly the responsibility of leadership. Our one great need back of these things, for improvement in Oklahoma, is a great, thoroughly equipped denominational college, standing as a center of missionary power and influence. Without this we can scarcely hope to have an adequate ministry, for it seems well nigh impossible to obtain just the character of leaders we need from other states. The two great questions before our churches, during the last year or two, which have called for more than human wisdom, are Christian education and alignment. The atmosphere appears to be clearing, somewhat, upon both of these questions, and when both have been settled, if settled right, denominational interests in general will be taken care of in a more adequate and substantial way than is possible while these questions are agitating our people.

The campaign for Home and Foreign Missions, which has the right of way before our churches, under our adopted schedule, during the months of March and April, is now on, and I am hoping for good results, notwithstanding the depressed financial conditions obtaining over the country, and in spite of the fact that nearly all of our larger churches are heavily burdened with local debts, caused by building better meeting houses. All things considered, our work, in the main, is in good condition and the outlook hopeful.

During our Conventional year ending October 31, 1913, we had in our employ, for part or all of the year, seven general workers, whose salaries were paid in full by our co-operative work, eleven Indian preachers, twenty-six associational missionaries and one hundred and eighty-three pastors, whose salaries were liberally supplemented in the same way. These workers reported:

Weeks of labor.....	8,532
Churches supplied	281
Out-stations supplied	143
Prayer meetings	6,097
Religious visits	33,872
Sermons preached	23,853
Persons received by baptism.....	3,522
Persons received by letter.....	3,109
Total additions	6,631

For all of which, "We thank God and take courage."

In addition to this the Home Mission Society assisted in building meeting houses at Westville, Haskell, Pryor, Liberty Hill, Durwood, Indian and Mountain View, by gifts amounting in the aggregate to $1,000.

I close this report with a quotation from the last annual report of the Executive Board of this state to the State Convention, to wit: "In closing this report we wish to publicly express our very high appreciation of the time and generous assistance given us by the various Boards and Societies of both of the National Conventions. We rejoice that our churches over the state, in every substantial way last spring, showed their appreciation, by enlarged offerings for the work of these Boards and Societies."

Oregon

REV. O. C. WRIGHT, PORTLAND

THE past year has been marked by a substantial progress in reducing the large indebtedness, in addition to financing the regular work of the Convention. The churches have responded by the largest offering for State Missions and more quarterly remittances than any previous time in the Convention's history. The Every Member Canvass Campaign has proven generally successful, and continues with encouraging results. With the exception of six missionary churches, the marked reduction in appropriations at the beginning of the year was acceptable, and therefore indicates a substantial gain towards self-support.

The business of the Convention shows an expenditure of $25,740. Forty-two missionaries have labored practically the entire year, who baptized 230 persons and received otherwise 279 into the churches. All of the churches report 707 baptisms, so that the work of the missionaries represents one-third of the baptisms in the state. Six churches have been organized; three meeting houses dedicated; and $1,575 more than the $9,113 received from the Home Mission Society, was raised in the state for our own work.

Membership	7,777	14,000
Value of property.....	$365,715	$804,855
Gave for State Missions.....	4,082	10,688
For all benevolences	6,788	31,658
For current expenses.....	37,021	100,139

The churches raised for State Missions during this period, $79,311; baptized 8,828 persons; have increased from $1.25 to $2.75 per capita for benevolences; and from $6.85 to $8.75 per resident member for current expenses; and a gain from $10.84 to $11.50 for all contributions per resident member.

The three outstanding problems are: (1) the great destitution of our rural communities, 70 per cent. of which have neither Sunday school nor preaching services by any denomination; while the small country church is usually so far removed from any other country church as to make a missionary circuit usually difficult and frequently impossible. (2) The creation of new mission fields through the influx of new settlers and the development of new industries: either means an enlargement of Convention resources or the neglect of these new fields or the abandonment of worthy mission fields now occupied. (3) The increasingly perplexing problem of the foreigner. Twenty-three per cent. of the population to-day is foreign born, and every nationality on the globe is represented. In the main, the foreigner is scattered, making community work difficult in many instances. However, in Portland, Astoria, and other large towns, as well as in our rural communities, the time is ripe for aggressive work among the foreign speaking peoples. The opening of the Panama Canal promises to intensify our perplexity. Baptists have five Swedish churches, seven German, one Norwegian, a Chinese Mission, and last year through the generosity of the Society and Portland Baptists, purchased a splendid building for the Italian work. Other Protestant denominations have three Swedish churches, twenty-three German, four Norwegian-Danish, two Welsh, two Finnish, two Chinese, and one Indian church, and maintain two Japanese Missions, one Greek and one Italian Mission. Oregon Protestants are not in any adequate manner meeting the demands of the foreign speaking peoples.

The work for the coming year provides for the usual missionary program, the continuation of the Every Member Canvass Campaign, emphasis upon evangelism, the grouping of rural churches about a stronger center, the establishment of preaching stations under the watch-care of churches, rather than the organization of weak churches in small communities; providing for associational missionaries as far as possible, and the holding of Efficiency Institutes throughout the year, but immediately conducting an Efficiency Institute Day at all of the associations, and the continual insistence on the development of the latent forces already within our churches. With the coming of great industrial developments, we are praying also for a great spiritual awakening.

WE have in South Dakota a population of about 600,000 and there are 1,798 church organizations, with 161,961 church members. Of these, 199 churches, with 61,014 members are Catholic; 505 churches with 45,018 members are Lutheran, while in the other denominations working in the state, there are 1,094 churches with 55,929 members. This means that there are more than 400,000, or over two-thirds of our population unchurched. A further analysis of the situation reveals the fact that there are only 80,140 Sunday school officers, teachers and scholars, or about one-seventh of our population interested in the Sunday school. Then, too, we discover that while it is true that some of our villages have been over-churched (these cases have been greatly exaggerated) many villages and towns—some of them good railroad towns—have no regular religious services, while many more have no Protestant services. These conditions must be changed. How shall we labor so that we may take the state for Christ?

During the year three new church buildings have been dedicated and three have been re-modeled; and three parsonages have been secured. New work has been opened up in five out-stations where as yet it has not seemed wise to organize, while mission work has been undertaken in what is known as West Sioux Falls and also on the east side of the river in Sioux Falls.

During the year we received by baptism 428 persons and 342 otherwise, making a total of 770 members received. We have lost by letter 305, by exclusion and erasure, 239 and by death, 46, making a total loss of 590, thus giving us a net gain of 180. We have at the present time a total membership of 7,744, with church property valued at $480,511. We gave for current expenses during the year, $85,607.94 and for missions, $16,047.77. The total amount expended by our churches was $101,655.71. In view of the continued crop failure in many sections of the state, we think these figures are very gratifying.

Forty-eight missionaries were under appointment during the year. They have served 74 churches and out-stations. These missionaries have also had charge of 57 Sunday schools and have organized seven new Sunday schools.

We thank God that in certain portions of the state large crops have been harvested and the evidences of prosperity have been marked, but in many sections there has been another partial or almost complete crop failure this year and we are reminded of the fact that in many of these sections this is the third, and in some cases, the fourth consecutive crop failure. In most cases our people have been exceedingly heroic and have given and done for the work of the Kingdom far beyond what we could naturally expect. The pastors in these districts are doing splendid work, in the real missionary spirit.

The work in general throughout the state is in a very hopeful condition and there is every prospect of a good year just ahead of us. One of the plans which we are just now trying to work out is the grouping of from three to six points into one parish under the leadership of a good, strong pastor. We hope to establish at least two circuits of this kind this spring.

Utah

REV. W. H. BOWLER, BOISE, IDAHO

ON account of the strength of Mormonism in Utah, it is unreasonable, from a human standpoint, to expect the same encouraging developments in religious work here that are realized in other states, and yet as we review the work of the past year we find sufficient cause for lifting our hearts in gratitude for His abundant mercies and goodness, for there have been some encouraging evidences of progress and growth. A new church was organized out of the Lincoln Street Mission, Salt Lake City, and this will doubtless result in strengthening Baptist work in that section of the city. Developments of a very encouraging and satisfactory nature have taken place in our work at Moab, an agricultural town 35 miles from the railroad in a section of the state which is intensely Mormon, and the developments of the year in connection with this field demonstrates what can be done in Utah under wise and aggressive leadership. In this church there have been eleven baptisms, the membership has been doubled and $50 have been contributed for missions, an average of $2 per member, against nothing during the preceding year. This is an excellent record for a church in the heart of a Mormon stronghold. The statistics for the state show that 165 new members were received during the year and that there were 59 baptisms. The net gain in membership was 100. If this record could be sustained for a number of years, we should consider that we were making remarkable progress in Utah. During the year eight men have been commissioned in co-operation with the Home Mission Society. These men have reported 292 weeks of labor, 489 sermons preached, 334 prayer and other meetings held, 1,363 religious visits made, 12 baptisms, 33 received by letter and experience.

Religious conditions in Utah, owing to the dominant influence of Mormonism, are such on practically all the fields we are occupying that it is impossible to keep the fields supplied with pastors unless the Home Mission Society is able to make large appropriations for these respective fields. The present appropriation from the Home Mission Society for Utah makes it possible to sustain men on a limited number of fields only; and three or four most important and promising fields in which we have valuable properties have been without pastors during the entire year. One of these places is Provo, a city of 10,000 population in which there are many prominent and influential non-Mormon business firms. Another one is Tremonton, a rapidly growing town surrounded by a splendid farming country and the population is increasing in gentile percentage; still another is Murray, where there is a handful of most loyal Baptists and a large number of non-churchgoers waiting for us to minister to them. By all means these fields should be immediately occupied.

We should not submit to withdrawal from fields and retrenchment. We are now too near the stage where we are going to realize on the investments already made to think of abandoning any work. A calm, sober study of the Utah situation will convince any one that there are exceedingly difficult problems to be solved and that developments must of necessity be slow for some time to come but at the same time sufficient encouragements are discovered to stimulate us to hard and persistent work. The dominant influence of Mormon leaders is losing its power on the rising generation and the development of the marvellous natural resources of the state is bringing in an increasing number of non-Mormons.

In the face of such circumstances, we must not be satisfied merely to hold what we have but we must engage in an aggressive campaign to enlarge our work. Needy and promising new fields are now calling us to come and occupy them. If we are to adopt a program which contemplates simply holding what we have, it is imperative that we must have a larger appropriation from the Home Mission Society than we are now receiving and if the Society can but give us sufficient increased aid to enable us to adequately develop the fields which we have already entered, we believe the Baptists of the state would arise to the situation of providing the funds for occupying new fields. The Baptists of Utah stand ready to present a united front for such an undertaking. Beyond doubt a brighter day has already dawned for Baptist work in Utah.

Western Washington

REV. JOSEPH H. BEAVEN, SEATTLE

ON account of debt incurred through the anticipation of funds which conditions proved could not be realized, "Retrenchment" had to be the order of the first half of the year. At our State Convention in October, the churches authorized the Board to make considerable enlargement and directed that a vigorous attempt be made to meet the real need of churches already established, since one-third of them were pastorless. We, therefore, increased the number of workers under the joint appointment of the Home Mission Society and the Convention from twenty-six to thirty-four, and the number of churches aided from twenty-five to thirty-eight, with nine out-stations regularly cared for, besides enlisting pastors of self-supporting churches to care for several others. We were able also, by the use of a general worker, to get five churches to carry on such work as could be done with what support they were themselves able to give.

Effort was made at the Associations to enlist our pastors in the conduct of a special evangelistic campaign, having before them as an object, "at least two weeks meeting in every Baptist church building in Western Washington." This has been honestly attempted and from reports from the missionaries a much larger number of baptisms are recorded than last year; and our churches are in a much more healthy condition. During the last six months, 122 have been received into our mission churches by baptism.

Several of our churches have before them the necessity of erecting new edifices and are heroically looking into the situation with a view to meeting it. While there can be no haste made on account of the financial situation (the leading business is that of lumber and logging, together with the shingle industry, and this business has been thoroughly demoralized for various reasons), yet they are desirous of being ready as soon as it is wise to begin a building.

Local conditions have made it imperative, however, that we shall do something heroic in our Oriental work, or else abandon it. Since we began the work and are pioneers in it, and, therefore, best established and able to do the work, it has seemed that the only thing to do was to undertake an advance. A first installment has been made on the purchase price of $22,500 on two lots in the vicinity of the Chinese and Japanese quarters in Seattle. The complete outlay for this work will not be less than $100,000. The building will be provided with chapel, classrooms, gymnasium, library, reading room, baths and dormitories. The intention is to provide such a plan as will attract and appeal to an Oriental when first reaching this country and immediately surround him with good Christian influences. The largest part of the money for this equipment must come from such friends all over our country who are interested in the welfare of these people and can appreciate the effect of such work in a strategic city in the home-land on the mission enterprises of our foreign missions.

Our work among the foreign population leads that of other denominations, yet there are left untouched several nationalities and our duty to care for such has been emphasized by the coming of two distinct colonies of farmers and dairymen, one from Switzerland and the other from Russia, while inquiries and preparations to care for immigrants are surpassing very materially that of any other past years.

Contiguous to and dependent on the oversight and efforts of this Convention is the territory of Alaska, which will very speedily open up to our energies. We ought to be prospecting and doing some preparatory work now.

In a survey of work already begun and where help must be given, we find nine churches have good houses, a good start in membership, and can furnish material help to sustain a pastor. There are several other places where we shall have to begin over on account of the prolonged period of neglect.

Yet at the same time, as these places are calling for and needing help, the Convention has expended a larger amount of funds in direct missionary aid than at any previous year, and there is an increasing number of places where there ought to be a work opened and pushed with efficiency, places where we have a good constituency but no house of worship, but we are now at an outlay exceeding some thousands more than before and unless the aid from the Society can be increased, we must leave these places to suffer.

Wyoming

J. F. BLODGETT, CASPER

AT the State Convention last fall, Evangelism had a prominent place. The promotion of this phase of the work was placed in the hands of the Executive Committee, with the General Missionary as chairman. By every means co-operation was sought. Meetings were held in as many prominent places as possible, some of these took the form of union meetings—with blessings for all denominations. Another form was a missionary tour by two brethren, some of the preaching being in school houses. Weak and sometimes dying interests have been revived; live churches have been strengthened, in one instance a new organization resulting. Everywhere there have been conversions and baptisms. Particularly interesting were the services at Gebo, a coal mining camp, where the master mechanic of the mine was converted; and where also was discovered a devout Baptist Hungarian family.

We wish we might have a State Evangelist: he is much needed: many times the General Missionary wished he was five men, instead of one—for there were five places simultaneously needing his services.

We have many pastorless fields in Greybull Valley and Shell. Greybull Valley is 90 miles long, with some 200,000 acres of land under ditches. For years we have been solely responsible for evangelistic teaching in this region—having to compete with Mormonism and the world. We need a strong man, on a good salary, with a Ford runabout, to cover this field—in all this field only one place where there is any other evangelistic interest. Evanston is a pastorless town of some 3,000 people; moreover is a Union Pacific Railroad town, where there promises to be further development. We expect to have a student pastor there this summer. There are seven prominent pastorless fields: to properly man them, about $10,000 is needed from the Home Mission Society.

Porto Rico

A. B. RUDD, D.D., SUPERINTENDENT, RIO PIEDRAS

THE Porto Rican Mission at the close of its 15th year reports progress, and respectfully asks "to be continued." It is far more interesting to have taken part in the work of the year than to report it. The former was thrillingly interesting; the latter seems excessively tame.

General View.

The island has welcomed during the year a new Governor, Dr. Arthur Yager, a Baptist, and formerly President of Georgetown College, Kentucky. He is a man of positive Christian character and clear cut convictions as to complete separation of church and state, two things that ought to tell in the future development of our island.

Misses Bischoff and Huber, last year's graduates of the Chicago training school, have been added to our force during the year, locating in San Juan, and are vigorously taking hold of the work. Our churches are shepherded by Porto Rican pastors; the six ladies are distributed in three of the four districts into which the mission is divided. Four of the six other American workers are district missionaries, leaving one for the school and another for the work of general missionary.

General Missionary.

Our district missionaries give the following glimpses of their several fields:

San Juan District:

The sixteen churches of this district are manned by four settled and six student pastors. Rev. F. P. Freeman says: "The missionary of the district, in addition to the usual district work, is teaching six hours weekly in our seminary, and conducting an English service on Sunday mornings, in Rio Piedras, the seat of the Island University, where the congregations are not large, but increasing both in numbers and in interest. . . . The completion of the beautiful and commodious chapel at Carolina will mean the beginning of a new epoch for our mission in that city. Mameyes, Rio Grande, and Loiza, are towns where our churches cannot be expected to develop to any appreciable extent, until the undesirable rented quarters can be supplanted by chapels sufficiently large to contain the congregations"

Caguas-Cayey District:

Rev. E. L. Humphrey calls attention to the pressing need of a chapel in San Lorenzo, a town of some 3,000 inhabitants, and then adds: "I must repeat what I have said a number of times in the annual report: viz., that our work is winning more and more the respect of the people outside of our churches. The number of our friends increases from year to year."

Barranquitas District (formerly known as the Coamo District):

Rev. G. A. Riggs says: "Though there have been a goodly number of baptisms and signs of spiritual growth along various lines, the most hopeful sign on my field for the past year has been in the increased recognition of financial responsibility. In one of the churches all members receiving a regular wage voted almost a year ago to give 5 per cent. of their income to the work of the Lord. They did that, and recently they decided to raise it to 6 per cent. They have definitely planned to come up to 10 per cent.

"There are two great needs in this central part of the island. The one, which has been constant for a number of years, is that of cheap houses of worship for our country congregations. The other is that of a Christian physician. Large parts of the country are almost not touched at all by medical men of any kind. . . . If a good physician, fully consecrated to the Lord, could be placed in one of these towns of the interior, from which he could touch the surrounding country districts, he could do a world of good to bodies, minds and souls. Though his medical practice would probably sustain him after the first or second year, yet it would be desirable that he be definitely and permanently connected with the Home Mission Society."

This district from month to month leads all others in its per capita contributions. Brother Riggs' call for a Christian physician for the hill country should not pass unheeded. $1,000 a year for the next two years would meet this urgent need and set on foot an enterprise which would be far-reaching in the years to come. A well-equipped Baptist physician with two years of experience on the island is already here and could take up this work July 1st. Who will respond to this call?

Ponce District:

Rev. C. S. Detweiler writes:— "Our work on the Ponce District has been steady and settled in its ways. The people at large are accustomed to our presence and this compels us to bestir ourselves in order to win their attention and interest. In earlier days they came to us; now we must go to them. We must learn to use more aggressive methods, and lead our pastors in evangelistic preaching and personal work for souls.

"Our most encouraging centre has been Ponce. Both the Ponce and the Playa churches expect to have their buildings enlarged, the Sunday schools having outgrown their present accommodations. In the Playa we frequently have as many as 125 on a Sunday morning, and in Ponce we are not far from an attendance of 300. In Ponce we also rejoice over some good conversions from time to time. Here is a church, well-grounded in the truth of the Gospel, with a steady attendance, with a good building well located, that is in a condition to do a continuous soul-saving work. In a large centre like Ponce new people are ever moving in, and it is a matter of rejoicing that we are well equipped here to minister to them spiritually.

"The Ponce church has just finished collecting sufficient money to build a small frame chapel at one of our out-stations nearby. The Corral Viejo church, one of our stronger country congregations, has just finished building at their own expense an addition to their church for Sunday school purposes. In one thing I feel that we are making a very definite gain, and that is in the grace of giving."

Rev. Juan R. Cepero, pastor of our oldest church, editor of our Baptist paper, "El Evangelista," and teacher of Sunday school Methods in our training school, says: "There are some undeniable facts that indicate at once that the work progresses, and progresses rapidly. But notwithstanding the great success already attained, and the fruit garnered in the past, we must not relax our efforts. The representative classes of our society do not like the Gospel. Many of the young people of both sexes, especially those who come out in crowds from our High Schools, are going into the ranks of Romanism, Spiritualism, of Theosophy, or remain in a state of religious indifference, or perhaps of materialism. The Roman Church has not known how to put herself on the side of the people to help them work out their problems of different kinds, opening to them her heart, and thus showing them that she is in thorough sympathy with them, and the people have come to believe that the church is behind the times and can give nothing to society. There is danger that they place our Protestant organizations on a parallel with the Roman Church, as only an agency to perform baptisms and funerals.

"In politics a radical party has sprung up with the motto and name of 'La Independencia'. Through the intervention of the Roman Church political questions have gotten to be religious questions; that is, politics envelops the church like a whirlwind. This adds to the difficulties of the situation."

A review of the year would be incomplete without mention of the visit in January of Mrs. Katherine S. Westfall, secretary of the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society. Evidently she found much to interest and encourage her as she came into the fields and homes of the consecrated workers of her society, and saw how their efficient labors were being blest. This, her first visit, was a pleasure and a help to us all, and we are hopeful that it may mean an additional worker for us in the near future.

Self Help.

This is the watch-word of the Baptist Mission. Our pastors and churches and the entire mission are studying this question which is regarded as fundamental. "Self-support, a supreme necessity, and how to get it" is a subject on the program for our Bible Institute which is to be held in April, and to its consideration much time is to be given. During this, more than any previous year, this idea has gained ground. Three country chapels have been built largely with contributions raised on the field, funds are in hand for another, and two churches have contributed liberally towards enlarging their houses. Most of our churches are contributing a fixed monthly sum towards their pastors' salaries, and seeking to increase it from year to year. An associational missionary is sustained in full, and with an almost negligible exception our Baptist paper is supported by the churches. Our missionary budget for the next year has been reduced by $1,000 and it is earnestly hoped that this rate of reduction can be maintained. These steps along the path of self-help have been taken in the face of great business depression which now prevails, and which is likely to be intensified during the next year.

Wider Vision.

Our Baptist folk are already looking beyond their own borders. Santo Domingo, with her great spiritual needs appeals to them. The writer had the honor during the year of visiting Santo Domingo at the expense of the native churches in company with Rev. Ramon Velez Lopez as a special committee for the purpose of studying conditions and opening the way for mission work to be directed and maintained conjointly with the Cuban churches. This broadening of the spiritual vision is a hopeful sign, and means quickened life on the part of our churches.

Our Training School, "Grace Conaway Institute."

Rev. P. D. Woods, principal, says: "In September we again began our sessions in the rooms of the Rio Piedras church. The Biblical classes of the year have been under the direction of Dr. A. B. Rudd, Rev. F. P. Freeman and Rev. Juan R. Cepero and Rev. P. D. Woods. A graduate of last year's Normal class, Mr. Fernando Miura, has had charge of the academic work:

"Five new students entered, one holding a Normal diploma, and the four others, eighth grade certificates, so that they can pursue their academic studies at the University High School.

"We have this year thirteen students. Of those, nine have charge of some church, leaving Rio Piedras on Friday afternoon and returning on Monday morning. Although under such conditions the best results cannot be attained, yet, the amount of work done, and the good accomplished have been very marked in nearly every case.

"Three students who have been with us in former years have finished the work assigned by correspondence. These, together with several who finish their work in May, will be the first to receive their diplomas from the 'Grace Conaway Institute.'

"After another year it will probably be unnecessary for us to give academic classes in our classrooms. Our whole thought can then be centered on the Biblical work.

"Our outlook, therefore, is much brighter than it has ever been in the past. Our new building, the gift of kind friends who believe in Christian education, centralizes our work. It gives us suitable quarters in which to carry on this important enterprise."

Work on the Grace Conaway Institute is nearing completion. The Baptist Mission of Porto Rico is profoundly grateful to the donors, whose liberal gifts have made possible this splendid edifice.

The 15th year of the Baptist Mission of Porto Rico has gone down in history. Its record, humble though it be, is a part of the Coming of the Kingdom. Every man and woman of the mission has contributed something towards the actual results of the year. Unitedly we give the praise to Him of whose "government and peace there shall be no end."

Eastern Cuba

REV. A. B. HOWELL, SUPERINTENDENT, GUANTANAMO.

IN many ways the year 1913-14 has been the most remarkable in the history of the mission. It is the fifteenth year of its establishment and has just held its tenth Convention at Ciego de Avila.

The former Superintendent having retired from the work, your Board of Managers have placed on me the heavy responsibility of caring for this great work. I accept this task in the name of Him whom I serve, trusting in His strength and wisdom and the hearty co-operation of the Society.

The presence of Dr. C. L. White at all the sessions of our Convention, and his words of encouragement and advice in the solution of the many problems which confront us in the work, was greatly appreciated and served to bring the Convention into more intimate relation with the Society. So evident were the beneficent results of his visit, that the Convention unaimously voted to send the following letter to the Board.

"The Convention of Baptist churches of Eastern Cuba, meeting in the city of Ciego de Avila, Cuba, on the 7th, 8th and 9th of April, 1914, desires to express its gratitude to the Board of The American Baptist Home Mission Society of North America for its interest in the welfare of this Convention and the Cuban churches; shown in the coming of Dr. C. L. White and his presence at this our Tenth Annual Convention.

"We also rejoice to know that it is his purpose to visit the different churches of our Convention, in order that he may become more intimately acquainted with them.

"We also wish to say that this tenth Convention has been the most harmonious, and spiritual in its history, due in a great part, to the presence of Dr. White in all its sessions and because of the spirit of love and Christian fellowship.

"Therefore, this Convention respectfully asks that it be granted the pleasure of having Dr. White, or some other representative of that Board in its future Conventions, having seen the beneficent results of his present visit."

Evangelistic Work.

The Evangelistic work of the Convention is almost entirely in the hands of Rev. Fred J. Peters, who is also pastor of the Bayamo Church. He gives one-half of his time to this work. He has had some remarkable meetings this year and the spiritual growth of the churches is manifest. There has never been such a deep conviction of sin and intensity of prayer. This is due partly to the religious teaching in our Sunday schools and day schools which furnishes a basis of appeal. Mr. Peters is finding, in our young people a prepared soil in which to plant the seed of gospel truth.

Self-support.

Our churches are steadily moving forward in the matter of self-support. The increase this year is over $325 towards pastors' salaries, while for all purposes there has been collected by the churches of the Convention over $5,000. The contribution of the churches for the Cuban Budget of The American Baptist Home Mission Society reached this year $1,330.41 and we are expecting next year that we will raise $1,500.

Foreign Mission Work.

The Convention has definitely committed itself to mission work in the island of Hayti and Santo Domingo lying next east of Cuba. It was unanimously voted by the Convention that we raise for that purpose $350, and that a committee be formed composed of two members of the Eastern Cuba Convention together with two from the Porto Rican Convention and one from the Board of Managers of The American Baptist Home Mission Society, and that this committee shall determine all matters connected with the work.

Church Edifice.

We have aided this year in the building of one new chapel and the repairs of several. In the work of keeping up our property the churches are contributing about one-half the expense. We expect each year that the burden will be further assumed by our Convention.

Educational work.

In regard to our educational work I quote from the report made to the Convention by our Superintendent of Education, Rev. Robert Routledge. He says: "This has been a very successful year in many ways. In the Cristo schools we have had a year of peace and progress. The number of pupils in the boys' school has not been as large as in other years but the number of those in both schools who pay full tuition is larger than ever before. The girls' school has been crowded during the whole year. The total enrollment in both schools now reaches 175, in comparison with 192 for the whole of last year, and 153 the year previous. Last year we had few graduates from the different departments, but this year we hope to graduate two from the Theological Department, four from the Normal and four from the sixth grade in the boys' school (which corresponds to the first year in the high schools in the states and also to the first year in the National Institute in Cuba). The average attendance up to March 31 is 140, compared with 150 last year and 130 the year before. The difference between this year and last is due to the fact that this year we have five less in the Theological Department and seven less of those who had scholarships. The members of the Convention know the good work done by the graduates of the Normal Department. All the young ladies who have gone from this department are doing excellent work in our primary schools. As to these from the Department of Theology, I have only to repeat the words of our General Superintendent, who recently told me that with hardly an exception these young men are making zealous and efficient workers. Several of our former students are now enrolled in high schools in the states. Our constant aim is to prepare our students physically, intellectually and spiritually for life's tasks. More than thirty of our students have professed conversion during the year, most of them during the special meetings held by Mr. Peters. The Bible is taught in all our grades.

In our primary schools we have also had a fruitful year. We began the year in September with a considerable deficit. We have not only cancelled this deficit, but we hope to have a surplus at the end of the year to better the equipment of our schools already established.

On account of the lack of teachers and other causes we could not continue our schools at San Luis, Songo and Veguitas. I think we should have a school at San Luis as soon as possible. We opened a new school at La Maya which has been a great success, due to the work of the pastor on that field. The present enrollment in our primary schools now reaches 565."

I wish to add to this report that the American teachers furnished by the Woman's Board of Chicago are doing excellent work in all our schools where they not only teach but have also the best opportunity for mission work among the children and through these reach the homes.

No better opportunity has opened to us than that which presents itself in the general demand made upon us of giving the Cuban children an education, which includes the whole child, spiritual, intellectual and physical, and in this great work the Woman's Board of Chicago, together with other excellently prepared workers, are rendering an important service.

El Salvador

REV. WILLIAM KEECH, SAN SALVADOR, SUPERINTENDENT.

BAPTIST work is now in its third year in this Republic. We occupy some of the most strategic centres for Gospel work. Our Church in the capital (San Salvador, population, 60,000) consists now of 30 baptized believers. Our rented hall is very inadequate, and we are in great need of a proper church edifice. In Sonsonate a church has been organized, and now has 48 members, of whom Dr. Tavel, an ex-priest, is pastor. Near Juayua, the owner of six large estates has given us unlimited access to some 5,000 Indians of the ancient Nahuatl tribe who work there. But who can we send to them? Already we have twelve converts from this tribe, but who will gather the rest? One old lady of this tribe recently gave us a piece of land on which to build a hall for our services in Juayua (population, 10,000). This is the centre of a most populous district and within easy reach of about 50,000 people. Three hundred dollars would build us a place quite adequate for the present needs in this town.

During Passion Week meetings were held in the Capital each night, with gratifying attendance; and on Good Friday we had the joy of baptizing five persons, whilst several other candidates await the next opportunity. We feel much encouraged with the work here and in many other places, but it is taxing our strength to the utmost to properly care for it all. There is tremendous need for more foreign workers: our native brethren do exceedingly well and we thank God for them, but naturally they do not give the foundation required at this juncture. We hope the Society will soon be able to augment its workers in this Republic.

There are three churches, one having been organized this year; 295 members; 14 out-stations; 7 Sunday schools with an enrollment of 314; 2 chapels; 36 baptisms during the year; 4 native workers and 3 others not natives; 379,630 pages of tracts and many copies of the Scriptures distributed.

OBITUARY

Rev. Alexander Turnbull, died July 4, 1913, in New York. He was born in Montreal, Canada, January 31, 1852, of Scotch ancestry; was graduated from the University of Toronto in 1873 and from the Newton Theological Institution in 1876. He served as pastor in Belleville and Simcoe, Ontario, Salida and Denver, Colorado. From 1893-1908 he was Assistant Corresponding Secretary of the Society, resigning on account of poor help. His last work was as pastor at North Egremont, Massachusetts. He was a man of noble ideals, continuous optimism and consecrated to the tasks to which he freely gave his strength and talents.

Mrs. Caroline C. Bishop died January 7, 1914, at advanced age. She was the gifted wife of a former Corresponding Secretary of the Society, and during her long life was profoundly interested in its work to which she made large and frequent gifts. Among these was a notable one of $10,000 to Bishop College, named in honor of her husband. She was a student of the progress of the Kingdom of God, and served well her generation. Added to the culture that came from a noble inheritance and stimulating social and intellectual environment, was the culture of the heart that made her words and gifts and influence profoundly effective.

General William S. Shallenberger, a former president of the Society, died April 15th at his home in Washington, D. C. He was born at Mt. Pleasant, Pennsylvania, November 24, 1839, and was educated at Mt. Pleasant and at Bucknell University. From the latter he received the honorary degree of master of arts in 1880. He served in the Civil War as First Lieutenant, and Adjutant in the 140th Pennsylvania Volunteers, and was wounded in battle. He represented the twenty-fourth district of Pennsylvania in Congress from 1877 to 1883. Fifteen years later he was appointed Second Assistant Postmaster-General by President McKinley, and held this high office with distinguished ability for ten years. He was a very active member of Calvary Baptist Church, Washington, served for many years as the superintendent of the adult department in the Sunday school, and always took a wide interest in the affairs of the denomination, serving at one time as chairman of the Committee of Fifteen, which drafted the plan for the organization of the Northern Baptist Convention at Washington in 1907. He was a noble Christian of splendid purpose and broad vision.

P. S. Henson, D.D., died on April 24th at the age of eighty-three. He was born in Virginia, and was the first student graduated from Richmond College. Beginning his ministry among the country churches of Virginia, he later had notable pastorates in Philadelphia, Chicago, Brooklyn and Boston. He was a lecturer and preacher of great ability, and showed his devotion to the Home Mission Society in numerous and fruitful ways.

Thomas Oaks Conant, LL.D., died on January 29th. He was an able editor during his labors of thirty-five years in furthering the interests of the "Examiner." His writing were voluminous, thoughtful and inspiring. His heart centered in the larger interests of the denomination, and the brilliant work which he did for the Home Mission Society during his long career is highly appreciated and has brought forth abundant fruitage.

Captain Gustavus W. Schroeder died in New York on March 2d at an advanced age, the funeral service being held at the Mariner's Temple, New York City, March 6th, where seventy years previous, when known as the "Baptist Seamen's Bethel," and after a sea voyage, he went to worship upon his first Sunday in America. At that time he witnessed a baptismal service which led six months later to his own baptism. A visit to Sweden in 1845 brought about the conversion to Baptist views of Rev. F. O. Nelson, who journeyed to Hamburg, Germany, to be baptized by Rev. J. G. Oncken. This resulted in the establishment of the First Baptist Church in Sweden, from which the work has grown to such large proportions. Captain Schroeder lived to a great age, and was a Christian man of fine ability, of large heart, wide vision. He was deeply devoted to the interests of the Kingdom of God.

Rev. W. C. King, superintendent of missions for East Washington and North Idaho, died at his home at Spokane on April 5th. He was a faithful minister of Christ and served as a general missionary of the American Baptist Home Mission Society and as Secretary of the State Conventions in South Dakota, Colorado, East Washington and Northern Idaho. He was a man of large heart, and well equipped for the work of the ministry to which he devoted all his energies. He was a wise leader, enthusiastic in his varied service, and he labored in the cause which he loved until his strength failed. He fought a good fight and kept the faith.

*The plan of co-operation in the States of New York, Michigan and Illinois terminated in 1875, and 73 missionaries in these States were transferred to the care of their respective State conventions. †Not including secretaries and agents. ‡The decrease of missionaries among the freedmen after 1873 is largely accounted for by the fact that students were no longer commissioned as teachers and missionaries during their summer vacations. §Including about ten teachers of government day schools in Indian Territory. ¶Not reported. Note—Lithuanians 1, 1895-1906; Armenians 1, 1897-9.

AN EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY to secure a high rate of interest and at last have the principal used for missionary work is furnished Baptists and their friends in the increased rates to all securing annuity bonds from The American Baptist Home Mission Society. The new rates began April 1, 1915. The Society now gives from 4 to 9 per cent., according to your age. This means an income much larger than can be obtained from regular investments.

Let us look at this in TERMS OF DOLLARS. The following table shows what each $1,000 yields each year to a person of any age:

THE EIGHTY-THIRD ANNUAL REPORT
of the
of
HOME MISSION SOCIETY

IT is with much satisfaction and with gratitude to God that the Board of Managers herewith present their Eighty-third Annual Report to The American Baptist Home Mission Society convened in Los Angeles. Emancipation from an accumulated indebtedness of several years, all obligations met this year and rich spiritual blessings in many of our mission fields, are some of the outstanding features of the year.

The Board of Managers

There have been some changes in the Board during the year. In place of Mr. Henry Buermann, who was elected a year ago but who decided he could not serve, Mr. Samuel Bryant of Palisade Park, N. J., was elected.

The Society suffered a serious loss in the death of James M. Hunt, Esq., of Yonkers, N. Y., whose place as a member of the Board has not been filled. Further reference to him appears in the obituary list.

The Board again calls the Society's attention to the desirability of electing members whose residence permits them without great loss of time and much expense to attend quite regularly its meetings.

Promotion of Interest and Beneficence.

Unusual activity and co-operation by representatives of our missionary organizations in the promotion of missionary interest and beneficence have characterized the year. In the United Missionary Campaign emphasis has been laid upon general Church Efficiency and the Every-Member-Canvass for weekly offerings for all purposes. District Secretaries, officers of the general Societies, State Superintendents and special appointees have worked most assiduously and harmoniously with good results wherever the plans recommended have been adopted by the churches.

Through the Department of Missionary Education, as well as directly by the Societies, a large amount of missionary literature has been distributed, while there has also been extensive advertising in our denominational papers which have freely offered their columns to missionary articles, and have frequently contained vigorous editorials on the subject. Our joint magazine "Missions" is a potent factor in imparting information and stimulating larger participation in all our missionary enterprises.

But, notwithstanding all this activity, the development of interest and of beneficence, as registered in the annual offerings of our churches, is painfully slow and incommensurate with the growing demands of the work. Results for the past year, all things considered, are encouraging. The disturbed and depressed financial conditions of the country, growing out of the European War, depreciation of some leading railway securities and other causes have impaired the ability of multitudes, while the special effort to provide for the indebtedness upon the Societies contained in it the possibility of a peril in diminished receipts for the current expenses of the year. The extreme distress of the Foreign Mission Society drew to it special sympathy and support. Considering these things it is a cause for thanksgiving that this Society's receipts from the churches are somewhat more than that of last year, and that it closes the year without debt.

Upon recommendation of the Home Missions Council, the week in November in which Thanksgiving Day is fixed is to be observed generally as Home Mission Week. A new text-book, by Dr. Charles L. White, Associate Corresponding Secretary of this Society, entitled "The Churches at Work," is shortly to be published by the Missionary Education Movement, and it is expected will stimulate intelligent effort for the more thorough evangelization of our own land.

District Secretaries and State Agencies

Rev. Bruce Kinney, D.D., terminated his work December 1st as Secretary for the Southwestern District, including Kansas, Colorado and Oklahoma, to devote his whole time to superintendence of missionary work in the Midland division, and Rev. G. W. Cassidy, D.D., of Kansas was appointed as Joint District Secretary for this Society and the Foreign Mission Society. Wyoming will also be included in his district.

Rev. A. M. Petty, D.D., District Secretary for the Pacific Coast, felt constrained to yield to the strong pressure to become special representative of Redlands University, and his resignation was accepted with high appreciation of his very efficient service for more than six years from January, 1908. His work terminated August 31, 1914. After conference with the Board of the Foreign Mission Society it was decided to establish a joint district for the Southern Pacific Coast, consisting of California, Arizona, Nevada and Utah, to which Rev. A. W. Rider, D.D., for many years the efficient Secretary of the Foreign Mission Society, was appointed. To him was assigned also, temporarily, the care of the North Pacific Division, for which a joint secretary will soon be provided. He will have Oregon, Washington, Idaho and, perhaps, Montana, in his district.

Rev. Charles A. Cook, D.D., who for several years was joint secretary for the Yellowstone District, returned to the pastorate early this year, though attending by correspondence to the interests of the Societies until April 1, 1915. The District Secretaries have been indefatigable both in attention to their specific tasks and as leaders or helpers in the United Missionary Campaign, and in conferences with State Apportionment Committees in their apportionment of missionary budgets to the churches.

The Single State Collecting Agencies or Superintendents of Promotion of Interest and Beneficence have likewise been diligent, and have been in harmonious relations with representatives of the Society in field work. This arrangement exists in four States, viz., Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa and Nebraska.

Reconstructive Problems

Considerable attention has been given to matters of relationships with other organizations and of reconstructive problems. The apportionment plan and methods continue to be subjects of discussion. The meeting of State and General Secretaries in Cleveland, Ohio, last December was devoted in part to the consideration of these matters, and another meeting is contemplated in the fall of 1915. A committee of the Southern California Convention, on "Denominational Betterment," has made a study of conditions on the Pacific Coast and recently took the initiative in procuring the approval by the Boards of several Coast Conventions of a communication to this and to other Societies and to the Committee of the Northern Baptist Convention on "Efficiency of Administration of Co-operating Organizations" expressive of their desire that changes might be effected in the working relationships of our general societies on the coast.

The time between the receipt of this communication and the close of the Society's year has been too short to have a joint conference, as suggested on these matters. Representatives of the Committee on Efficiency have been welcomed at the rooms in repeated visits to obtain information concerning the Society's affairs.

Baptist Union

There is steady and gratifying progress in the unification of Baptist and Free Baptist forces, both in local church affairs and in their larger organized activities. Dr. Alfred W. Anthony, as special joint Secretary, also as Treasurer of the General Conference, has been most influential in effecting these results. In his annual report he says: "Practically all the State organizations are in fellowship. Maine and New Hampshire, States in which Baptists and Free Baptists are more nearly equal than elsewhere, have been the slowest; but in Maine the two State denominational bodies have unanimously requested a reincorporation as 'The United Baptist Missionary Convention of Maine,' and in New Hampshire a joint session of the State organizations is planned for this year, and the two bodies will naturally thereafter, through acquaintance and mutual concessions and considerations, discover in the near future their best method of amalgamating. . . . It is remarkable that within so brief a space of time, since union was first proposed, and the subject seriously discussed, that two bodies, which had separated nearly a century and a half ago, under the stress of theological differences and intense religious conviction, which had inherited the fruits of argument, debate, division, and no little sectarian stress, should come together, putting aside rancor and bitterness, and should find a real unity of fellowship without humiliating confessions or surrenders. The history of the church may be searched far and wide for a parallel. We have done a noble thing in a truly Christian spirit."

The Free Baptists have representation on the Boards of our general Societies and the Boards of many State Conventions, and it will be desirable, as Dr. Anthony suggests, that they be represented also on State Apportionment Committees. The Home Mission Society acknowledges with gratitude the generous spirit manifested by our Free Baptist brethren in the support of its work.

Emancipation from Debt

Announcement has already been made that the campaign for the emancipation of the Societies from their heavy indebtedness of $276,223.58, as reported one year ago, was crowned with success. The indebtedness upon the Societies was as follows: The American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, $182,713.58; upon the American Baptist Home Mission Society, $71,051.54; upon the Women's American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, $22,458.46.

The original gift of $50,000 by Mr. John D. Rockefeller, and an additional pledge of $50,000, conditioned on the whole amount being secured by April 1, 1915, as announced at the Anniversaries in Boston last year, imparted cheer and encouragement to the undertaking. The sum of $73,000.00 remained to be secured after the Anniversaries. The work was vigorously prosecuted through the summer months, and with greater energy as the year drew to its close. The denomination owes much to the Committee appointed at Boston in charge of the campaign, and particularly to its Executive Secretary, Dr. Charles L. White, of the Home Mission Society, for the achievement at a time of serious financial disturbance throughout the country. Their report will give particulars concerning these matters.

Concerning the foregoing amount of indebtedness on this Society, it should be said that it represented an accumulation for a period of four years, and was due in large measure to exceptional application of sums to special purposes.

The Society has closed the present year not only without debt, but with a small balance of $1,787.94. The budget for the coming year, as approved by the Finance Committee of the Northern Baptist Convention, is made on reasonable expectation of no indebtedness on March 31, 1916.

Scope and Methods of the Society's Missionary Work

The scope and the methods of the Society's missionary work are so imperfectly understood by some that a re-statement concerning these matters seems desirable.

Included in its scope is a variety of activities, ranging all the way from the initial or primary stages of pioneer effort in new fields, through all the successive stages of baptizing converts; organizing churches and Sunday Schools; securing pastors for mission churches, and aiding in their support and in the erection of houses of worship; personal religious visitation and distribution of copies of the Scriptures and other religious literature, and the promotion of effective organized effort through local associations and State Conventions.

Geographically, in its scope are included the new rural settlements, the towns and cities along railway lines, newly opened Indian reservations, lumber camps, mining camps, the cattle ranchers, and student bodies in our great State institutions of learning. It embraces nearly every State in the Union, also Mexico, El Salvador, Cuba and Porto Rico.

Ethnically, it includes about twenty-five nationalities or peoples in this "melting pot" of the world. Instrumentally, the Society adapts its methods to the needs of the fields to be cultivated. It has furnished pioneer and itinerant and district missionaries with horses and wagons and automobiles, and gospel wagons and tents; a gospel boat for seamen, and supplies of religious literature for distribution.

For these varied activities there is the pioneer exploring missionary; the local missionary with his group of outstations; the itinerating missionary with his circuit of several churches; the district missionary and the pastor-at-large for attention to weak and shepherdless flocks and for work also in new fields; the general missionary of a State with his manifold duties of administration; evangelists for single States and groups of States and various nationalities; pastors for student bodies and general superintendents for extensive geographical divisions. Evangelistic and constructive work go hand in hand.

In a word, the Society is competent to do anything "to promote the preaching of the Gospel in North America," and is not at all dependent upon any other Society to take the initiative in the occupation and development of new mission fields. It always has been pre-eminently the pioneer missionary organization of Northern Baptists in the new fields of the West, among the Indians, among numerous groups of our foreign populations and in Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico and El Salvador. And in all these fields its constructive work has been of great value in the establishment of our denominational interests on a strong and enduring basis.

Western Missions: Retrospective

Seventy years ago, Rev. Ezra Fisher and Rev. Hezekiah Johnson, the first missionaries of the American Baptist Home Mission Society to the Pacific Coast, after a tedious overland journey of about seven and a half months, reached their destination in Oregon; while sixty-six years have passed since Rev. O. C. Wheeler, its first missionary to California, going via the Isthmus of Panama, arrived at the Golden Gate. The latter was appointed before the great discovery of gold was known in the East. The wonderful developments on the Coast since then, and the new era upon which it is entering as a result of the completion of the Panama Canal and its intimate relations to Oriental nations, are graphically set forth in connection with the great expositions at San Diego and San Francisco.

It may be of interest and profit to glance at the development of the organized missionary activities of the denomination on the Coast, during this period, which may be subdivided into two dissimilar periods of about thirty-five years each.

The fluctuations and instability of the general Associations or Conventions on the Pacific Coast in the earlier period appear from the following facts:

The first California Convention, organized in 1853 at Santa Rosa, about fifty miles from San Francisco, under the shade of a group of live oak trees, was short lived; was succeeded by another in 1866, which, after passing through many trials, was partially reorganized in 1874 and continued until 1881, when, out of stress and storm, a new Convention was organized, which received recognition by the Home Mission Society. This included the whole State until April, 1892, when, by a friendly arrangement, the Southern California Convention was organized.

In the Northwest we find the General Association of Oregon in 1857, which survived but one year. Sectional divisions were so strong that not until 1867 was another organization effected. In 1877 this was reorganized to include Washington, Idaho and British Columbia. In 1880 the name was changed to "The Baptist Convention of the North Pacific Coast." In 1881 was organized the Northwest Baptist Convention, including Western Washington and British Columbia. In 1884 the East Washington and Northern Idaho Convention was organized. In 1886 the Baptist Convention of the North Pacific Coast dissolved, and in June, 1886, the Oregon State Convention came into being. In 1897 the British Columbia Churches withdrew from the Northwest Baptist Convention, which thereafter took the name of the West Washington Convention.

The Idaho Convention was organized in 1908, the Utah Convention in 1883, the Arizona Convention in 1892, and the Nevada Convention in 1911. For about thirty-five years, from the beginning of missionary work on the Coast, the denomination was in the formative and re-formative period in its general organized activities. Several of these Conventions represented but a few churches, widely separated, weak financially and without efficient leadership. Their missionary efforts, therefore, were very limited.

A knowledge of these early conditions is necessary to a proper understanding of the Society's relation to the work on the Pacific slope. For a period of about thirty-five years the Society had to take the initiative, the direction and the principal financial burden of the pioneer work there. It was, however, seriously hampered in being unable to secure desirable men for important fields in those remote regions, and in its inability to obtain adequate resources for the expanding work. Exploring and general missionaries were appointed to cover as large fields as possible.

The beginnings of its work on the Coast were as follows: In Oregon, 1845; in California, 1849; in Nevada, 1863; in Idaho, 1864; in Utah, 1871; in Washington, 1871; in Arizona, 1879. Communication with that region, for about a quarter of a century after American occupation, was by stage coach and pony express. The Union Pacific Railway was completed in 1869, the Northern Pacific in 1883, the Southern Pacific in 1883. Prior to these dates the pioneer missionaries made their extended journeys on foot, on horseback, by stage coach, by boat, often enduring much privation and suffering. The pioneer missionary was in Oregon twenty-five years before any railway; in California seven years, and twenty years before the completion of the first transcontinental line; and in other territories years before.

With the railway construction came new demands upon the Society for enlargement of its work. One of the general secretaries, in 1869, visited towns along the Union Pacific to secure sites for houses of worship; and its general and local missionaries were alert in occupation of important places along these new lines. Before 1900, as careful examination showed, about 1,400 railway towns and cities had been definitely occupied by the Society's appointees. Since then the number has been greatly increased.

The new era of stable, orderly, constructive work began about 1880. During most of the period of thirty-five years since then the Society has been in co-operative relations with State Conventions, with the purpose of developing their administrative and financial abilities, throwing large responsibility upon them in the prosecution of the joint work. There are nine Conventions in this Division, thus related to the Society. The co-operative plans include both missionary and church edifice work in general.

In the early stages of co-operation with Western State Conventions, the Home Mission Society had not only to bear the much larger part of the expense, but frequently also to advance amounts temporarily for the Conventions' share of their obligations. This is still true of several States. Some State Conventions have become sufficiently strong to assume an equal share with the Society, and a few are able to do more than this. It is gratifying to record the efficiency of most of these Conventions in the prosecution of our joint missionary enterprises. In these seven States the Society's missionary expenditures have exceeded one million dollars.

This brief survey would be incomplete without mention of the inestimable value of the service rendered not only to our missionary enterprise, but to all our denominational interests on the Pacific slope for about thirty years by the Society's sagacious Superintendent of Missions, Dr. C. A. Woody.

Evangelism

Last year's report contained a somewhat extended statement concerning the Society's special Evangelistic policy and work. Its general program, as therein outlined, has not been fully carried out, though substantial advance has been made, with the limited appropriation of $5,000 included in the year's budget. No large special gifts for this purpose have been received.

A summary of distinctively evangelistic activities in our varied mission fields is as follows: One general evangelist in the Midland division, embracing Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, North and South Dakota; 16 evangelists in co-operative work with State Conventions; 1 German evangelist; 1 Swede; 1 Norwegian; 1 Hungarian; 1 Russian, and special work among the Roumanians.

In this work emphasis is put upon the smaller and weaker churches in need of spiritual quickening, rather than upon large churches in cities which are able usually to secure the services of evangelists, or which in many cases co-operate in extensive and expensive campaigns under the leadership of noted evangelists. Reports from our general Superintendents and State Superintendents show most gratifying interest and activity in this respect in many States. In Nebraska about 120 series of meetings have been held; in Kansas, where the laymen's evangelistic teams have been most active, the largest number of baptisms of any year in its history are reported; in Oregon over one hundred meetings have been held, covering nearly every section of the State, resulting in much larger accessions than usual to the churches; in Northern California simultaneous evangelistic campaigns by associational forces have been conducted as planned by the Convention which meets the incidental expenses of pastors who give their time for about two weeks to work with other churches. These indicate an awakening of interest and activity in evangelism. Further particulars are given in reports of Superintendents and General Missionaries. The hopeful feature is that the methods are not sensational or spectacular, but are related in a normal way to our missionary undertakings, at comparatively small expense, and great benefit to the churches.

Among the foreign populations excellent results are reported. The number of evangelists to the various nationalities will be increased as competent men are found and as resources may be available for this purpose. The work of our Labor Evangelist, Rev. D. A. Schultz, has been richly blessed in the changed attitude and temper of thousands toward Christianity and in many conversions.

Occupation of New Fields

According to reports from our general missionaries 82 new mission fields in the West have been entered the past year, and 44 churches organized, and 49 churches have become self-supporting. Hence, there is no appreciable diminution in the amount required for the maintenance of the work. On the contrary, when we consider the estimate of our leaders that at least 125 new fields should be occupied speedily, we are impressed with the fact that pioneer missions in the West still present great opportunities for missionary endeavor and still make heavy demands upon us. So great and urgent are these demands that the General Superintendents of Missions formally importuned the Board of Managers last fall for larger appropriations to Western work the coming year. In the midst of the effort for payment of the debts upon the Societies and with uncertainty about the outcome of the year ending March 31st, 1915, the Board could not commit the Society to larger appropriations, though hoping that this may be practicable soon.

Meanwhile, district missionaries and local missionaries are doing what they can to cultivate these fields. As evidence of the outreaching work of many missionary pastors, attention is called to the fact that they report 267 outstations supplied during the year. The general policy of the Society is that churches should be organized only when there is reasonable prospect of their attaining to self-support within a few years. In some quarters there appears to have been an ambition to encourage the organization of churches whose existence would be short lived without generous help from missionary funds. This should be discouraged, except in cases above mentioned. Responsibility for the organization of churches that must rely upon such assistance, should rest definitely upon the general missionary and the executives of each State, in consultation, when possible, with the Society's Superintendent of Missions.

Conservation Methods

Conservation is as important as multiplication. In Western fields, as well as in the older States, there are many country and village churches that, for various reasons, have become weakened and dispirited, and are unable to maintain pastors for full-time service. To make adequate appropriations from missionary funds to give every such church a resident pastor is impossible. If wholly uncared for and left to languish and perish, not only is the antecedent investment therein no longer productive, but there is a distinct loss to the denomination of good material.

To conserve such imperilled interests, sometimes in connection with other kinds of missionary service, District Missionaries have been appointed with excellent results. Of Minnesota it is said that "the work of the six District Missionaries and the City Superintendent in Minneapolis is regarded as indispensable." In Nebraska, within four years, thirty-six churches were resuscitated, most of them now having pastors. These are illustrations of the valuable work done in this direction.

In some States pastors-at-large are appointed for similar work. These are usually men with evangelistic gifts. Reports show that 33 District Missionaries and pastors-at-large have been under appointment.

Another method for meeting to some extent the need is to have a missionary serve a group of weak churches until one or more of the number becomes strong enough to have its own pastor. In some sections, where churches are not far apart, this arrangement has proved quite satisfactory, but where they are widely separated, it is impracticable, unless expeditious means of travel are furnished the missionary.

To meet these conditions the automobile is a necessity. Horses and wagons have been provided for some pioneer missionaries, but the cost of such an outfit and of its maintenance is about as much as the cost and maintenance of a low-priced auto, which enables the missionary greatly to increase the scope and efficiency of his work, as has been demonstrated in the case of a District Missionary in Wyoming. Consequently it has been decided to provide several automobiles for District Missionaries and pastors-at-large, making them adjuncts to the Society's co-operative work with State Conventions, whose chief executives, in consultation with our Superintendents of Missions, will determine how and where they can best be utilized.

In our co-operative relations with several State Conventions, and again with the Education Board of the Northern Baptist Convention, in the appointment of special workers among Baptist students in State Universities and other schools, we are endeavoring to conserve the religious life and interest of the students in our denominational activities. To many students their college course is a testing time of their Christian faith. Detached also from their former denominational associations and reluctant to enter actively into new relationships for the short period of their stay in college, many become careless and indifferent concerning religious matters, and are lost as forceful factors to the denomination. Excellent work has been done by a number of these special workers in this peculiar and important field where special methods for its proper cultivation are required.

Oklahoma

The Baptist General Convention of Oklahoma at its annual meeting, November 18-20, 1914, upon the recommendation of its Board of Managers, voted for single alignment with the Southern Baptist Convention, thereby terminating our co-operative work in the State. This was done against the repeatedly expressed desire of the Board for the continuance of the co-operative relations, with perhaps some modifications. A statement of the course of events antecedent to the action of that Convention, together with a copy of the last communication to it by the Board, also an accompanying leaflet containing information about the Society's work in Oklahoma, may be found in Appendix C, page 53, of this report.

Thus, after fifty years of work by the Society in what is now known as Oklahoma, after long and liberal assistance to hundreds of mission churches in the support of pastors and the erection of houses of worship, at an aggregate outlay of more than $800,000, the Society is practically evicted and debarred from making appeals to Oklahoma Baptists for aid in the prosecution of its great work—prohibited from reaping anything from its abundant sowing—though a large element among the Baptists of the State is from the Northern States. Most of the Society's work among the Indians of Oklahoma for which it has been expending about $16,000 annually, is not directly affected by the action of that Convention.

Our Foreign Population

The growth and the encouragements of our work among our foreign populations have necessitated the appointment of a competent superintendent to give proper attention to the numerous and sometimes complicated matters that cannot be handled satisfactorily by correspondence, or incidentally by heavily loaded officers of the Society at the Rooms.

To this position Rev. Charles A. Brooks, of Cleveland, Ohio, was appointed. His service for the Society began last September. His success as Superintendent of the Cleveland Baptist City Mission Society, which brought him into sympathetic relations with mission work among several groups of foreign-speaking peoples, his visit to some countries of eastern Europe, from which large numbers of immigrants have been coming, all indicated his special fitness for the position. He has had a hearty reception by our foreign-speaking brethren and by representatives of co-operating organizations, and has been indefatigable in his endeavor to meet the demands upon his time, talent and strength. His report appears with reports of other field workers.

On every hand pressure for the enlargement of this work among our foreign population continues, notwithstanding the slackening of European immigration consequent upon the great war. It is conjectural what proportions the new influx will reach upon the termination of the contest. The Pacific Coast States anticipate large foreign accessions as a result of the completion of the Panama Canal. Your Board is keenly alive to developments there as elsewhere, and will be prepared for advance work as fast and as far as resources and suitable men can be found for this purpose. Particular attention is being given by the Home Missions Council, through its Committee of Nine on Immigrant Work, on which there are two Baptists who have specialized in immigration problems, to this phase of work on the Pacific Coast. The Home Missions Council has also recently appointed a Superintendent, who is a Baptist, to promote efficiency and economy in the missionary activities of many organizations having representatives at Ellis Island, and to co-operate with the authorities in the execution of plans for the protection and the welfare of the newcomers to our shores.

The harmonious mingling here of Baptists from several European countries at war with each other is something delightful to contemplate. Superintendent Schulte says: "We have in our German churches people from Germany, Austria and Russia, who live in perfect harmony here, while their friends in Europe may be fighting in opposing armies."

For several of these nationalities evangelists who can preach in their own tongues have been appointed, and others will be appointed. One of these has already rendered valuable service among the Russians in Pennsylvania and North Dakota.

Special attention has been given to proper and most effective working relationships between the Society and several Baptist foreign-speaking organizations. A Committee of the Board with the Superintendent has made a special study of matters relating to the prosecution of this work. The following outline of policy has been adopted by the Board:

(1) Reiterate importance of a practical and consistent policy of close co-operation of all agencies at work.

(2) A determined and intelligent effort to increase the efficiency of work already established.

(3) To consider our problem as national and racial rather than primarily local.

(4) To develop our work along racial lines with due regard to close correlation with Denominational organization.

(5) In establishing new work to consider first, those groups for which we are held responsible by other Denominations; and second, those among which we have the largest number and have been long established with a fund of experience and a trained leadership; third, those groups in which we seem to have been meeting with conspicuous success.

(6) In the older groups—to insist upon a policy of increasing self-support in order to release funds for newer work; and where we have been aiding churches for twenty and twenty-five years without bringing them to self-support, to consider seriously whether we are justified in continuing indefinitely on this basis.

(7) To place the emphasis on better organization and more efficient work rather than on more stations.

(8) To give more consideration to the importance of housing our work.

(9) To plan with a long look ahead for the development of trained leadership. First, as to American leadership. Second, Foreign-speaking leadership.

(10) The importance of developing an adequate literature both periodical and general.

Indians

Our work has been prosecuted among 14 Indian tribes, viz.: In Oklahoma among the five civilized tribes in co-operation with the Oklahoma Convention; also among the Kiowas, Comanche, Cheyenne, Delaware, Arapaho, Apache, Caddo, Wichita, Sac and Fox; in Arizona among the Navahoes and Hopis; in Montana among the Crow, and in California among the Mono group near Fresno. Precisely what will be our relation to work among the civilized tribes hereafter, in consequence of the discontinuance of co-operative relations with the Oklahoma Convention remains to be determined.

It is fifty years since the Society took over the work of the American Baptist Missionary Union among the Indians of Indian Territory, acquiring property for missionary headquarters at Tahlequah, then the capital of the Cherokee nation. Continuously since then it has vigorously prosecuted this work, out of which has grown a large educational institution for the benefit of all Indian tribes. This is referred to more particularly in the Educational Department of this report.

Among the semi-civilized tribes, until recently known as "blanket Indians," the work goes on prosperously, under the direction of a heroic band of missionaries who have been identified with it for many years. Among this group in Oklahoma we have 14 Indian Baptist churches, with 1,200 members. At Mountain View they have in the bank $1,100 for a new meeting house, and will build as soon as other contributions increase the amount to $2,000. An automobile will shortly be provided for one worker who has charge of several widely separated stations.

In Montana there are three mission stations among the Crows, with headquarters at Lodge Grass. Mr. Petzoldt has been provided with an auto which greatly facilitates his work. In Arizona some progress is reported among the Navajo, while work among the Hopis, where missionaries of the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society are laboring, is encouraging. In California, among the Mono Indians an encouraging work is in progress.

The appointment by the Home Missions Council of a capable representative who shall devote half of his time to important matters that come up in common to several Evangelical organizations in connection with their Indian work is regarded as a wise arrangement.

The Orientals

No marked changes in work for the Orientals have taken place during the year. The chief mission station continues to be in San Francisco, where the Society in 1887 acquired excellent property at a cost of about $21,000, and after the earthquake and fire of 1906 rebuilt the house with improved accommodations for the varied forms of work, including a school maintained by the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society for Chinese children. There are seven missions of the Society to the Chinese, and two to the Japanese. A favorable opening for another mission to the Japanese of Los Angeles and vicinity is engaging our attention.

The intimate relations of the Pacific Coast to the Orient, the presence of a large number of students from China and Japan in our higher institutions of learning, and the new era in China, give emphasis to the importance of our evangelistic efforts for these sojourners, whose conceptions of what Christianity is, and what it can do for the uplift of a nation will be profoundly determined by what they see of its fruitage here.

Mexico

The continuance of warfare between contending factions in Mexico, while working serious derangement to the work in some fields, has not resulted in suspension of missionary operations at any important point. The general survey of the field as presented elsewhere by Superintendent Brewer is, in the circumstances, very encouraging.

The critical situation in the City of Mexico about a year ago made it seem imprudent for Mr. Brewer and his family to remain. During his sojourn since then, in the States, he has continued by correspondence his work of supervision, and has rendered valuable service to the Society at headquarters in the translation of a large number of conveyances to property acquired by the Society in Mexico, Cuba and Porto Rico, and in examination of voluminous papers relating thereto. He has also delivered many addresses on Mexico, and has given special attention to work among Mexicans in Arizona and California, and has participated in several important conferences with representatives of other bodies concerning work in Mexico and in Latin America generally. He will hereafter include in his field the Spanish-speaking peoples in Arizona and California, though the work there will remain under the immediate direction of the State Conventions in co-operation with the Society.

Dr. C. E. Conwell of our Medical mission in the City of Mexico, also left, but recently returned to Puebla, where Rev. Mr. Brown remained though passing through some trying experiences.

A notable conference was held at Cincinnati, Ohio, June 30-July 1st, 1914, between representatives of about fifteen organizations at work in Mexico to consider questions relating to co-operation and greater effectiveness in its prosecution. This Society was represented by Dr. L. C. Barnes and Rev. George H. Brewer. The conference was called by a committee representing the Standing Committee of the Missionary Boards at work in Latin America. The results of the two days' conference was the formulation of a statement and recommendations concerning an apportioning of fields to be occupied by each principal organization, and co-operation in educational and publication work. Our representatives did not concur in some of the recommendations which were adopted by the conference. When the conclusions were officially sent to your Board for approval it appeared, after careful study, that our unqualified approval could not be given; indeed, that some recommendations were quite impracticable, being vitally at variance with Baptist views and usages. Your Board responded accordingly, at the same time expressing its appreciation of the spirit and aims and work of the conference, and our desire to co-operate so far as can be done consistently and as our resources may allow. (The text of this action appears in Appendix A. See page 50.)

The disturbed conditions of Mexico have interfered with the realization of the plans of the Conference; indeed, there are likely to be many and great difficulties in the attainment of its ideals.

Meanwhile other developments were taking place. Informal conferences between representatives of the Society and of the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention developed their disposition to unite in educational and publication work in Mexico. At San Antonio, Texas, in October, 1914, a conference was held between representatives of that Board, including several of its missionaries to Mexico, and Mr. Brewer of the Home Mission Society, resulting in the adoption unanimously of recommendations in favor of such an arrangement. In November both Boards gave their approval, whereupon the plan was submitted to the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society, which has been doing excellent educational work for girls in Mexico. The decision of that Board was favorable to co-operative educational work for girls. Accordingly, after further correspondence and conferences, a tentative plan of co-operation was drawn up, which has been approved by all, and which is herewith presented for the Society's approval, subject to such minor modifications as may be satisfactory to all concerned. (See Appendix B, page 52.)

Coincident with these movements, is another which heads up in the proposed Conference on Missions in Latin America, at Panama, in February, 1916. This is the outgrowth of the inattention by the World's Missionary Conference at Edinburgh in 1910, to evangelical missionary work in Roman Catholic countries. The first step in this direction was taken at the Foreign Missions Conference of North America in New York City in 1911, in a notable address by Dr. Speer. In 1913 a conference was held in New York to consider in its broad aspects mission work in Latin America, at which time a Committee was appointed, of which Field Secretary Barnes was made Recording Secretary, to promote co-operation in missions to the Latin American lands of the western hemisphere. This Committee, with enlargement of its number and of the scope of its work, has addressed itself effectively to its appointed tasks, and it is expected that the Panama Conference of 1916 and the regional conferences to be held subsequently will be of immense value and of great importance to the work. In view of the Home Mission Society's large missionary and educational enterprises in Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico and El Salvador, it is the judgment of your Board that the Society should be properly represented in that Conference and bear a share of the expense incident thereto. For it is becoming manifest that the closer relationships that are likely to be established between the United States and other countries to the southward present a more favorable opportunity than ever for successful prosecution of missionary work therein.

Porto Rico

Rev. A. B. Rudd, D.D., who, for about fifteen years had been General Superintendent of our work in Porto Rico, felt constrained to return with his family to the States and tendered his resignation, to take effect at the end of August, 1914. This was accepted with sincere regret and with an expression of appreciation of the efficient and solid work done by him in the upbuilding of our interests on the Island. Rev. C. S. Detweiler of Ponce has been appointed as his successor. His report, which appears elsewhere, shows substantial progress of our work. The disposition of the churches to contribute to their own support and to missions is encouraging. In several instances rural chapels have been erected by the people with little or no outside aid. At the recent meeting of the Association for the Island, it was voted to undertake the erection of at least one rural chapel each year, costing from $400 to $600. A Committee was also appointed to confer with representatives of other societies concerning the publication jointly of an attractive and strong evangelical paper.

With 51 churches and 54 outstations, 35 chapels, a membership of 2,344, and a Sunday School enrollment of 3,289, and a missionary training school for young men, we have good foundations for hopeful work in the future.

Cuba

Rev. A. B. Howell continues as Superintendent of our missions in Eastern Cuba. Some readjustments have been necessary, and some of the churches have passed through a sifting time. Rev. F. J. Peters of the Bayamo district was obliged, on account of impaired health, to return with his family to the States early last summer. Providentially his place was taken, temporarily, at least, by Rev. A. B. Reekie, who was on furlough as a missionary to Chili of the Foreign Mission Board of Canada. Already our missions in Cuba are reaping the benefit of trained native leaders who were students in the school at El Cristo.

The annual meeting of the East Cuban Convention in March, at Palma Soriano, was well attended, and was most encouraging. The presence of Dr. Charles L. White and Prof. Gilbert N. Brink from the Society was very gratifying to the Convention and very helpful. The Convention heartily voted a special appropriation of $1,200 to the Home Mission Society.

El Salvador

The annual report from Rev. Mr. Keech has not been received, but from occasional communications during the year it appears that the field is white unto the harvest, and that our meager force of two English-speaking missionaries and five or six assistants are altogether inadequate to the demands of the field. A pressing need is a suitable church edifice at San Salvador, the capital. Rev. Mr. Brewer is making a visit to this new and promising mission field and is expected to give the Society at its annual meeting his impressions concerning their work there.

Alaska and Hawaii

For several years, while little progress has been made in the development of Alaska, the Society has done no missionary work there. Skagway, where we had a mission and built a meeting house, has dwindled in population and commercial importance. But the appropriation by Congress of $32,000,000 for railway construction in Alaska is likely to give a new impulse to its development. We should be prepared to do our part in the religious cultivation of this territory when the favorable hour comes.

Hawaii geographically is in our Home Mission field, but no Baptist missionaries have been sent there, mainly because some other denominations have long had a large work and controlling influence there. But it is a question whether at least in the large and flourishing city of Honolulu, where there is a considerable Baptist element, we should not have a Baptist church, which, among other things, should extend a welcome and minister to the needs of foreign missionaries going to and returning from the Orient.

Church Edifice

The value of the Church Edifice Department as an adjunct to the Society's missionary work can hardly be overestimated. Timely aid to weak and struggling churches in their efforts to get suitable houses of worship has started hundreds on a new and prosperous career. The Church Edifice Loan Fund was established 1870-4, and the Church Edifice Gift Fund in 1881. The scope and magnitude of the work in this department appears from the following tables which have been prepared with much care, though it is possible that there are slight inaccuracies, which, if discovered, will be corrected.

Thus it appears that 2,572 churches have been aided from these funds. The total number of churches aided is somewhat less than the aggregate number of yearly gifts and loans, inasmuch as some churches have been aided more than once. Those aided in the Pacific Coast Division, including the seven States of Arizona, California, Nevada, Utah, Idaho, Oregon and Washington, are 492; those in the Rocky Mountain Division, including the seven States of Colorado, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, North and South Dakota, 882; those in the Central Western Division, including the six States of Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan, 671.

Exceptionally large gifts have been made to some churches in the Pacific Coast Division, as in Salt Lake City, Utah; San Francisco, Berkeley and Spokane, aggregating about $85,000. The total amount paid from the Church Edifice Gift Fund is $1,147,294.01. If to this is added $135,000 of the California Relief Fund that passed through the Society's treasury, after the earthquake and fire of 1906, we have a total of more than one and a quarter million dollars actually paid by the Society in the last thirty-five years for Church Edifice work.

The necessity for continued assistance from this source appears from the careful reports of our representatives, particularly in our Western fields, where, as they state 78 churches should be helped the coming year, and where about 80 churches are organized annually. Besides, in Mexico, El Salvador, Cuba and Porto Rico, where it is difficult and often impossible to rent suitable places for public worship, at least $10,000 annually is needed. Some of our most promising mission fields in those countries are sorely handicapped because of the lack of meeting houses adapted to their needs.

Furthermore, it is the policy of the Society to devote special attention to the rebuilding or improvement of houses of worship, where such help is required, in cities where large numbers of young people are congregated in educational institutions. At least one such church each year should be stimulated by liberal help to have a well-equipped, modern church edifice.

Particular attention has been given by Dr. D. D. Proper, Church Extension Secretary, to field work in the interests of the Church Edifice Department. His report follows:

"My work ranges along the line of collecting rentals from properties owned by the Society, securing renewals of insurance, either by new policies, or the insertion of a 'mortgage protection clause,' in policies already secured by some churches where the Society has gift mortgages; making collections for interest and past due loan installments; securing titles to abandoned meeting houses where the Society has gift mortgages, and selling the same to replenish the gift fund; securing new and missing papers where mortgages are incomplete, and aiding churches where it is practicable to raise money to pay debts to the Society. I hope to be able to render service in a more constructive way in the near future.

"Owing to the constant shift in population, loss of members by deaths and removals, each State has more or less of abandoned church properties where the Society has either a loan or gift mortgage, and sometimes both, to be adjusted.

"One requirement of the conditional gift mortgage calls for a mortgage protection clause, 'Loss, if any, payable to The American Baptist Home Mission Society, as its interest may appear,' to be inserted in the insurance policy by each church receiving aid, for an amount at least equal to the gift. In every case when the donation was made this insurance protection was given by an accompanying policy with the mortgage.

"In many cases of the older gifts, after a time this was neglected, and finally forgotten by most of the members, so that the appeal of the Treasurer of the Society brought no response. The Society having no fund for carrying this insurance the matter was dropped. In some cases it requires an inspection of the county records before officials will recognize that the church ever made a conditional gift mortgage. In checking up these accounts I have found some churches without any insurance on their meeting house. In a large number of cases I found policies have been secured, but the officials have neglected to have the mortgage clause inserted to protect the Society's gift. This becomes a very important matter, when it is remembered that the Society has aided more than 2,500 churches by gifts, aggregating over one million dollars. In one case the Society lost between $500 and $600 for lack of this insurance. Considerable part of my time has been given to this work of securing insurance protection for donations from the gift fund. Two Swede churches have voluntarily returned the amounts of the original gifts, expressing appreciation for the help, and a desire now to have this money help other churches."

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

In October, 1914, the Board appointed Prof. Gilbert N. Brink of Belmont, Cal., Superintendent of its educational work. He entered upon his duties in January, since which time he has visited most of our schools for the Negroes and Indians, also the schools in Cuba. His eminent fitness for this position has been attested by many who have had intimate knowledge of him and his work. After his graduation from college and Theological Seminary he was supervisor and instructor in the California State Institution for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind; for about nine years, from 1901, was in educational work of the Government in the Philippines as Division and Deputy Superintendent, and later First Assistant Director, until his resignation and return to the States in 1909, when he became Principal of the Polytechnic High School at Berkeley, and afterward Assistant Headmaster of the Belmont School for Boys. He has a good working knowledge of the Spanish language.

The need for the services of a capable Superintendent is very great. The magnitude of the work, its complexity, the changes continually taking place in a teaching force of about two hundred, courses of study properly adapted to the needs of the people, questions of administration, enlistment of interest and securing offerings for the maintenance of these Christian institutions, with many other matters that cannot here be enumerated, are sufficiently important to engage the entire time and energy of a Superintendent of Education.

Negro Schools

The peculiar financial distress of the Southern States, in consequence of inability to realize as usual on the cotton crop, has somewhat lessened the enrollment and receipts from students. Some of the secondary schools which rely largely upon contributions from the Negroes have been seriously embarrassed. In one instance of extreme distress where the loss of property and the discontinuance of an excellent school was threatened, the Society and the General Education Board came to the rescue, but at the same time requiring the friends of the institution to do their utmost for its relief. The limitations and disabilities under which many of the teachers in those schools labor are pathetic.

By the appointment of a special Committee on the Society's educational work for the Negroes, particular attention has been given to the subject of expenditures for this purpose. By some it has been felt that decided reductions should be made in order that more might be done in other mission fields where needs are great and urgent. After a careful and comprehensive study of the situation the Committee recommended a decrease of three and a third per cent annually for a period of three years in the budget for these schools, making a gross reduction of ten per cent for the period. This was to be offset, however, by increased charges for board and tuition, so that there should be no serious impairment of the resources for their maintenance. In view, however, of the financial conditions above mentioned, and the impracticability at present of making the proposed increase to students, or otherwise obtaining needed aid, your Board, while concurring in the general policy outlined by the Committee, regarded it inadvisable to attempt to put it into effect immediately. But, in some instances, slight reductions have been made and diligence is exercised in curtailing expenses wherever practicable. Adequate relief can be had only by endowments of these higher schools which are mainly dependent on the Society. It is gratifying that the Northern Baptist Convention, at its meeting last year in Boston, recognized the claims of these institutions in any comprehensive campaign by its Board of Education for the benefit of denominational schools.

We cannot yet disengage ourselves from the responsibility of providing capable Christian leaders for more than ten million Negroes, about one-fourth of whom are reported as members of Baptist churches. In the bounds of the Northern Baptist Convention are about a thousand Negro Baptist churches, with nearly or quite one hundred thousand members, whose pastors, in many instances, were educated in the Society's schools. At the meeting of the Negro National Baptist Convention, in Philadelphia, last September, attended by the Corresponding Secretary of the Society, about nine-tenths of nearly a thousand men present, by a rising vote, expressed their appreciation of the benefit they had received from the schools aided by the Society.

The General Education Board, which has devoted much attention to Negro education in the South, in the published survey of its operations from 1902 to 1914, emphasizes the fact that "the higher education of the Negro ought not to be neglected. The reasoning followed in dealing with secondary schools and colleges for whites is equally valid for Negroes. That is, if primary and secondary schools are to have good teachers, principals and supervisors, provision must be made for the higher training of these instructors and officers. Moreover, competent Negroes often desire higher education as the basis for some form of specialized or professional training."

In this connection we record our gratitude to the General Education Board for its appropriations to some of these institutions, particularly its recent grant of $15,000 for a new dormitory building at Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., on condition that $10,000 more be obtained for this purpose, $5,000 of which is required from the Negroes.

Several of these institutions are centers of manifold activities for the betterment of the Negroes. At Virginia Union University a summer convocation of Negroes at the head of public schools of the State has been held for several years, greatly to the benefit of all in attendance. Negotiations are in progress between the University and the Negro Welfare League for the appointment jointly of a competent man for constructive improvement work in the city and instruction along the line of social service in the University. A summer school is planned at Shaw University this year. Spelman Seminary is fostering rural school work of a truly missionary character by its former students in neglected localities, and Morehouse College, through the energetic efforts of President Hope's wife, is leading in movements for the educational, social and moral betterment of the Negroes in and around Atlanta. Other instances might be cited to show the wide outreaching influence of these Christian institutions. The men and women at the heads of these schools, generally, are animated by an intense and lofty missionary spirit, as are also their associates.

At Benedict College, through the efforts of President Valentine, a modest but well-arranged hospital building has been built at small expense, though it is valued at about $4,000.

Several of the higher institutions have as members of their Boards of Trustees men of prominence among both the white and the Negro Baptists of the South. We mention with pleasure the sympathetic and valuable service which some of these brethren who stand high in educational, ministerial and legal circles have rendered as trustees.

Indians: Educational

Indian University, or Bacone College, as more generally known, located at Bacone, near Muskogee, Okla., is in a most prosperous condition. The addition to Rockefeller Hall, at a cost of $6,500, affords much better accommodations. There is yet needed, however, a special building for class rooms and other purposes. The religious interest among the students has been unusual. President Randall, writing on February 22d, reported twenty-one students who had been baptized this year, and several others who professed conversion. A portion of the large campus is profitably cultivated, and thus becomes an object lesson to the students in modern methods of raising crops and stock. Income from this source will materially aid in the maintenance of the school.

The Murrow Indian Orphans' Home, which is affiliated with the college, is doing an excellent work. There is need for contributions to support dependent orphans in the home.

A special representative of the College and the Home has been appointed to co-operate with the President in the promotion of interest among the Indians in the Christian education of their children, to enlist financial support of the home, and to give attention to other matters, as may be determined. An endowment of $100,000 would be a wise investment.

Upon the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, which was in favor of this Society as defendant in a long and unjust suit that was carried from Court to Court, the United States Government has issued a patent in fee simple to the Society to the valuable tract of about 152 acres, which the University had occupied for more than thirty years. This was in accordance with the original purpose of the Creek Council and with treaty provisions between the Creek Nation and the United States.

Schools for Spanish-Speaking Fields

The disturbances in Mexico necessitated the suspension of our missionary training school at Monterey. Several former students have been engaged in mission work during the year. The plans under consideration for the establishment of a Theological School and a Boys' High School and a Girls' High School, to be maintained and managed jointly by the organizations of Northern and Southern Baptists at work in Mexico, are stated particularly in the missionary section of this report and in Appendix C.

In Cuba the Internacionales Colegios at El Cristo reports a good year. In affiliation with it and under the supervision of a special committee are ten or twelve primary schools in our mission fields. These are maintained partly by the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society and partly by tuition fees. Thus we are reaching and moulding the characters of several hundred children annually and contributing to the raising up of an intelligent Christian Church membership.

In Porto Rico, at Rio Piedras, the Grace Conaway Institute for the training of Christian workers is beginning to meet the urgent need for more competent native preachers and leaders in the activities of our churches. The students have the advantages of the Insular University, located at Rio Piedras. The rooms in the new and beautiful building that are not required for our own students are gladly taken by students in the University, who are thus brought into contact with evangelical influences, and from whom some revenue is derived for the upkeep of the property. The good friends in California, whose generous gifts made possible the erection of this building as a memorial to one loved and lost, rendered an inestimable service to the strengthening of our denomination in Porto Rico.

By order and on behalf of the Board,

H. L. MOREHOUSE,

Corresponding Secretary.

D. G. GARABRANT,

Chairman.

APPENDIX A

Mexico

Action of the Board of Managers of The American Baptist Home Mission Society concerning proposed Co-operative Work in Mexico.

The Board of Managers of The American Baptist Home Mission Society having considered the recommendations of the Conference in Cincinnati, June 30 and July 1, 1914, concerning co-operation by missionary organizations at work in Mexico, and other related matters, have reached the following conclusions:

1. We express our appreciation of the careful survey of the whole field of evangelical activity in Mexico and the spirit of the Conference in endeavoring to secure co-operation in important departments of the work and an equitable division of territory to the organizations at work in Mexico. We are in hearty sympathy with the dominant spirit and aim of the Conference, even though we may not be in full accord with all of the recommendations.

2. We regard with favor the general scheme for the establishment of a joint depository of publications in the City of Mexico; also for the consolidation of the present church papers, with the understanding, however, that provision shall be made for the publication of denominational news and views for our Baptist constituency in the Republic and elsewhere; also for the publication of an illustrated paper for the young people. Concerning the establishment of one joint publishing plant in the City of Mexico, we reserve our judgment until more definite information is afforded concerning the initial cost for land, buildings, equipment and expense of maintenance.

3. We do not regard with favor the establishment of one joint institution for the training of Christian workers. The proposed name, "The Bible Institute and Theological Seminary of the Evangelical Church in Mexico," would not be acceptable to Baptists, who know only the local church and could not commit themselves to the recognition of a territorial or national church. Furthermore, Mexico is so vast a field that two Christian training schools might well be provided at important centers, one for the churches in Northern Mexico that are related to the Baptist societies of the North and of the South, located at Monterey; the other, for the churches of other denominations, located in the City of Mexico. Thus located, the opportunities for students to engage in practical missionary work would be much greater than if all were in one institution.

4. The recommendations of the General Committee on Education present a desirable ideal toward which this Society will co-operate to such extent as its financial circumstances will admit.

5. We regard with favor the general recommendations of the Conference concerning the occupation of the whole country by evangelical missionary organizations, so that each shall be primarily and chiefly responsible for the cultivation of a definite portion thereof. We recognize the difficulties, however, in the transfer of missionary and educational enterprises of one body to another, and we cannot unqualifiedly commit ourselves to the entire plan as proposed until all that is involved in such changes is more clearly understood.

6. We feel compelled to withhold our approval of the recommendation that henceforth all the churches should be known by the common appellation of "The Evangelical Church of Mexico," it being understood that the special name of the denomination would follow this common designation in a bracket. If this means that each denomination should be regarded as a component member of a national Mexican Church, we could not enter into such an arrangement. If it is meant to apply only to local churches, then the phraseology should be, for instance, as follows: "The Evangelical Church (Baptist) of Monterey." Baptists could go no farther than this.

7. The proposed "Message to the Mexican People," in our judgment, should not be issued without the approval of the boards at work in Mexico, and may well be deferred until definite action on many of the recommendations has been taken by these bodies.

8. Concerning the "interchange of membership," it must be said that while Baptist churches in many instances give certificates of membership to those desiring to unite with other churches, Baptist usage which requires immersion on personal profession of faith in Christ as a condition of church membership would preclude the reception upon such certificate of members of other denominations, who have not complied with these requirements. "The transfer of membership" by certificate to Baptist churches is therefore impracticable.

9. We believe that it will be part of wisdom to confine our efforts at first to the attainment of a few of the most vital and important objects embraced in the recommendations of the Conference, allowing ample time for thorough consideration by all concerned of the whole subject.

10. We regard with favor the appointment of a "Permanent Field Committee" for the purposes mentioned, with this reservation, viz., that it shall not undertake to arbitrate in any matter without the consent or approval of the boards or societies directly interested in matters at issue.

APPENDIX B

Tentative plan of co-operation between The American Baptist Home Mission Society and the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society, parties of the first part, and the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, party of the second part, in Educational work in Mexico.

1. It is proposed to establish a Theological Seminary, a boys' school of academic grade with college courses if demanded, and a girls' school of academic grade. These will be boarding schools; only a limited number of local pupils in advanced studies to be received in the schools for boys and girls.

2. The Theological Seminary and the boys' school shall be located at Aguascalientes and the girls' school at Saltillo.

3. The properties of these schools shall be held by a special holding company of nine, three from each of the aforesaid organizations, with proper stipulations and safeguards to the effect that in the event of the abandonment of any or all these properties, each organization shall be entitled to its pro rata of the proceeds of the sale, according to the amount of its expenditure thereon. The holding company shall have no power to dispose of or to encumber the properties without approval and authority of the organizations represented.

4. A dormitory and school building for the Theological Seminary and the boys' academy shall be erected at Aguascalientes at a cost of about $20,000, the expense to be borne equally by the A. B. H. M. Society and the Foreign Mission Board of the S. B. C. The site may be provided on the church property there.

For the girls' school at Saltillo, either the present school property of the Foreign Board shall be utilized or the proceeds of its sale shall be applied to the purchase of the better school property that is to be relinquished by the Presbyterians, it being understood that the Woman's A. B. H. M. S. will appropriate $10,000 for the better and larger accommodations required.

5. The A. B. H. M. S. and the Foreign Mission Board of the S. B. C. shall equally share in the expense of maintaining the Theological Seminary and the boys School, and shall conjointly share equally with the W. A. B. H. M. S. in the expense of maintaining the girls' school in accordance with approved budgets.

6. The appointment of instructors and their compensation shall be made annually upon the recommendations of a joint committee of the three organizations. The same committee shall also determine the curriculum for each school.

7. Moderate aid may be provided for students for the ministry, and for other worthy and promising students.

8. Day schools for girls now maintained by the W. A. B. H. M. S. at Monterey, City of Mexico and Puebla shall be maintained under its control; and other day schools may be established by any of the three organizations; and advanced pupils therein shall be encouraged to attend the higher schools for boys and girls, for their higher education.

TERRITORIAL RELATIONSHIPS

To make portions of the mission fields of the Home Mission Society and of the Foreign Board more compact, the Society will relinquish to the Foreign Board its work and church property in the city and state of Aguascalientes; and the Foreign Mission Board will relinquish to the Society its work and church property in Saltillo and adjacent regions in the state of Coahuila. Other reciprocal transfers may be considered later.

APPENDIX C

Oklahoma

The Baptist General Convention of Oklahoma at its annual meeting in November, 1914, voted for alignment exclusively with the Southern Baptist Convention. This, of course, carried with it the termination of co-operation with the American Baptist Home Mission Society. This was done against the repeatedly expressed desire of your board for the continuance of the co-operative relations that had proved so beneficial to our work for many years.

Public agitation for such alignment began in June, 1912, by the editor of a Baptist paper in an adjacent State and by the action of a church, which action was published and widely disseminated throughout the State. This led to inquiry by the Corresponding Secretary of the Society of the Convention as to the significance of these utterances and a suggestion that something might be done to stop further agitation on the subject. His reply stated that for two years previously such alignment had been advocated by some who cited the New Mexico case as a precedent. In subsequent correspondence the Secretary of the Convention urged that the Society take the initiative in withdrawing from the State and thus settle the matter. After the meeting of the Convention in November, 1912, your board appointed a committee to consider the situation, a result of which was the adoption of a communication to the board of the Oklahoma Convention, referring to the cordial relations that had existed for many years between the two bodies, and the agitation that had arisen, and stating that the Society was willing to consider the readjustment of its relations with the Convention if it should be deemed advisable. The board of the Convention in a brief response said: "Regarding the continuation of work in Oklahoma by the Home Mission Society, we beg leave to fraternally decline to take any action in the matter and respectfully ask your Society to do whatever it thinks will be for the best interests of Christian work in the premises."

In accordance with this suggestion, your board in April, 1913, addressed another communication to the Oklahoma board, in which, after referring to the judgment of the Joint Committee in the New Mexico case to the effect that modifications of plans of co-operation should be the subject of mutual consideration by the bodies concerned, the request was made for a conference on the subject between three appointed representatives of each body. The response in May, 1913, was a positive declination to consider the question of a modification of plans of co-operation, but only the question of future alignment, a committee being appointed, with definite instructions, however, not to act in regard to a continuation or modification of the present plans. A reason given for not going into the proposed conference was that other organizations interested should have representatives present. In October, 1913, your board formally responded, expressing its willingness to have in the proposed conference representatives of the only other co-operating body with which it has worked in co-operative relations with the Oklahoma Convention under a definite plan for the three organizations, viz., the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention; but that the question of alignment was one for the Convention and not for this Society to determine, and we therefore saw no necessity for a conference on that matter. The Convention in November, 1913, proceeded to appoint a committee of nine to confer with committees of the same number that might be appointed to represent the Northern Baptist Convention and the Southern Baptist Convention for the consideration of the question of future alignment. The committee of the Northern Baptist Convention in January, 1914, replied that they considered it beyond their province to engage in a conference for this purpose, and that in accordance with principles previously enunciated and approved by the joint committees on relationships, matters of this character should be determined by the State Convention in consultation with such denominational agencies as have been in active co-operation with it. When informed of this action, which seemed to close further negotiations in that direction, your board in April, 1914, suggested to the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention that we unite in a joint expression of our judgment that the best interests of the denomination in the State and the interests of the organizations which we represent will be best subserved by a continuance of the plan of co-operation with possibly some modifications. That board in August, 1914, declined to take any action whatever in the matter. A final communication by your board to the Oklahoma Convention was made in November, 1914, as follows:

The Board of Managers of the American Baptist Home Mission Society to the Baptist General Convention of Oklahoma—Christian Greeting:

For eight years we have been delightfully united in service in our great missionary enterprises in Oklahoma. The plan of co-operation between your body and the two general organizations known as the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention and the American Baptist Home Mission Society has been productive of large results in the development of our denominational interests in the State. Indeed, the essential features of this plan date back to 1900, so that it may be said that we have thus worked together about fourteen years.

This arrangement has provided larger financial support than would otherwise have been possible for our Missionary and Church Edifice work; it has beautifully illustrated the practicability of Baptists from all sections of the country living and working together in unity, in contrast to the divisions of former years; it has secured for Oklahoma Baptists a large place in the sympathies and prayers of Baptists of the whole country; and in turn has afforded the Baptists of the State the opportunity for participation in the great home and foreign missionary enterprises of the general organizations both of Northern and of Southern Baptists.

Now, as we are informed, it is proposed that the Baptist General Convention of Oklahoma shall terminate these relationships and hereafter become affiliated exclusively with the Southern Baptist Convention. This is a matter of so much concern to the American Baptist Home Mission Society that we feel constrained to ask your consideration of a brief statement of our views on the subject.

We deem it unnecessary and undesirable to rehearse the story of the communications between your Board and this Board at intervals extending over two or three years, but rather to deal simply with the present situation. We maintain the same attitude to-day as that expressed repeatedly in the formal action of this Board, namely, that we deem it desirable that the plan of co-operation, with perhaps some modifications, should continue indefinitely. We believe that the great mass of Oklahoma Baptists, if undisturbed by agitators, would be content to have it continued. We believe that the advantages as above stated, of this arrangement, would be even more manifest in the future than in the past.

We note the two principal arguments adduced in favor of the proposed affiliation exclusively with the Southern Baptist Convention. These are derived from the action of the Joint Committees on New Mexico. In substance these are, first, that it is best for a State Convention to be affiliated with one or the other of the general organizations; and, second, that the question should be decided by the preponderating sectional element in the denomination in the State.

The situation in Oklahoma is so exceptional, however, that we feel that a matter of so much moment should not be decided in this manner. There are other weighty considerations to be taken account of.

While the Convention undeniably has the right to affiliate with either general organization, is it best and wise, all things considered, to exercise that right? Are there not other interests that may be seriously affected by such action, and if so, should they not be carefully considered? No one lives to himself; his life is bound up with the lives and the interests of others. We believe that the American Baptist Home Mission Society, which has been by far the largest contributor to the development of our denomination in the State, should not henceforth be discarded and denied access to the strong constituency which it has helped to create by its liberal expenditure, for nearly fifty years, of about $860,000. A very large proportion of churches in the State have had aid from its missionary funds, and about two hundred churches have had gifts from its Church Edifice fund for the erection of houses of worship. Shall the Society now be dismissed with merely some complimentary words and be henceforth debarred from reaping anything from its bountiful sowing? Would this be regarded as fair and equitable? Moreover, there is a large minority of Baptists from Northern States in Oklahoma, who would be greatly embarrassed and distressed by such an arrangement.

Furthermore: Is not the Society entitled to the sympathy and financial support of Oklahoma Baptists because of its long and liberal outlay on behalf of the Indians? The annual expense of our missionary work to the Blanket Indians is about $8,000; and about the same amount for the maintenance of the excellent school at Bacone, for all Indians. The Society has secured several valuable tracts of land with chapels, parsonages and other improvements for those Indian Baptist churches, which have nearly 1,200 members, and holds title to a valuable tract of land for the school near Muskogee, the valuation of this property being at least $85,000. With that institution the Murrow Indian Orphans' Home is closely related and is doing a blessed work. The Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society also has its work and valuable mission property in Oklahoma. These established interests must continue to receive the fostering care of the Society. Ought they not likewise to have the fostering care of Oklahoma Baptists in co-operation with the Society?

Lastly: The termination of relationships by the Oklahoma Convention with the Home Mission Society would seem to many as a step backward, particularly at this time, when closer co-operation is being effected between Northern and Southern Baptists in their missionary and educational work on this continent and in foreign fields. There is general satisfaction over the co-operative arrangement between the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention and the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society in the work of the Shanghai College and Seminary and in the Tokyo Theological Seminary, and in the Chinese Baptist Publication Society. At this moment negotiations are well advanced between that Foreign Mission Board and the Home Mission Society for co-operative effort in the establishment of one theological school and other educational enterprises in Mexico; also for one Baptist publishing establishment. If we can draw closer together and work effectively together in other fields, why can it not be done also in Oklahoma? In view of such a marked tendency to get together wherever practicable, and in view of the fact of fourteen years of co-operative work, would not the discontinuance of these relations in Oklahoma be regarded widely as an untimely revival and accentuation of the sectional spirit, with grievous results?

We believe that if representatives of the three co-operating bodies can fraternally confer together in regard to all these matters a satisfactory solution of the problems may be found to the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

By order and on behalf of the Board.

Yours in fraternal service.

H. L. MOREHOUSE,

Corresponding Secretary.

INFORMATION CONCERNING THE WORK OF THE AMERICAN BAPTIST HOME MISSION SOCIETY IN OKLAHOMA

I. HISTORICAL OUTLINE

The work of the American Baptist Home Mission Society in Oklahoma includes what was done in Indian Territory before it was merged in Oklahoma in 1907.

The Society in 1865 took over the Indian work of the American Baptist Missionary Union, which for many years had maintained missions to the civilized tribes in Indian Territory. For nearly fifty years this Society has prosecuted its work in the eastern part of Oklahoma, formerly known as Indian Territory; and for nearly twenty-five years in the western part of the State. These years may be divided into four periods, as follows:

First Period, 1865-1890.—Work chiefly though not wholly among the civilized tribes. Its distinct work among the Blanket Indians was begun in 1889.

Second Period, 1890-1900.—Oklahoma Territory opened to settlement April 22, 1889; Cherokee Strip opened September 16, 1893. The Society proceeded quickly to occupy every important point therein, appointing local and general pioneer missionaries. During the latter part of this period the Society co-operated with a Baptist organization in each territory.

Third Period, 1900-1906.—There were two inharmonious Conventions in each Territory. The Society took the initiative in bringing about a union of both in each territory, which was effected in 1900, when a plan of co-operation was adopted between each Convention and the Home Mission Society and the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Fourth Period, 1906-1914.—Oklahoma was admitted as a State November 10, 1907. In anticipation of this, on November 6, 1906, there was effected a consolidation of the two territorial Conventions, under the name of the Baptist General Convention of Oklahoma, with which the two general bodies above mentioned continued co-operation for the ensuing eight years.

II. EXPENDITURES FOR MISSIONARY PURPOSES IN OKLAHOMA

From 1900 to 1914.....	202,595.81

The appropriations to work among the whites from 1900-1914 were $117,261; for work among the Indians, $85,334.88. The missionary work by the Society among the Blanket Indians has never been included in the co-operative plans. This work has been prosecuted among the Kiowa, Comanche, Apache, Arapahoe, Cheyenne, Caddo, Wichita, Sac and Fox, where there are more than 1,000 members of Baptist churches.

For the decade ending 1876 the average number of missionaries annually was 7; for the next decade, ending 1886, 21; for the next period, to 1900, 77; from 1900 to 1907, mostly in co-operative relations, 217; from 1907-14, mostly in co-operation, 204. Teachers in schools and missionaries to Blanket Indians are included in foregoing figures.

III. CHURCH EDIFICE WORK

The loans were mostly to churches which had also received gifts.

Nearly or quite one-fourth of the churches that have meeting houses in Oklahoma have been aided in building by the Society. The localities of churches thus aided is herewith given. In several of the largest cities two or more churches have had grants. Some churches were also aided in the erection of their second houses of worship.

FIELD WORK

THE outstanding features of the year's work have been the promotion of united endeavor for all the missionary undertakings connected with the Northern Baptist Convention; the completion of a special study of foreign-speaking work; the furtherance of the new movement in behalf of Latin-America; study and institute work in the interest of rural evangelism; and finally, the organization of a nation-wide special presentation of the work of the American Baptist Home Mission Society.

Incidentally, considerable office work has been inevitable. No small part of that necessarily has been done on trains, in hotels and elsewhere, far from office facilities. The work has required crossing the continent six times, and with many long zigzags. On one trip thirty-seven meetings were held in thirty-three days, with the nights spent in thirty different places, and 9,600 miles covered between meetings. On another run of only twenty-one days, thirteen nights were spent on trains. More than 42,000 miles have been traveled for the Society. It is a cause for denominational gratitude that such constant traveling required of the Society's Field Secretary is done with but slight expense to the Society.

I. United Missionary Campaign

Previously I seldom attended associations. This year I have gone to a large number of them in Michigan, Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado in behalf of the United Missionary Campaign of the Northern Baptist Convention. The Southeast Association, Kansas, was the first one attended. It adopted the plans proposed heartily, and since has made solid progress in carrying them out. Rev. R. W. Shaw, chairman of its U. M. C. committee, has been elected chairman of the State Committee on Efficiency, which is carrying the work through other Associations, aiming to secure its adoption in every church. In making the Association an organic unit of advance, Michigan is near the front, with New York, Oregon and other States doing splendid work. Specializing for a time on Associations has given me a fresh understanding and appreciation of the toils and sacrifices of District and State Secretaries. It would be good for the cause if the "swivel-chair" critics of missionary administration could have even a fortnight of actual experience in the field.

In one Association I went with the State Secretary from church to church in an "Intensive Campaign." That is the correct name. After close study I am convinced that the missionary hope of the denomination so far as methods are concerned depends on carrying the united programme through the Association to every church. My attendance at the Society's full share of Conventions as well as Associations this year has been in the interest of all the work of the Northern Baptist Convention, stressing one phase no more than another. It has been found possible to present the whole field, and that not by colorless generalities, but in a concrete way.

At the end of the year a new edition of my "United Instead of Divided Giving: How It Works in One Church," is being issued by the U. M. C. This edition of the pamphlet gives testimony as to the working of the united method at the end of ten years and also the fact that one whole State has now adopted that method of making its offerings.

II. Advance in Foreign-speaking Work

The international session of the Home Mission Society in Boston last June, in which brief addresses were made by representatives of twenty-six nationalities, voiced to a degree the breadth of that phase of the Society's work, on which the Board has asked me to specialize for a time. My service in that direction came to a happy consummation in securing Rev. Charles A. Brooks to be superintendent of our foreign-speaking work. It is a joy to report that our expectations concerning his fitness and usefulness in that part of the field are being fully justified. He combines the breadth of sympathy and winsomeness with the energy and aggressiveness needed. It is a pleasure to note also that the Committee on Immigrant Work of the Home Mission Council has chosen for its special representative and supervisor at ports of entry Dr. Joseph E. Perry, who has been so highly esteemed in connection with our own foreign-speaking work in Massachusetts.

III. The New Day for Latin-America

It is as if a new geologic epoch were transforming the planet before our eyes. The cutting of the Isthmus of Panama brings all the coasts and all the peoples of both Americas into one neighborhood. The destiny of the Western Hemisphere is now to be determined. Shall genuine Christianity be made known at least throughout the twenty Latin-American republics? That task is barely touched. It never has been attacked in force nor even thoroughly reconnoitered. It is so stupendous that the only possibility of accomplishing it is by the concerted action of all the sincere evangelical forces.

Two years ago I was led to suggest that an interdenominational committee be appointed to concentrate attention and develop efficiency in Latin-American missions. That committee is now far advanced with arrangements for a Latin-American Missionary Conference, to be held at Panama City for ten days in February, 1916 (February 10-20). The great Edinburgh Missionary Conference, in the hope of incorporating Roman Catholics into fellowship with itself, excluded Latin-America from its field of study. But foremost leaders in that Conference now see the imperative need of this one. An English committee is co-operating with us. Eight commissions of ecumenical compositions are now engaged on as many aspects of mission work in Latin-America. Their studies will be printed and in the hands of delegates throughout the two Americas before they start to the Conference. These commission reports, as modified by the discussions at the Conference and with supplementary matter, will be issued in eight volumes, marking an absolutely new era for missionary work in Latin-America.

The general Conference will be followed immediately by regional conferences, two or three of which will be within the field of operation of our Society, which comprises one-third of the entire population of Latin-America, including nearly one-half of its republics.

Owing to the distressing conditions in Mexico, most of the American missionaries to that country have been compelled to be in the United States. Advantage of that was taken to secure the first great conference of both missionaries and missionary administrators that ever has been held for any large country. This was in Cincinnati last summer. Dr. Robert E. Speer declared that it was without precedent. The unmistakable presence of the Holy Spirit gave promise of a new day for poor old Mexico as soon as the way is open again for work there. The supreme desire of the Conference was to secure a more thoroughgoing and complete occupation of that field than ever has been made, or than ever could be made without concerted action. One outcome already is that Northern and Southern Baptists are to join forces as never before in the part of Mexico which we cultivate.

IV. Rural Evangelism

Having obtained from State Secretaries throughout our field names of country pastors who have been especially efficient in pastoral and personal evangelism, I have corresponded with these as to their ways of working and the results obtained. Pessimism as to the evangelistic efficiency of twentieth century country pastors is impossible in view of the facts revealed. The suggestions of experience and success will be helpful in stimulating others. In Rural Church Institutes in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, evangelism has been the theme of that part of the programme which I have provided, my insistence being that personal evangelism and social service must go hand in hand. There are country pastors all the way across this continent who are worthy successors of the pioneers who created our denomination. In many a country church there is a spiritually genetic atmosphere like that which most of us remember from childhood.

V. Special Promotion of Interest in Home Missions

On July 4 it was a pleasure to present Home Missions to the enthusiastic Young People's Union of America at Kansas City. Educational courses on the subject were given at summer assemblies in Michigan, Colorado and New York.

There always has been a demand on the part of churches greater than District Secretaries could supply for speakers intimately acquainted with Home Missions. Now that most of the District Secretaries represent jointly Home and Foreign Missions, the sense of need is accentuated, because they see that there never can be a long list of Home Missionaries on furlough available for presenting the needs of the field. To help meet this need, as many of our workers as possible, including superintendents of missions, have been mobilized for the last six weeks of the year, subject to appointments arranged by District Secretaries.

In twenty-three States a dozen of us have been able, in addition to our regular work, to visit more than two hundred churches, having aggregate Home Mission apportionments of over $40,000. One who was new to such campaigning was prostrated by it. Whatever the results, this has been to us a joyous service. We believe that by this method still more and better work can be done another year.

Thus the past year's field work has combined attention to unification of all missionary interests with specialization on particular tasks.

REV. C. A. WOODY, D.D., LL.D., PORTLAND, ORE., GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT

THIS annual review of the Pacific Division for the year ending March 31, 1915, is written in view of the approaching annual meeting of the Society in Los Angeles during the month of May. It has been supposed that denominational home mission work began its direct relations with the Pacific Slope in the appointment of Ezra Fisher and Hezekiah Johnson in the year 1844, but who arrived in the old Oregon country in the late part of 1845. There were, however, other points of contact to which little attention has been given. One of these is most interesting. Rev. John M. Peck, the pioneer Home Missionary and the founder of Rock Springs Academy, later developing into Shurtleff College, under date of March 19, 1852, wrote a letter to General Joseph Lane, delegate in Congress from Oregon. In this letter he relates that in 1827, the year the seminary opened, a young man about sixteen years of age was one of its first pupils. He reached the place with but a single dollar in his pocket. This pupil developed such proficiency that in the spring of 1828 he was made a tutor in the Seminary. Opportunity offered him to perfect himself in mathematics and the general knowledge of surveying, and later he spent some time in the office of Edward Bates, who afterward became Lincoln's Attorney-General. Mr. Peck learned that he had removed to the Territory of Oregon, and writes to know of his character and usefulness in the far West. It is an interesting coincidence that during the summer of 1845, while Fisher and Johnson were making their toilsome journey across the plains, the hand of this young man was writing the Constitution of the provisional government of the Oregon Territory, probably the most decisive document prepared in the entire history of the old Oregon country, and to which, more than to any other single fact, may be given the credit for securing a union of all the elements then resident in the Oregon country.

I do not know a more interesting illustration of the value of the by-products in the work of home missions. This young man, so largely receiving his education under the personal direction of John M. Peck, the pioneer Western missionary, well repaid that early investment of a Home Missionary's effort and interest. This matter of writing that early constitutional basis of local government in the old Oregon country, and the laying out of a road from old Fort Hall into the Willamette Valley, not to mention other services, were large contributions made by this

This meeting of the Society occurs on the seventieth anniversary of the arrival of the Society's first missionaries, and on the twenty-fifth of this month occurs the seventy-first anniversary of the organization of the first Baptist church west of the Rocky Mountains, effected at West Union, near Portland, Ore., May 25, 1844, and at the time of the arrival of Fisher and Johnson, consisting of eleven members. They had been preceded, however, by an immigrant preacher, Rev. Vincent Snelling, who had arrived in Oregon in the late part of 1844, and who had already baptized two young people into the fellowship of that Church, himself and wife also having united.

Thus and thus early did Baptist work begin on the Pacific Slope. Organizations followed in other States, as follows: In California, 1849; in Washington, 1859; in Idaho, 1864; in Nevada, 1864; in Arizona, 1878; in Utah, 1880. The table which follows illustrates the rapidity of development, and includes the facts for the seven States of the Pacific Division, comprising 9 conventions, 42 associations and 726 churches:

Year	Number of Churches	Members	Value of Property	Total of Contributions
1845	1	11	None	"100 bushels of wheat delivered in Portland."
1885	254	10,446	335,665	79,063.59
1900	494	32,541	1,463,633	285,015.30
1914	726	79,135	6,645,664	1,374,627.13

The Year's Work

The work has gone steadily forward through the year, with but one change in the force of General Missionaries. On April 5, 1914, Rev. W. C. King, of the East Washington Convention, closed earthly service and entered upon his heavenly course. Greatly beloved, highly appreciated, sincerely mourned, he was a good man, and full of the Holy Spirit. On May 4, Rev. F. R. Margetts was unanimously chosen to succeed him, and entered at once upon the work. Trained in both law and theology, he is showing himself well adapted to his new position, and vigorous in prosecuting its tasks.

About 275 missionaries have been under appointment, and somewhat more than 250 unpaid but highly skilled and devoted missionary wives have served with them without appointment or remuneration.

About the usual number of new houses, the number and location of which will be reported by the General Missionaries, have been built during the year, and include the large and commodious house of the Immanuel Church, Salt Lake City; the First Baptist Church of Santa Ana, Cal.; the First Baptist Church of Ontario, Cal., and the First Baptist Church of Berkeley, Cal. The Society contributed largely to the erection of the Salt Lake and Berkeley buildings. The Society has long done invaluable service to the West through its edifice fund, but never more valuable than in these special contributions, by which it insured the erection of such attractive and useful houses as the First and Hamilton Square Churches in San Francisco, the First Church of Berkeley and the Immanuel of Salt Lake City. The building of such edifices at critical centers, and of such cost as put the enterprise entirely beyond the ability of the local church, evidences both strategy and statesmanship. There still remain on the Pacific Slope a few such fields to be aided and fitted for large tasks.

Evangelism

Evangelistic work steadily increases among our churches. Seven or eight Baptist evangelists have served most of the year in the States of this division, without cost to our mission funds, being supported entirely by the free-will offerings of the churches, and seem to have been well cared for financially. Four or five other men of national reputation have held large union or community meetings, special tabernacles seating some thousands of people having been built for the special meetings. Utah, Idaho, and East Washington have had evangelists under appointment. Special co-operative plans by which pastors have been enlisted have provided probably for the largest number of evangelistic meetings held by any one class of evangelists. Three or four varieties of pastoral service have been developed. At the East Washington Convention, nearly every pastor in the State offered his services for an evangelistic meeting outside his own field. About thirty meetings were thus provided for, and most of them have been held. In Portland, the pastors arranged for mutual work, in which two pastors came to the assistance of the pastor in a church, one of the visiting brethren preaching throughout the meeting, and the other visiting pastor giving himself to house-to-house visitation and personal work in the community. In this way there were three men engaged in a two weeks' meeting with each church, and the plan was found to work admirably. In Northern California the Evangelistic Committee of the Convention has arranged one or two series of meetings, in which simultaneous services were held in all the churches in an association. Preachers to carry forward such a campaign were secured through voluntary service of pastors from the Convention field. These served without salary, but the Convention, from its evangelistic fund, provided for the expenses of the advertising campaign and whatever might be needed in addition to the free-will offerings received during the meetings for other expenses. This plan was tried last year, as well as this, and commends itself to the Evangelistic Committee as having large effectiveness. In all the States of the division many pastors have held one or more evangelistic meetings with other churches in the State, on terms mutually satisfactory to the evangelist and the church. I have not been able to secure reports as to the number of evangelistic services reaching our churches during the entire year. Arizona, with 40 churches, has held during the year 18 evangelistic meetings. Oregon reports nearly 100 meetings in its 128 churches. In Southern California about 15 men have been engaged more or less in conducting evangelistic meetings. My impression is that of the 726 churches in the division, fully half of them have been reached by some direct evangelistic services, and the indications are that this Convention year will report the largest number of baptisms of any year in our history. More than 250 series of meetings have been held under Baptist leadership.

District Missionaries

During the year continuous study has been given to the field, with a view to developing several types of district missionary work by which a much larger use of the district missionary may be secured. The outstanding weakness of much of district missionary work done hitherto has grown out of the fact of too large a field and of inefficient supervision. The latter can hardly be given unless fields are smaller, so that more immediate oversight can be given. The possibility of the development of a field by the use of a District Missionary in connection with a settled pastor has been shown in a pamphlet recently published by the Society, entitled "The Rural Reach of a Town Church." The plan therein described has been used for about three years, and has thoroughly demonstrated its value. The General Missionary in Oregon is giving a thorough trial to the plan of settling a District Missionary as pastor of one church in the district. He lives on this field, and gives it in most cases one service on Sunday, but sometimes two Sunday morning services a month, and four to six other points are cared for with one or more services each month, and a thorough pastoral cultivation of the entire field. In some cases three or more of the points cared for have organized churches, and other points are regarded as out-stations. These two methods seem to offer the best results and a larger degree of permanence than any others we have tried in recent years.

Personal Services

My personal services have been continuous throughout the year. I have visited each of the Conventions in my field from two to ten times; have given a large amount of time in efficiency programmes; a series of addresses at two assemblies and one at the Theological Seminary; have traveled across the continent four times, and in all traveling somewhat above 40,000 miles. The amount of office work has been large, and correspondence and special articles have involved the writing of nearly 20,000 pages of manuscript.

Midland Division: Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, and Nebraska.

BRUCE KINNEY, D.D., TOPEKA, KANSAS, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT

SOME notable events have transpired during the last year. Dr. D. D. Proper, Superintendent of the Central Division, after a long and varied experience in Home Mission work, was transferred one year ago to the Church Edifice Department of our work. At the same time the States over which he had had supervision were joined with the Southwest Division, creating the new Midland Division. It is difficult for some of our Eastern friends to realize that these States form, roughly speaking, the middle third of our continent.

I continued to act as District Secretary for the Southwest District until December 1, when it was made a Joint District, with Dr. G. W. Cassidy as Joint Secretary.

Oklahoma

At the annual meeting of the Oklahoma Convention in November, 1914, it was voted by an overwhelming majority to align wholly with the Southern Baptist Convention. For some time this action had been known to be inevitable. This action does not affect the missionary work which the Society is doing among the Blanket Indians of Western Oklahoma nor the educational work which it is doing for the more civilized tribes in Eastern Oklahoma.

Indian Work

Our personnel is the same as last year, though important changes have been made which we believe will greatly increase the efficiency of the work while not appreciably increasing the expense, especially after the first year. The changes are as follows, in effect after April 1, 1915:

Rev. G. Lee Phelps, missionary to the Sac and Fox, was made Field Worker among the Indians, with a variety of duties, both in connection with our schools and orphanage at Bacone and with the missions among the Blanket Indians. His headquarters are at Bacone. Rev. Ira D. Halvorsen, formerly at Elk Creek Church, became missionary to the Sac and Fox, establishing his home at Stroud. The Elk Creek Church was placed under the pastoral care of Rev. H. H. Clouse, of Rainy Mountain, who is to be provided with an auto so that he can conduct services at both places each Sunday. Also assistance has been arranged for Brother Clouse so that other services will be conducted at both places at times when he cannot be present. Most of the compensation for this assistance will come from the proceeds of the rental of the Elk Creek farm.

There are other fields where autos should be provided. They would greatly increase the radius of the missionaries' activities and enable them to reach hundreds of Indians now beyond their influence. One of our missionaries reports that during 1914 he was actually driving his team over thirty days of twenty-four hours each, or one-sixth of his working time.

Our Apache chapel, on Cache Creek, burned recently, but was insured. This raises the question as to whether this chapel ought not to be located more centrally.

Changes

Rev. C. E. Hemans, General Missionary for North Dakota, resigned May 1, 1914, to accept a pastorate in Wisconsin. Very fortunately for the work, Rev. C. E. Tingley was secured to take the vacancy with only one month of interim. Brother Tingley gives promise of becoming an excellent executive officer for that Convention.

In Montana Rev. Thomas Stephenson has given notice that he will close his work May 1, 1915. This is greatly to be regretted, as he has given enthusiasm and consecration to the work, but was made necessary from the fact that he has never fully recovered from a nearly fatal auto accident of two years ago. He has served five years. At their board meeting held on April 1, 1915, Rev. G. Clifford Cress, who has done such a constructive work in Lewistown, Montana, was chosen to lead in place of Brother Stephenson, and there is every reason to expect that he will accept.

Otherwise our excellent corps of General Missionaries is unchanged, and for continuity of effort and efficiency it is to be hoped that no more changes will occur soon.

A New Departure

In the valleys of the Shell and Greybull rivers in Wyoming arrangements have been made by which Rev. R. R. Hopton has an auto. By this means he covers seven organized points with regular preaching at least once every two weeks. It is eighty miles between his extreme points. These fields are thus covered much more efficiently and economically than could be done in any other way. I am persuaded that this plan of using autos ought to be more widely adopted.

Evangelism

In my last annual report I asked for an evangelist for this division. On December 1, 1914, this hope was realized in the person of Rev. E. M. Steadman. He is to work in the more frontier portions of our territory. He has gone mostly to the small, weak and hard fields. In all such places he has doubled the membership and in some cases quadrupled the efficiency of the churches. No similar sum spent this last year has meant more for the future of our work and the Kingdom in this division than this. Ought we not to accept these blessings as tokens of the divine will that we should place more emphasis upon sane evangelism in the future? In one State there are more calls for his services than he could meet in the next two years. Yet there are five or six States where there is equal need.

City Missions

Our work in Kansas City, Kansas, is making steady progress under the continued leadership of Rev. Ray E. York. We ought to continue our helpfulness and emphasize it in the future.

In Des Moines, Iowa, we have entered upon co-operative relations with the City Mission Society, under the leadership of Rev. F. A. Case. A good beginning has been made.

In Denver we suffered a great loss in the death of the president of the City Mission Society, Dr. J. K. Richardson.

Special Features

In North Dakota we should give especial attention to work among the Russians, who are particularly open to us. Also to work among the Norwegians, who are the dominant people in that State. Our future there lies largely with these two peoples and our present opportunities should be seized.

On the whole it may be said that the work in this division is in a prosperous and progressive condition. On the other hand, there is opportunity for great improvement and enlargement if we had sufficient available funds.

Work Among Foreign Speaking Peoples

REV. CHARLES A. BROOKS, NEW YORK, SUPERINTENDENT

YOUR Superintendent assumed the duties of his office September 1, so his activities cover but seven months of this fiscal year.

Naturally, the most important thing has been the task of getting acquainted with the details of the department, the State Secretaries, City Mission Superintendents and the officers and leaders of the various national groups. He has had the privilege of visiting the annual meetings of several of our foreign-speaking conferences, viz., the Roumanian Conference, which met at Indianapolis; the Italian Conference at Orange, N. J.; the Swedish General Conference at St. Paul, and the Norwegian Conference at La Crosse, Wis.

Important conferences have been held with the Executive Committees of the Danish, Norwegian and the Swedish Conferences, and the School Committee of the Hungarian Conference. It was very clear to your Superintendent that if any real and abiding success was to be achieved in dealing with such a variety of languages and peoples that each of these racial groups had to be considered as a unit, and work among them planned on a national scale. These national organizations seem to be the logical channels through which the Society can exert the widest influence. The policy of the Home Mission Society whereby our missionary work among these people is done in co-operation with State organizations and city mission societies makes it very important that your superintendent should maintain close and sympathetic relations with the executive officers of these organizations. In December the annual meeting of the State and City Secretaries was held at Cleveland. This afforded an excellent opportunity for a frank and full discussion of many of the problems which are of vital importance to the success of the work of this department. A simple and comprehensive policy was submitted and was received with hearty and unanimous approval by the brethren represented in this Conference, and later the Board of the Society formally adopted it as a definition of the policy to be pursued in prosecuting this work in co-operation with the agencies with which we are in co-ordinate relations.

One of the most pressing needs has been that of training an efficient leadership among the foreign-speaking people. While the older groups among which we have been working have well equipped and efficient training schools, a fearful lack of any such schools is apparent among the newer immigration. Several attempts have been made to provide the needed training, and a number of disappointments met with, which have simply emphasized the urgency of this need. It appears now that it may be possible to begin, in a modest way, in the fall with a training school in Chicago for the various Slav groups, and in Cleveland for the Hungarians and perhaps the Roumanians. In the absence of any other denominational agency to promote these enterprises, the Home Mission Society feels that it must, for the time being at least, stand back of the promotion of these schools.

The Superintendent would call attention to one or two of the groups among which we are at work as making a unique and special appeal to us as Baptists. The Roumanian people, who are here in large numbers, are especially hospitable to our message. In Roumania, where Baptists are the only Protestant denomination that is making any serious attempt to evangelize this people, there are about eight thousand Baptists. We have in this country a number of flourishing missions and one independently organized church; but there are about twenty groups of these people scattered over the country, with a few Baptists among them, where we could be doing a successful missionary work if we had the missionaries. In order to meet this emergency the Society has co-operated with the various missionaries in paying their expenses upon evangelistic tours to these uncared-for fields—a plan which has met with gratifying results.

Our work among the Russians is another instance where the opportunity for missionary work is vastly greater than the supply of workers. The fact that many roving propagators of fanatical doctrines find their way among these shepherdless groups has made this situation almost tragic. The work among the Poles and Hungarians has been especially blessed this last year. In harmony with the well-known policy of the Society to promote evangelism, plans have been made for carrying out a wide and systematic evangelistic activity among these foreign-speaking groups. Two general evangelists have been appointed to labor among the Swedish churches; men of very high character and ability, who have already demonstrated the possibilities of this service. As rapidly as the men and the means can be found, we are planning to appoint the same type of men for other groups.

It has been our privilege to present the opportunities and needs of this work among the foreign-speaking people before a number of State gatherings, pastors' conferences and local churches, and we have found very gratifying evidences of the intense interest in this aspect of our Home Mission problem. Further occasion for gratitude is found in the splendid spirit of many churches over the country that are located within easy access of foreign-speaking groups. We know of a large number of churches that are eagerly welcoming this close-range missionary opportunity, and without waiting for a missionary who can speak a foreign language, have sought and won scores of these people to Christ.

We believe that notwithstanding the overwhelming proportions of this missionary problem, the Lord is leading us to an ever increasing share in the evangelization of the millions of these folk who have come to us from over the seas, and who are to play such an important part in the future life of America.

Germans

REV. G. A. SCHULTE, NEWARK, N. J., SUPERINTENDENT

THE mission work among the Germans has been prosecuted with remarkable success during the past year. The number of baptisms have been larger than in any previous year with the exception of one. During the winter months the labors of our General Evangelist, Rev. H. Schwendener, have been very successful. Brother Schwendener, who has been active in this capacity for over twenty years, reports the conversion of 131 persons in one district of North Dakota during the month of January. His labors have also been very successful in the new German settlements in Idaho and Montana. Quite a number of Germans have recently entered these two States, and mission work has been begun there. With the help of the Lord, three German churches have been organized in Idaho and the same number in Montana. Brother Graner, the first worker on the field in Idaho, baptized during the last quarter twenty converts.

It must be admitted that the war in Europe has greatly affected our German churches in this country. The close relationship that exists between members of the one nationality in different countries will naturally cause sympathy in times of suffering and distress. Although we may be loyal Americans, yet this feeling cannot be overcome. We have in our German churches people from Germany, Austria and Russia, who live in perfect harmony here, while their friends in Europe may be fighting in opposing armies. It can be surmised that the cry from their distressed friends in Europe was heeded by the German Baptists in America. Without any special effort, the large sum of over $14,000 was raised for the suffering brethren in Germany, Austria and Russia. During the past months a large number of appeals for aid from our stricken brethren in the war zone have been received by our Executive Committee. Our committee, after thoroughly investigating these appeals, have been able to render efficient assistance to many suffering families, which has been thankfully received and appreciated. We feared that this would diminish our income for missionary objects, and especially for our Home Mission work. We realized that special efforts would have to be made to raise the necessary amount for the prosecution of our work in this country. The outlook was rather dark in view of the business depression throughout the country. Since the outbreak of the war many of our people have been without employment. But the Lord has wonderfully helped, so that we did not run behind, but rather came out a little ahead of last year's budget, through a small legacy received.

I am glad to report that the work among the Germans is still progressing. Our membership in the German churches has increased to 31,161. There were added by baptism during the past year 1,520. The membership of the Sunday-schools has increased to 26,572, an increase of 1,003 over last year's report. The churches raised last year for current expenses and other local objects $374,393.23, and for outside objects $103,485.91. This makes a total of $477,879.14. The value of church property is reported to be $2,601,793.86. This does not include our benevolent institutions, such as the two Homes for Aged, the two Girls' Homes, the German Baptist Students' Home in Rochester and the German Baptist Publication Society's plant at Cleveland, Ohio.

A new phase of our work is the appointment of a Field Secretary in connection with the German Baptist Publication Society, who is Rev. William Kuhn, of Philadelphia, Pa. Brother Kuhn's main duty is the furtherance of Sunday-school and Young People's work among our German churches. In several of our large cities Brother Kuhn has held a "School of Methods" for Sunday-school and Young People workers, which have proved to be very successful and of great benefit to those participating. As Field Secretary, the duties of Brother Kuhn include the visiting of all of our Sunday-schools and German Baptist churches in this country, inspiring the members to do more efficient work for their Master. Brother Kuhn is especially adapted for this work, and so far his efforts have been very successful.

The appointment of Rev. J. H. Moehlmann as "Pastor at Large" has proved a great success. The churches when changing pastors are often in great danger of losing ground. At such times they do not only need words of encouragement, but also a firm but loving hand to guide and lead them. Brother Moehlmann has rendered very efficient service in this capacity. Several of our churches have been brought from troubled waters into a haven of peace under the strong leadership of Brother Moehlmann, and have been able to call pastors who are now laboring in harmony and peace with their members.

Department of Education

PROFESSOR GILBERT N. BRINK, SUPERINTENDENT

FIRST impressions are usually vivid. They may be modified as to details by a fuller knowledge later, but in essentials they are likely to prove on the whole accurate.

My acquaintance with the education work of the Home Mission Society is too brief to warrant an attempt to interpret it in all its bearings, yet certain definite impressions stand out so prominently before me at the close of my first general tour among our schools that I feel they point to some very significant facts.

The first of these significant facts is this:

The Negro presents the greatest Home Mission problem in the United States. He is 11,000,000 strong. Every ninth man in our country is a black man. We take great satisfaction in the figures that show the substantial progress the race has made during the last fifty years, but we are shocked when we learn that there are to-day more illiterate Negroes in the United States than there were at the close of the Civil War. With ignorance go inefficiency, superstition and vice, and in these lies the menace of the race problem. Against them only a trained Christian leadership will make headway. Our feeling of responsibility in connection with this great Home Mission problem is increased when we remember that more than 2,000,000 of the black men are Baptists.

The second of these significant facts is this:

There is urgent need for all we can give the Negro through our Christian schools. Trained Christian Negro leaders are essential to the solving of the Negro problem. Such leaders were never more needed than now, nor in such numbers as they are needed to-day. The positive Christian training necessary to create these leaders cannot be secured in the public schools. The colored Baptist churches are not able to supply this need, and the white Baptist churches of the South are not yet ready to attempt it; yet the training of men for wise and Christian leadership must not, cannot, be allowed to decrease. Our splendid Christian missionary schools planted throughout the South must be strongly maintained, so that they can continue to reach out after young men and young women, and train them for service in the Master's kingdom among the members of their own race.

The third of these significant facts is this:

There is great need for a moderate endowment for each of our higher schools. The necessity for the service that these schools are rendering will always exist. One-half million dollars of endowment will insure the permanency of any one of them, and will enable it to continue to render vital service among the colored people as long as the race lasts. Such an endowment will relieve the Home Mission Society of the burden of the school's maintenance, and so release funds for other needy fields. Let us hope that there are those who believe so strongly in the service that is being rendered by these schools, and in the need for this service, that they will help provide the endowment necessary to insure them a permanent and strong life.

The fourth of these significant facts is this:

Our missionaries in Cuba tell us that our most hopeful point of contact is through the mission schools; by reaching the children the parents are reached also. In Cuba, as in the South, there is a crying need for trained teachers and preachers. We must have them both. The opportunity in Cuba is now ours, but it will not remain ours if we neglect it. The disturbed conditions in Mexico have driven many Catholic priests to Cuba, and already they are beginning to establish new schools throughout the island. We must not delay to strengthen the hands of our workers already on the field. The training of men and women for this service has been begun at El Cristo, but neither the plant nor the corps of teachers is adequate to the burden that even now rests upon it. $25,000 are needed to enlarge the dormitories and provide more class-room space. Will some one give it? $2,500 a year are also needed for the employing of teachers in the normal training and ministerial departments of the school. Here is an opportunity for some of our churches to render a splendid service by assuming the support of one or more of these special teachers. Our reports show a like need for the maintenance of strong Christian schools in Porto Rico and in Mexico.

Our mission schools are rendering a great service; one we cannot possibly do without, and they should be maintained by us in a great way.

Arizona

REV. T. F. MCCOURTNEY, PHOENIX

CONDITIONS on most of our fields have been unfavorable, especially in the mining districts. But our forces have been courageous and the Lord has greatly blessed and helped.

Twenty-five missionaries from the Home Mission Society this year have cared for 28 churches and 22 out-stations. These missionaries have reported more than 100 baptisms; 2 churches have been organized, making in all 41 in the State; 2 churches have become self-supporting and 5 churches received less than they did the year before; 2 new mission fields have been occupied and at least 10 new fields should be occupied at once; 2 new edifices have been built and 4 more should be erected this coming year; there have been 197 baptisms during the year, and we now have about 2,145 members, which is not much increase over last year because of the dropping of non-residents and loss occasioned by closing down of mines and other financial reverses.

Two pastors have been employed as District Missionaries, and they have done very well, but could do much better with better conveyance. Salaries are too small to justify the use of autos, which would double the value of many of our missionaries.

In four cases two churches have been under the care of one pastor or missionary, but many of our churches are too far apart to be grouped in this manner.

We have tried to stress evangelistic work as far as possible without employing specialists. More meetings than usual have been conducted by pastors for neighboring churches and for their own. Eight meetings have been conducted by neighboring pastors, six or more have conducted meetings of their own and five meetings have been conducted by the General Missionary.

The Home Mission Society has furnished $5,702.10 for our regular mission work and $1,500 for our Indian work; and for building, $267.67 in gift and $400 loan toward the building of one new chapel. Our Convention has no fund for edifice work, but from our regular fund we have expended $78.78, and we have raised in full for State work $3,510 approximately, and for other beneficence about $3,500 or more, and for all purposes about $41,000.

The need for work among our Mexican population is increasing rapidly, and we should have one new mission at once. Our only Mexican mission has done well, but we are not doing our fair share of this work.

The Negro population of the State is increasing and is calling for more attention from us.

Our work among the Indians is encouraging, though too meager. There are two missions among the Hopis and one among the Navajos, so situated that one missionary can be pastor of all, though there are two women workers at each station.

The following table shows the growth of our work in the State for thirty years by decades.

Year	No. M. Houses	Members	Val. Prop.	Self Support.	For Missions	No. Cha.
1914	31	2,099	$144,320	$30,209.25	$7,412.09	39
1904	10	686	37,500	15,130.00	1,563.00	15
1894	5	283	16,500	3,432.40	150.94	8
1884	4	125	12,500	800.00	15.00	5

(This table was prepared up to last year for the reason that our statistics for 1915 are not yet completed and I have been compelled to estimate and have to do that each year as our year closes April 1st.)

California, North

REV. C. W. BRINSTAD, BERKELEY

THE past year has been noted for a steady growth in all phases of our work rather than for the brilliant things accomplished. We have organized 4 new churches, occupied 7 new mission fields, added 1,239 to our churches by baptism, and 15 out-stations have been regularly cared for by our missionaries; we have had 5 Pastors-at-Large, or District Missionaries, and in many instances they have saved a number of fields to the denomination; 1 church has become self-supporting, and there are about 25 new fields that should be entered at once; 12 meeting-houses have been built, and at least 10 more should be this coming year. Owing to the great distances, it is practically impossible for us to group two or more churches under the pastoral care of one man, although in some instances it is done with good results.

We have placed special emphasis upon the evangelistic part of our work, having had Evangelists Sims and Holmes in the field on full time until the first of November. The Simultaneous Campaign is one feature of our work. Each association agrees to hold meetings in all the churches at the same time running for two weeks. Pastors of other churches with evangelistic talent are asked to preach at these meetings. The Convention bears all the expense except entertainment, and a free-will offering is taken during the meetings and sent to the State office to be used in promoting the evangelistic work of the State. Besides the work done under the direction of the State Convention, a number of noted evangelists, such as Francis, Ostrom, Evans and many others, have held meetings in a number of our churches with splendid success.

We have recently appointed a missionary to three more nationalities: Mexican, Spanish and Portuguese. Mission stations have been opened up at Fresno, Sanger and Selma, and a number of Mexicans have been converted in each place. The converts have united with the American churches until such time as they are strong enough to organize a Mexican church. Additional missions will be opened as fast as practicable. Opportunities for work with the foreign-speaking people are greater than we can secure the funds to place missionaries with the different nationalities. To reach with the Gospel the thousands of foreigners that are coming here each year we should secure a worker for each language spoken. The immigrants now coming to our State are settling chiefly in the cities, especially in San Francisco and vicinity. It is almost impossible to touch them with the message of Christ except through a missionary of the same nationality. We are sure the Baptists of Northern-California will rise to their opportunities.

California, South

REV. J. F. WATSON, LOS ANGELES

WITH a capable ministry and a loyal laity, the Baptists of Southern California are making steady advance. In life and doctrine they are conservatively progressive; in action, intensely aggressive, and a high standard of efficiency is maintained. The Southern California Baptist Convention is steadily enlarging its scope of activities. An efficient Edifice Department has been organized, a definite policy for mission work among the foreign-speaking peoples has been adopted, and closer co-operative relationships entered into with the national societies. The Convention is assisting in the support of student workers at the Universities of Berkeley and Palo Alto, and has also accepted the responsibility for the management and maintenance of the Atherton Villa, a Home for Aged Ministers and Missionaries.

During the year all the churches received by baptism 1,444 members; by letter and otherwise, 2,657, giving a total present membership, exclusive of the Afro-American churches, of 20,061, which is a net increase of 1,941 over last year.

Some more definite results in the past year's work may be summed up as follows: Thirty-four churches have received aid in the support of their pastors; 41 brethren have served part or full time as mission pastors, with 25 other general workers and missionaries for the foreign-speaking peoples. Services have been conducted at 4 mission stations for Americans and 19 stations for foreign-speaking peoples. The Mission Pastors baptized 265 during the year; 6 new churches were organized, 2 new mission fields occupied, 6 meeting-houses erected for mission churches and 1 mission church became self-supporting during the year.

A present survey of the field indicates that four new fields should be occupied and three new church buildings erected during the ensuing year. In the strict sense of the term, no District Missionary has been employed during the past year, but a missionary to the Swedish people, one to the Japanese and two to the Mexicans, as well as the Convention Pastor, have performed duties that would ordinarily belong to this department. The services of these workers have been very valuable.

In Southern California there are but few instances where two or more churches can be grouped together under the care of one pastor, and in nearly every case efforts to group churches in this manner have failed to produce satisfactory results. The same can be said as to the care of out-stations. At present only two out-stations are under the care of pastors of mission churches. As yet no adequate and satisfactory evangelistic programme has been found in Southern California. During the past year several pastors have conducted revival meetings in their own churches or assisted other pastors in such meetings. Some meetings were under the direction of the Convention office, the Convention meeting the incidental expenses.

Colorado

F. B. PALMER, D.D., DENVER

A REVIEW of the development of our Baptist work in Colorado reveals steady and permanent progress along all lines of denominational activity. The outlook for our permanent upbuilding was never more promising than at present.

During the year 1914 the Colorado Baptist Convention, in co-operation with the American Baptist Home Mission Society, employed a General Missionary, a Pastor-at-Large, a State Evangelist and 48 Missionary Pastors. These workers are credited with 4,309 sermons, 2,101 prayer-meetings, and 14,705 calls. About 27 per cent. of the members in the Convention are on mission fields. We are glad to report that pastorates are longer and local conditions more encouraging. On these fields something over $20,000 has been expended for current expenses and benevolences. Apart from the help of the Convention and the Home Mission Society, these fields would not have enjoyed regular preaching.

Nine new churches have been organized during the fiscal year. Eight new mission fields have been occupied. Activity along the line of organizing new churches has not been as marked as in former years, owing to the fact that we deem it wise to better support those already organized.

The work of the new Student-Pastor in State Educational Institutions has been one of the outstanding features of the year's work. This gives great promise for the future.

Most encouraging is the fact that five mission churches have been able to assume self-support, and several others are receiving less aid than formerly.

At least ten fields never before occupied by the Baptists offer us a fine opportunity to start new work. As never before, the demand is made upon us to stress the work among foreign-speaking people, particularly in industrial centers and in the coal camps. At present we are co-operating with the Swedish and German Conferences and with the Great Western Colored Association.

1914 has been marked by unusual church building activity on both self-supporting and Mission fields. Eight new buildings have been erected and several remodeled. Five fields have already announced their purpose to erect new buildings this coming year.

The dominant note in our year's work has been evangelism. On mission fields alone more than 300 baptisms have been reported, while in the State at large 1,189 baptisms were reported. Beginning with our Convention fiscal year, November 1, 1914, and up to March 1, 1915, more than 1,000 baptisms have been reported.

District Missionaries have not been employed in Colorado as such, but many of our Missionary Pastors have from three to five out-stations, covering a large territory. We have found the work of a Pastor-at-Large to be most satisfactory. For the larger part of the year a State Evangelist was employed to good advantage, and plans are under way looking to the employing of two evangelists-at-large. Every one of our mission fields has received good results from evangelistic effort. In Denver and Colorado Springs good results were received from the Billy Sunday revival. The same is true from union meetings conducted at various centers by Evangelists Scoville, Bulgin and Pratt. However, as a rule, the results are more permanent and our local churches better strengthened and built up where special meetings are held in our own local churches.

We are specially pleased with the results of grouping two churches under one pastor. This has been done on eight fields, enabling them to secure a better type of men, and in every instance the union has been most satisfactory.

A most gratifying feature of our work has been the establishment and permanent supply of out-stations, with the local church as a center. Twenty-nine out-stations have been regularly supplied by our Missionaries.

Our greatest need at this time is to be able to provide Denver, our capital city, with a Superintendent of Missions. Nothing we could undertake would insure better results than to foster Missions already established and to start new ones at points of advantage in Denver.

$8,500 was contributed by the 15,000 Baptists in Colorado for State Missions, and similar liberality was shown for all our benevolences.

Our people have taken most kindly to the permanent headquarters at 367-368 Gas and Electric Building, Denver. In the rooms are represented our various denominational interests.

Idaho

REV. W. H. BOWLER, BOISE

MEASURED by the pronounced increase in receipts and expenditures, there is clear evidence that the work of our Convention made most significant growth last year. Some of us remember when our pay roll totaled $2,500 per year; last year it reached the sum of $14,000. Last year was one of the best in our history. Three new churches were organized, 16 Sunday-schools were started, 1 church edifice was erected, 2 parsonages were built, 249 baptisms were reported and 5 new fields were entered. As the largest amount of money received from any one source for the support of our work comes from the Home Mission Society, as has been true since the beginning of our history, the Baptists of Idaho in thinking of and rejoicing over their growth bear in mind that under God the encouraging results are quite largely due to the very generous financial support given them by this Society.

The missionaries have reported 1,164 weeks of labor, the equivalent of twenty and one-half men serving for the entire year. Among our force of field workers we have had a Pastor-at-Large and two District Missionaries. It is our judgment that no money we have invested has brought larger returns than that invested in these field workers. In six cases we have two or more churches grouped under the care of one pastor, and we find it more satisfactory to have two or more churches sharing the time of a strong, competent pastor than to have the full time of an inefficient man. Ten out-stations have been regularly supplied.

We have had a State evangelist under employment for three-fourths of his time. We feel that it is almost imperative that this work be continued. The Pastor-at-Large and the District Missionaries have also all given more or less time to evangelistic work. A number of pastors have held special meetings on their own fields and several have assisted on other fields. During the year our Convention spent for evangelistic work the sum of $1,223.59.

We have been constantly working at the problem of developing the local church to a higher degree of efficiency. The most fruitful method has been the holding of "Church Efficiency Conferences" with local churches. Generally a day and a half was given to each church and the Conferences were conducted by a team of three or four workers who had given special attention to the needs and conditions of the ordinary church.

Because of a lack of funds a number of fields have had to go without pastors. Destitute fields have been untouched and the building of church edifices has been postponed. Eleven new fields should be occupied at once and nine church edifices should be built during the ensuing year. From many of these places pathetic and heart-stirring appeals come to us for assistance. Our ability to respond to these depends upon an increase in the appropriation for Idaho from the Home Mission Society. That the money appropriated to Idaho has been highly productive is evidenced by the following table, which shows the growth of Baptist work in Idaho during the last thirty years:

	No. of Churches	Meeting Houses	Member- ship	Value of Property	Raised for Local Work	Raised for Missions

REV. J. T. CRAWFORD, PARSONS

THE year 1914 did not bring the usual number of new church organizations or new meeting-houses. Following, as it did, a year of serious drouth, there was much conservatism among our people. While the harvest of wheat was phenomenal, its returns were not received in time to affect the period covered by this report. Only three new churches were organized and two houses dedicated.

Our denomination, however, experienced more than the usual increase in membership. The additions reported in our Annual were as follows: By baptism, 4,155; by letter, 1,870; otherwise, 958; total, 5,983. This is the largest number of baptisms reported in any one year of our history. The net gain in membership was 2,560. With the exception of a period in the eighties, when the influx of population was enormous, this is the largest recorded net gain of any year.

In its various plans of co-operative missionary work our Convention had 74 missionaries under appointment part or all of the time. Of this number, 53 were pastors, 5 general workers, 4 colporters, 2 chapel-car workers, 2 associational missionaries, 2 evangelists, 1 city missionary superintendent, 1 student-pastor, 1 worker among the Mexicans, and some student-helpers with students. Altogether these workers labored 2,700 weeks. They preached 7,797 sermons, made 22,618 religious visits, baptized 767 converts, and otherwise added 605 to the membership of our churches.

The missionary pastors served 78 churches and 36 out-stations; 17 of them served more than one church and 26 of them one or more out-stations; 24 of them continued on their respective fields during the entire year, and the average term of appointment was thirty-eight weeks. The 78 churches aided had a total resident membership of 3,958. During the time they were assisted they gave $2,000 for benevolences and $29,463 for all purposes. This was at the rate of a little more than $10 per capita per year for all purposes. The rate for our American churches in the State was approximately $10.66. During the year 8 mission churches came to self-support.

The Home Mission Society continued its helpful co-operation. The total assistance from the Society in the missionary work was $1,500. In the Church Edifice Department, in co-operation with the Convention, the Society paid its pro rata of four gifts amounting to $1,000, and in addition made loans to the amount of $1,100. Both the help and the splendid spirit of the Society in all this work are greatly appreciated by our people.

The year now before us offers opportunities for yet larger labors. Not only must the regular work be carried forward, but at least ten new fields should be entered and twelve new houses of worship erected for mission churches.

DURING the year closing March 31, 1915, 70 men have been under appointment; 55 of these were missionary pastors, 5 were students and 10 were general workers. The pastors and students served 64 churches and 50 out-stations, and the general workers gave special service to at least as many more churches. The membership of the mission churches is 3,322, or 12.8 per cent. of the Baptists in the State; the 71 Sunday-schools connected with the mission churches enroll 4,166 members. The Sunday congregations averaged 3,259 and the Sunday-schools 2,718.

Some results are seen in 8 new fields occupied, besides several out-stations; in 4 churches organized; in 6 Sunday-schools begun; in the reception of 633 new members, 440 of whom were baptized. The mission churches raised $32,445.94 for all purposes, $4,436.11 of which was for beneficence. Six churches became self-supporting during the year, 4 new ones were helped; 10 church buildings were dedicated (8 being assisted by Church Edifice gifts); 3 houses of worship are now under construction, and probably 6 others will be begun this summer.

It is difficult to group churches under one pastor. While there have been eight such groups, only four are at all successful, and one of these certainly requires two men. Occasionally a church discontinues services because of the shifting population or special local conditions, but this must be expected and need in no way dishearten.

The general workers have emphasized special revival meetings, and several excellent evangelists, not under appointment, have given good service. The year has been a very fruitful one. The work of the six District Missionaries and the City Superintendent in Minneapolis is regarded as indispensable. The unity of our work conducted among Danes, Finns, Germans, Bohemians, Roumanians, Norwegians, Swedes and Americans is worthy of note.

Advance is witnessed by the following facts: (a) the appointment of a second District Missionary among the Swedes; (b) the placing of a City Superintendent in Duluth to work among all nationalities; (c) the securing of an investigator and the beginning of work among the Bohemians of New Prague and vicinity; (d) the reception of four Roumanians into the church at International Falls and the starting of regular services there for this nationality; (e) the establishment of four new preaching stations in Minneapolis; (f) the resuscitation of the St. Paul Baptist Union; (g) the union of Bethel Academy and the Swedish Theological Seminary, and its establishment and erection of buildings in St. Paul. The influence of this school is already manifest in Swedish and other churches, and it will prove an ever-increasing and valuable factor in Minnesota mission work.

There are now as many openings for Baptist work as at any time in twenty years; and this last year has been one of the best in our history. If our finances can be rightly cared for, and the deficit of last fall provided for, and additional sums secured, the Baptists of Minnesota may make very large advance in the immediate future. Minnesota Baptists confidently expect and will heartily welcome the Northern Baptist Convention to Minneapolis in 1916.

Montana

REV. THOMAS STEPHENSON, HELENA

GREAT opportunities are presented to us in this State. We have about 25,000,000 acres of arable land yet to be cultivated. Thousands of people are coming into Montana to develop the undeveloped resources.

The great missionary societies of all denominations are feeling the pressure of this task of evangelizing the coming thousands because of the lack of money. In the new districts, where young and old are making homes, the forces of evil are in advance of the railroads and the Christian Sabbath is not regarded with reverence.

During the past year two church edifices costing $8,000 each have been dedicated free from debt; both of them are a credit to our denomination and monuments for the Master. Two churches have assumed self-support and are among the best contributors to the world's evangelization. Four new churches have been organized during the year and several mission stations have been opened by both missionaries and pastors of self-supporting churches. We report more baptisms in our annual than we have done for some years. Several revival meetings have just been conducted with good results and others are arranged for. We need to erect six new church edifices soon.

The great need in Montana is for strong men to take charge of large districts, preaching at each point once each month or more frequently if possible until the country develops, preparing the way for strong organizations after we know there will be permanence in the settlers.

Nebraska

REV. FRED BERRY, LINCOLN

THE programme watchword at our last State Convention meeting was "Steady Advance." Progress has been made in every department of our work in Nebraska.

We have organized 3 churches, occupied 3 new mission fields, 10 churches have become self-supporting, 7 new church buildings have been erected or remodeled, 35 missionaries have worked under the direction of our board for part or all time during the last twelve months. There are now more than twenty fields which should be occupied as soon as possible and six new church buildings should be built this coming year. Some of the special features of our work are here noted:

First—The Resurrection of Dead Churches. In the last four years more than thirty-six that had either given up and closed their doors or had not had a pastor for a long time and were hopeless have opened their doors, started on their work and now have pastors. This work has been going forward during the last twelve months.

Second—Evangelization. Evangelization has been a clear note sounded throughout the State, and between 115 and 120 series of special campaigns have been held. We have had two regular pastor evangelists, one a State evangelist and the other a district evangelist, working under the State Convention and Home Mission Society. The work of the State Evangelist and District Missionary cannot be too highly spoken of. In my judgment, this is the most needed work to be done in our State in order to open new fields, resurrect dead churches and encourage the weaker ones. We have also had nine Baptist evangelists working independently. We have had five union evangelistic campaigns in the State with strong leaders and helpers and forty-two of our pastors have held one or more series of meetings. While in many of these meetings there had not been a large ingathering, yet the people have been led to pray and to work for the salvation of others. This has stimulated the life of Christ in the hearts of believers as well as brought many to him. We have had 912 baptisms, received by letter 543 and experience 234. We have lost by letter 659, experience and exclusion 434 and by death 155, making a net gain of 521. Our churches are better supplied with pastors than they have been for a long time and pastors and churches are settling down to more permanent relations than have existed in former years. There seems to be a unity in our work and we are bound together for the common task that Baptists are set to do for the State, for our nation and for the world.

Third—Our Single Collecting Agency. Our single collecting agency is bringing good results. Our churches are getting the budget habit and a large number are proving their loyalty to the cause of general missions.

Nevada-Sierra

REV. GEORGE N. GARDNER, RENO

STATISTICS alone cannot mark all of the lines of development, although they give the visible results. More secure foundations, a harmonious, united effort and the greatest spiritual awakening in the history of the Convention are worthy of note.

Exclusive of the Superintendent, 9 missionaries have been employed, rendering 312 weeks of service, serving 10 churches and supplying 8 out-stations. They report 860 sermons, 2,949 calls, 18 candidates baptized, 5 Sunday-schools and 1 church organized.

One District Missionary has served one church and five out-stations with excellent results. One pastor has served three churches in a field about fifteen miles square, held special meetings at each point, with the result that several have been baptized.

One church has assumed self-support and all other missionary churches are working to that end.

Five mission fields have been occupied during the year, but it will be impossible to sustain them all with the present force.

There is immediate need of one new church edifice and the removing and remodeling of another.

Three pastors with ability and willingness to care for a church and one or more out-stations are needed at once.

No evangelist has been employed during the year, the Superintendent having assisted in five series of special meetings covering a period of more than six weeks.

Heretofore nothing has been attempted among foreign-speaking peoples in the State, but the Russians are now colonizing in considerable numbers and will require our immediate attention.

The co-operative expenses are about $5,000, which means strict economy in every line, and prayerful planning to apply the money where it will count the most in foundation work. The financial depression has had its effect, yet the spirit of optimism prevails. The present irrigation projects when completed will open several thousand acres of rich farming land and insure the settlement of many families within the next few years.

North Dakota

REV. C. E. TINGLEY, GRAND FORKS

BAPTIST work in North Dakota is generally considered discouraging. In illustration of this is the fact that, not including the German churches, there have been employed thirty-four missionaries, of whom but thirteen have served an entire year. Of twenty-one pastors and workers among our English-speaking churches in the State, only seven have been on their present fields longer than one year. Nevertheless, our fields are better manned than they have been.

While the population in the State has been increasing at a rapid rate, yet this increase is scattered over a great territory, making aggressive work difficult. There has also been a large exodus of English-speaking people, caused by the increase of land values and the offer of cheaper lands elsewhere, and they have been selling out mostly to foreign-speaking people. During the year one Swedish church has been organized. Work has been opened up on several new fields that are being cared for as out-stations of other churches. Calls are coming to us far beyond our ability to enter new fields in the growing West. Three new lines of railroad are being built, with towns springing up almost with mushroom growth, and although Baptist families are moving in, we are unable to enter because of lack of funds. There are districts in our State covering several hundred miles square without religious privileges of any kind. The entire country west of the Missouri River, including over 20,000 square miles, has not a single English-speaking Baptist church. One man took his daughter 75 miles to have her baptized. Several places in that Western country could be occupied by the Baptists. Some of our churches in older parts of the State are dying because of lack of means to give them services.

During the past year we have built one house of worship in a Swedish mission field at Drayton. The Home Mission Society has aided the Lidgerwood Church in making an heroic struggle to save their property, and their entire indebtedness is now paid. Cavalier, a new county seat town, is raising funds for a new building. The Russian Church at Kief is trying to raise funds to furnish a house for its mission field at Dogden.

Our churches have reported 331 baptisms during the year, of which 136 were in churches aided by the Convention. We had a State evangelist at work during the first few months of the year, but lack of funds has prevented a continuance of this work, though a number of special meetings have been arranged for with assistance of pastors and some of the Publication Society workers.

Of our Missionary pastors, nine are serving two or more churches. This might be increased except for the scattered condition of our work. Seventeen out-stations are being cared for by our Missionary pastors.

North Dakota will long be a Mission field. Over 70 per cent. of our population are foreigners, and two-thirds of our Baptist Church members are members of foreign-speaking churches. We have a special responsibility for work among these people. While we are fewer in number than some of our sister denominations among the English-speaking churches, yet we outnumber all except the Lutherans in work among the foreigners. A special problem is ours in caring for these foreign-speaking churches as they pass through the transition which surely awaits them all, of becoming Americanized. We believe we are solving this question to a large extent among our Scandinavian churches in the splendid relationship that exists between them and our State Convention, they bearing the same relation to our State work as do the English-speaking churches.

Rev. A. H. Nikolaus is giving his full time to general work among the Russians, and Rev. Ole Larson among the Scandinavians. Their work has been of a high order, and the results are in evidence. We have no district workers among our English-speaking churches.

Oregon

REV. O. C. WRIGHT, PORTLAND

IN OUR work there has been marked progress the past year. The Convention employed 39 missionaries, rendered 764 weeks of service, and up to October 1 has added 698 to our mission churches, 262 of these by baptism. Total expenditure of money, $21,473.74. The year began with a deficit of $2,500 and closed with a balance in the treasury of $500.

Special emphasis has been laid upon Associational and Church Efficiency Institutes. The observance of State Convention Day, at which time carefully prepared programs setting forth Convention historical matter and the present needs of our year were utilized. Missionary interest has been greatly increased. Special attention has been given to the Every Member Canvass campaigns. Effort was made to interest the churches in the foreign-speaking peoples in their own communities. Considerable success in developing out-station work has been attained. Larger and more regularity in contributions has been secured. Real evangelistic zeal has been observed throughout practically all of our churches. Denominational solidarity has been greatly increased and magnified. So that more than ever Oregon Baptists are united in the great common task.

Only one church has been organized, because we believe in the policy of grouping mission stations around a strong, self-supporting church wherever this is possible. We have occupied 26 new mission fields; 4 churches have become self-supporting; have built 5 buildings and secured 1 by purchase and remodeled a number of others; more than 30 out-stations have been cared for regularly by our missionaries; we have employed 3 District Missionaries and 1 Convention Pastor. Strong emphasis should be laid upon the value of the work of the District Missionaries. A State as large as is Oregon will for many years to come have hundreds of small rural communities that are unable to maintain independent churches, but will demand occasional visits from the District Missionary. By special meetings and wise oversight he can conserve and build up the religious interests of these small communities. Too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the value of this type of service.

The grouping of churches is more favorably received than formerly. Our greatest obstacle to the highest success of this plan is the long distances between churches. However, ten groupings of this description have been secured. Our greater need, however, is to develop out-station work around the churches now organized, thus building up a parish so geographically related to the organized Church that one man can with advantage care for half a dozen out-stations accessible from the organized Church. By the above plan at least thirty out-stations have been regularly cared for by our missionaries. In addition to these out-stations and the new mission fields named above that have been opened this year, there is at this time opportunity for the occupancy of at least thirty more.

Upon a conservative estimate, there should be built not less than seven meeting-houses in the ensuing year.

The work of evangelism has been especially gratifying, there having been held not less than one hundred meetings, covering nearly every section of the State, resulting in a larger number of conversions and baptisms than we have been able to record for years past. We have spent less money and have secured larger results. Oregon Baptists are developing their latent spiritual resources, and the new year opens most hopefully.

Oregon Baptists have profound gratitude to the Society for its continued liberal aid.

REV. S. P. SHAW, SIOUX FALLS

DURING the year we have organized 3 new churches and occupied 14 new mission fields. Two churches have become self-supporting and at least a dozen new fields ought to be occupied during the coming year. Three new church buildings have been erected and four have been remodeled. Four new parsonages have been built. There ought to be five or six new church buildings erected during the coming year; 642 persons were baptized into our churches and 429 received otherwise, making a total gain of 1,071. We have had one General Evangelist, one Pastor-at-Large for full time and another for part of the year. A number of independent evangelists have done work in the State, and a large amount of evangelistic work has been done by pastors exchanging with each other in this work.

We have also had a Field Missionary in the Danish-Norwegian Conference and one in the Swedish Conference.

One of the especially interesting features of the work in our State has been the interest shown by the pastors of the larger churches in caring for the out-stations. One pastor in a good town church has four out-stations. Several more have two out-stations each and quite a number of pastors have one out-station. This we feel to be very important, and this line of work is being encouraged more and more.

Where the churches are small we strive to group two or three churches together in the support of one pastor. We have one pastor who serves three regularly organized churches and has four other out-stations.

During the past year our missionaries cared for 76 churches and out-stations. There are many fields that ought to be occupied and many more out-stations where regular services should be established.

Utah

REV. W. H. BOWLER, BOISE

SUBSTANTIAL and encouraging progress has been made in Utah during the past year. The Burlington Mission, of Salt Lake City, which was established many years ago by the First Church, was organized into an independent church with some fifty or sixty members. Another church was organized at Ogden by the Negro Baptists of the city. The most important and significant building operation of the year was the completion of the Immanuel Church, Salt Lake City. By the aid of a liberal proposition from the Home Mission Society the necessary funds for completing this church were secured and this beautiful and imposing structure was completed, giving our denomination the most attractive and commodious church edifice in the city. The Swedish Baptists of Salt Lake City erected a very neat and attractive building. The Burlington and Rio Grande churches of Salt Lake City acquired the properties which were formerly mission stations of the Immanuel Church. The Negro church of Ogden has also provided itself with an edifice during the year. The number of baptisms reported is 37.

A series of Church Efficiency Conferences was held by a strong team of local church experts, which visited nearly every church in the Convention field.

Some of the most significant developments on our field have been due directly to the half-time services of a Pastor-at-Large. A District Missionary in addition to the Pastor-at-Large is greatly needed.

Through the generous support of the Home Mission Society, we have had one-fourth time of a State evangelist. Several pastors have held meetings in their own fields and some have also assisted neighboring pastors. Utah Baptists most heartily appreciate the Society's large outlay in the State. But more is needed. Two fields where there are church edifices and organized churches are without pastors for lack of missionary resources. Two new fields recently opened by field workers most urgently appeal for assistance. At our last State Convention a unanimous vote was most heartily passed adopting a State Mission budget twice that of the previous year. Even with that amount we shall yet be unable to undertake any new work without increased appropriation from the Home Mission Society.

A comparative table covering thirty years of Baptist history in Utah:

	No. of Churches	No. of Meeting Houses	Member-ship	Value of Property	Raised for Local Work	Raised for Missions
1914	14	14	1,183	$132,800	$22,383.81	$835.00
1904	10	10	1,006	81,000	11,841.00	873.32
1894	5	4	449	74,500	2,854.00	80.69
1884	2	2	132	22,000	1,280.00

East Washington

REV. F. R. MARGETTS, SPOKANE

FOR our Convention year ending September 30, 1914, there was decided progress, although the Lord called home our highly consecrated and beloved leader, Rev. W. C. King.

A staggering indebtedness of about $5,000 was reduced 50 per cent.; there were 416 baptisms, an increase of 25 per cent. over the preceding year, the larger portion of which were the result of evangelistic work; 3 church edifices were built, 2 churches were organized, 1 new mission field has been occupied, 13 out-stations are regularly cared for by missionaries, and in four instances two or more churches have been grouped under the care of one pastor.

We have quite a number of pastorless churches and fields which we cannot satisfy with men, owing to lack of funds. In some instances we have been hard pressed by incoming denominations, who seem to have more money than we could command. We have not been occupying new fields during the year, but have been devoting our time to strengthening the work already established. Our great need is District Missionaries of ability, who can be provided with automobiles. We ought to occupy twelve new fields and build three meeting-houses this year.

The financial condition of our people generally is deplorable, some of our most liberal brethren now facing serious financial adversity. Quite a number of our churches are located in fruit sections and are seriously feeling the lack of a profitable market for fruit. In spite of all this they have in many instances heroically met their apportionment. The outlook for the new year is brighter than it has been for many years.

Western Washington

REV. JOSEPH W. BEAVEN, D.D., SEATTLE

THIS year has been a very trying one. Most of our lumber mills have been closed from six months to a year. This means that out of a population of 750,000, 90,000 men have been out of usual employment and the usual disbursement of about $100,000,000 annually has been curtailed. From some of our Baptist churches located in towns where lumber interests prevail, reports have been coming that not one of the wage-earners has had work for as much as six consecutive months. This depression, coming at the time when the offerings for State work were being taken, and after advance work had been begun, left the Convention $2,000 in debt at the close of our fiscal year. While we have made a strong effort to curtail our expenses, it has been almost futile, since the need of help is far greater than it would be under normal conditions. Our present accomplishments would not have been possible except for many examples of heroic sacrifice. We have had at this writing eleven men giving all their time to the ministry during the year who have not received more than $1 a day. We have been able to give aid to two of these by mortgaging our future.

With the assistance of the Home Mission Society we have employed forty men this year for all or a part of their time. We have also employed four general workers under the co-operative plan. Their assistance has been of incalculable value, especially in the occasions of the crises and discouragements of mission churches. We ought to double this force to care for our vacant churches. The missionary pastors' work would represent an accumulation of twenty-eight years of service for one man. They have given service to 48 churches, supplied 31 additional places held as out-stations and directed over 55 Sunday-schools. They have received 193 by baptism and 348 otherwise. This work is carried on among Americans, Swedes, Norwegians, Danes, Finns, Chinese and Japanese, and in some communities people of many other nationalities are reached to a small degree. Our foreign population is increasing rapidly. The field is little cared for. We ought to have a General Missionary among Greeks, Danes, Finns and the Slavic peoples.

On twenty-one of our fields our missionaries have held special evangelistic services, and if these services had been held consecutively they would have amounted to fourteen months of continuous meetings. All of the other missionaries have made their Sunday evening services evangelistic in character. In one place only was a professional evangelist used. In the others the pastors conducted their own meetings or secured the assistance of a fellow-pastor. This attitude toward evangelism is general throughout the Convention. Many of our churches could be brought to self-support if we could carry on a well-organized evangelistic work with them.

Five of our churches are sadly in need of new edifices; in six other places held as mission stations we shall have to put up buildings if we establish our work. At these stations perhaps one-half of the initial cost will have to come from sources outside of the fields themselves.

We have not been able to consider any new fields for the reason that we now have twenty-two mission churches without pastors. Of these, eight have no regular services of any character. Only as some itinerant of another faith may use them are the buildings opened to the public, while the others have only Sunday-schools or occasional preaching services as some of our pastors or field workers can reach them. In some of these places our building is the only religious edifice in the community. Our specific task is so evidently to take care of what we have that until we are able to make a better showing we must give it exclusive attention. We must have more funds at our disposal before even this will be possible and we shall try to secure them as soon as the times are in the least promising.

Wyoming

REV. J. F. BLODGETT, CASPER

NO NEW churches have been organized during the past year, but every field already occupied has been cultivated to a greater or less degree. This was my first problem in Wyoming—to get fields manned. Now that this problem has been greatly solved, it may be expected that the churches will grow toward self-support and so release funds for new work.

Work has been resumed at Kane; the Hulett-Alva field now has ten stations instead of two; Hopton, the Automobile Missionary in the Basin country, has added two new stations to the seven he was given, and by the use of a car is doing more work than three men could do with teams. He has not missed an appointment during the entire winter.

At Douglas, an important town of 2,800 population, we expect to organize a church soon. The prospects at this time are very bright at Douglas, and we expect to organize with not less than 50 members.

One church has been built at Durham and another is being built at Kelley, in the Jackson Hole country.

We should organize at Dwyer, build a good house at Douglas, also at Kane and at Clearmont.

The Government expects to open a new unit of the irrigation project, of which Powell is the center, and as a new town will be built, we must be prepared to enter promptly, as we did at Powell, where we now have over 100 members.

There have been 217 baptisms and our membership is now 1,701. We are hoping to reach 2,000 by fall.

We have had one District Missionary for a period of five months.

The General Missionary has conducted five evangelistic campaigns, and Rev. E. M. Steadman, Division Evangelist for the Home Mission Society, has worked in our State since December. His work has been very satisfactory and many have been converted in his meetings.

Of the 17 missionaries and pastors in the State, 10 have cared for more than one church; 15 missionaries have served 41 stations, 26 of which were out-stations. All pastors and colporters have served regularly 49 stations.

If funds were available I should favor entering five new fields besides Douglas.

Mexico

REV. GEORGE H. BREWER, MEXICO CITY, SUPERINTENDENT

OWING to the disturbed conditions, no report was presented from this field one year ago, and we regret exceedingly that these disturbances have continued throughout the year, making it difficult to carry on our work in any such way as we would if the situation were normal. Nevertheless, we are gratified to be able to say that our work on the whole is in a very satisfactory condition. To judge from the reports given in the daily press, one might conclude that the Mexican situation was hopeless, and that it would be best to suspend all work until the present upheaval is a thing of the past, but permit me to point out several hopeful features of our work in Mexico.

Notwithstanding the enforced absence of several of our missionaries and teachers, the work of the churches has been well sustained, and with few exceptions all of the fields have been cared for throughout the year, some of them actually reporting successful revival meetings with many additions by baptism.

The church at Montemorelos was without pastoral care for six months, but the deacons and lay members faithfully maintained the services throughout that period, notwithstanding the fact that the city was besieged for many weeks and cut off from all outside assistance. The pastor has since returned and continues faithful at his post.

The church at Linares lost its pastor early in the year, Rev. Anatolio Bautista, who joined the ranks of the revolutionists. One of our students of the Monterey Theological School was sent to take his place and has faithfully maintained the work. The church now reports a larger attendance with a greater number of baptisms during the year than for ten years past.

The church in Ciudad Victoria has also suffered considerably on account of the war. For seven months it was impossible to send the salary of the pastor, Rev. Moises E. Guajardo, but, undaunted by this handicap, he converted his back yard into a primitive soap factory and made soap to sell in the public plaza and thus sustained himself and family throughout the trying siege. During this time there were conversions and baptisms and the last report was very encouraging.

The city of Tampico has also suffered several serious bombardments during the past two years, but our pastor at that point, Rev. Policarpo Barro, has steadfastly remained at his post, even exposing himself and family to great peril in order to stay by his people. At one time it was necessary for him to send his family on board a warship which happened to be in the harbor, but he himself remained at the church with a large company of members and friends, and through his fidelity the property was spared destruction at the hands of some angry soldiers, who threatened to take possession of it to use as a barracks. The latest letter from Tampico tells of overflowing congregations and the urgent need for a new building, the present house being entirely inadequate for our work in that city. This church was organized in 1906 with seven members. It now has a membership of nearly 100.

During the year we have purchased an entire block in the residence district of Mexico City, known as "Colonia Roma," for the proposed hospital. The titles are perfect and the location advantageous, and it is expected that active building operations will begin on this property as soon as conditions are anything like normal.

The Mexico City Church has six out-stations, where active work has been carried on throughout the year, notwithstanding the many disturbances. The church having made steady progress, and now has a larger Sunday-school than ever it has had in its history.

Rev. E. R. Brown and family, together with two young lady teachers of the W. A. B. H. M. S., Miss Victoria Wikman and Miss Lilah Kirby, have remained in Puebla throughout the year in the midst of many vicissitudes and actual danger on account of street battles fought in Puebla between the contending armies. On one occasion some drunken soldiers entered the service and with their guns threatened to put an end to the lives of Pastor Brown and his helpers, but in the good providence of God their guns did not go off when they pulled the trigger, and after creating considerable disturbance and dragging some of the people attending the service out into the street by the hair of the head, they went away and did not return to molest the missionary.

Dr. C. E. Conwell, our Medical Missionary, who was absent from his field nine months, has returned to Mexico. He is temporarily making his headquarters in the city of Puebla with Missionary Brown, and reports that he is having innumerable calls to aid the sick and suffering, as there are but few physicians left in any part of the country. He will return to his work in Mexico City as soon as it is prudent for him to do so.

During the year perhaps the most conspicuous development in our work is the agreement, now practically approved by the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, the W. A. B. H. M. S., and our own Society, looking to a co-operative plan in educational work throughout Mexico. It is proposed to establish two secondary schools, one for boys and one for girls, and a theological seminary for the students preparing for the ministry under the joint auspices of these three societies. This plan when put into execution will have a far-reaching effect on all our work in Latin America. It is also proposed to have a joint publishing plant in the City of Mexico sustained by the Home Mission Society and the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Our theological school at Monterey has been closed during the year owing to the disturbed political conditions, but students have been employed as assistants on a number of the fields, thus keeping them occupied in religious work and ready at any time to return to their studies should the school open.

It is worthy of mention that the day schools maintained by the W. A. B. H. M. S. at Monterey, Mexico City and Puebla have made steady progress throughout the year with a large enrollment, surpassing that of any previous year since the work was begun, although the American teachers, with the exception of the school at Puebla, have been obliged to leave the work in the hands of native Mexicans. These three day schools have had a combined enrollment of over 700 children throughout the year.

Number of missionaries employed.....	29
Fields occupied	28
Weeks' service	1,299
Churches and out-stations supplied.....	46
Sermons preached	2,724
Prayer meetings attended.....	1,540
Families religiously visited.....	9,272
Bibles and testaments distributed.....	608
Pages of tracts distributed.....	122,505

Baptisms reported	112

Average attendance in Sunday-schools.....	1,320
Benevolence contributions.....	$824.65
Money received toward self-support.....	2,350.00

Our task in Mexico is clear. The Mexicans now know that the attitude of the United States is friendly and not hostile. We are to act the part of neighbors and render assistance to our distressed and needy sister republic. We are to minister to rich and poor alike. We are to reveal the power of a living religion in contrast to a dead one which has failed utterly to benefit the people of Mexico intellectually or morally. In our schools we are developing leaders who will be able to take their places to help Mexico to assume her rôle as a great, free and prosperous nation, a peer in the sisterhood of Spanish-American republics.

Eastern Cuba

REV. A. B. HOWELL, EL CRISTO, SUPERINTENDENT

Missionaries

THERE are some things which stand out clearly this year as marks of encouragement. First, that the individual members of our native church are beginning to feel a deeper responsibility for the salvation of those around them, and second, a greater desire to contribute, as never before, to the support of their ministry.

As an example of the first, we have two communities which have been evangelized and several converts baptized as the result of the personal work of individual members of two different churches who went to these new places to work, and, of the second, we have a district assuming the entire support of two native workers.

Steps were taken this year to come into closer fellowship and co-operation with the Baptists at the western end of the island, when the Eastern Cuba Convention appointed a committee to draw up a plan for the union of our two denominational papers into one, which should be known as "El Bautista Cubano" (The Cuban Baptist). This is the first step toward a closer union between these two Baptist bodies in the work of winning Cuba for Christ.

These hopeful signs give us great encouragement for the coming year to face the constantly growing difficulties in the mission work of Cuba. Immorality and indifference to evangelical Christianity are growing; with legalized cock-fighting, government lottery and a possibility of a law being passed to permit bull fighting, with the principal city of the island promising to be the sporting center for North America, it is certainly encouraging to see our native brethren standing up squarely against these things, and to this end the Eastern Cuba Convention passed a resolution of protest, which is to be sent to the Cuban Congress.

We regret to report that on account of sickness, Rev. Fred J. Peters, who has done such splendid work both as a pastor and evangelist, was compelled to give up this work and return to the States. We were fortunate in securing the services of Rev. A. B. Reekie, who has had many years' experience in Bolivia, under the Canadian Baptist Board. Mr. Reekie has taken Mr. Peters' place at Bayamo.

We were glad to have with us again this year, if only for a few days, Dr. C. L. White, also to greet Professor G. N. Brink, the new Superintendent of Education, who visits Cuba for the first time. Professor Brink speaks the Spanish language and was able to address the brethren in their native tongue. The Convention also remembered Dr. Morehouse, in whom the Cuban Mission has always had a great friend.

Educational

(From the report of Robert Routledge, Principal of the Colegios Internacionales and Chairman of the Primary School Committee.)

During the eight years which have passed since the establishment of our institution for higher education at Cristo, known as the "Colegios Internacionales," we have had an average of twelve teachers and between 150 and 190 pupils. This year the enrollment up to the present time is 164. A good many of these come from our churches, but still the majority are from homes where there is no evangelical teaching. This gives us a splendid opportunity for religious work. As was natural at the beginning, a great majority of these children were in the primary department. By vote of the Convention last year, it was decided that a forward step be taken by the Colegios Internacionales to meet the requirements of the laws of Cuba governing institutions of higher education, which wish to give the course leading to the A.B. degree. This was effected last August, so that now we are able to offer in this institution the preparatory and two years' work in the A.B. course. In June of this year we hope to have twenty-five pupils who will be ready to take the official examination as graduates from the preparatory and so begin in September our first regular class for the Bachelor's degree.

Since the year 1909-10 we have had a course Theology and Normal, and every year some of our best students have been in one of these special courses, so that to-day six of our native pastors and eight of our teachers in our primary schools have prepared themselves in these courses.

Students who do not pay full tuition are required to pay in service the proportion not paid in money.

About the time we started the Normal and Theological departments, we began in our different missions to open primary schools, which we hoped would be feeders to our college in Cristo. This year we have received the first fruits of this work when six pupils came to us from our primary school at Guantanamo to enter the freshman class for the A.B. work. These primary schools are nearly all in charge of graduates of the Baptist Training School of Chicago, who pay the salaries of these teachers. The native assistant teachers are paid from the tuition collected in these schools. The success which attended our educational work from the beginning is very marked. In our schools we are providing for the education and religious training of over six hundred of some of the best children in the two eastern provinces of Cuba.

In conclusion let me reaffirm the importance of this educational work. The school work in Cuba, under Christian influences, presents one of the greatest opportunities to be found in gospel work. The problem which the work presents is still only partially solved. Our greatest present need is teachers—more trained teachers. A number of young women of much promise are each year graduating from our college at Cristo. They are being employed as rapidly as possible as helpers in our primary schools, but we are always in need of leaders for these schools. As yet these leaders can only be supplied from the North. The Woman's Board of Chicago have sent us some excellent workers, but we need more than they seem able to send us. We need more of those who, having learned the language, will stay permanently in the work. There are at least three places where promising schools could be opened if we were only sure of the leaders for these schools. Send us more trained teachers, who will give at least ten years of their lives to the work in Cuba.

REV. C. S. DETWEILER, PONCE

IT WOULD be impossible for us to begin this report without mentioning at once what has been to the Mission the most significant event of the year. August 31, Rev. A. B. Rudd, D.D., ceased his relations with us as a fellow-worker and General Missionary in Porto Rico. From the inception of the work in 1899 down to the time of his withdrawal, fifteen years later, it is no exaggeration to say that he was the leading figure in Mission councils on the island. No missionary was better known or more highly respected in all circles, and our Mission owes a great debt to him for the standing and prestige we enjoy among the religious forces on the island. But more important than this, it may be said that the Baptist churches of Porto Rico in a large measure bear the seal and impress of his devout character, and we trust will ever conserve his high ideals of the Christian life.

The appointment of a new General Missionary has involved some reorganization of the work with its attendant problems, but it means no change in the general policy of the Mission. Evangelization receives the primary emphasis, followed by the building up of the churches and their instruction in righteousness.

General View

The territory occupied by the Baptists is divided into four districts with an American missionary in charge of each. The churches are pastored exclusively by Porto Rican brethren trained on the field. In addition there is one American missionary in charge of the new Grace Conaway Institute for Christian workers. Since the withdrawal of Dr. Rudd the supervision of a district and the work of the General Missionary have been combined in one person.

There are also associated with the work six lady missionaries, who contribute valuable service in the training of our churches and Sunday-schools.

The year began auspiciously with the dedication of two important buildings, a commodious chapel in the town of Carolina, and the splendid building of the Grace Conaway Institute in Rio Piedras. For both of these occasions we had present with us Dr. R. E. Farrier, the chairman of the Mission Committee of our Society, whose visit brought good counsel and cheer to all of our workers.

There has been no meeting of the association of our churches during 1914. In 1913 the date for the next meeting was set for March, 1915.

San Juan District

Concerning conditions in this part of our field, Rev. F. P. Freeman writes: "Our new school building for the training of Christian workers, situated as it is in the center of the district and in close proximity to the Insular University, gives decided prestige to our cause. During this year several new Sunday-schools and preaching points have been opened up, and the responses to our efforts in all of these localities has been encouraging. A very successful district convention was held in Rio Grande in September. Our people are becoming more conscious of their growing strength and influence. The country work generally is in an especially prosperous condition. At Quebrada Grande, where the Sunday-school and congregation had outgrown the chapel, the church on its own initiative and with its own resources has made an extensive addition to the chapel, and thus has added to the efficiency of the work in that place.

"At Rio Grande as well as several other stations where we occupy inadequate rented quarters, we should at once erect suitable chapels.

"During the year we have watched the Roman Catholic forces in the conduct of their increasingly conspicuous propaganda. Various imposing and costly school buildings have been erected by them in this locality in the last twelve months. Their industrial school plant and church combined is now being completed in one of the suburbs of San Juan at an outlay of $150,000. The Knights of Columbus have been especially active, and we have reason to believe that their order is increasing in size and in influence in political as well as in religious affairs."

Caguas-Cayey District

Rev. E. L. Humphrey writes that the workers on his field are enthusiastic over their work, and that their monthly study conferences are a time of refreshing to all. He continues as follows:

"In Caguas the pastor, Señor Abelardo Diaz, is heartily in favor of relating the life of the Church with the life of the city. Efforts to get into sympathetic touch with the laboring classes, to show interest in the betterment of conditions surrounding child-life, and to curtail the power of the rum traffic have not been wholly in vain. The church has a good Sunday-school with an average attendance of about 200. The women, young and old, have an active organization that holds weekly meetings for prayer and Bible study. Once a month a public missionary meeting is held. The lady missionaries and Mrs. Humphrey have charge of the women's work. The organized class of men in the Sunday-school has a weekly meeting for prayer and Bible study. There are over a hundred men enrolled. We try to make the people feel that religion is for all life—social, political, industrial and commercial.

"In Cayey the work gives great promise. Some of the most substantial people in the town are in the Church. The services are well attended. In Aguas Buenas, San Lorenzo, Guarabo and Juncos there is steady progress. At San Lorenzo and Juncos, chapels are greatly needed."

Barranquitas District

Among the accomplishments of the past year Rev. G. A. Riggs mentions the doubling of the amount of aid to pastor's salary in all of the town churches on his field, and the fact that one country church has begun to contribute toward self-support. A country chapel that will accommodate about 250 persons was built without any aid from the Home Mission Society.

In almost all the churches the members are doing active work aside from teaching in the Sunday-school. In two churches members go out Sunday afternoons and conduct Sunday-schools.

We need a tent for use in country districts where no suitable house can be secured. A folding organ and possibly a lantern with views of the life of Christ, hammocks or folding cots in which to sleep, and the tent would complete the material outfit.

Ponce District

In the town churches there has been slow and steady growth. Three of them have notably increased the amount paid toward the support of their pastors. During the year an addition has been built to the Ponce house for Sunday-school purposes. With the coming of Rev. Juan Rodriguez Cepero as its pastor, the church is now well equipped both materially and spiritually for its work in this the second largest city on the island. Large audiences are the usual thing every Sunday night.

In this district, by a fortunate arrangement with the physician in charge of St. Luke's hospital, Ponce, we have done considerable dispensary work for the poor at three different points in the country. This has brought us into closer touch with the people.

In some of the country districts the poverty of the people is distressing and seriously affects the life and development of our churches there.

Special Mention

During the year in different towns of the island we have held open-air meetings, which have given great promise in reaching a class of people too proud or too timid to come into our churches.

In Carolina the civil authorities fined a priest for wilfully disturbing the meetings by the violent ringing of church bells.

In its time of greatest prosperity the island was poor, but now that the European war has affected the commerce and industry of the world, Porto Rico is passing through a period of unprecedented business depression. Consequently it has been a hard year for our churches. Nevertheless, when all is considered, we have much to be thankful for, that our usual obligations have been met. Our church paper, "El Evangelista," has been maintained, though with much difficulty.

Rev. P. D. Woods, the principal of our training school, reports: "Almost a year has passed since our school entered into its new building and became the Grace Conaway Institute. Our relations with the Insular University have been all that could be desired. Eight of our students have availed themselves of the opportunity there offered of obtaining a better education. Attending the University, they are in daily contact with those who are to become the island's leaders in the various professions in the years to come. The Bible work has been carried on in our own class rooms. This has been largely given by the principal of the school. He has, however, appreciated very much the help which other missionaries have been able to render. At the close of last year's work two students went out into the active pastorate. This year four others will close their work in the school. All of these have assisted in mission work while here by acting as pastors in some of the nearby churches, and have therefore had practical as well as academic preparation for their work.

"Our building has accommodations for thirty students. We hope to have from twelve to fifteen students with us from year to year, preparing for the work of the ministry. Some rooms are rented to University students who desire to live in a Christian atmosphere. The plan has proven a success. There are at present fourteen Baptist students and twelve other roomers."

El Salvador, Central America

REV. WILLIAM KEECH, SAN SALVADOR

TO GIVE a very general view of the present situation, we have three organized churches, one in San Salvador, one in Santa Ana and one in Sonsonate. In addition to these there are fourteen out-stations, three in connection with Sonsonate, eight with Santa Ana and three with San Salvador. Some of these are at a distance of three days' travel on mule from the church center. Some of them have grown during the year, both in numbers and spirituality, and have already some measure of independent life. We hope they may soon become independently organized bodies. There are 321 church members, a small increase on the figures of last year. There are 7 Sunday-schools with 16 teachers and an average attendance of 250 scholars. This figure is somewhat below the average attendance of last year, but is accounted for by other circumstances than a real falling off of membership in the schools.

The Society has aided this year in the building of a church in Juayua (called El Progreso on the map), which is now in course of construction, and we hope to have the formal opening in less than two months.

We continue to be almost overwhelmed with needs, which as they loom before us make our actual efforts appear almost nil. We need some primary schools, for the greater part of the children of our congregations are growing up illiterate. Then there is the need for lady workers among the women and girls. And we need men. The missionary force consists of two English-speaking missionaries and their wives and four natives. It is difficult to get competent native workers of unblemished reputation. We need at once another American missionary. And what is this small force among so many? Open doors are many, but we cannot enter them, for we have neither the men nor the means. To begin work in new quarters or even to visit them means neglecting the work already begun. This is bad policy, for experience has taught us that it is far better to establish well the points already occupied than to extend beyond what we can properly care for. El Salvador offers us to-day one of the most promising missionary fields.

OBITUARY

Rev. O. W. Williams, D.D., a faithful minister of Christ, died at Albert Lea, Minnesota, February 9, 1915. He was born in Garndolbenmaen, Carnarvonshire, Wales, March 25, 1837. Reaching the United States in 1857, he soon after entered Colgate University, from which he was graduated. His ministerial studies were pursued at the Hamilton Theological Seminary. He had fruitful pastorates at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Nebraska City and Lincoln, Neb., and at Galesburg, Ill. In 1894 he became the efficient Superintendent and District Secretary of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, serving in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska and South Dakota, where for thirteen years he endeared himself to all the churches. His personal character gave great carrying power to all his messages and plans. His friend, Dr. Lathan A. Crandall, has fittingly said of this good servant of Jesus Christ: "In Dr. Williams' soul was that passion for helpfulness which found its perfect expression in his Master. He could say with Paul, 'This one thing I do.'"

James Munroe Hunt, Esq., died June 22, 1914, at Yonkers, N. Y., at the age of fifty-six. He was a graduate of the University of Rochester, and was admitted to the Bar in 1883. During his entire professional life he was a valued member of the Warburton Avenue Baptist Church, Yonkers, and was loyal, untiring and devoted, taking a profound interest in all its activities, and was a generous contributor to its local and world-wide interests. He was a man of many talents, rich friendships, and brought to fine spiritual fruitage the inheritance of a godly parentage. As a member of the Board of Managers of the American Baptist Home Mission Society he showed large insight, revealed a wealth of knowledge and displayed profound sympathy. In the Finance Committee his legal advice was freely given and his counsel was always discriminating and wise.

Rev. Charles R. Henderson, D.D., Professor of Sociology in the University of Chicago, died March 29, 1915. He was born at Covington, Indiana, December 19, 1848. Having graduated from the University of Chicago, in 1870, and from the Baptist Union Theological Seminary three years later, his early Christian ministry was prophetic of a great influence in the extension of the Kingdom of God. In 1892, when pastor of the Woodward Avenue Baptist Church, Detroit, he served as a member of the Arbitration Committee in settling the car strike in the city. That same year he was called to the University of Chicago. His deep interest in municipal improvement brought him into relations of great influence, in which the reach of his life was extended as president of the National Conference of Charities and Correction, president of the American Prison Association and president of the National Children's Home Society. He was also profoundly interested in the educational, missionary and social work of the American Baptist Home Mission Society.

Mrs. John D. Rockefeller died at her home in Pocantico Hills, N. Y., March 12, 1915. She was educated at Worcester, Mass., and later became a teacher in Cleveland, Ohio. She was married in 1864, and has reaped with joy the fruitage of a trustful, Christian life. She was deeply concerned with the progress of the Kingdom of God, which she extended by her prayers, her sympathy and her gifts. Her devotion to Christian education brought her into personal relation with the training of Negro girls, and led to large gifts for Spelman Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., which was named in memory of the mother whose counsels trained her for a noble life of Christian devotion. She was keenly interested in her husband's benefactions, and fully realized that it is "more blessed to give than to receive." As the years passed, her spiritual investments became world-wide, and her legacies to the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society, to the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission Society and to Spelman Seminary and other institutions were a final expression of her love for her Lord.

Miss Frances J. Huntley, of Rochester, N. Y., died February 14, 1915. She was a sister of Mr. Byron E. Huntley, of Batavia, N. Y. Both were generous supporters of the denominational missionary societies. Only a few days previous to her death Miss Huntley's annual gift for the work of the present year was received at the rooms of the Home Mission Society. Deeply interested in home and foreign missions, she found her greatest satisfaction in her ability to aid in the support of the missionaries. "Huntley Hall," of Virginia University, erected in recent years in memory of Miss Huntley and her deceased brother, whose large gifts made possible its construction, will perpetuate their influence in Christian education in America. She made good use of her inheritance, and invested her talents in prayerful giving that brought forth a hundredfold. In her will she made the Home Mission Society and the Foreign Mission Society residuary legatees of her estate. She has entered into the joy of her Lord, and will ever be held in loving memory by those whose lives she cheered with her counsels and benefactions.

Rev. Edward Judson, D.D., died October 23, 1914. He exhibited a superb devotion to Christ, which found its expression in a loving service to the lowly, to the disheartened, and to the foreigners within the nation's gates. He consecrated his life to missionary work in New York City, laid his talents upon the altar of a personal ministry for others, and concentrated all of his energies in making the gospel known in the congested parts of a city to which all the tribes of the earth have come, not for worship, but for wealth. This gifted son of the apostle to Burma, who devoted his life in laying the Christian foundation in the foreign field, illustrated the same missionary spirit in building an enduring superstructure in the home land.

In the Eastern, Middle and older Southern States the missionary operations of Baptists among the white, English-speaking population have been conducted almost wholly by the State Conventions. This has been true also for many years in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Michigan. The exceptions to this rule occur between 1864, and 1874, during portions of which time the Society was in co-operation with New York, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Michigan and also with Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska, California and Florida. All the Conventions west of the Mississippi in the Northern Baptist Convention are in general co-operation with the Society.

Operations in the South were discontinued on the organization of the Southern Baptist Convention in 1845. They were resumed in 1862, since which time they have been chiefly among the Freedmen, and are largely educational. The decrease of laborers among the Freedmen after 1873 is largely accounted for by the fact that students were no longer commissioned as teachers and missionaries during their summer vacations. 1855-6, 1856-7, 1857-8, 1859-60, 1860-1, New Grenada, 1.

The Charter of the American Baptist Home Mission Society consists of various Acts of the Legislature of New York, viz.:—

Chapter one hundred and seventeen of the laws of eighteen hundred and forty-three, entitled "An Act to incorporate The American Baptist Home Mission Society," as amended and extended by chapter thirty-five of the laws of eighteen hundred and forty-nine, and chapter one hundred and ninety-six of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-seven, and further amended by chapter five hundred and twenty-eight of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-five; and further amended by chapter two hundred and sixty of the laws of nineteen hundred, and further amended by chapter three hundred and fifty-eight of the laws of nineteen hundred and two.

THE CHARTER.

1. All such persons as now are, or hereafter may become, members of The American Baptist Home Mission Society, formed in the city of New York, in the year eighteen hundred and thirty-two, shall be, and hereby are, constituted a body corporate by the name of "The American Baptist Home Mission Society," for the purpose of promoting the preaching of the Gospel, or the establishing, maintaining, or aiding Baptist churches or missions, for the acquisition of sites in contemplation of the erection of houses of worship and other buildings, and for the establishing or maintaining, or assisting in the establishing or maintaining of schools and other institutions of learning in connection with its missionary work in North America.

2. It shall be lawful for the members of the said society, at any time they may elect, to appoint such officers and to make and ordain such by-laws and regulations in relation to their organization and to the management, disposition and sale of their real or personal estate, the duties and powers of their officers and the management of their corporate affairs as they shall think proper, provided they are not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this state and of the United States. The executive board may, on complying with this act and the constitution and by-laws of the society, and without application to the court, sell, convey, mortgage, lease or otherwise dispose of any real property, wherever situated, owned by the society. Any deed, mortgage, lease or other instrument by which any title or interest is transferred, may be executed by the corresponding secretary and the treasurer of the society, unless otherwise ordered by its executive board.

3. The said corporation shall have power to receive, take, hold and enjoy any property, real or personal, by virtue of any devise, bequest, gift, grant or purchase, either absolutely or in trust, and to accumulate the same for such period as required by the bequest, devise or gift and not prohibited by law; and to make investments thereof, or of the proceeds thereof, or of any of its funds, wherever and in such manner as may be deemed advisable, and herewith to acquire or erect for its own use or accommodation, or for other purposes, such building or buildings as it may regard advantageous to the interests of the society, or of the Baptist denomination, with which it is connected; and the said corporation shall also be competent to act as trustee in respect to any devise or bequest pertaining to the object of its corporation; and devises and bequests of real or personal property may be directly made to said corporation, or in trust, for any of the purposes comprehended in the general objects of said society, and such trusts may continue for such time as may be necessary to accomplish the purposes for which they may be created; subject, however, in respect to the amount of property it may take and hold, to the restrictions and limitations of existing laws, and in respect to devises or bequests from residents of the State of New York, to the provisions of chapter three hundred and sixty of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty, entitled "An Act in relation to wills."

4. The annual and other meetings of said corporation may be held at such place or places within the United States, and at such time or times as the said corporation may, from time to time, determine.
